A Change Is Better Than A Rest

The present curriculum in Grade 13 in Ontario secondary schools has recently come in for criticism.

Some maintain that the course of study represents a great departure from that in the lower grades and that a new approach, it should be taught in the university fashion, is argued.

Now along comes Dr. R. C. Ditts with the assertion that the first two years of university study should be taught by secondary school teachers.

Dr. Ditts, as the retiring dean of the Ontario College of Education, deserves a hearing. Still, we think he is laying it on a little thick when he suggests replacing the university's "junior lecturers babbling away" by highly trained and highly experienced secondary school teachers.

It occurs to us that highly trained teachers got that way by listening to babbling junior lecturers and then undergoing a course of instruction under the supervision of Dr. Ditts.

If the result is so satisfactory, is there any assurance that Dr. Ditts can claim all the credit without permitting those junior lecturers to sneer?

Even if the method suggested by Dr. Ditts would prove more efficient than our present system, there is the human element to be considered.

Most high school students, by the time they have completed their Grade 13 studies, are thoroughly fed up with the whole show. They have reached the end of the road, and under the parental roof, have been treading to school for 13 or 14 long years and are beginning to think that life is passing them by.

Another two years in the old home town under highly trained and highly experienced secondary school teachers would be like dumping a straw stack on the sagging hump of a stagecoach.

The resultant "drop-outs" would be as thick as mosquitoes in a swamp. Universities would be begging for third-year candidates. Mom and Pop would not be ready for the next generation, and wild oats that the few survivors would sow in university towns, after finally cutting the family spring from the soil the time they reached their majority, would ruin the big city skyscrapers in height and girth.

No matter what their technical flaws, universities have one great advantage over secondary schools. They could be made entirely different, just at a stage in life when a change is what they need most urgently.

Beauty And The Needy

The Ontario Intelligencer the other day presented photographic evidence of an impoverished nature, that Bellefleur possesses a most attractive Miss United Appeal.

The good judgment of those who selected Miss Walker to represent beyond dispute is evident. What is not beyond question is the wisdom of creating any such role.

The reason for the enterprise is, of course, beggarly approach. It is to be expected that the United Appeal, and the community organizations its fund-raising efforts finance.

We cannot help wondering, though, whether, through the best promoted by a pretty and charming young woman.

If events prove it, it is then the wisdom of selecting a Miss United Appeal who has been vindicated and all that she has done for the future United Appeal officials are as fortunate in having available candidates as highly qualified for the role as the one who has been.

But if dimmers for pretty blondes in mink stoles quicken the response to the appeal of charity, then the advocates of faith and hope had better investigate the promotional possibilities of chinchilla and redheads, sable and suity brunettes.

Provine-wide educational television program in Ontario has been in progress for a year, Education Minister W. G. Davis told newsmen recently. Officials at the education department are studying which subjects should be taught by TV, and are aware of groups at which they should be aimed.

Actually, this is nothing new. Television in Ontario and elsewhere has always been an educational medium. The new part is that it is used of teaching violence, and the use of a sponsor's product, the new educational TV will concentrate on subjects more suited to a civilized people. Progress, it seems, was not abandoned. Just delayed.

MPs Tired, Impoverished No New Election in Sight

By RICHARD JACKSON
 (The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Ask almost any MP, Liberal, Conservative, Social Credit or New Democratic, and he will tell you that there won't be another Federal General Election until the fall of 1969... barring military accident.

"They have got this silly minority government for the next three... plus years for these reasons:

"First, the fact that the public has had enough of election with four in six years, or, figures it another way, enough of the present government to last about every 18 months.

"They are not in a position to call a new election because they are not sure that they should the public accept another campaign, they themselves are clear out of breath from two election runs in the last six months, and more important, fresh out of party and personal political funds.

"The new government has faced up to its toughest challenge first—the explosive nuclear arms issue. Then, the vote, even without 'rebel' Conservatives, would be a foregone conclusion, and a forced support, to rule the Conservative roost.

Blood Sugar Tests Can Reveal Diabetes

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 67 and recently took a physical examination which I applied for insurance. The doctor said I had a high blood sugar level.

As a doctor, I have a certain amount of knowledge about the disease. I have given blood for transfusion purposes. I am all confused. How does one know if one has diabetes?

Congratulations to the doctor for doing a thorough job. We all have blood sugar. It represents energy. People with excessively low blood sugar may suffer spells of weakness. Diabetes is a disease. Conventional people with too much may have diabetes. Measuring the blood sugar is the basic method of diagnosis.

Blood sugar measurements, however, are not required for the result of finding some symptoms. The doctor may well say "You have a problem, let's try to see an endocrinologist."

Dear Dr. Molner: Has diabetes a few years ago you had a blood sugar test. The result was 140 mg. per 100 cc. of blood. The doctor said I had diabetes. I am all confused. How does one know if one has diabetes?

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GAO H. CARMON, Sports Editor

The tremendous interest in track and field which is sweeping the country, particularly in secondary schools, has not gone unnoticed by organizations interested in physical fitness.

One of these, the Royal Canadian Legion, as one secondary school track and field member told me, is doing an extraordinary job in the extension of activities in the sport.

Last year the war veterans organization did not dilapidate over matters. Alarmed, so to speak, by the low level of physical fitness of the young people of the nation, it decided to do something about it.

The Legion felt it was right at the top level, the others would fall in line. And with interest mounting in track and field they turned to this phase of fitness activities.

The best is coaching was the answer. So in order to get this they decided to "reach the coaches." They went to England and signed Geoffrey Dymon, rated the world's best coach, to a five-year contract.

Dymon conducted the first annual coaches' clinic at Guelph last year which was so successful that the Legion is holding its second annual clinic there again this August.

Fifteen outstanding coaches from five countries will staff the all-day clinic scheduled to start on August 12. Under the jurisdiction of Dymon it will also feature two courses.

The coaching reader reads like a who's who of track and field. From England Dymon will draw upon Sir Alf Atkinson, Leonard Pugh, John Houston, Bill Elliott, John Savage and Neville Kirk Whitbread.

French national coach Jacques Berguignon will return to handle a French-speaking squad.

Errol Will and John Powell will join the staff from the United States. Powell was formerly a coach in South Africa.

Canadian coaches will include: Bob Adams, Saskatchewan; Pat O'Sullivan, Ontario; Daley, Ontario; Lloyd Swetland and Bob Reid of Vancouver and Ron Wallbridge of McMaster University. Former British Empire athlete Sir Christopher is also expected to lecture to the women's squad at Guelph.

Two courses will operate simultaneously. One will handle advanced track where the student concentrates on either the running or jumping events. Fifty students will be accommodated in the camp. About 100 will take a general course, covering 10 events.

The Legion will provide transportation for students living more than 100 miles from Guelph.

Applications are available from each provincial command of the Legion, and the deadline is June 15th.

Kenmore's Whip Kingston

Kingston "Bad Boys" almost pulled their second disappointing act of the week last night when they were forced to forfeit a game for a Lakehurst baseball win by Sid Fennor's Kenmore.

The game was postponed from Wednesday night.

They arrived with a skinny 10 man squad and were soundly thrashed by a 10-2 whipping Kenmore attack. It was Kingston's fourth straight loss and Belleville's third win in the series. Due to the late beginning, the game was called a seven-inning affair by plate umpire Al Kellogg.

Kenmore's hot bats jumped on Kingston twirler Court Fortens for four runs in the initial frame. The Bad Boys closed the lead to two in their half of the second but were shut out from scoring by Larry Sothen. Belleville added a pair in the fourth and the cake was with four more in the sixth.

Larry Sothen earned the win with a five-inning effort, a six-inning curve ball helped him to strike the last inning allowing no hits and waiting the strike. Sothen downed four on three strikes while walking a single batter. Court Fortens topped the line in the losing cause. He was touched for 11 base knocks while allowing walks to seven. His good curve ball helped him to strike the last inning allowing no hits and waiting the strike.

Rick Locke's single, a walk, and a double by Larry Sothen and Larry Mavey's triple, each for four runs across the plate for the home team in the first inning. Kingston closed the gap in the second when three consecutive walks and an error plated two runners but finished their scoring for the night.

Locke with his second hit and Pulvelli's lucky put runners on first and second in the Kenmore's half of the fourth.

Yankees Tie Orioles For Loop Lead

By MIKE RATHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Nobody's able to fill Bo Bebb's shoes, but by a 4-3 record for Senators, leading their 10th game in 20 starts.

Orel Hershiser, who was involved in Kansas City's 4-3 win over the Yankees, was charged with a 7-4 defeat of the Yankees. The Yankees' victory over Baltimore Orioles Friday night extended Orioles' losing streak to three games.

A 29-year-old right-hander, Orel Hershiser was born at Kansas City, Mo., and was signed to a contract by the Yankees in 1961. He was supposed to hand over Belinfante at the end of the season, but Commissioner Ford Frick vetoed the move because of his irregular playing record.

Orel, however, remained at Kansas City. And now that he has been dropped, he has been thrust into the starting rotation. The victory against the Yankees' first in the majors as a starter and in a round about way Belinfante was a two-fold triumph.

For it was Dees, brought from the Hawaii by the Yankees, who took the place with three hits, including a home run in the fifth inning that proved decisive. The Yankees' victory was the first with New York Yankees in the American League since.

Yankees closed the gap by whipping Cleveland Indians 4-0 Sunday. The Yankees' victory was the first in the majors since the team's 1961 season when they won the World Series.

Twins' 10-game victory, which ended a losing streak of 10 games, was the first since the team's 1961 season when they won the World Series.

Queen Got Archbishop To Drop Ban on TV Cameras Inside Abbey at Coronation

By HELEN CATYKART

(Author of Mrs. Selwyn and Many Other Royal Books)

A notable anniversary for the British people occurs tomorrow. On June 2 it will be just ten years since Queen Elizabeth II was crowned in Westminster Abbey.

The Coronation was the most colorful and—thanks to TV and movies—the most watched pageant ever held. Yet the astonishing story of what really went on behind the scenes has never been told.

As the minutes and complex preparations moved forward, the Queen was still only 35. Many of her advisers—Winston Churchill among them—were more than three times her age. And they had no little dream awareness of the rich scene of participation that would give to the world what they wanted to have television cameras inside the Abbey.

They were anxious to spare the Queen undue strain and to figure out the young Queen herself, she diplomatically refused. The Archbishop of Canterbury to lunch and personally to insist that he would not let the Queen in to drop the TV ban.

Traditionally, her chief coronation organizer was the Duke of Norfolk, who had a 500-year-old line of hereditary nobles. He was the closest of the few men with the "proper experience" of King George VI's coronation.

So sternly authoritative was he that even demands the keys of Westminster Abbey on security grounds. Sixty hundreds of keys were handed over every evening and the Dean and Chapter found themselves locked out of their own mother church.

PERCENTAGE INADEQUATE The precedents of 1827, however, were inadequate for 1953. Changes in the Coronation oath had to be devised to meet the constitutional changes that had occurred in the Commonwealth. Prince Philip presented a series of novel problems.

Should he ride with the Queen in her coach or on horseback inside the walls? What supporting role could be found for him in the ceremony? Ultimately the Queen decided that at one point in the service he should kneel before her in homage as at the first of her subjects, but that he should also kneel beside her as her husband in the private sacrament of Communion.

The expert suggested that the Queen should wear Queen Victoria's Coronation ring, instead she elected to wear the massive ring made by William IV and subsequently worn by Edward VII, George V and George VI.

ANNOYING MY LOSS? Another difficulty arose in the annihilating of that traditional ensures continuity from monarch to monarch. The golden oil of the original base intended for Queen Victoria had been jealously preserved for monarch to monarch.

But the last previous phial was shattered during an air raid in 1941 and the sacred oil dripped in to the rubble of bombed London.

The pharmacists who had made up the original prescription had lost out of business. The written recipe itself had been destroyed. A former employee, however, remembered a druggist who had bottled of the interesting royal souvenirs that had been home.

The investigators traced every last connection of the former royal chemist and ultimately a 4-oz. bottle of the original oil was found in a country house in Surrey.

The coronation entailed six months of intensive planning followed by three months of the months taskwork of construction. There sat for 7,000 people had to be built into the Abbey. There were separate powder rooms for "ladies" and "gentlemen". Street stands for 150,000 gradually sprang up from many of the buildings in central London.

And, in passionate desire for perfection in every detail became a national and indeed a Commonwealth obsession.

OVERHAUL OLD CHAIR

The ancient Coronation Chair, with its famous Stone of Destiny, was overhauled with activity care for the first time in 600 years.

Beasts' levers of ugly varnish traces were found of the chair's frame. The re-upholstering was done by the Queen's leather King George VI, and but for his strange presence it could not have been ready in time.

The glorious panels, painted by Cipriani for King George III, were cracked and brittle with age. The wheels were twisted and out of true.

The upholstery was shabby. Putting these defects right proved a long and painstaking task for the craftsmen.

The Queen desired her Coronation procession through London to be hurried. There was also a serious shortage of both royal coaches and coachmen. In an unwise mood of economy more than half the coaches and coachmen in the Royal Mews had been sold.

Many of the new hangings and open landaus had to be hurried back from the Alexander Horne, the film producer.

The Queen's coachmen are traditionally clean-shaven. Amused, their mothers were willing to volunteer their services. After five months of the all permission however, again smoothed this difficulty and they loyally shared their whiskers for Coronation Day.

THEir BEINGING FLOWN In designing the Queen's coronation gown, couturier Norman Hartnell also had his worries. He submitted no fewer than 25 designs before the ninth was approved. The first extremely simple idea of a gown in white satin was elaborated until delicate color embroidered in pearls and diamonds with the Commonwealth emblem enhanced the sumptuous effect.

There were no women however on the coronation planning committee and this nearly led to disaster. Visiting the Abbey only three days before the ceremony, the Queen's maid discovered that the men had overlooked a woman's greatest need. Though a sulle of re-

Mr. and Mrs. Don Sims, Billy Keith were Sunday guests of the latter's brother, Mr. Jack Keith, at Nethu, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. David Mead.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Harris were weekend guests of relatives in St. Catharines and Toronto.

Eleven ladies from the Bethel Zion Institute enjoyed the blouse and blouse sponsored by the East Hastings W.C. at Lonsdale on Thursday evening last.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Dale Crampton on the birth of their baby girl, Cheryl Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Roblin of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Parks of Belleville and Mr. Arthur Lennox and daughter, Kathy, Corbyville, called recently on Mr. and Mrs. Mabel Sayers.

Friends of Mr. Carl Clark are sorry to hear that he is still confined to the Belleville General Hospital.

The Messing held their monthly meeting on Sunday morning with Mrs. A. Martin and Miss Mary Timmon in charge.

HER MAJESTY QUEEN ELIZABETH II

trying rooms had been built for the Queen, there were no mirrors.

Sixteen mirrors were ordered at the last moment and a manufacturer and his staff worked non-stop for 36 hours to ensure that they were made and installed in time for the ceremony.

POWER CABLE FAULTY Last minute hazards occurred even on Coronation Day itself. The TV broadcast was due to start at 10:15 and 120 technicians were at their posts three hours beforehand. Yet with 20 minutes to go a complete sound failure occurred at an essential switching point. The engineers located and replaced a faulty power cable with only minutes to spare.

Just as the Queen was about to enter the Coronation coach, it was discovered that bushes containing the trees linking the eight horse team had been sewn on back to front. This was a serious weakness factor.

It meant that the buckles might give way.

The superintendent of the procession had to take a chance. Fortunately the bushes held and nothing else went wrong, save for the downpour of rain that steadily drenched the crowds.

Three months beforehand the Duke of Norfolk announced that the Queen would be in homage about 12:34. The timing was so meticulous that the crown was placed on her head at 12:30 and 30 seconds.

THE Queen momentarily steadied it with her hand. When Prince Philip tried to become her legs man and kissing her on the cheek, he accidentally touched the heavy crown, which slipped slightly and the Queen adjusted it again.

Precisely crowded, carrying her orb and sceptre, while the bells pealed, the stender young woman went out to her glittering coach and five miles of cheers as she rode through the multitude.

It was the Queen's own impression! That evening she tried to sum up in a broadcast, though still under the widest strain of intense emotion, "As this day draws to its close,"

ask henry

Why do we have to have "little brothers" first?

THIRD BIG BROTHER Dear Third Brother:

Once upon a time, many years ago, in the land of ice cream and candy, there was a little boy that needed someone with patience to give him guidance and attention. That . . . (Grace yourself) . . . was you. New with all your insight and experience you should make a good effort to help your little brother along. HENRY

Dear Henry: What if you don't have much money and want to give your father a gift that will last a lifetime and that he will like and won't cost too much for Father's Day?

Dear Mr. Nick: Very neatly write on a big piece of paper:

Dear Father: I (your daughter or son) swear (promise) to do my utmost best at school and in every other respect so that you can be proud of me. Cross my heart and hope to die if I tell a lie. Signed . . . (Your Name) HENRY

And remember this declaration is not for decoration. Live up to it. HENRY

Dear Henry: The beautiful month of June is right around the corner and so are the not so beautiful June exams. Do you have any hints for studying that you could pass along to me? A TEENAGER

Dear Henry: This is my theory: Become part of the process, or a thing that you are studying. Crawl for knowledge about it, look up in an encyclopedia, discuss with parents and friends, feel and understand it. Then you will enjoy it and don't let it bother you if you are able to handle it, a story, a French exercise, a puzzle and a treat all in the same day. HENRY

Sewage Disposal Plant Will Be Officially Opened Wednesday by Mayor Haig

Belleville's two-and-a-half million dollar sewage disposal plant and water pollution control plant will be officially opened on Wednesday with a ribbon-cutting ceremony and tours of the plant planned for the afternoon.

The official ceremony will be at 2:30 p.m. with guests from the plant from the Ontario Water Resources Commission and the city of Belleville.

Mayor A. M. Haig will cut the official ribbon, assisted by representatives from the Ontario Water Resources Commission under whose direction the plant was constructed.

Special speaker for the opening ceremonies will be Dr. A. J. Clark, former general manager of the O.W.R.C. Alderbrook, Jack Ellis, chairman of the city council special sewage disposal committee.

For the officials, the opening ceremonies will be at 2:30 p.m. with guests from the plant from the Ontario Water Resources Commission and the city of Belleville.

However, to allow final inspections and to take advantage of better weather conditions, the official opening was delayed until this week.

The new water pollution control plant and sewerage plant is a joint project between the Ontario Water Resources Commission and the city of Belleville with the net cost to the city of $200,000.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMAR

For June 4
Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): You may be a little ahead of schedule, partner. But don't be held back. Put plans into action. Others will follow your example. Exhibit confidence, determination.
Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Don't overlook minor patterns today, the "little" things that could trip you up, cause delay. Appearances can be deceiving. Ask questions. Don't accept untried answers.
Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Good day for making basic changes. Improve domestic conditions. Stress future security, practical. Promises may seem like music to you, but beware of your notes.
Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Being true to convictions is of great importance today, especially where family, home, community are concerned. Be aware, alert.
Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Listen for warning signals. Don't be "taken in." Your own suspicions could prove correct. Other individuals can help.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

THE LITTLE WOMAN
 The issue.
 Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18): Business, career spotlight. Help career along by exhibiting strength, determination. Apply also to matters at hand. Don't get sidetracked. Your goal is right. Reach it.
 Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Don't think likely to happen. Be diplomatic, warm. But don't try to turn back the clock. Realize the future waits. The past is over. Take choice which sees you moving ahead.
 General Tendencies: Lunar cycles for Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius. Special word in Taurus. Be firm but fair and reasonable.

Navy Modifies Junior Officers Entry Plan

The Royal Canadian Navy has extended the age limit and otherwise modified its short-service officer entry plan to provide increased numbers of junior officers for ships and aircraft.

The RCN now will accept applications for the seven-year service commissions from young men between the ages of 17 and 24 with a minimum of junior matriculation or its equivalent in the general technical course. Formerly the upper age limit was 20 and academic eligibility was restricted to junior matriculation standing only.

Recruiting for the RCN Short Service Officer Plan has started and the target for this year's entry is 65. Successful candidates will be enrolled as officer cadets and will complete a four-month training course at Esquimaux, B.C.

The four-month course will consist of naval indoctrination, officer development and sea-going training in French and English.

On completion of the course, surface officers — those navigating the ships — will be sent to sea for training in navigation and seamanship. This will be followed by advanced training followed by preparation for employment as watchkeeping officers on ships of the fleet.

Aircraft candidates, after the initial four-month course, will take 45 weeks' flying training to wings standard by the end of the year, followed by 24 weeks' advanced flying training with the RCN to prepare them for appointments to naval air squadrons.

The RCN Short Service Officer Plan is designed primarily to provide a steady stream of watchkeeping officers for ships of the fleet and aircraft squadrons. However, employment in other specialties, such as supply and administration, is also possible.

Cadets will receive an initial salary of $235.00 a month, compared to $720.00 a month under the former plan, and will receive a pay increase of 30 per cent a month on promotion to Sub-Lieutenant, after 22 months of service.

French and English-speaking cadets will receive similar training. During the initial indoctrination course, English-speaking cadets will be given to French-speaking cadets and English-speaking cadets will receive French-language training.

Romanian officials estimate it takes a woman 60 to 90 per cent less time to shop in a self-service store than in store with sales staff.

Ann Landers

Trucker's Wife Defends Husband's Occupation

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I wish I could put my hands on that little snip who didn't want to invite her fiancé's friends to their wedding because they were truck drivers.

I am a graduate of Hunter College and I married a truck driver. We have three bright children, own a comfortable home, take a three-week vacation every year (twice to Europe since '50) and I have a beautiful nine-story bungalow with a milk collar.

The girl who wrote that letter must be living in the dark age. Today truck drivers make a handsome living. Many of our friends who are professional people and executives of large companies are struggling to get by, but not us.

I am proud to be married to a Knight of The Road. He should have it as good. — THE KNIGHT'S LADY.

DEAR LADY — Many truck drivers' wives wrote to say it's a great life, but you said it best. Thanks for your letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I went steady with Eddie for a year. We decided to call it quits because of religious differences which could not be resolved. I'm 20, so please don't think this letter is from a glitzy high school sophomore.

It took several months to get over my heartache but I did recover and I'm now dating a terrific guy who is a friend of Eddie's.

When we first started to date I made him promise to keep it strictly platonic. I had had enough of love and didn't want to be hurt again. He has kept his word, darn it, and this is my problem. I'm sick to death of this brother-sister kick. I've fallen hard and I'm sure he's in, too, but he's afraid to make the first move and it's all my fault.

We've been dating for three months and if he gives me one more goodnight handshake I'll scream. — SELF-VICTIMIZED.

DEAR SELF-VICTIMIZED — Don't scream. You may frighten him away. Just tell him in plain English that your husband beat him and headed you are ready to give love another chance. If he gives you a handshake after that confession, he's no candidate.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — It's the time of the year when my husband begins to hear "the call of the wild."

We have two tons, 10 and 12 years of age. Ever since the boys have been old enough to walk we have spent three weeks every summer camping out — and I do mean out. My husband picks the most God-awful, primitive spots he can find. Some of our camp sites have been so rocky and miserable even the Indians didn't want 'em.

Last year I told him I was through dragging along dishes, pots, pans, bedding, and canned goods, washing clothes by hand and doing without plumbing. As person has to be the way to leave the conveniences of home and work the way I did. He agreed it was the last time he'd ask me to do it.

Well, now he's taking tests again and I am doing a slow burn. I'm perfectly willing to rent a cabin, but no more roughing it. So, someone me of being selfish and depriving the boys of real outdoor life. What do you think, ANN — THE MULE (HIS NAME FOR ME).

DEAR MOTYER — Tell nature boy you've had it with the Lewis and Clark bit and you're holding him by the nostrils 'til he last. The boys can get plenty outdoor life and still sleep in a bed at night and take a bath in a tub.

If he insists on another tent vacation, tell him to drop out camp when he goes into town for groceries and mosquito netting — that you'll be waiting for him at home.

Confidential to JUDY CURIOUS — So am I. If someone is hitting my material I'd like to know about it. Please send me the column which "sounded so familiar." I would appreciate it.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets stuck" (as Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed envelope.

Baseball's Changing Spree

3 Affect Goalties

By W. F. G. G.M.
 St. Louis, Mo. (AP)—Baseball's National League changed some of them at the opening Monday of its 100th annual meeting. Three of the rules affected the game.

Today, the spotlight turns on the new rules of the National League. Once again the American League's "new" rules are being tested. They are expected to be in effect by Monday night meeting with the NL on a proposal to alter the draft between the two leagues.

The Little Rock Ails, out draft between the two leagues, is expected to be in effect by Monday night meeting with the NL on a proposal to alter the draft between the two leagues.

Anyways, an NFL spokesman said a draft would not be hurried in view of present circumstances.

All six NFL clubs must submit their lists of 25 protected players, including two rookies, by Monday.

Some trades were rumored as the hockey season gets under way. Some could be confirmed.

For instance, there was talk that New York Rangers acquired Eric Nesterenko of Chicago Black Hawks.

But most of the first day at attention centered on the work of the rules committee.

To avoid the possibility of losing the game, the committee decided to alter the rules.

Lightfoot Construction back at Harry Fowler's three — hit pitching with plenty of clout on their way to a 12-0 victory over Corbin last night.

Powerful almost three-hit double while his mate got four runs in the first — a half hour in the first to wrap up the decision. Fowler struck out four and walked one.

Gerry Generax started for Corbin, giving way to Len Middleton after Ron Hill slammed a homer in the 1st.

3 Networks Pay Reverent Tribute to Pope John

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The three major U.S. television networks paid reverent tribute to Pope John with special programs Monday night.

Although he was credited with "creating a new image of the papacy" and his official achievements were stressed, each program emphasized the kindly, gentle qualities that made him the most beloved Pope of modern times.

The CBS program obviously had access to the same picture material, so there was much duplication in the three programs.

There were films of the Pope visiting a children's ward in a hospital with delighted children and of the faces of the children and of the smiling old man. He was shown visiting prisoners in a Roman jail, explaining that "the cause you come to see is not me, I came to see you."

But it was the Pope who had the most revealing film clip—a warm and wonderful moment.

Producer Sam Bronston Compared With Demille

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — With 20 Days in Peking, it becomes apparent that stayaway producer Sam Bronston must be an admirer of the late Cecil B. Demille.

Bronston already has shown Demille's fondness for history (John Paul Jones), biblical epics (The King of Kings), and costume dramas (12 Crouching Tigers). Now Bronston is presenting 20 Days in Peking, which is the million in this attention to lavish, elaborate backgrounds, its use of a high-powered cast and epic-scale action and its plot. The movie is indeed a fine movie, the comparison is not bad. Peking is indeed a fine movie, in the strict sense of the word, it moves. It has character, and it is big.

AMOROUS REBELLION The story is such good plot material that it is surprising it hasn't been used before. It concerns the Rebel Rebellion of 1900, when foreigners in Peking were beleaguered in a forced march to Ulladulla for 35 days, and after attack from the anti-imperialists.

Leaders of the revolt are David Hens, the British ambassador who hopes to avoid a riot, and Charles Hens, a great major of the U.S. Marines. Ava Gardner is the mysterious Russian baroness, and there are various other English, Americans, Russians, Germans, Japanese, French and Austrians.

Also limitless China, mostly imported to the Spanish location from England. They include Flora Robson as the empress, Lee Remick and Robert Holman as her leading advisors, and other more authentic types from London.

Director Nick Ray (who does as the American ambassador) keeps the characters in a constant state of confusion, and action expert Arthur Martin (the character in the film) provides some marvelous battle.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARK

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Badly Injured—Needs Letters

DEAR DORIS—I wonder if you can help me. My 21-year-old daughter was hurt in a car accident on February 26th. Two of her friends were killed. She was badly hurt. She had six fractures; her whole body and left leg are in a cast. Her left arm was also broken in two places and her right hand was broken.

She is coming along fine. She has her arm out of the cast, she has months yet to sit in bed. I wondered if you could help me get her some pals all over the country or worst! She can write now. She finds the time very long. Will you please help me let her pass the time.

Her address is Miss Marilyn Samson, Bromie-Misquiqui Perkins Hospital, Sweetbriar, Que. — MRS. M. G.

DEAR MRS. M. G.—Last time we asked for letters for a bedridden reader, he was deluged. This note will appear right across Canada. How about it, Pen Pal? For correspondents across the seas, write to Mrs. R. T. Tanner, United Nations Association in Canada, Markham, Ontario.

DEAR DORIS—I am a twelve-year-old girl who is not allowed to associate with boys, and I agree that I shouldn't date them. But here is my problem: Friday night, I went to the movies with my friend. At the show, a boy in Grade 9 asked me to sit with him. Probably, I did. Bob is fifteen. He held me tight.

After the show he walked me home. He kissed me. I was so confused, I didn't know what to do. Then he asked me to the show next Friday night. I told him I couldn't go, but what if he keeps asking me? If my mother found out about this, she would have a fit. I must not mind going to a show with him if I knew he would not neck. What would I do if he started to neck at the show? I must make him understand I am not that type, and I must find a way to "lose" him. — MIXED-UP KID.

DEAR MIXED-UP KID—Stand on your own two feet and say "no." Every lady learns to do this. Tell your friend that you are not allowed to have dates with boys. And act like you mean it.

DEAR DORIS—My problem is my weight. It's too low. I am tall (5'8"), and weigh 118. I am 28 years old. I'm tired of having people tell me my knees are honey or ask me if I'm on a diet. It's had enough. In the winter, but this summer I'll be in shorts and bathing suit a lot and I'd like to look a little better. — BONY.

DEAR BONY—Learn to slow down, relax more, worry less. Learn to enjoy the foods that put on weight; to nibble between meals. I am sending you my Chart for Curves.

DEAR DORIS—We are very grateful to our family doctor. Would it be in his hand to send him a thank you note and gift? — CONVALESCENT.

DEAR CONVALESCENT—Not in the least. The doctor who has worried with you through illness will prize your unexpected expression of thanks.

(Human problems are Doris' specialty. Can she help you with yours?)

A Frosted Sandwich For June Parties

by Mary Moore

Your letters are a godsend to me for they let me know what you want. I had been wondering if some new fillings for a party sandwich loaf would be welcome when I received a letter from Mrs. G. A. asking for the method and fillings for a sandwich loaf for a June shower.

The filling ideas are different and the finished loaf makes 10 to 12 servings.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Stuffed Pork Shoulder; Spiced Cabbage; Pea Roasted Potatoes; White Onions with Cheese Sauce; Tomato Jelly Salad on Lettuce; Baked Individual Custards; Apple Squares (see Tuesday); Coffee.

PARTY SANDWICH LOAF

1 double sandwich loaf white bread, maligned (12½" square), 1-3 cup soft butter or margarine, ½ cup salted pineapple filling (see below), 2-3 cup walnuts, 2-3 cup smoked-chicken filling (see below), 14 thin cucumber slices, ½ cup sliced radishes. Frosting: 1 6-oz. package white cream cheese, 1 table-spoon milk, 2 table-spoons milk, 2 table-spoons cranberry French dressing, ½ cup finely chopped nuts.

Remove crusts from top, sides and end of sandwich loaf. Using other end crust to hold loaf firm, cut into five equal lengthwise slices with very sharp knife, leaving on only the bottom crust. (Your baker may do this for you.) Spread softened butter on each slice, and on both sides of the three inner slices. Spread slices with fillings in the following order and stack as they are completed: 1) Salmon-Olive (see below); 2) Walnut-Smoked-Chicken (see below); 3) Egg-Pickle (see below); 4) Cucumber and radishes. Top with the fifth slice of bread. Press loaf firmly together. Wrap in foil or straw or heavy wax paper, and refrigerate for at least one hour before serving time, from entire loaf with Cream Cheese Frosting, made by blending together the cream cheese, milk and French dressing until of spreading consistency. Cut each part of loaf with chopped nuts. Chill before serving.

Filling: 1) Salmon-Olive Filling: To make ¾ cup, combine ½ cup flaked salmon, ¼ cup chopped stuffed olives, 2 table-spoons fine chopped onions, ¼ teaspoon ground marjoram cream. 2) Walnut-Smoked-Chicken Filling: To make 2-3 cup, combine ½ cup chopped walnuts, ½ cup smoked chicken spread, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and ½ cup catsup dressing. 3) Egg-Pickle Filling: To make ¾ cup, combine 2-3 cup chopped hard-boiled eggs (2 large or 3 small), ½ cup chopped dill pickle and ½ cup catsup dressing.

St. Mary's P.T.A. Lists New Officers

CAMPBELLFORD—The regular meeting of St. Mary's P.T.A. was held on Thursday evening with Mr. Emmett Lee, president, in charge.

Following the devotional period directed by the Rev. Jos. Walsh, the secretary and treasurer's reports were heard. Mr. Lee reported on a diocesan meeting of the C.P.T.A. in Peterborough recently.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. R. Major of Campbellford and District High School. Introduced by the president, he gave an interesting talk on the importance of teaching French in elementary schools and of the language being incorporated in the curriculum of the lower grades. He stressed the necessity of being able to use a second language fluently.

He was thanked for his informative talk by Rev. Father Walsh.

Mr. T. O'Hay, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of new officers which were as follows: Immediate past president, Emmett Lee; president, Mrs. J. Korin; 1st vice-president, James Furze; 2nd vice-president, F. Freeman; treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Smith; recording secretary, Mrs. F. Freeman; parents' councilors, Madeline A. Kaufmann, R. McKinnon, A. Morris, Messrs. Ted Butler, T. O'Hay and Tony Cawley; Sister St. Rose, home agent; president, Rev. Jos. Walsh; spiritual director, and teacher councilors are Sister St. Wilfred, Mr. R. Bartoch, Mrs. E. O'Connor and Mrs. J. Doherty. Mr. Korin, in accepting the presidency, thanked those present for their support and pledged her utmost ability in

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

FABRICIA LEVITS

Age usually is billed as the most important factor in the bride's party is concerned, but it has to be considered in connection with the groom's age.

Should give a shower? Who should be invited? Who should bring presents? These are some of the questions that the bride's party is concerned with at this time.

We'll try to answer some of these questions as best as possible at this writing.

When the bride's party is to be the most perplexing problem, it is the question of the bride's age and the groom's age.

The only one who may not be a usual member of the families of the bride and groom are the maid or matron of honor, unless she is a relative, most often she is the bride's sister.

Some of the questions that the bride's party is concerned with at this time are: Should give a shower? Who should be invited? Who should bring presents?

ONLY FRIENDS INVITED

Only close friends and relatives should be invited to a shower. Some are expected to bring gifts and some who don't attend should send presents.

Usually, mothers and sisters of both bride and groom are invited. If they are invited to a number of showers for the bride, it is not necessary to attend to bring a present to each.

Present may be miscellaneous, but often a theme is built around a theme and may be a kitchen shower, a personal shower, a linen shower, etc.

Gifts generally are fairly inexpensive, since most of the party is invited to the wedding and send a wedding present in addition. Occasionally, an elaborate gift is given to serve both purposes. Gifts should be wrapped with a card enclosed and are brought to the party.

Sometimes the hostess prefers to use a uniform scheme and prefers to wear the same dress in special party. In this case, gifts are sent to her home as an advance of the party so she may complete the decorations.

USHERS PREPARE PARTY

Unless the shower is a joint one for both the bride and groom, it is strictly a female party. The bridegroom to be usually shown up after the party.

Guests are unwrapped and about the time refreshments are served, so he can admire the gifts and meet his fiancée's friends.

After the bride and groom are invited to join the ladies for refreshment and they are late in the day and a buffet or supper is planned as a wedding.

A verbal thank-you is as soon as each gift usually is received enough of a response on the part of the bride-to-be.

I still think it's doubly thoughtful to write a personal note to each guest as soon as possible. At any rate, the hostess should be thanked by mail, as well as at any rate, and a considerable bride-to-be usually sends her flowers to the bride and groom, as a token of appreciation for her efforts.

Pink Will Be Top Color Choice in '64

TORONTO (CP)—Colors for 1964 will have this season's chic, pastel palette patterned in fashion, more in fact, in textile, more by the Dominion Textile Company showed today.

Geometrical, striped, floral and abstract designs were featured in women's, men's, and children's apparel at this time.

We'll try to answer some of these questions as best as possible at this writing.

The Experts Say Need Specific Training To Become Homemaker

By EDNA BLACKLEY

OTTAWA (CP)—By Edna Blackley, homemaker needs specific training for making a home in some of the most important areas.

Sexual secretary of the family and child welfare division of the Canadian Welfare Council, Mrs. Smith says.

"These women have to be more than polite people and good housewives," she says. "The division has produced an eight-page pamphlet on the subject of planning a home for one to two women, stating some of the requirements for women in the field."

Mrs. Smith says homemaking is the least of the requirements for high school education, particularly for women in their middle years who may have little training but who have developed homelike skills in their own homes.

The main fabric emphasized in the pamphlet is on color combination, said Joan Blum, an Ottawa textile consultant. She said each of the 1,500 color combinations has a plain color to match.

PATTERN REPEATED

The newest co-ordination, that of "print and print" was illustrated in the show by a child's spring coat and dress ensemble in which the striped pattern of the coat was repeated in small circles in the more abstract design of the dress.

Miss Blum predicted that pink, one of this season's leading colors, will be the top color choice in 1964. Blue, light green and yellow are also expected to be popular, she said.

Prints and stripes, especially in green and maroon, will predominate in men's shirt fabrics, she said. "The women look" would also be featured for men's wear.

Printed terrycloth, introduced last season, will be used again for men's, women's and children's garments, Miss Blum said.

The effects which were achieved with the cotton fabrics in the show ranged from a simple to a trendy knit look. Cotton's versatility was illustrated by its use in everything from children's playclothes and bathing suits to long pajamas and formal ball gowns.

THE BRITISH TEAM THAT first climbed the 14,780-foot Matterhorn in the Alps lost four of its six members in the attempt.

U. C. W. Holds Attractive Dessert Tea

JOINTOWN—A fine "Dessert Tea" and sale was held at the Glen Miller hall last Wednesday evening, sponsored by the U.C.W. The tea was opened by singing, "Just Be The Thing That Binds." At the close was the president, Mrs. Alice Vandervoort to greet the guests with the words: "Welcome to the U.C.W. Tea."

At the baking table, where all kinds of good things to eat were found, was Mrs. Alice Vandervoort, Mrs. Clarence Macdonald, Mrs. Ronald Hamilton, Mrs. Galloway and Mrs. H. Russell (being the honoree and these ladies were certainly kept busy).

12-Mile

"may soon be threatened" by increased fishing pressure.
Before implementing the 12-mile zone, Canada would have to consider the fishing treaties and "historic rights" of other countries, notably the United States and France. Discussions would be held with these nations.
Mr. Pearson recalled that in his talks with President Kennedy last month he assured the president that American rights and interests would be taken into account with relation to the extended fishing zone.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the unilateral action proposed by the government might have serious economic consequences if the U.S. or France should refuse to negotiate.

A. R. Patterson (SC-France Valley) said the rights of Canadian fishermen should be paramount in any decision taken with regard to the final implementation of the zone. And Commons committees should be given an opportunity to study the situation first.

Tom Barrett (NDP - Comox-Bonville) said his group welcomed the announcement but was concerned about the details of bringing the 12-mile zone into being.
Some in Washington said Tuesday night the U.S. is unlikely to give any formal recognition to a Canadian 12-mile limit. It would be diplomatically embarrassing to the Americans, who now recognize only the three-mile territorial limit with no extra provision for fishing zone.

However, the Washington authorities do not expect any trouble to develop from the Canadian side in the light of Mr. Pearson's statement that U.S. historic rights would be considered.
An argument against giving the U.S. any special treatment was advanced from another quarter.

Homer Stevens, secretary-treasurer of the United Fishermen's Union (Inc.) of British Columbia, said in a statement the 12-mile zone should exclude all non-Canadian fishermen, including those from the U.S. and France.
He said the union has been campaigning for 14 years to get American fishing vessels out of Canadian offshore fishing areas and the new zone was a perfect opportunity for this.

which may run about 1,700,000 the extra power produced plus $60,000,000 in cash for flood prevention capacity.
This is power which would be due to B.C. under the treaty for establishing three storage dams on the Columbia system. These dams would level out the turbulent river, producing increased hydro capacity and flood control downstream for the Americans who would pay back half the cost.

The final act would be ratification by the U.S. of the protocol. It speedily ratified the actual treaty — although Canada didn't after the treaty signing in Washington in early 1960.
Federal informants suggested they feel that the U.S. has not made its best offer for the power which Mr. Bennett has been trying to sell at a price of $1.60 per kilowatt hour or more.
The U.S. government at various times has indicated its desire to get moving on the Columbia.
Government sources here suggest that one U.S. reason for holding back on power projects was reluctance to get until internal Canadian differences had been settled and more federal backing provided for the U.S. government.

Cornwall Education Board On Carpet at Convention For Signing Long Contract

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The eastern Ontario school board was accused Tuesday of having played a sophisticated form of double-cross with other school boards in southern Ontario by signing a five-year contract with its teachers' union.

The Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association, which voted at its annual convention to deplore the action by the Cornwall board of education. It also wants the Ontario Teachers' Council to look into the legality of school trustees' elected for two years, signing a five-year contract.

"The complaint against Cornwall was detailed in printed material circulated by delegates at the convention."

The Bradford subcommittee said Cornwall had to meet first salary competition from other school boards when it came to hire high school teachers in 1981.

PRESSURES CONTINUE

By signing an agreement providing for annual increases of from $200 to $275 during the year 1983 to 1985, during which time Cornwall has made more than $1 million in salary increases, pressures to face in the next four years.

The resolution was defeated by five votes after three separate speakers suggested that the Cornwall board should not sign the agreement, but that it could mean a loss of responsibility for the school boards in the area.

U.S.-Europe Chicken Fight Points to Possible Rouble

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States is beginning to suspect that the European Community is ready to play a gigantic cat-and-mouse game with trade and chicken tariffs, the question of how seriously this trade bloc will pursue massive tariff negotiations planned for 1984.

Unrest was aroused by the chicken tariff battle dealing with a possible increase in the peak restrictive trade in hatching later with U.S. and Canadian and with other foodstuffs.

The chicken issue has pushed tensions to a high point in the relations between the U.S. and the European Community. The Washington Daily News, has called for a "chicken war" between the two nations.

However, in the face of American warnings that the U.S. government could not afford to go to court and sue the European Community, and to see this chicken market go down the drain, the Common Market has decided to restrain itself from suing the U.S. and to sue the U.S. instead.

This could mean in the form of a lawsuit that would cause the U.S. to lose damages to export chickens or it could conducting education at the local level.

Bradford's resolution was a call for a "double-cross" among school boards in the market for teachers.

THINKS WOULD CONTROL

Jack McDonald, vice chairman of the Bradford board, said a salary scale would help control salary levels. Public opinion would prevent school boards from paying substantially more or less than the recommended level.

Bradford said 14 per cent of teachers in Category 1 were paid more than the minimum recommended by the Ontario Teachers' Council in Category 2. It was 22 per cent in Category 3 and 71 per cent in Category 4. It was 51 per cent.

Other business, delegates were told that municipalities were not to be built in schools for year-round use, instead of only summer-time use, at present.

P. J. K. Nichol, a technical adviser with the education department, said such a practice would also provide the means for a wide variety of uses.

A panel discussion on schools for three years and a member D. L. Scott, superintendent of the Bradford board, described experiments in the use of schools for three years, but economically not feasible.

The system involves two or three teachers giving lessons to a government committee, 120 or more, then helping in follow-up discussions and studies by smaller groups.

Tough said it is possible to adapt ordinary classrooms to use as seminar rooms or large group rooms by using adjustable walls.

NO REPORT PATTERN

The Washington Daily News says the issue goes deeper than the chicken tariff battle.

"The Europeans must be convinced of the results of their policy," the newspaper says. "This is the best chance of reversing this situation."

Herter's aide do not agree that this disagreement of the U.S. and the European Community could be the pattern established by the U.S. and the European Community.

Without such prospects, the U.S. might lose its enthusiasm for the negotiations altogether.

WALLS ARE DAMAGED

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Transit Commission was told Tuesday that the damage of more than $150,000 have been discovered in building cracks in glass walls at six stations of the new subway line.

Toronto CNR Pensioners Hold Dinner in City

Believed railroads from all parts of Ontario with heavy contingents from Toronto recalled the days of the steam locomotive here yesterday.

For the first time the annual dinner was held in Belleville with Club Canara which tried to the limit to accommodate the 425 pensioners and their wives who turned out for the event.

The Toronto contingent, 251 strong, arrived on the Kingston train, while others drove from Peterborough, Campbellton and points east to Brockville.

Members of the Belleville CN Pensioners' Club, headed by president Joe Hunter and Bill Michael, were on hand to welcome those from out of the city as they arrived earlier.

"We have a rare time talking over old times and meeting the boys we once worked with," was the way one Toronto pensioner put it.

ROCKY'S STILL IN

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, former vice president, has been named to a fully-attended meeting.

"This is what bothers Earl Helmke, Progressive Committee member who fears that State Secretary Pichler, government leader in the Commission is aiming at majority control of the Ontario Pensioners' Club."

The special dinner Tuesday night was the first speaking press conference since the marriage a month ago to former Margaret (Happy) Murray.

Recalling earlier days of railroading are Joe (Simon and Peto Moore, both of Brockville, and Pat Hunter, Belleville, Jim Hill; Peterborough; Douglas (Garvey) Campbell, Moore.

Move to Reduce Size Of Committees Hits Snag

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans being discussed among the four parties to have smaller committees to set up this session. It is to comprise 12 Liberal MPs and 12 oppositionist-right Conservatives, and two each for Social Credit and New Democrats.

The talks have been going on at two levels — among the party's House leaders and among the party whips.

It is understood that the House leaders have agreed initially to recommend to the caucus of MPs that they adopt a plan which would restrict committee numbers to a top of about 38 MPs, with a few exceptions.

The object of a similar committee is to provide for more efficient study of problems and to speed up legislation.

However, opposition has developed to the proposal of membership among the parties. The Liberals have suggested that the committee membership be limited to 12 Liberal and 12 Conservative MPs.

Thus no party would have a committee unless the committee chairman selected came from among the opposition MPs.

"This is the greatest vulnerability expansion in any comparable jurisdiction in America," Mr. Robert called the move to the Fall site, "a monument to obliquity" and said that the committee will enable the university to acquire the site.

The 1981-82 fall future grants will depend on submissions by the university to the advisory committee on university affairs.

He said there will be no higher learning institutions in operation in Ontario by September, 1983.

Canadian Broadcasters Told They Have No Inherent Right To Keep Quasi-Monopoly

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian broadcasters have been told they have no inherent right to maintain a quasi-monopoly on television news coverage.

"Broadcasters are in a dynamic position in the community and their role will fluctuate like that of the community," said Mr. Estey.

Mr. Estey made the comments in reply to questions in the House of Commons presented by broadcasters that Canada's 22 licensed community antenna television systems of light form a monopoly of a closed circuit national network which might endanger the existence of free TV in the future.

He said there was nothing at present to indicate that the community antenna television systems, serving some 200,000 households, would be another broadcasting system. At present development of a closed circuit national network would be a community system.

$393,000 Grant Will Be Made Brock College

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Grants totaling $393,000 will be made to the new Brock University by the provincial government, Premier John Robarts said today.

The grant will be used for the acquisition, organizational expenses, administration costs, a library, an academic planning committee and planning and development of the site.

The 1981-82 fall future grants will depend on submissions by the university to the advisory committee on university affairs.

From Medicine, to Tanks, to Trains, The Doctor Now Moves Onto Planes

By KEN SMITH

MONTREAL (CP) — Trading Dr. O. M. Solandt's career in the following order of those becoming back that point out the words of a commentary story song:

Go from medicine to tanks to bombs to trains and satellites.

In all, Dr. Solandt says with a grin, it has been an extremely unusual life.

Consider that he's served in 20 years from a carefully selected in medicine to directing the CNR's giant research and development program, that's a bit of an understatement.

At various times Dr. Solandt, now 54, has helped look for answers to such diverse problems as heart disease, making tanks shoot smarter, tanning nuclear clear test, providing blood transfusions for thousands of people during the London blitz and making trains run on time.

He has been governor of a university, taught at a few and received degrees from several.

He is one of Canada's few medical men ever to have been made an honorary member of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

LEAVES CIVIL

He has studied with some of the world's great pathologists and organized and directed for nine years Canada's Defense Research Board.

He can't end, speak with authority on subjects ranging from the effects of atomic radiation on human beings to the way to get the most out of an electronic brain.

But Dr. Solandt, who leaves his job as CNR's vice-president in charge of research and development June 10 to take a similar post with the de Havilland Aircraft Company of Canada and Hawker Siddeley Canada limited in Toronto, insists there is a chain of logic running through his career.

He got away from medicine to which, in the early 1930s, he had planned to devote his life—once when he started studying ways to improve the design of tanks for the British Army during the Second World War.

He got interested in tank design and operation after being invited to study the special medical and psychological problems faced by tank crews.

"I soon decided the medical problems were minor compared with the design problems, so it seemed natural to go to where research in that field to try to find ways in which the men in the tanks could operate more efficiently."

From tank research it was, he says, a small step to his next job in 1944—expectations of the British Army's Operational Research Group, which was called on to tackle almost any kind of a problem that could pop up in trying to win a war.

The experience of his wartime years led him when he returned to Canada in 1946 to the Defense Research Board. Nine years work with the board made him almost inevitable that he move into industrial research—and he took the job with the CNR.

From trains to planes with his new post seems even more logical, if you follow Dr. Solandt's line of reasoning.

Dr. Solandt, a native of Winnipeg, says his lack of formal advanced education in various fields has been bumped into economic engineering, accounting and engineering, according to a commentary, never prevented a particular problem.

The reason he never got to learn as you go along, another reason which he doesn't mention is that he has a clear-headed mind that hops up knowledge like a hopping page.

LEARN FROM EVERYONE

In research, he says, everyone is teaching everyone else all the time.

An engineer learns from an economist and vice versa. They all stimulate and educate each other—that's why research groups should be large and co-ordinated.

If you're directing such a group, all you have to do is find the properly qualified specialist left for the job and give him his head. "You learn from him."

Dr. Solandt's move from CNR has brought some criticism of the railway for letting such an able vice-president go.

But Dr. Solandt, a tall and charming man who exudes competence and confidence, says he never would have thought of leaving the CNR if he suspected it was a more interesting job had not come up.

The new job will be more rewarding, more thrilling, make better use of my knowledge and experience. There is far more scientific research in the train scene over there—did you know they're doing a lot of work on satellites now."

WORK WAS REWARDING

"Research for the railway was interesting, taking existing knowledge and adapting it to meet specific questions."

It was rewarding work because of the scope of the operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Crawford, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwin Foster, have returned to their home.

WAGES RISE

Average weekly wages in Canada's manufacturing industry in March rose to $70.05 from the February figure of $69.67. The bureau of statistics said Monday. In the same period the average work week rose from 40.7 and average hourly earnings remained unchanged at $1.30.

INGORS DROP

Steel ingot production in the week ending June 1 totalled 164,100 tons, down 1.3 per cent from the preceding week. Output in the corresponding week last year totalled 130,407 tons.

SHIPMENTS DECLINE

Shipments of rolled carbon steel products in March rose 14.8 per cent to 473,375 tons from 412,023 in the corresponding month last year. The bureau of statistics said Monday.

ations, but I couldn't call it personally exciting."

Dr. Solandt says he had his life pretty well planned when he graduated from the University of Toronto in 1921 with a bachelor of science degree.

After spending two years in the U.S. of T. and then went to England for more post-graduate work.

"I was teaching and studying at Cambridge and planned to go to Boston in 1940 to study with Paul White—you know, the heart specialist who treated President Eisenhower. But then the war came along."

Despite his success in various fields since the war, Dr. Solandt admits he feels that on the whole he would have been happier if he had remained in academic fields, doing research on the heart and eventually going into teaching.

"I have always been fascinated by research," he says, "but the war really took it away from me. I think I could have done fairly well."

FROM TRAINS TO PLANES — Dr. O. M. Solandt, 54, leaves his position as vice-president in charge of the CNR's research and development program June 10 to take a similar post with de Havilland Aircraft Company of Canada. A native of Winnipeg, Dr. Solandt spent nine years as director of Canada's Defense Research Board.

Railway Loss

Almost Doubles

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian railways had a net operating deficit of $4,782,000 in January, up from $3,952,800 in the corresponding month a year ago, the bureau of statistics said today. Railway operating revenues in the month declined 1.1 per cent to $85,975,000 from $86,740,000.

The figures do not include railways with operating revenues of less than $500,000 annually, representing about one per cent of common railway carriers.

ORDERS REVIEW

OTTAWA (CP)—Northern Affairs Minister Lalor said Monday night he has ordered a "complete review" of the federal aid given to last year's Davison City Gold Rush Festival.

Mr. Lalor said the review was prompted into the festival project, a large portion of it to restore the "Palace Grand" which the Palace Grand staged the premiere of a Broadway-bound musical, Fox.

OPEN THURSDAY
Telephone: Becomes: 4444
Movie "Star" in "A Man Amwers"

Who Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone is not likely to ever though this machine object with such "live" attributes, ever would become a movie "star". Yet obvious it has.

Both the life of the picture and the key plot device of "A Man Amwers," which opens Thursday at the Park Theatre, for three days only, make the telephone a star. Without it, Sandra Dee, playing an unhappy bride, could not set in motion the chain of events that leads Bobby Darin, who plays her valiant playboy husband, could Darin set in motion the fabulous counterplot which involves Sandra, Michelle Pfeiffer, John Lund and Cesar Romo.

At Universal, where "A Man Amwers" was made under the production genius of Ross Hunter, the telephone has been integral in a number of comedy hits in succession. First there was "Pillow Talk," which Hunter produced and to a degree credited with comedy's current romantic comedy style; then came "The Grass Is Greener," "Come September," "Lover Come Back" and "That Touch of Mink," in all of which telephone situations played a major role.

Hunter also has used the telephone as a plot device in out-and-out drama in further the plot. In both "Portrait in Black" and "Midnight Lace," the telephone was the key to the plot.

A color feature, "A Trip to Disneyland" and a cartoon complete the all color show.

Bud Hackett Explains How To Lose Weight, Don't Eat

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Last November, comedian Bud Hackett was playing before a night club audience in Philadelphia when he felt a constriction in his chest.

"I was all tied up," he recalls. "The first thing I thought was that I was getting scared of audiences. I was afraid I was the thinnest patient there; one guy had lost 77 pounds in three weeks. When I broke 200, I went to a doctor in Florida. He said, 'Look, this is a warning. If you don't lose weight, you'll die.'"

Bud dropped into town before his night club dates in New York to his buddies from "A Man Amwers," a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World, and the spunky beard he has grown, some scarcely recognized him. The wacky Hackett identified himself.

STILL TITS FIT
"Funny thing," he observed. "I got one suit I used to wear before and now it fits me fine."

At The Belle

Real creative talent bring "Boccaccio 70" to the screen

A true talent of creative mind is responsible for Joseph L. Levine's latest production, "Boccaccio 70," arriving today at the Belle Theatre.

Three outstanding, beautiful and talented actors—Loren, Anita Ekberg and Tony Schneider each dominate the production of this Boccaccio Color production.

In order to create the mood and atmosphere he desired, Levine's "Boccaccio 70," actually built a luxury apartment which cost a half-million. Henry Schickel is Vincent's star in this Embassy Pictures production.

For furnishing Village, the film has a new and valuable art collection and borrowed pictures from friends. Consequently the production includes a new set, two Aubusson tapestries, Chippendale and Catalina paintings.

Levine—conscious director also paid close attention to Miss Schneider's appearance. Her styling was by Leonard Paris by Coco Chanel and her hair was by Leonard Paris by Coco Chanel.

To enhance the complete color show, today at the Belle the presentation of "The Boccaccio 70" in color multiple—real entertaining novel and "Mystery Cat Dance," a funny Warner Bros. production.

The daily matinee begins at 2:00. Endings one complete show will be presented starting at 7:30 the feature offering "Boccaccio 70" begins at 8:00 p.m. at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Wildly Abbreviated Dramas Becoming More Popular

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most fascinating developments of television in the minute-to-minute drama is the popularity of the abbreviated drama.

There's a reason why these little dramas are becoming more popular than ever in the commercial areas there is in them.

There's the worried bride whose husband is missing, or the man who is being kidnapped, or the man who is being kidnapped, or the man who is being kidnapped.

These speedy little dramas—complete with conflict and happy endings—are commercial staples of the Madison Avenue "sitcom" era.

CBS has lined up former producer Eisenhower, a man of letters and a man of letters, as a special broadcast July 10, discussing world issues.

Minister Scandal Hurts British Tories

Pofofuro Admits Illicit Relations With Model

LONDON (CP)—The British government's chances for re-election reached a new low today as a result of a personal scandal involving a cabinet minister.

John Pofuro, Prime Minister of the Conservative Party, admitted last night that he had had an illicit relationship with a model, Christine Keeler.

PREPARED DRUG PLAN ENDORSED BY DRUGGISTS

1,040 Stores Will Be in First Group

SUBURBY (CP) - Ontario druggists will launch a prepared drug plan July 1 costing $2.5 a month for a family with three children.

The Green Shield Plan—being a pilot project in Windsor for five years ago—was approved Wednesday by about 3,000 delegates to the Ontario Pharmaceutical Association convention.

The plan will begin in 1966 drug stores will be required to cross the province. It will cost $1.50 for each adult and $0.75 for each child under 12 years of age.

The plan is intended to preserve the independence of the pharmacy profession in an eventuality of a "national medical care" scheme, said one of its designers.

A. W. Whitmore of Windsor said the plan would not be eventually be included in all government programs.

MUST DECIDE
He told delegates: "You must make a decision right now as to whether the pharmacist is going to run pharmacy or be a pharmacist."

He said in an interview he did not think that drug retailers themselves were too high.

USE SPEECH
MOSCOW (AP) - The four-member committee of the Premier Pofuro in Havana, Wednesday started in a series of talks with the official Communist party newspaper, with a full page of the paper ending with the classic "to be continued."

PROPOSED TO PRODUCE FILMS ON THE COMMITMENT

A-Arms in Question

OTTAWA (CP)—The House of Commons passed a motion by a vote of 140 to 64 Wednesday, but not one was more than the action will bring.

The motion was sponsored by Stanley Knowles (NDP)—Winnipeg North Centre—and asked the government to produce any document that would prove that the former Progressive Conservative government committed Canada to acquire nuclear weapons.

External Affairs Minister Martin said such documents do exist, but it might endanger national security to make them public in this context.

After a heated exchange with Opposition leader Lester B. Pearson, who revived the hottest issue of the day, a division campaign, Mr. Martin said he would consider the possibility of producing a summary or extracts from the classified documents.

Mr. Diefenbaker repeated his view that his government never had a commitment to take on nuclear warheads. He objected strongly to the reservations as to the document.

Yanks Lose Wattle For Six Weeks

-Breaks Bone In Foot-

By MIKE RATHY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Mantle's cast reached from his toes to his knee (he is depicted) in the eighth inning, quite possibly to the heart of New York Yankees.

As the Yankees' home run champion in the 1950s, Mantle's cast reached from his toes to his knee (he is depicted) in the eighth inning, quite possibly to the heart of New York Yankees.

Decisions estimate the injury may fracture the left metatarsal bone, a small bone running across the top of the foot—may keep the Yankees playing out of the world championship lineup for as long as six weeks.

And while no player on the Yankees is indispensable, there is little doubt that the man in pinstripes is a really all-around player. Mantle's injury, which was a result of a home run he hit in the eighth inning of the game, was a serious blow to the Yankees.

MISSED 30 GAMES
Last year Mantle missed 30 games during May and June and the Yankees struggled to win a .500 pace. When he returned to the lineup, they erupted almost immediately into their 1962 pennant in the last 16 games. The injury has been much the same this year.

Charged with a rib cage injury, Mantle missed nine games. The Yankees lost five. The Yankees' record in the last 16 games was 10-6. Mantle's injury has been much the same this year.

The injury came as Mantle ran into the center field win fence—there is no warning cast at Memorial Stadium—when he caught a home run hit by the Orioles' Brooks Robinson. His spikes became entangled in the wire as he backed up for the ball and he let foot twisted and he fell.

While the Yankees were losing Mantle and beating Baltimore, Chicago White Sox last night had an opportunity to take over first sweep over Los Angeles Angels. The White Sox won the opener 5-0 but lost the nightcap 5-4.

TWINS MOVE UP
Elsewhere, Minnesota Twins continued to move up by downing Kansas City 4-0 and Detroit Tigers edged Cleveland Indians 5-4. The Boston-Washington game was rained out.

Mantle, plagued by osteomyelitis, an inflammatory bone disease—since his teens, is known for his late-season homers and taped-up legs. He has been plagued by various ailments throughout his career.

Speaking of the injury that could be his most serious in his medical history, Mantle said, "I really don't know what happened. I don't even know whether I jumped; I may have stepped into the fence as he backed into it."

Said manager Ralph Houk: "We had to meet with all six athletes to lay down and die." Houk made his comment in the clubhouse after the Yankees' 5-0 win over the Orioles.

Cannifon Clips

Jones Motors By 8-1 Score

Cannifon Clippers clipped the Belleville Jones Motors 8-1 in a South Hastings 5-4 in a Lakeshore Baseball club played in the Littleport City night.

The loss was Belleville's first in four outings and sets the stage for what should be a thriller when the same clubs meet in Belleville Friday night at nine o'clock.

The game was a free-wheeling affair for the first three innings with the lead changing hands several times. Kennons went in front 2-1 in the first, 6-3 in the fifth and 5-4 in the sixth but could not hold the lead.

Pete Ayotte slammed a home run over the right field fence to square matters at 5-5 in the eighth and neither club scored in the ninth.

Belleville ran into trouble early in the tenth when Bill Fordy was hit by a pitch and a walk. Fordy was hit by a pitch and a walk. Fordy was hit by a pitch and a walk.

Flyers Nip Trudeau's 3-2

By GARY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

TRUDEAU—Billy Mitts, pitcher for the Flyers, threw a perfect nine, striking three batters in the bottom of the ninth inning last night to prevent the ACAC Flyers from a thrilling 3-2 victory over the Canadiens Motors in H and H, Montreal night.

For the Flyers the win was their third in as many games for Trudeau, and pitcher Doug Ellis, the loss was a heartbreaking one.

Trudeau led 2-0 from the third inning on and Ellis had pitched beautiful ball all night.

He faltered slightly in the sixth, however, and Mitts made him regret it with one mighty swing.

Kills fanned Girard to open the inning and walked home. Drak hit one back to the mound and Ellis threw badly to second, attempting to cut off the lead runner. Mitts then slammed the ball completely out of the park to win the game.

An error on McGuire's ground ball opened the door for Trudeau's runner. Ellis advanced on a passed ball and scored on Normen's two out single back through the center. Duggan followed with a single, to left for the 2-0 count.

Both teams threatened a couple of times, a double play, broke at Blanchard, crashing.

JOHNSTOWN

JOHNSTOWN (CP) - Will circulate in the Soviet Union laugh at clown routines born and raised in Toronto?

Herman Spetlich says he's sure they will—and he speaks with a certain authority, having performed for Soviet audiences in the past.

Spetlich, 28, German-born, a Canadian citizen who now calls Toronto his home, is going to Russia this summer to perform as a clown with the first full-scale American circus to tour the Soviet Union.

He plans to take with him medicine and comedy gimmicks he began developing while playing for critical audiences at the German Club in Toronto.

"The German people are tough audience," Spetlich says. "Because they have entertained me 10 years ago in the band at the German Club and tried out my clown days there, I got whistled—booed—but not anyone."

Herman, who has the single name of Spetlich, was born in Poland, and grew up in East Germany. Later, with proper legal papers—he moved to West Germany in 1937 and then to Canada as an immigrant, settling in Toronto.

His trade was as an electrician in Germany, but he has been a performer since he was a child and is, out of curiosity, now a clown. His mother was a singer until she died when he was 10. As a youth, he had his husband in the Second World War and retired to raise her three sons, and so uncle as a comedian.

The uncle put Herman on as a clown in 1937 and when he was 15. As a youth, he had his husband in the Second World War and retired to raise her three sons, and so uncle as a comedian.

Students in Territories Learning by Experience

By ALLEN SACKMANN

YELLOWKNIFE, N. W. T. (CP)—"Experience is the best teacher" is the old adage that's put to practical use at the Sir Franklin School in this community on the north shore of Great Slave Lake.

Indian and Eskimo boys learn vocational training about buildings, repair cars, operate bulldozers and drive trucks. They're during the school year, but they get training during the summer months too.

While most of the 60 students taking vocational training are Eskimo or Indian, there are also a few white boys. The students come from all parts of the Northwest Territories, to learn the three R's and, more recently, to learn how to make a living.

D. H. (Dusty) Miller, school co-ordinator at the school, decided last summer to start giving practical experience to the boys who wished to stay in Yellowknife. Through co-operation of local businessmen and government departments, the boys obtained summer jobs using the school's facilities.

ALL GIVEN JOBS

About 60 boys — all who wanted to stay and work — were given jobs, and a similar number will be working in the town again this summer.

They give them job training they require in this time economy of today," said Mr. Miller.

The extra summer program means extra work for the teachers. They provide guidance and act as a buffer between the employers and the students.

Purpose of the program is to prepare the boys for summer employment after school. They can no longer rely on the land for a livelihood, and must be taught the fundamentals of holding a job.

"They're not used to being responsible or punctual, and they have to learn to take their jobs seriously," Mr. Miller explained.

The boys usually receive the normal wages for the jobs they do, but Mr. Miller said the main reward is experience, not money. On the other hand, if interested in applying it.

LEARN NEW LIFE

No all part of interaction into the wage economy, he said. While social integration is also important, that will follow naturally when the boys have assumed their position in the community.

If difficulties are noticed, the teacher talks with the boys and the employer — separately — to iron out the problems.

The boys won't talk to employer what's bothering them; they'll suddenly quit. We try to prevent ill feelings from building up.

The teachers also find the boys good people to live, and try to keep them from developing bad social habits.

As a regular school program the boys have almost completed their largest project to date. They built a structure, 30 ft by 80 ft, to house the Museum of the North.

This took three years with about 40 students working on the construction. They did it all — carpentry, wiring, painting, excavating, building the furnace and installing the plumbing.

They were supervised by Mr. Miller, who valued it at $40,000.

While the say northern boys may say so, "we can tell they're pretty proud of the job," said Mr. Miller.

WANT FEDERATION

Nairobi, Kenya (Reuters)—The heads of government of Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda have declared their determination to "set up a political federation of East African states by the end of 1965."

The declaration was issued Wednesday in a statement by Kenya Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta, Tanzania President Julius Nyerere and Uganda Prime Minister Milton Obote, who met here.

Commissioner Ready to Assist Ratepayers

WINDSOR, ON (CP)—Windsor Public Utilities Commissioner Fred Burr said Tuesday he would ask fellow commissioners for facts and figures concerning correction expenses account if he is approached by the Windsor Ratepayers' Association — a citizen group claiming irregularities in convention expense accounts.

The WPA Monday night presented a brief to city council asking that Windsor lawyer A. B. MacMillan be appointed by council to inspect the books and records of the PUC.

The association will present in its brief that letters and personal representations to the commission asking permission to examine the records had been met by a 6-1 vote of commissioners that they first be paid before the ledger were made available.

Seal Nosachuk, solicitor for the group, told council the commission said the $600 included $300 to cover the cost of a previous investigation, and a $300 deposit for the proposed probe.

Mr. Nosachuk said his group refused to pay that amount, and he quoted a section of the Ontario Utilities Act which states:

"... Such books and records shall be open to inspection by any person appointed for that purpose by council."

Mr. Burr said he had attended a PUC convention in Toronto in March and was given a tour by the PUC as expenses for attending the three-day meeting.

He said on the return he mailed back to the commission $25 which he did not use.

"If I just didn't have the background for that sort of living to use all the money," he said, "So I returned the part."

Model's Affairs New Headache For Macmillan Queen Being Brought Into Political Row

LONDON (CP) — News that Mrs. Winston John Profumo sometimes visited his mistress Christine Keeler on the same day as a suspected Russian spy today heightened the security aspects of Britain's "scandal."

The 25-year-old model made the revelation herself in a five-page interview with the Daily Express, she said she never saw "Jack" Profumo and enjoyed attacks on the "Yew-green" (Bugsy) from the same day.

The Conservative government's crisis over the case accounted, the security minister, Lord Canning, said, for concerns of national security or even Profumo's admission that he had been in contact with the Russians.

As the scandal bubbled up, Profumo was accused of having been involved in a plot to overthrow the government. He was charged with being a traitor to the crown and with being a spy for the Russians.

There has been no sugges-is planning to prosecute Profumo. He is being allowed to remain in the country.

One of the boys was missing
April 20, two others May 5 and the fourth May 25. Police have been unable to locate the boys despite intense investigation.

However, a 42-year-old man who was questioned Thursday was undergoing questioning by police detectives.

The boys were last seen in the Plains of Abraham area near the city of Quebec. The police are now looking for the

CHIEF CHARGES CANADA TAKES OFFENSIVE ROLE NATO Bombers Under Attack

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister Diefenbaker said Canada is assuming an aggressive, offensive role in the Western alliance by supplying NATO bombers in Europe with nuclear bombs.

The Conservative opposition leader made the charge Thursday as the Commons debated a vote — expected sometimes — on the Liberal government's proposal to set up an air-peace defense commission.

Prime Minister Pearson will

SAFETY, CARE AND PROTECTION FOR YOUR HOME

Many Insurance Types Available To Protect Interest of Owner

Insurance, of one form or another, must be a major consideration for anyone thinking of buying or building a house. There are many different kinds of insurance available to the home owner, and the investment. This type that first comes to mind is fire insurance. If you own an $100,000 house, it must be protected by fire insurance for at least an amount at least equal to the sum. For example, if you own a $100,000 house you will need a $100,000 fire insurance policy on your property.

In case of fire damage, the homeowner should be aware that the insurer, has first claim to the insurance money. It is strongly advisable therefore, to have fire insurance coverage to the extent needed to protect your own investment in the house, as well as the lender's.

Fire insurance policies are normally renewable for three years. Your mortgage booklet should also include savings towards payment of your fire insurance premium. Your lender will usually send you a reminder before the expiration date of your policy, asking you to look after it.

If a fire should occur you notify the lender as well as the insurance company. Of course, the thought of fire is a most unpleasant one, but the best means of avoiding fire in your home is to follow the elementary rules of fire prevention. Your insurance or your local fire department will be glad to supply you with literature on fire prevention upon request.

Fire insurance provides you with one kind of protection, but there are also other kinds of insurance available to the home owner.

It is possible, for example, to make it possible to have the balance of the mortgage debt insured through mortgage insurance. This type of protection

Steel Cabinets Take On Glamorous Look

Not too many years ago, when the thought of steel cabinets in the kitchen in terms of antiquity might have seemed a little odd. These days, when home and modern steel cabinets are available in a variety of styles and colors, it is possible to have the balance of the mortgage debt insured through mortgage insurance. This type of protection

New, Low-Cost Material For Sound Conditioning

A low cost sound control system particularly good for family dwellings has been introduced by John-Mac "Soundex," may be used in wall and floor construction. "Soundex" is a combination of fibreglass and foam, which provides a level of sound transmission from room to room in walls, with a choice of six inches in between.

It may, "Soundex" may be used with standard construction, staggered stud construction, or staggered stud construction with an air space. It is also available in two, three or four-layer construction.

Closets Important Additions

Closets should be more than "holes in the wall" with doors. Closets should have racks, shelves, drawers, and drawers with everything in its place — a place for everything.

Well-designed closets are hard to come by in new homes. With a little planning, you can create a closet to suit your needs.

Pre-plan the best dimensions for the closet, including the door, the hanging area, and the drawers.

Both fire insurance and personal liability protection are available for your home.

The modern simplicity and beauty of wood gives well-built closets a custom look. Beautifully crafted, flexible wood harmonizes and enhances the home owner's taste.

In a family or multi-purpose room, built permanent storage for books, records, and other items.

A built-in sewing cabinet with a drop-down ironing board is a useful addition to the home.

Thanks to the combination of steel's durability with roomings as nylon rollers, the drawers won't stick, and doors shut tight on magnetic catches.

HOME OF THE WEEK

No 456 1104 SQ. FT.

Given a limited building site, the best solution is the storage and a half or two story plan. In this particular design you can start out with a two bedroom one story home. The upstairs bedrooms and bath can be added later if necessary, especially if you have provided for the future expansion in the design structure. The living-dining-kitchen area is large enough for a bedroom family, there is plenty of cupboard in the kitchen and sitting room is about eight. Stairs to upper floor, linen closet and side entrance are included for easy traffic circulation. House is brick veneer with details for building in applied brick or frame are supplied. Design could be built on a very narrow lot (less than 40 feet) but of course would require a lot wider lot if an attached garage was to be included.

Standard bedroom sizes for this design are 12' x 14' for the first and 12' x 12' for the second. They are available in Canada by return mail. (Available to local good players studies.)

Concrete Masonry Is Ideal For Outdoor Living Room

What is often referred to as "outdoor living room" is an outdoor space — can, with imagination and professional guidance, double the appeal of your home and, for most homes have an added latent possibility of increasing its attractiveness, instead of being a dead end. Not only can it be planned outdoors, it can be planned on a raised platform, or even on a hillside. It can be a "living room" in the truest sense of the word — a place where you can relax, entertain, and enjoy the outdoors. It can be a "living room" in the truest sense of the word — a place where you can relax, entertain, and enjoy the outdoors.

Most popular among the outdoor set is probably the patio. It is a simple and economical. However, it is not the only way to create an outdoor living room. There are many other ways to create an outdoor living room.

Another popular way to create an outdoor living room is by using concrete masonry. Concrete masonry is a versatile material that can be used to create a wide variety of outdoor living room designs.

Family Pool No Longer In Luxury Class

More and more American families are "pooling" their summer pleasure right in their own backyards.

The trend toward broadscale ownership of private swimming pools is dramatically pointed up by these figures: As recently as 1940, the total number of permanent residential pools in the United States was only 5,000. Since then the boom in home swimming pools has boosted the number, until last year, over 100,000 pools constructed last year swelled the total to more than 250,000.

That's still less than one pool per 200 households. But it's a far cry from the days not so long ago when only politicians or Hollywood stars could boast their own swimming pool.

AFFORDABLE PRICES

The fact is that the private swimming pool, once a luxury item, may now be purchased at a price that almost any homeowner can afford.

People have been coming down over the years largely due to improvement in construction methods. At the same time, the money that people have available for their leisure has increased tremendously, as has their liking for it.

Permanent in the ground pools are available today for as little as $800, fully installed. The average pool, however, costs closer to $2,500, and the new construction methods that triggered the upsurge in the ownership of residential pools began with the introduction of precast concrete slabs of a hose, rather than by pouring concrete.

VINYL POOL LINES

Finally came the pool liner which was made by extruding a sheet of the desired pool, making a supporting structure beneath it.

Somewhere between the expensive vinyl pool and the precast concrete pool is a pool that fits the bill as a pool that is both permanent and of a hose, rather than by pouring concrete.

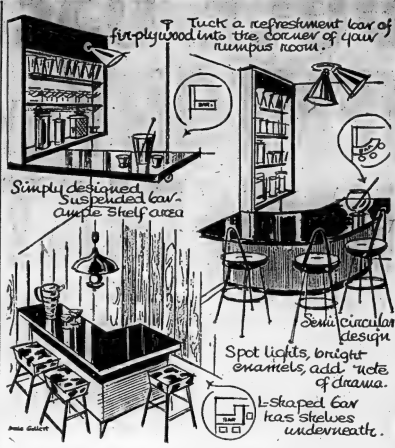

The minimum width for a precast pool is 15 feet. If you intend to have a precast pool, you will need a 20 x 40 foot pool of average depth, with diving board, will accommodate 14 people at the same time.

Have you ever been distressed, watching your husband or wife, the pretty serving trays you painted, handing out drinks to guests as though he were a waiter?

Here's a crafty way to show him the three attractive versions above a doorway, mid-lidway, help him to visualize himself, the bartender of Distinction behind it, and then await developments. Something's almost certain to happen.

Ceiling and Roof Assembly Helps Brace Exterior Walls

The roof of a conventional house, whether supported by masonry or frame walls, is built in the same general fashion. The framing members of the ceiling and roof assembly are the ceiling joists and rafters. Ceiling joists are the horizontal members; rafters are the roof's slope. Where the roof is flat, or has only a gentle slope, rafters and joists may be combined, with one member serving both functions. In this case they are called roof joists.

Ceiling joists generally do not have to be as heavy as floor joists, as they normally carry less weight. The main purpose of ceiling joists is to provide lateral bracing for the rafters.

Ceiling joists are sometimes designed to carry part of the load of the roof. Under these conditions the lumber selected for the joists has to be wider than would otherwise be necessary. However, if the roof joists are used as an attic storage space, the ceiling joists must be designed as floor joists and cross bracing or other bracing should be provided.

The ends of ceiling joists on the top plate of the wall and bearing joists in the roof frame construction, the top plate is part of the wall assembly. In solid masonry construction, the top plate is attached to the top of the masonry, or by anchoring it with bolts embedded in the concrete, as is done with the concrete.

Sometimes, the interior ends of the ceiling joists are supported by means of joist hangers. In this case, the joists are instead of resting on the top plate. This is often the case when the central partition is not continued across the roof to the opposite wall. The joists are then replaced by a batch or ceiling in the ceiling is attached to it.

Where there is a roof space, a batch or ceiling in the ceiling is attached to it.

Fibreglass Paneling Is Versatile

A versatile building material that can be used in any room or area and for a variety of remodeling or improvement projects is reinforced fibre glass paneling.

Light in weight and easily handled and installed by do-it-yourselfers or professional contractors, this paneling lends itself to creative use.

Among its numerous interior applications are room dividers, screens, windows or shutters, shower enclosures, decorative walls and ceilings, sliding or swinging doors, seats and entrance ramps.

Decorative possibilities of fibreglass paneling have been multiplied by the recent introduction of designers' sheets in which various patterns and designs are created by permanent finishing material like fern, butterfly, gold leaf and other fabrics into the panels.

Other design simulate street scenes or colored stained glass.

The panels' decorative and functional features are matched by the advantages of durability and ease of care. They are shatterproof and moisture resistant, and are resistant to occasional wiping with a damp cloth or sponge is all the cleaning usually required.

The panels may be worked with ordinary hand tools. A fine tooth saw should be used for cutting. Edges may be filed or sanded.

Nursing Home Is Approved By Council

DESERONTO — There was not the attendance for the regular meeting of the town council on Monday night there was for the number of special sessions called during the latter part of the month. There were only five citizens present instead of the fifty or better that were seen at the other meetings.

A request for a permit for a nursing home on Mill St. was received from Dorothy Morton R.N. and a motion of approval was made for a hearing for the establishing of a nursing home in town.

A petition was received from a number of residents of Mill St. concerning repairs to a drain on that street and this was referred to the street committee.

A letter concerning the establishment of a Health Unit for Hastings County was received and filed. Howe Lott advised that the matter had been before the session of County Council and he said that the members from the northern section of the county were only laborers for the idea.

In committee reports Council Affairs suggested the purchase of a light truck for the mayor at the next meeting.

The streets committee reported on repairs to the drain at the corner of Dundas and St. George Streets and claimed it was the duty of the town to pay that plagued the drain.

The streets department were given authority to request a loan to the amount of $2000 and the first project was to be a section of Main Street from French to the bank building on the south side of Main.

The use of the tractor was also discussed to the Athletic Association to level the ball field. The fire and police committees and the town property are to secure permits for the repair of the drain tower at the corner of Dundas and St. George.

Councillor Marks suggested and moved that council should consider the Health Unit to be a doubt could be secured for the town. R. Lott said he would like to see the matter discussed.

M. E. Jones was notified by the Cemetery Board to replace O. Pfister who recently resigned.

Councillor Alford told of the action of the Boundary Commission and asked that the committee be contacted.

He said the charge must stem from a misunderstanding. The officers of the 24 man fire force in the French River area are being withdrawn and that 1700 unemployed workers are coming in from the States.

Greene, Gelin, Colicos Numbered Among Graduates Of Dominion Drama Festival

By RONALD LEE

OTTAWA (CP)—The 1953 drama playwriting award in 1953 for Zone and presented their original plays in succeeding years. Paul Harding of London, Ont., best actor in the 1953 festival, has already appeared in several CBC television productions.

James Miller of Vancouver, a veteran of the London stage who appeared at the 1951 Stratford festival, was the best actor award at the 1953 festival.

John Gelin, a native of Moose Jaw, Sask., participated in several television dramas in the United States, was best actor in the 1953 festival.

Richard MacDonald, national director of the Dominion Drama Festival, estimates that approximately 150 performers in last year's festival have carved out successful stage and screen careers.

The majority of the others found their way into business or the professions but retained their interest in amateur drama. Festival alums include such well-known personalities as Louise Green, Gratien Gelina and John Colicos.

Green, born in Ottawa 48 years ago, did not win any festival awards but appeared at the 1954 and 1957 festivals. He went on to become a CBC newscaster during the Second World War, a stage and movie actor and a prominent figure in the popular American television series Ben Hur.

GELINAS' STARS APPEAR Gelin, the Montreal actor, director and playwright, acted in one of the plays presented at the first festival, held in Ottawa in 1952. He now is the central figure of a bilingual theatre company in Montreal.

Colicos, the young Toronto actor who will play a lead role in this year's Stratford Shakespeare Festival, won the best actor award at the 1951 drama festival. He has appeared in many productions on Broadway and in London's West End.

Drama Festival officials do not claim the credit for turning out star after star, but they like to think that the festival was one of the steps in the rise of actors to successful careers.

They keep this unofficially on the program of their alumni. This is the rundown on some of the more outstanding: Paul Soles of London, Ont., a member of a CBC television panel show and a television and stage actor, won the best actor award at the 1950 festival.

Paul Soles of London, Ont., is a member of a CBC television panel show; Marcel Dubé, a prominent Montreal playwright; Judith Evelyn of Moose Jaw, Sask., has appeared in U.S. television drama; Gratien Gelina, actor, director and playwright, is the central figure of a bilingual theatre company in Montreal.

Hospital for Sick Plants Run By Halifax Sheet Metal Worker

HALIFAX (CP) — House plant fanciers with a sick-an-sweaty or ailing indoor plant can get expert consultation from Edmund Mulrhead, a 57-year-old, Halifax sheet metal worker.

Mulrhead, who spends every possible moment with his horticulture hobby, has turned his greenhouse in nearby Fall River into a plant hospital.

"The idea started," says Mr. Mulrhead, "when so many friends and relatives began asking what to do with such and-such a plant that didn't seem to be doing well."

Then people began bringing plants for Mr. Mulrhead to examine. The Mulrhead thump has been "green" and experimental as long as he can remember.

The Mulrheads and their three children gave up poultry farming and restaurant operations in England to come to Canada in 1949.

"We had read so much about the advantages and opportunities offered in Canada that we decided to try it," said Mr. Mulrhead. "We haven't been disappointed."

REAL GARDENERS Both Mr. and Mrs. Mulrhead brought with them an insatiable appetite for good gardening, partly the trying of new and more exotic varieties of flowers and vegetables.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mulrhead came on Saturday after visiting Edwards Memorial Hospital in Fitch.

Mrs. E. Crook spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Charles Crook and Mr. Hugh at Belleville.

BOMBER OFFERED SALE FIERHBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Summer month heavyweight bomber champion Joe Louis owned the 13th annual spring sale of the Quebec Bell Gulls Association. Forty-two head of cattle were sold at an average price of $40.

Their experiments in cross-breeding have involved beginning seed from Japan, Australia and Europe and said to be acceptable in date of those suffering stomach ailments. Mr. Mulrhead has also produced a cucumber weighing 96 inches in maturity.

Many of the less hearty plants can be cross-bred to produce varieties suitable to the Canadian climate, Mr. Mulrhead believes.

U.K. to Raise Shore Limits

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain is preparing to push its present three-mile offshore fishing limit to six or possibly 12 miles because of political pressure from fishery interests.

If it does so, it will follow some other Northern Atlantic nations who regard fish up to 12 miles offshore as part of their natural resources.

Deputy Foreign Minister Edward Heath announced that in May and June, 1963, Britain will renounce two international conventions limiting British fishing rights to three miles off shore.

But he plans to hold a meeting this fall of West European countries to try to reach international agreement on the problem.

At present, Iceland and Norway and the Danish — owned Faroe Islands have extended their limits but all have given Britain temporary permission to fish six miles offshore.

"Other North Atlantic countries, with strict fishing close inshore and their economies dependent on fish, have extended their fishing limits," he said.

Unilateral action, however, has forced Britain also to act. "Canada has extended its fishing limit but has indicated it intends to extend this to 12 miles."

Britain has decided to reserve the right to extend its limit of sea outside the present three-mile limit.

The extension is likely to be up to at least six miles, and possibly further increase up to 12 miles.

British fishermen are worried about what will happen when the new foreign limits are re-enforced because nearly half of Britain's white fish supplies are caught in foreign fishing grounds.

Switching to other areas such as the White Sea and Bear Island, north of the Arctic Circle, would mean travelling twice the distance.

At any international meeting, Britain has one powerful lever, that is its disposal of 100,000 tons of fish a year.

At times an estimated 1,000 foreign ships have come to fish in British waters, but the British fleet has operated close to home.

Germany, France, Belgium and Holland, and along with white fish, catch herring, mackerel, pilchard and sardines.

Experts say that the settlement at the fall meeting would bring order to North Atlantic fishing resources developed the way for world-wide peace.

Though military defied put an end to the complex fishery military question.

Necessities Still Scarce In Congo's Elisabethville

By DAVID DONAVIA

ELISENBVILLE, T.C. — (Reuters) — Drunkenness has become a problem in the Congo because of the shortage of necessities.

At the immigration hot near the Rhodesian border officials demand a Congolese visa issued and authorized by the Congo government but stamp the passport "Exit to Katanga" (State of Katanga).

In Elisabethville the marks of the recurring fighting of the last few years are still in evidence.

Hotel accommodation is virtually nonexistent. The meals are modest and restaurants periodically close down for lack of supplies.

In what was once a famous resort town, the dining rooms are empty.

The approach roads to the city are littered with mortars and shells not yet fired.

Violence has not disappeared from the Katanga capital.

A nervous soldier shoots down a passerby in a crowded street; a demented and resentful policeman with a carbine takes on a station of United Nations troops; a sniper kills a civilian.

Such incidents keep the town in a state of continuing alarm, though on the surface life seems normal enough.

Utilities working. Water, electricity and other public services are functioning normally.

But packs of vengeful dogs roam the streets, driving the night might against and bearing the scars of the past.

Many Young Canadians Hope to Conquer Piano

By JACK HUTTON

Last week I sat down with thousands of young people trying to conquer the same thing — a piano.

This weekend we're all in the same boat: waiting with fear and trembling to hear the examiner laugh when we sit down to play.

Speaking for the others, may I assure you about one thing: sitting down at a piano before a total stranger who has her or her pencil poised isn't the easiest thing in the world.

I sat in a little room awaiting my exam (Grade 10, Conservatory of Music in Toronto) two girls came in.

One was accompanied — by a mother who looked much older than her daughter in a misadventure, "What was it?" she asked.

It seemed that only about 10 minutes had passed, but the examiner had said, "All right, sit down, and play."

The other girl, the slightly venerated in the world of piano exercises and agonies, insisted that her nails first be made sure during her 30-minute exam, "No trouble," she said. "The first time was in A major."

The first girl laughed proudly. Her mother bowed, and my newspaper, trying not to offend, was further behind.

Each knew, I didn't know all the help of one of Canada's finest pianists and teachers, Earle Moss (watch out for him, B.C. this week) didn't know the fact that this exam was the first for me in about 10 years.

My name was called and I greeted the girl by giving her a look just as nonchalant as mine. The examiner smiled at me. "Good luck," she said.

The examiner was a tall, slender man with a friendly, reassuring smile. "You're looking bright and cheerful for the time of morning," he said. "I must think it was a first for me in about 10 years."

As he placed through my list of music, I began the examination of a Beethoven sonata. As at all the piano, a friend with firm but easy tone.

"That fine," said the examiner. "Go on to the next movement." Almost immediately, I thought I hadn't had a chance to show off the ending of the first movement. A few minutes later, I was in the second.

In a while, we went through a sonata with Chopin, the "Lullaby" by Brahms, by Ernest Sate, three technique exercises and a Bach prelude and fugue, playing only one half the way through.

"When I visited the project last week for the first time, I was amazed to see the number of high school students there, sitting at a table as if they were in a classroom."

TEEN HUMOR

Maybe my sense of humor is eroding a bit more every day, but I've felt like a War of 1812 veteran trying to understand the new "relephant" jokes.

Have you heard them? Sample lines: "Why do elephants have fat bellies because they get fat from bumping around the trunk?" Or this one: "Why are elephants afraid of the moon?"

This trade to the final line, the "relephant" jokes are out. The answer is that elephants jump out of the trees in those boxes.

Sound reasonable.

Columbia Deadlock May End

Federal and British Columbia governments appear to be heading their differences over the proposed Columbia River power development treaty with the U.S.

About time, too. Canadian ratification has been hanging fire since the treaty was signed in Washington in 1961. Meanwhile potential power is going to waste.

The difficulty has been that the Federal and B.C. Governments could not agree over the content of Canada's share of power generated downstream, in U.S., as the result of construction of dams on Canadian soil.

Premier W. A. R. Bennett has been holding out for sale of power in U.S., meanwhile advocating development of the Peace River in the far northern part of the province. Latest reports from Ottawa seem to indicate that the Liberal regime now in power in Ottawa is prepared to accede to Bennett's proposals, if not in toto then in principle.

Recent events prove this evaluation of the situation correct. There may be one really engaged Liberal in the country and he is a man who once resented the Liberal party from a very tight position.

Chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission at the time of the Columbia River treaty was negotiated was General A. G. I. MacGillivray. For those to whom the days of General Grant War are merely history, we might explain that MacGillivray, who has been in command of the Canadian Army reserves, was named defence minister after Hon. J. G. Diefenbaker's death. He was re-appointed for Canadian troops in 1964. By maintaining that conscription was not necessary, MacGillivray saved the life of the Liberal government. However, he was defeated in an effort to win a seat in Parliament and was later appointed to his post on the International Joint Commission.

During the prolonged negotiations over the Columbia River treaty, the usual interpretation of his role was that he fought a long, stubborn and increasingly more stubborn battle to prevent adoption of a plan which would have given the U.S. with the lion's share of the power benefits. However, after his term of office on the Commission ended, he was far from happy with the treaty, still regarding it as designed to give the U.S. more than his share of power.

We do not need any special comments by him on the sale of Canadian power to the U.S., but his whole record suggests that it would encourage him. If this sale is now being made, it is a far cry from the fact that the party he resented from Conservative critics two decades ago will, so to speak, have sold him out the Columbia.

MacGillivray's resignation from the Commission was wrong at the time of his resignation. It was wrong at the time of his resignation to take an active role in opposing sale of power to the U.S., many Canadians will agree. It is extremely difficult, if not impossible, to "regulate" power once an agreement has been signed to sell it.

Who Is Listening?

The 16th issue of Maclean's magazine, Pierre Berton wrote some words which were martial sex relations, which, while unorthodox, could hardly have burst on any reader as a revelation of things unknown.

Many people are not as astute as Mr. Berton's temerity in shouting what custom demands should be discussed only in whispers.

As a result, Maclean's Magazine saw fit to discontinue Mr. Berton's services.

A second controversy was thus added to the first. Besides the debate on whether Mr. Berton's magazine was too much for the times, Maclean's should have asked what he did, and whether or not he was the business man who wrote there is now the argument as to whether the opposition to this article should have led to his dismissal.

Much of the argument is concerned with the effect of this article on teen-agers.

Nobody seems to have inquired how often seduction is prevented.

We suspect that a beautiful spring would do more to increase the incidence of pre-marital intercourse in teen-agers than a whole volume of Berton's prose.

Who takes Maclean's along when strolling down lover's lanes?

In order to feed the hungry it is necessary to produce more; this is the business of those who work; and it is necessary to know how to do that. This is the business of men of good will. — President de Gaulle.

Is a Fall Election Brewing? No Longer an Impossibility

By MICHAEL JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligence's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — How would you like to go through another Federal election campaign next September or October?

Maybe.

But there is talk of it.

You hear nothing of it, and you do not have to listen at a kitchen sink, either, to hear them say... that the new Liberal Government is planning to call a general election in the near future, appearing to force just such an election.

Where can you hear such a story?

For one place, in the office of a certain Minister of the Government. If you want to go to the office of a certain Minister of the Government, you can go to the office of a certain Minister of the Government.

The new Administration appears to feel that the political situation in 1963, with a little expertly carried out manipulation, could be made to look like a rout.

In any event, you will remember, the Conservatives, under Mr. Clark, the Conservative Minister of the Interior, the Conservatives have been in the Government since the last election.

Having established it firmly in the minds of the public that the Conservatives are not in a hurry to get out of the Government, they are now trying to get out of the Government.

OK "DEFEAT".

If the Conservatives are not in a hurry to get out of the Government, they are now trying to get out of the Government.

Husband as Healthy As Horse and Eats Like One

By JOSEPH G. MOHRER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Mohrer: You explain why my husband has been so healthy.

He never works very hard and he never has a bowl of cereal for breakfast. He eats like a horse at a desk all day.

For example, last night at dinner he had seven pork chops, mashed potatoes, corn, broccoli, peas and carrots, and a bowl of banana pie with whipped cream.

He read the paper for an hour and said he was starved. From then until bedtime he consumed four roast beef sandwiches and...

Then he was angry because I wouldn't fix sausage and eggs for breakfast. He said he was hungry. I'll fix the same story.

He is 27, 6 feet tall, weighs 175 lbs. He says there must be a reason for his eating habits. He doesn't really need so much food, could he be a human checkbook and...

I cut off your list of the evening meals, not to be a horse, but it would be worth the price of the body that it is to see a body that is not a horse.

Hunger and appetite are not the same thing. A horse is a horse of the body for food, appetite is a horse of the body for food.

It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food. It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food.

It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food. It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food.

It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food. It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food.

It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food. It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food.

It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food. It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food.

It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food. It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food.

It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food. It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food.

It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food. It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food.

It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food. It is not a horse of the body for food, it is a horse of the body for food.

ask henry

Dear Henry:

I am a boy of 12 and most every night I do dishes. I think I am able and willing to do anything I should be freed from dishes. Our family is of six, with three girls able to do dishes. SOAFY HANDS

Dear Soapy Hands:

I agree with you. The we men's job is in the kitchen doing dishes and the men's job is eating, cleaning and planning the garden, weeding the property, raking up the leaves, taking the garbage out, mowing the lawn and so on. If you will wait the men's job is not as much of your family will object to you having it.

HENRY

Dear Henry:

Do you think it was fair of my dad to not let me have any fireworks this year? My father says that it is very dangerous to have fireworks any year because he was almost made blind by fireworks. Do you think it is fair to postpone me?

RANDY

Dear Randy:

For the big fireworks go to public supervised display. To get the best fireworks go to public supervised display. To get the best fireworks go to public supervised display. To get the best fireworks go to public supervised display.

HENRY

Dear Henry:

I am 12, in grade eight, and I have no problem in school except my math. He spends all his time in class talking about food, food, food, his "poor self" and numerous other things. He frequently by himself up to whole day talking about how the inspector think he is the best teacher in the area.

FRIEND JACK

Dear Friend Jack:

In history class when your teacher starts to talk about his romantic relationships, have someone in your class put up his hand and ask if it's true that King Henry VIII beheaded a few of his dear wives.

In science class when he starts talking about food, someone should put up their hand and ask him if the calories are the most important thing in choosing food.

Keep kids and finally your teacher will see that you are interested in his lectures unless they are on the grade eight course.

Dear Henry:

I suppose I should be happy but we are a bit worried. Our son, who is 12, is working very hard for his exams. He never takes any breaks and he never has any fun. He wants to get a very high dividend. Do you think we have a problem?

HARD DRIVING

Dear Hard Driving:

He doesn't need a break and he won't break down. There is a lot to make and he'll get the crown. He wants his duties done. And he'll have fun.

Dear Henry:

For this I know think I like him, but I don't. He calls on me for school and waits for me after school. I am trying to figure a way to get him off my back. All my friends tell him I don't like him. What other way is there?

HOPING FOR A NEW WAY

Dear New Way:

Just because you are not madly in love with a boy it doesn't mean you can't be friends. Just go on living normally and greet him friendly like anybody else you are and be in love with.

HENRY

Dear Henry:

My girl friend and I have often been referred to as inseparable. We are the best of friends. However there is one boy in our class who concentrates on breaking up our friendship and leaving me out of everything.

I don't understand this because he is a boy and we are two girls. Just recently he had the nerve to form a committee of four to arrange something I know nothing about. This committee included himself, my girl friend, one of my good friends and his boy friend.

He knows very well that my girl friend and I like to do everything together and yet he goes on doing everything in his power to ruin everything we have built up in the past year.

What am I to do?

MAD AND HURT

Dear Mad and Hurt:

You and your girl friend are inseparable. She proved that by not insisting that you are a member of that committee. Don't complain about your girl friend separating, don't complain about the world boy.

Build yourself a fort with walls high and strong. This fort of self-control, self-reliance, courage and endurance will protect you from many attacks which everyone gets and which last a lifetime.

Norris Report On Labor Strike To Be Delayed

By ROBERT KYLE

OTTAWA (CP) — Publication of the long-awaited report on the Great Lakes labor strike has been delayed by the mechanical problem of printing enough copies to meet the expected demand, sources said Friday.

The report of Mr. Justice T. G. Norris on his seven-month investigation of violence and disruption in the lake shipping industry is expected to be a massive document.

Since several thousand copies will be needed, it has been decided to print the report, rather than microfilm it in smaller quantity.

This means the report may not be made public for at least two weeks, possibly longer.

Labor Minister Macbratney had informed the Commons that he expected to launch the report sometime this week. This has not been wiped out now by the decision to print the report for wide distribution.

The report is believed to include more than 200,000 words, about three times the size of an ordinary novel.

High-level efforts to resolve a pending labor dispute on the lakes have been suspended pending publication of the report.

HARBOR BY VIOLENCE — The dispute between the Seafarers International Union of North America (S.I.U.) and the Canadian Coast Guard has been marked by violence, strike and disruption of shipping.

It has reached the point now where the Canadian government is concerned about the effect of the shipping disruption on the trade between Canada and the United States and also on the historic principle of freedom of the seas.

The lake fight was discussed by Prime Minister Pearson and President Kennedy at their Ottawa Post meeting last month. It has also been the topic of top-level meetings in Ottawa and Washington involving Mr. Macbratney and U.S. Labor Secretary William Wirt, as well as President Claude Jodan of the Canadian Labor Congress and AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Once the Norris report is available, Mr. Macbratney will seek to report his discussions with Mr. Wirt and the top labor leaders of Canada and the United States.

The report is also expected to contain recommendations in the shipping and legislative action in Parliament. For this reason, the Norris report will move quickly into the cabinet for early study and possible priority action in the Commons.

of it but Mr. Diefenbaker and his colleagues would listen. There could be "nothing more stupid" than to refuse the northern ammunition for the nuclear carriers on which the Conservatives had spent $100,000,000 of the taxpayers' money.

SOURCE: OFFICE PEARSON

However, Mr. Pearson added, the Liberals hoped to find a more effective form of defense for Canada.

In the "next few months" the government would re-examine the nuclear bombing role of the RCAF air division in Europe.

Mr. Pearson said it was shameful for Mr. Diefenbaker to refer to the eight-squadron air division as "an insignificant nuclear force."

Mr. Diefenbaker's "abuse" against a one-squadron bomb on the CP-104 jetliner jet bomber was a definite waste.

Mr. Pearson said yes, if it were used to defend against attack. The air division would never be used for any other purpose.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINDFED WILSON
HUMMINGBIRD FAMILY

Have you ever found a hummingbird's nest? If not, you are in need of a change—the forlorn if birds? Don't expect to be able to follow a hummer with your eyes as it flies hither and thither. It is too quick moving for that, darting this way and that. And to find by searching eyes though you have a fair idea of its whereabouts, you want to observe. We must learn it to chase.

Why? Because this tiniest bird's nest in Canada is made of mud and sticks and plant debris held together with spider silk covered by feathers. It is 14 inches in diameter, and adds on a developing branch in such a way that it looks exactly like a knot or jump of green foliage. The sides roll upwards preventing the twin from falling out. The two eggs which are always laid on wheels and only in long looms.

Mother, takes entire charge of the home while father goes on his own. Have you a flower garden? You may have noticed that in mostly every garden there is a flower garden. You will see her holding her long, long bill to the heart of the flowers (the mother like red, red, red) for diminutive insects and snails for herself and the babies. She carries dinner to the nestlings and squirts it into their tiny throats.

Towards the end of August Mrs. Brimmer brings the children to the flowers, teaching them how to go about helping themselves to nectar. They look like small editions of their parents, even with light throats.

Fire Hazard Reduced To Normal by Rain

Forest fire hazard, which has been reduced to normal for this time of year, according to the Department of Lands and Forests officials at Toronto, scattered showers throughout the district over the weekend, was started by a fire in a field near the city.

One fire of about four miles north of Toronto, in the town of Leno, was being patrolled by fire fighters. The fire, which broke out over the weekend, was started by a fire in a field near the city.

Consideration of the number of people in the woods over the weekend, Lands and Forests officials feel themselves lucky to have just one fire to cope with. "The people must have been very careful," said one official, "and we'd like to think that they are in velvet."

WAY - ROSEBUSH

Rehearsal of yellow and white flowers was turned a lovely setting in the Thomas Anglican Church, Belleville, on Saturday, May 25, 1963, when Susan Elizabeth Rosebush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas E. Rosebush, Point Anne, was united in matrimony to Richard Kenneth Way, R.R. 4, Belleville, son of Mrs. Perry Nickerson and the late Mr. D. K. Way. The Rev. A. S. McConnell officiated at the double blessing ceremony. White satin in home designated as good pews.

The church organist, Mr. D. J. Davenport, rendered traditional wedding music and the bride, in her traditional white gown, was escorted by her bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Rosebush, aunt of the bride, in her traditional white gown. The bride's maid of honor, Miss Ruth Rosebush, aunt of the bride, in her traditional white gown. The bride's maid of honor, Miss Ruth Rosebush, aunt of the bride, in her traditional white gown.

PLANNING A SUCCESSFUL BARBECUE

Barbecue Season is almost upon us, and with it comes the annual warning: beware of the barbecue boys.

That great American institution, The Cookout, can be one of the most pleasant ways to entertain or it can be a disaster.

Too often it's the latter, and mostly because the man of the house has been over-extended to the limit.

Basically, the basics of entertaining in the great outdoors are simple. If they follow the old and most successful rule, the guests are sure to be delighted.

First, the big star of the cookout is the steak. As they say, the best cookout is a good steak. You want to serve a good steak.

Next, the best cookout is a good steak. You want to serve a good steak. You want to serve a good steak. You want to serve a good steak.

Another tip for the host: don't try to cook a complete meal on the grill. It can be done by experts, but unless he knows exactly how strong his fire is and how long each item takes to cook, he's going to serve pulpy corn on the cob and half-baked beans.

Beiser called the help of the wife and her friends to beat the food property in the kitchen and bring it out when the steak is ready.

The considerate cookout host also takes nothing for granted with mosquitoes and other live, flying objects.

There are plenty of products on the market to take care of the welcome guests from the insect world. One method is to spray the area with repellent at least half an hour before guests are expected to the open air.

Still another tip is to set up an electric trap nearby to act on the fly and kill insects.

KEROSENE TORCHES

A number of my friends have had fair success with kerosene torches. They place them at least 30 feet from the eating area. The flame attracts a good deal of attention of the guests and keeps them warm for a while. However, this method works only when it's dark.

To sum up, a good steak, no magic repellent, preparation of most of the hot food in the kitchen and advance preparation will insure the success of a cookout.

And, to make doubly certain, the host should check his wife if the steak is done.

Biculturalism Is Urged By VOW in Convention

WINNETRY (CP)—The Voice of Women has called on the federal government to enact legislation to establish biculturalism in Canada to ease the "cultural impasse" between English- and French-speaking Canadians.

In a resolution adopted at the organization's national annual convention, the group asked the government to "establish Canada as a bilingual and bicultural nation... in order that our two peoples may flourish together in peace and mutual respect."

The resolution was one of a series discussed in a press conference Sunday during an initiation of the two-day closing of the Christ Church Ch. 100.

The resolution said Canada is at a "cultural impasse" and does not have an effective system for surviving relations to food, soil and water. It asked that the federal government accept the cooperation of provincial governments to adequate surveys of food in Canada and publicizing this information.

On nuclear tests problem, the group agreed to ask the federal government "to use whatever influence it has to help bring about a nuclear test ban treaty at the earliest possible date."

The delegates also passed a resolution to urge provincial governments to carry out surveys of local industries that might be affected by disarmament so that plans may be carried out to ease this distribution.

They also decided to prevail on cities to proclaim the second Sunday in every May a day devoted to peace and international understanding. On this day the VOW will hold a nationwide silent vigil annually.

A further resolution urged increased public awareness of the role Canada is playing in research on bacteriological weapons as "weapons of mass destruction."

Chi Rho Entertains At County Home

Last Wednesday evening the folks at the County Home for the Aged were entertained by the fine amateur talent of those of the Chi Rho Club.

The program was headed by Tucker Churchill with a song and was accompanied on the piano by Jan Nicks. May and Robin Horvath sang a duet and a solo. A harmonica duet by Al Gaudin and Ruth Nicks was next on the program.

The audience enjoyed a piano solo by little Elsie. Ted, Bill Brooks and Al Brown rendered a selection on mandolin and guitar. Ken Sapien and Marjorie Butler closed the program with a song.

depends largely on the showing he makes before Parliament next Monday when asked to explain his role in the background to the findings.

If Macmillan fails to give satisfactory answers, one particular possibility would be that there is little doubt he will be pressured once more to resign.

The greatest threat came from Canada's Conservative Party. Conservatives who accused him of negligence and malfeasance in office saw the true story of the Profumo affair earlier.

With an edge of about 100 seats in the House of Commons, the Conservatives would bring down the government would easily turn a cry apportion more to the Tories than the Macmillan government.

But some Tory legislators have expressed doubts whether they can continue to support Macmillan as party leader. Macmillan must call a general election before October, 1964. Even so, the Profumo case broke, Tories were giving their side to the Labor party.

ERE OFF REACTION
A chain of explosions has been bursting almost daily since Profumo confessed he lied to Parliament to cover up his love affair with Christine, a self-styled model who first met his husband when a Major, in the armed forces.

Profumo was lower: For months rumors had whispered that he was having an affair with a woman named Christine. Macmillan denied the rumors. Then, last week, when he changed his story, resigned his cabinet post and fled to a safe haven in the United States, the attack in Parliament in disgrace.

Profumo, while insisting that he and Mrs. Krieger were not a couple, admitted he had a relationship with a woman named Christine. He said he had a relationship with a woman named Christine. He said he had a relationship with a woman named Christine.

Don't Overlook Dirt-Clogged Air Cleaner

BY EUGENE B. MILMOE

Although it's usually overlooked, a dirt-clogged air cleaner is sometimes to blame if the engine won't start when it is hot. This is because proper air flow is blocked and the fuel mixture becomes too rich. It not only prevents proper combustion, but if the engine is quite hot, it encourages formation of expanded bubbles in the carburetor or fuel lines which stop fuel to the engine.

The same troubles can result, of course, from other conditions which cause an over-rich mixture of fuel flooding. Among these are 1) a float level which is too high or occasionally 2) a sticking or improperly adjusted choke 3) excessive pump pressure (although rarely 4) incorrect carburetor adjustment. Such fuel system conditions are the usual cause of hot engine starting difficulties. seldom is ignition failure to blame, although a coil may set up when highly heated and prevent re-ignition.

E.B. asks: "What kind of valve trouble will cause rough engine idle?"
Valve leakage, damaged valve spring, sluggish valve or rocker, defective hydraulic tappet, lack of proper clearance.

W.W. writes: "Does oil wear out or just get dirty? I have two cars using different brands but similar grades of oil. Can I change to the same brand in both cars without harmful effect?"

Oil doesn't wear out; it becomes contaminated and loses efficiency. You can safely switch brands - but don't mix them. Wait until your next oil change.

From M.T.: "Both front and rear wheel brakes on my car fail to release completely. My garage can't tell me what is wrong until I let them check out the entire system." Write, all brakes drag, the trouble possibilities can be confined to two: a restricted master cylinder by-pass port, or oil cocked, or air in the lines. The master cylinder can allow water to leak into the cylinders and crankcase.

Ann Landers

Ann Is Advised to Trade Typewriter for Rocking Chair

DEAR ANN LANDERS - My own mother popped out when I saw your advice to the girl who was weeping because she had a shape like an ironing board. The poor girl said she'd be happy if she could fill even a $25 box. You told her if measurements were that important to go to a fitness club and treat herself to a $250 pedicure.

You must be nuts. What in the world ANN LANDERS would her friends say? How this dame has been built like a flagpole all her life and suddenly she turns up looking like a Miss America.

Honestly, Ann, I think you're getting too old for the job. Why don't you turn in your typewriter for a rocking chair - SURPRISED AT YOU.

DEAR SURPRISED AT ME - Whether the girl is built like a Greek goddess or a lumpy potato is not important. What "her friends" say is equally unimportant. What is important is how the girl feels about it.

Any girl who is in a state of depression because of her measurements should do something about it. If it ridicules this means so much to her I say go ahead and buy some happiness.

DEAR ANN LANDERS - We have two sons, 24 and 28 years of age. We have never been rich people, Ann, but we always managed to see that our boys had everything the well-to-do boys in their crowd had. We thought it would make them happy and well adjusted.

Something must have gone wrong because at this moment their wives are both living with us and the boys are living in a hotel. This has happened before. Whenever our sons have a fight with their wives they dump them on us because we have a big house and the girls like my cooking.

Both of these girls have mothers of their own and one lives right in town but they never go home, they always come here. My husband says, "Isn't it wonderful that our sons' wives feel so 'right' toward us?"

I would gladly forego the compliment if they would settle their domestic problems and stay home. What should I do now? - THIRD.

DEAR TYRONE - You've always pulled chestnuts out of the fire for your sons and they expect it.

The best favor you can do to this quartet of warrors is to insist that they take their troubles to a marriage counselor or a clergyman and get their marriage back on the track. So long as you are willing to run open house for fighting couples you'll have roomers and boarders forever.

To learn the kind of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Safe," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today's forest industry utilizes 70 per cent of harvested trees (40 per cent more than a few years ago), glances at sixth of its production from what was formerly waste.

Western wood is exported to the United States, Britain, Japan, Australia, European Common Market and scores of other countries. Ship, above, loads finished lumber.

West Coast Loggers Work Year Round Meeting World Demand For B.C. Wood

Blowing across the British Columbia coast, moisture-laden ocean air masses from as far away as Hawaii are forced upwards by the massive ramparts of the Rocky Mountains. Rising, the bulky westerly breezes cool rapidly, deposit an annual 40-100 inches of warm rain upon the slopes below, nurturing a 200,000-square-mile forest of precious, straight-standing tall timber. Providing half British Columbia's timber economy, forest production from this rich tree farm of nature has nearly doubled, over the last decade, to an annual $550,000,000. Meeting the growing demand for lumber, west coast loggers use modern techniques to bring giant-sized logs to the lumber mills. From 15-foot-diameter Douglas firs towering up 300 feet (which produce, pound-for-pound, structural timbers stronger than steel or concrete) to fine-grained delicate white pine, trees of coastal and interior forests are carefully felled, trucked to tidewater, transported to highly-mechanized mills. From there Canada's western lumber products are shipped around the globe, adding the versatility and beauty of natural wood to the architectural advances of the modern world.

Agile men armed with pilepoles sort logs by type, size and grade. Runabout, outboard-powered boom scooters are also used in sorting grounds. National Film Board Photography

Heavy equipment for logging includes 30-ton-capacity truck trailers for hauling logs, two-handed chain saws, mobile steel spar trees, powerful loading cranes.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARK

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Upsets Give Her the Hives

DEAR DORIS — I received your letter on "Uncle Mother's had Their Babies" and after 28 years of struggling with my emotions I finally found out why. I was the child of an unwed mother who later married. I had two younger brothers. My mother did not love me; always told me I was bad. Then my mother died. I know now I should have been adopted. When I was 18 my stepfather wanted to marry me, but I had enough sense to refuse.

Since I was 15 I have suffered from hives caused by emotional stress. Such things as exams, arguments with my family, and now because my daughter is unmarried and pregnant. My body is covered with hives and I shake all the time. I have pills but nothing seems to help. This is just one more reason why the illegitimate child should always be adopted. If I have to go through such a time as this again someone had better get me a room in the nearest mental hospital. — HIVES.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR HIVES — An appointment with the nearest child care agency would be more to the point, right now. Whether or not adoption is the answer (and this is an individual thing) the worker there can help make plans for your girl as well as follow up on my leaflet with a discussion aimed at relieving your own stress. Hives are a familiar reaction to emotional upsets.

DEAR DORIS — On that grounds can one get a divorce in Canada? — LIZZIE MISSOURI.

DEAR LIZZIE — There is only one legal ground for divorce in Canada. This is adultery.

DEAR DORIS — I'm just wild about this guy. He took me out four times but now he hasn't taken me out for quite a while. I asked him if he was mad at me but he said, "That's for me to know and for you to find out!" How can I get him back?

I can't keep my mind on my work in school. I hope you understand. — PUZZLED AND ANXIOUS.

DEAR PUZZLED AND ANXIOUS — You should be wild at him, not about him. When you write that you no longer grovel at his feet and have perked up at school, I'll know you are growing up a little.

(There's an answer to any human problem. Ask Doris about yours, enclosing a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope with your question.)

Another neighbor, J. Eugene Champagne, and his four sons broke the bedroom window trying to save the children but were prevented from plucking them from their bed by the bars of a brass bedstead.

Mr. Champagne, a former Ottawa Police constable now employed in the Senate, said he saw the children's hands grasping for his as he tried to move the red-hot bed.

The head of the old-fashioned bed was pressed against the window. Mr. Champagne and his sons tried to turn it around but were forced away from the window by flames.

Mr. Charoux, 21, a construction foreman, was in the room with Rene when the fire broke out. He scooped the baby into his arms and jumped through a large, floor-by-ladders from the burning house.

G. A. Hears Talk on Camp Hyantia

PARCELAS LAMER
HELPPFUL HANNAH
CAMP HYANTIA, Ont., June 10.—A banner has enough problems giving a party, but sometimes the biggest is the one behind the scenes.
With the greatest of ease, an experienced mother can whip up a gourmet meal for ten while the novice is left to wonder how to bake, make ice cream, arrange flowers, water plants, and create a spectacular centerpiece out of a few odds and ends.
This was the theme of the talk given by Mrs. G. A. Hears, a court on her hand, but what really makes her hand stand out is trying to get a too-helpful Hannah out of the kitchen so she can get dinner on the table.
A little assistance usually is appreciated, but sometimes it's overdone. For instance, there's the type who turns the kitchen around for the arrivals and is inclined to bring in a tray of canapés "to help out." Naturally, she grabs everything in sight and takes them to the table in the living room so that by the time everyone arrives the doilies, vases are sunny and the canapés are laid out on the table. The hostess is surprised around the guests. The hostess should be the one to bring the food, but help! Hannah ought to be needed in making the service.

NOBLE GUESTS
Then there's the kind who goes to the kitchen and while the hostess is greeting guests, she takes a moment to look at the food. A friend of mine once said that the guests who saw her in the kitchen were the ones who were the most helpful. Hannah ought to be needed in making the service.

SAFE REACH
The waterfront is safe with a sandy beach. The members of the staff are all voluntary and there is one counselor for each ten in attendance. There are also facilities in hand, crafts and swimming.

COLORED SLIDES
Mr. and Mrs. Gray showed a number of colored slides, which they had taken on their trip to the lake.

CAME IN BALLAST
The hardy dandelion, plague of the lawn grower, probably came to North America in the tarball of ships bearing the early colonists.

Remembered Rhubarb Conserve

by Mary Moore
The husband of an acquaintance of mine was born in the fruit-growing, Okanagan Valley of British Columbia. He was brought up with his family to the fruit-growing business. During the time he was engaged in the fruit business, he was very busy and did not have time to do his own fruit when he was needed. # Cancer Society Campaign Nets Good Amount

FRANKFORD—At the close of the recent campaign for funds for cancer research it was reported that a sum amounting to $20,835.35 was realized.
For Frankford the campaign was conducted by Mrs. E. Abbott and Mrs. J. McDonald and they along with a group of ladies collected $2,135.35 from a luncheon given at the Waldorf Hotel. Included in this amount: Mrs. Clinton Cox with a group of ladies from Rockford collected an amount of $1,242.35. This was a record for the campaign for the Village of Frankford. Mrs. J. Sargent presented the new 'Freedom' book to the ladies.

Women's Institute Sidney South W.I.

The June meeting of Sidney South W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. M. Nobes with a good attendance. The meeting was held on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Nobes collected the meeting. It was pleasing to note that during the month of May a number of members had attended the Hydro Quick-Tricks program given by the Sidney W.I. The ladies of the Sidney W.I. are planning to give a luncheon at the home of Mrs. M. Nobes on June 18.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Little Cathy Miller, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart, fell on one day last week and injured her arm. After having it x-rayed she was allowed to return home with her arm in a sling.

Mrs. Clarence Thomson entertained several ladies at the place: party at her home on Friday evening.

Congratulations are extended to Anne Reid who was successful in obtaining her first year at Queen's University at Kingston. Anne has accepted a summer job at "Pina Bimba" restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Morton and Mrs. Elaine Reid, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Anderson on a visit to their cousin, Mrs. Walter McLeod at Redversville on Thursday.

Several people from Rylstone attended a shower for Beverly Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Linn who was recently married. The shower was at the Grange Hall, Frobenius Center on Friday evening.

The ceremony of the Lord's Supper, and baptism was celebrated at Rylstone United Church on Sunday. The Rev. R. A. Miller, of Mar's United Church officiated. Mr. H. D. Piller took his afternoon service at the Rylstone congregation.

Mrs. Bob Spencer and Rodney and Mrs. Jack Spencer and boys were called on their aunt, Mrs. Ella Jones one day last week.

Mrs. Edson Anderson, Waverly and David, were Sunday dinner guests of her mother, Mrs. Mary McRae in Havelock.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Reid, Anne and Mrs. Reid's mother, Mrs. Edwin Pollock, Menie, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ivo Moran, Frankfurt, on Sunday.

Afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spencer and boys, were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Vance, Waverly, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Strassburg, Havelock and Mr. Anne Tanner of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Miller of Waverly and Gary and Mrs. Wirtman all of Trenton, visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart and Cathy, on Sunday.

Sunday afternoon callers with Mr. and Mrs. Ella Jones were their place, Mrs. Clarence Thomson, Kathy, Karen, Steven and Michael.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson, Beth Sells and Jeffrey were Sunday callers of the latter end of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Oranston and some of Nepean, Mr. and Mrs. Ella Jones were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hagerman and family at Burnham.

Mr. and Mrs. James Palmer, Mrs. W. Jones and Mrs. Thelma Tulloch, all of Stuttgart, and Mrs. Edson Anderson, Rylstone, called on Mr. and Mrs. Ella Jones, on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spencer, Lynne, Bob, Randy and Rodney were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reid and David.

Lorne Anderson, Peterson visited his mother, Mrs. Lily Anderson, his brother, Elton, his wife and family on Monday.

The community was shocked the sudden death of Gerald Thompson, farm implement dealer in Campbellford. Gerald is well known to all the local farmers, many of whom have purchased implements from him during the past years.

The ladies of Rylstone United Church catered to the church social at Board, on Monday evening.

to a person who builds his own home during the winter months. Finance Minister Gordon told the predecessor, George Howes, PC — Digby-Annapolis-Kings, that he could not act at the present time whether the $300 will be taxable or non-taxable.

2. Extension of municipal work incentive program — continuation of the multi-million-dollar program launched by the Conservatives under which the federal treasury will pay 50 per cent of the payroll costs and projects undertaken in municipalities between Nov. 1 and Apr. 30, with this share increased to 75 per cent in "designated areas."

3. Extra federal government winter construction — speed-up on some government projects to concentrate the work in the high-lobes months of the winter.

4. Jump in the federal government's contribution to the unemployed persons for the cost of training unemployed persons, raising the federal share to 90 per cent from 75 per cent.

5. Training employed workers — increase to 75 per cent from 50 per cent in the federal grant to the provinces for training, apprenticeship and re-training for workers displaced by technological change.

6. Re-employment of older workers — a new program, to be unveiled later, aimed at encouraging older, chronically unemployed workers to find jobs.

7. Capital assistance for technical training facilities — an extension of the 75-per-cent federal contribution to the provinces for building technical and vocational training schools, to be continued up to a specific ceiling for each province, then reverting to 50 per cent. The ceiling amounts were not announced.

PLAN NEW SERVICE

8. Technological change and manpower development — a new manpower consultative service to be established in the department of labor to develop an employment security program, provide financial help to employers and unions for automation research, and aid employers and provinces to help workers and their dependents displaced by industrial change.

9. Strengthening personnel sources — bolstering the staff and streamlining the role in the overall manpower program of the national employment service and various branches of the federal labor department.

HOPES FOR MEET

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Le Marchand said Monday in the Commons that he hopes a national conference on the relation of cigarette smoking to cancer will be held here before the end of the year. She was replying to Barry Mather (NDP — New Westminster).

"It's nice, darling, but it's still not the same as seeing out."

What CAN you do about heating costs that are too high?

Please send a Representative to explain how I can heat better for less with Natural Gas. I understand I'm under no obligation whatsoever.

Mail this coupon today, and see!

If high heating costs are getting you down, take the bull by the horns. Mail this coupon today. It's the sensible way to go about solving your problem of stiff fuel and heating bills.

You'll enjoy greater economy before you know it when you convert to natural gas. The Lakeland Natural Gas Home Heating Plan will not only heat your home at a big saving it'll give you greater efficiency and cleanliness, and greater comfort.

Try the Lakeland Plan for a year. That way you can prove to yourself it actually does lower your heating cost.

Here's how the Plan works. Lakeland will install a conversion burner in your present furnace. You don't have to buy it. You don't have to pay to have it installed. All you pay for is the gas you use. After you've tried it for a year and discovered how much you've saved with natural gas, you can cover the conversion burner. Or you can rent it for only $20.00 a year. If you're not satisfied we'll take it out at no charge to you.

Will you really save on heating costs? Of course. Here's how. You save because there's no furnace cleaning with gas. Home decorating costs are reduced. You save because there are no moving parts to be replaced. You save on hydro costs because natural gas does away with electric burner motors. You save on the cost of fuel because natural gas does a more efficient job and you get free 24 hour service on all equipment. Natural gas heats your home better for less.

T. Davis Al Kaline Move Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Davis, hitting hard in defense of his National League batting championship, has moved to within 11 points of the lead while spearheading a drive that has lifted Los Angeles Dodgers into first place in the pennant race. Davis hit three home runs, including a 400-yarder with 10 hits in 23 trips in last week's game. This boosted him into third place in last week's game. Davis hit three home runs, including a 400-yarder with 10 hits in 23 trips in last week's game.

The Juventus gave him plenty of support at the plate. Blasing, three home runs among nine hits off two Hotel chucks. Howard was the starter and loser with Fenney taking over in the sixth. Howard walked six and walked five while Fenney struck out two and walked none.

Jerry St. Denis gave Ethier all the margin he needed when he hit a bases-empty homer in the first inning. Stu Malloy walked in the twelfth. Howard and Fenney took over in the third and Gene Yonke batted another two-run shot in the fifth.

Leafs Nip Suns 5-3; Bisons Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Columbus fans may be sitting in the cellar of the International League's Southern Division, but it won't be long before they'll see Buffalo Bisons that it's a case of a lack of power as the plate.

Home runs by Bob Burda, Elmer Finkler and Paulie Herra helped the Jets defeat Buffalo 5-3 Monday night. It was Tony Arano's double that provided the victory margin. Burda's stone run was his fifth, putting him in second place in the league behind Boston's Chris Christopher with 15.

Seaway Group Motor Hotels Big Brother to Motel, Hotel

By GREG MACDONALD

TORONTO (CP) — Remembrance of the quiet roadside cabins with such names as Ocean View, Dew Drop Inn, Cony Coffers and Rest Haven?

Clustered around vacation spots and small towns, they handled the bulk of the motoring tourist trade before and just after the Second World War.

Today they have all but disappeared as the touring motorist has become more sophisticated in his demands. No longer content with just a place to rest overnight before continuing his journey, he now wants all the luxuries of a big hotel—despite the fact that the nearest city may be miles away.

Unable to supply his needs, the cabins disappeared — replaced by sprawling, well-equipped establishments called motels—coloured word combining motel and hotel—which provided, in addition, restaurants, in some cases, swimming pools for their overnight guests.

Now the motel has a big brother, an establishment called the "motor hotel"—which provides all the services of motels and hotels—cocktail lounges, restaurants, convention facilities, entertainment, television and swimming pool.

Usually located around cities and sometimes in the downtown areas, these hotels match hotels in size and facilities and vie not only for the man with the car but for anyone else looking for a place to stay.

Now the motel has a big brother, an establishment called the "motor hotel"—which provides all the services of motels and hotels—cocktail lounges, restaurants, convention facilities, entertainment, television and swimming pool.

OFFERS FREE PARKING — Benson Orestein, president of a motor hotel chain, is a motel with extra stores added and providing everything a hotel does with one extra-free parking.

No longer does the description, "if it sticks up in the air, it's a hotel, but if it just lies there, it's a motel," define the difference between a motel and a hotel.

The Seaway group, an association of 11 motorhotels and hotels in Eastern Canada and a motorhotel in London, England, is one of the biggest in Canada.

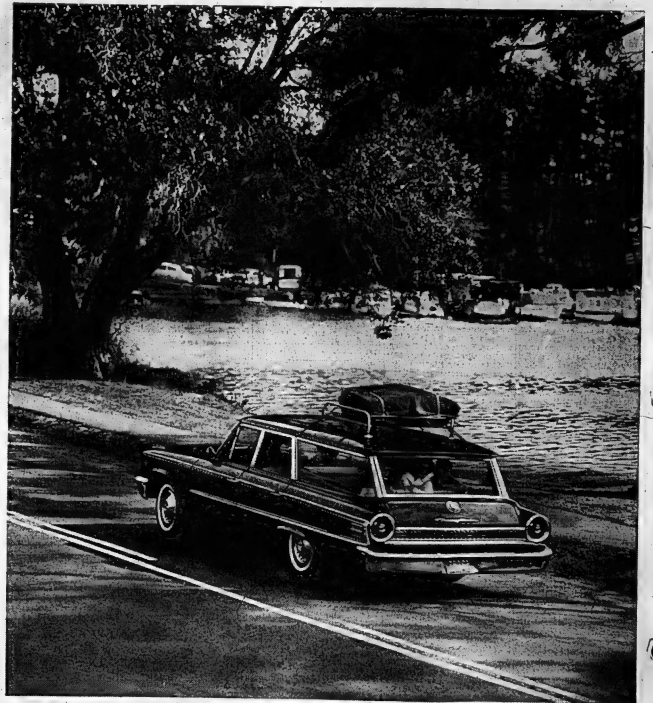

Benson Orestein, 41, is president of Consolidated Hotel Management Ltd., a company which manages all the hotels in the Seaway group and which offers the same services plus a consulting service to other hotels and restaurants.

While the two brothers run the Seaway group, they are not so sure about the future of a motorhotel or hotel they send out businessmen to invest capital so that while the two men have control, ownership is shared.

STARTED IN 1946 — Only two establishments in the Seaway group—the La Salle Hotel in Kingston, Ont., and the Capt. Meier Hotel in Montreal—were not actually constructed by the Orestein and their partners.

The La Salle was owned by the late Louis Stettin of Kingston. Charles bought a share in it in 1946 and the two men later built the Capt. Meier Hotel near Kingston in 1950. The Capt. Meier was the start of the Seaway group and in 1953 Benson entered the picture and the three men built the Seaway Hotel on Toronto's Lakeshore. Mr. Orestein died in 1961.

The Capt. Meier Hotel in Montreal was purchased in 1959. The hotel and motor hotels in the Seaway group are: the Seaway Towers, Seaway Hotel and Roundside Motor Hotel, Toronto; Capt. and Seaway motor hotels, Montreal; the La Salle Hotel, Kingston; the Capt. Meier Hotel, Montreal; the Capt. Meier Hotel, Halifax, and the Sky View Hotel, London, England.

Ann Landers

Husband's Impulsive Letter Brings Immediate Results

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Ten days ago my husband wrote his annual letter, full of love and devotion to his wife. He usually writes it in the fall, but this year he wrote it in the spring. It was a beautiful letter, full of love and devotion to his wife. It was a beautiful letter, full of love and devotion to his wife. It was a beautiful letter, full of love and devotion to his wife.

Three days later we got an annual letter saying Ellis would love to and she'll be on the first day following her graduation. Dick is disappointed. He says he is never dreamed of taking him in it. Also, he isn't sure now he has a job for Ellis. He never discussed this with me, although I am sure he would have to feel her, entertain her, chauffeur her and make sure she had a good time. Dick goes fishing every weekend and takes one. I must say home with a 13-month-old toddler so my weekends aren't exactly ventures. And I'm 41 years old. I root.

Dick says he hasn't the heart (the means) to respond to the offer. What shall I do about this mess?—CRISIS.

DEAR CRISIS—Since Dick hasn't the heart (the means) to respond to the offer, what shall I do about this mess?—CRISIS.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—My husband has two sons by a former marriage. He gets the kids every summer for eight weeks. Please write something for us in advance.

The boys are 9 and 11 years old. They are big-spirited and healthy, but they are choosier and I enjoy them that much. The only point on which my husband and I disagree is the refrigerator. The boys are in and out of it all day long, holding themselves to cold drinks, fruit, snacks, whatever they see. At mealtime they pick at their food because they are not hungry.

I told my husband I am opposed to this, but he says it is part of a happy childhood. His mother was very stingy about food and he and his brothers were punished if they were caught in the ice box. He made up his mind this made him happy to his children.

I suppose he does have a point, Ann, but so do I. Will you settle it?—SECOND WIFE.

DEAR WIFE—There's a big difference between being stingy about food and allowing kids to eat all day long. Set a snack time when kids and supper and tell the boys they may help themselves. To allow children to eat continuously and ruin their appetites for a balanced meal does not make for a happy childhood, nor a healthy one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—A short-looker moved to this city several months ago. I wanted to befriend her so I gave her the names of my father, my landlady, my day lady, an upholstery man, a carpet cleaner, a seamstress, a pearl man and so on.

I guess there is a thing as being too good a friend because when I went the names of these people there are jump, she has given their names to her neighbors and I am out of both. She also has spotted them by paying more than I did, which was a dirty trick. What do you think of this sort of "friend"?—S.G.E.

DEAR S. G. E.—Lincoln freed the slaves. You can't use people up anymore and expect them to work for you alone unless you give them full time.

The only solution is to call several times in advance and pay the going rate.

Confidential to PLEASE REPEAT IT—O.K. Here it is: Brilliant people talk about ideas. Average people talk about things. Small people talk about other people.

To learn the body-props of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers booklet, "Toxins Drinking," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ing Lake Consecration. Enclosed is "pokey-luck" and enjoyed by all.

President Mrs. A. Jordan was in charge of the business portion of the meeting, the thanks of Mr. and Mrs. Hickey for their kind hospitality and welcome.

The girls were asked to read the summer months, with friends and good wishes, and also to keep up their "consecration" contributions. Mrs. Fred Lazenby, co-chairman of the "Blossom Tea" gave a detailed report of this important event and thanked all those who had worked to bring this

LOCKWOOD—MIRCHLITZ

Printed white and silver ceremony forms for the wedding of Glimmer United Church, on May 31, 1953, for the marriage of Gladys Lockwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lockwood, and Mr. Mirchlitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lockwood, of 1000 St. George Street, Toronto. The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. K. Griffin, minister of the church, assisted by the Rev. K. Mitchell, of Cox Hill, Ontario.

Traditional wedding music was supplied by Mr. Joseph L. Brown, of St. George's Church, Toronto. The bride, Miss Gladys Lockwood, was given away by her father, Mr. George H. Lockwood. The bride wore a gown of white tulle with a full skirt and a long train. The groom wore a tuxedo with a white shirt and a black bow tie.

The bride and groom were married by the Rev. K. Griffin, minister of the church, assisted by the Rev. K. Mitchell, of Cox Hill, Ontario. The ceremony was held in the church, and the reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Two Indian Women Went For Visit

By EDNA BARKLEY
RANFF, Alta. (CP)—Most delegates attending the National Council of Women's annual convention went for a tea tour

Friday last Mrs. Douglas White and Mrs. Irvine Pointe of the Manning, B.C., Indian reserve visited the nearby Metchosky reserve.

The two women made a personal project of encouraging other Indian women to participate in community affairs. "It's not that there's so little interest," Mrs. Pointe said, "as in many Indian communities."

Mrs. Pointe and Mrs. White have been members of the National Council for about six years but this is the first time they've attended a national meeting.

White, wife of the National reserve's chief and mother of five, is an active participant in community affairs. Mrs. Pointe, who lived at Alberni on the B.C. coast before her marriage, is the mother of three children.

During the meeting, an emergency resolution asking the federal government to put curbs on articles and television programs about sex was ruled out of order because it was not regarded as an emergency.

Forwarded by the social work chairmen, Mrs. Colleen Robert Watt of Don Mills, Ont., the resolution mentioned in an article by Ferns Borden in Maclean's Magazine and recent unannounced television programs.

EXPECTED TO DOUBLE
The total population of the world is expected to double by the year 2000.

Of the hundreds of qualities of cottons (the quality varies with the thread count—equivalent to 20, 30, 40, 60, 80, 100, 120, 140, 160 per square-inch), the fine but strong 140- to 160-per-square-inch is the most popular, Miss Blanchard said.

The most delicately woven fabrics are those in the soft nightgown category, which are finer than other fabrics which require more care than other cottons and could always be washed in cold water, she said.

Denims and corded cottons require the least care and the most price. Terry cloth, which is made of cotton, is popular, especially for sport and children's wear, require "the same care as a towel."

Most of today's cottons are treated so they are mildewproof and perspiration-resistant, she said.

Louisa Jones of Halifax, an Iowa graduate this year with a degree in English, has been awarded an assistantship from the French government to spend a year in England in connection with a French high school.

After a year studying in Switzerland before entering Dalhousie and has not placed a paper in the English press. She hopes eventually to get a master's degree from the University of London.

Spain is the destination if Anna Weste, a third-year linguistics student, has her way. Many who now live in Dartmouth College live with Spanish families, and hope to add Spanish and English to add Spanish to her list of languages.

For the past year, English-speaking people in a foreign country are not always the easy way and does not get enough practice in conversation.

She hopes to take a course at the University of Barcelona before coming to Dalhousie in the fall.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

PLAINFIELD W.A.

The June meeting of Plainfield W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Sullivan, with thirty members and one visitor present. The president, Mrs. G. Hall, opened the meeting.

Correspondence was read, including a thank-you note from Mrs. A. P. Hall for flowers and cards received while a patient in Belleville hospital.

Cathy Sullivan also thanked the Institute members for cards, fruit, and many acts of kindness during her stay in Kingston General Hospital.

Business was discussed and a report given on the "Cemetery Concert" sponsored by the W.I., the proceeds amounting to $88.

Mrs. J. Salmon gave a report from the district district meeting which she attended in Belleville on June 1st. A report was given by Mrs. B. Emerson from the district annual.

The motto, "Teach children to respect their own community and the older citizens who have made it," was given by Mrs. G. Dwyer.

Mrs. A. Wright, citizenship convener, presided over the program, which included community singing, led by Mrs. H. Harrison, and a reading entitled "It's My Day in Canada," by June Wright.

GUEST SPEAKER Mrs. H. Harrison introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. J. Plazier, a new Canadian citizen, who gave a most interesting talk on her home life in Holland and also on her journey to Canada with her husband and family, who now reside at Belleville.

Mrs. Plazier was presented with a small gift in appreciation of her visit to the Institute.

Mrs. Sullivan and her committee served lunch.

REMOVE BILLBOARDS ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Work crews armed with power saws and cutting torches deployed Monday in military-like fashion to remove 33 illegal billboards along the New York State Thruway. A state trooper accompanied each of the 23 work units that scattered along the 58-mile superhighway, which crosses the state.

Choir Aux. Sponsors Card Party

WELLINGTON.—St. Andrew's Choir Auxiliary held another successful card party last Monday night with a nice crowd in attendance. Euchre, bridge and cribbage were played.

Euchre winners were: ladies' high, Mrs. Lillian Vancotti; low, Mrs. W. Cunningham; men's high, Keith Blakely; low, Mrs. Dayton Murphy; playing on a gent's ticket.

Cribbage winners were: ladies' high, Mrs. Helen Cook; low, Mrs. Bea Smith; men's high, William Adams; low, Earl Lumley.

Bridge winners were: lady high, Mrs. William Harvey; second, Mrs. Charles Sanderson; third, Miss Grace Sanderson; fourth, Mrs. G. Smith (both ladies playing on gent's ticket).

The door prize went to Mrs. Keith Blakely; basket of groceries to Mrs. Delbert Boyle; lucky cup to Mrs. Helen Cook. Refreshments were enjoyed by all, served by members of the Auxiliary.

Mother's Helper

IT'S TIME to order names today for your youngsters—especially for those who are going away to summer camp. That's the major job. But your own-home will be making easy, lovely, etc. to the pool or shore. And if you plan to visit friends with children, you will obtain confused belongings. Your hosts will be pleased.

TO SEEK DEFINITION

QUEBEC (CP)—The Canadian Association of Humonilists decided Monday to try to find out exactly what bilingualism means. Its research council will try to define the word and look for solutions to such problems as bilingualism in Canada.

W.I. Holds Successful "Lilac Tea"

WELLINGTON.—The Wellington Women's Institute held a successful "Lilac Tea" in the town hall last Saturday afternoon. The hall was prettily decorated with many colorful bouquets of lilac, spirea, and lilacs.

Mrs. S. Tripp, the president, received the guests at the door. Mrs. Charles Broadbridge received the first and sold tickets on a lovely centrepiece, donated by Mrs. Clarence Way.

In charge of the tea tables were: Mrs. Ken Wood, Mrs. Bruce Wilson and Mrs. James Denard. Mrs. Norman Foster was in charge of the kitchen.

The table laden with home-made cakes, tart, cooking, glass and other delicacies, was in charge of Mrs. W. Adams and Mrs. F. Harris. Mr. Albert Lewis looked after the sewing table.

Thanks are expressed to all who helped in any way.

CATCH MANY FISH

The Canadian fishing industry has an annual catch of some 2,000,000,000 pounds.

SEES SMALLER CROP

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. agriculture department has estimated the 1953 American wheat crop at 1,064,000,000 bushels. This is 40,454,000 bushels less than last month's forecast of 1,104,454,000 bushels. It compares with 1,099,767,000 produced last year and with 1,255,282,000 for the five-year (1947-51) average.

TS INCREASES

OTTAWA (CP)—There were 606 new reported cases of tuberculosis in Canada, in January compared to 533 in the same month last year, the bureau of statistics reported Monday. New yearly cases numbered 503 in January compared to 471 a year ago. Reactivated cases numbered 101 compared to 62.

Now you can judge a banana by its cover

Meet Chiquita Brand Bananas

This seal outside means the best inside!

Some bananas come from the tropics unprotected... get exposed to bumps and bruises. Now Chiquita Brand Bananas are shipped in heavy boxes, to protect them from bruises inside and out.

Remember how it used to be? You could never really tell, whenever you bought a banana, whether you might be getting a peach—or a lemon. It might be bruised on the inside. But you couldn't always tell from the outside. Now there's something brand new at your store: Chiquita Brand Bananas. Now you can judge a banana by its cover.

Instead of coming up from the tropics in their birthday suits—on big stems—these bananas come in strong fiber boxes. To protect them from bruises, inside and out. So next time you shop, make sure you get Chiquita Brand Bananas. Look for the seal on the peel: It's the mark of a well-brought-up banana.

River Valley W.I. Hears Various Reports at Meet

STERLING — Mrs. John Bewick, Frankford Road, was hostess on June 8 for the regular meeting of River Valley Women's Institute with 18 ladies and four children in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Veronice Harty conducted the opening exercises. The roll call was answered by a description of the most interesting church you have visited. The replies were most informative and took the audience to various parts of the world.

Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. J. R. Donohoe gave their reports. The correspondence included a message from Gethsemane conference, a bill for insurance on lastitude replaced was submitted by Mrs. J. A. letter and booklet re the Home Economics Service Branch from Helen M. McKenchen of the extensive branch was received. A report of Mrs. Roy Tucker were read and mentioned that Friends for Friendship which were sent to the district annual meeting in 1962 and for May $2.34. An article from "The Contemporary Magazine" was read and it stressed that funds are still in need for the day to day function of A.C.W.V. It was suggested that the new name be "Circle for Friendship". The young lady was passed around. The coupon envelope reported over 1000 letters to date and several were handed in at this meeting. Short reports on various subjects were given by Mrs. Jack Bush, Mrs. Charles Wilson and Mrs. Roy Irwin.

ADOBITS LEGH

Mrs. Percy MacMillan read an article re the village of Abolito Leigh which is only a 15 minute drive from the centre of Bristol City. She also read their Canada report and a message from the Queen Mother who is president of Sandringham W.I. Norfolk. Several newspapers were distributed from England. Mrs. MacMillan who has recently returned as president of Hastings West District again voiced appreciation thanks to the River Valley branch.

At this time Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis tendered a message of thanks to Mrs. MacMillan for her two successful years. River Valley is catering for a luncheon in June at the Fox at the I.O.O.F. Lodge Hall and for the cheese producers meeting at Shamrock Factory. A special meeting will be held next week to complete plans for these two functions. It was decided on motion to allow Mrs. Roy Bush, curator of River Valley Tweedmill history the sum of $10 if needed to purchase a new book and $5 for committee expenses, for the year 1963 history. The leadership training school this autumn will be "Focus on Plumber".

The July meeting will be in the form of a picnic on Sunday July 7th at the Col. Van der Brink Park. The committee are Mrs. Jack Bush and Mrs. J. R. Donohoe. Mrs. Malcolm McMillan expressed thanks for the gift to her daughter Mrs. Gerald Morgan.

A comprehensive report of the annual meeting was given by the alternate district director, Mrs. Ernest Carr. Mrs. Percy MacMillan summarized the address of Mrs. Grant McLeary re the D.W.O. board meeting.

The institute purchased tickets for the luncheon in Peterborough on July 21st in honor of Mrs. Van Brockhoff, president of the A.C.W.V. It will be a special prayer for every day. Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis read two articles of interest, "Summer Holidays" and "Hints for Holiday Travelers".

At this luncheon Mrs. Charles Wilson read an address of appreciation to a valued member Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis, who will be departing to Kilmuir in August. She was presented with a lovely cup and saucer and a card with signatures of those in attendance. The reception pleat graciously thanked the River Valley branch and invited one and all to visit her when they were up in the Barrie district.

A paper prepared by one of the conveners was read by Mrs. Roy Bush on the subject "Did You Know?" The booklet contained a wealth of valuable information. Mrs. John Bewick read a special prayer for every day. Mrs. E. C. Hay-Ellis read two articles of interest, "Summer Holidays" and "Hints for Holiday Travelers".

THE P.S.I. SPONSORED HASTINGS AND PRINCE EDWARD COUNTIES COMMUNITY HEALTH PLAN

Opens for Enrolment
MONDAY, JUNE 17, 1963

What it offers! The benefits! The cost!

WHAT IT IS

PHYSICIANS' SERVICES INCORPORATED is a non-profit province-wide service sponsored by the Ontario Medical Association and the physicians of Ontario, as a method of bringing medical, surgical and obstetrical services to the people on a low cost, monthly payment basis.

- There are no stock holders.
- No dividends or commissions are paid to anyone.

WHO CAN JOIN

Benefits of the Medical, Surgical and Obstetrical Plan of Physicians' Services Incorporated may now be obtained by residents of an approved community.

Minimum requirements are 60% of the residents of the community.

WHO MAY BE INCLUDED

- A resident (indefinite) of the approved community.
- Wife or husband of subscriber.
- Subscriber's unmarried children under 19 years of age.

NO RED TAPE

- There is no medical fee.
- No medical examination.
- No medical statement of condition of health.
- No age limit for adults.
- No exclusion for chronic or pre-existing condition.

THIS IS A SERVICE PLAN

Just present your Identification Card to any participating MEDICAL PRACTITIONER who will then send his request directly to Physicians' Services Incorporated for eligible services as set forth in your agreement.

YOUR AGREEMENT DOES NOT COVER

- Dependent infants, newborns, newborns, stillborn, twins, etc.—etc.
- Drugs, vaccines, eyeglasses, biological sera or extracts, hospitalization, dentistry, nursing, ambulance services, physician's mileage or telephone advice.
- Laboratory tests performed other than in a physician's office; physical therapy and similar treatments; newborn infant care by the obstetrician; and all services for conditions not determined to be the patient's health.

YOUR CHOICE OF PHYSICIAN

You have four choices of any duly qualified participating physician. If you wish to be attended by a non-participating physician it can be arranged and the Corporation will pay the same amount as that payable to a participating physician for the same service. When the annual income of a subscriber without dependents is less than $7,000.00, or that of a subscriber with dependents is less than $10,000.00, the subscriber should not receive an amount for the personal eligible services of a participating general physician nor for certain personal eligible services of a participating specialist physician.

YOUR BENEFITS

The personal services of a registered medical practitioner in OFFICE, HOME OR HOSPITAL, with the following features:

- Plan pays right from the first call.
- Eligible dependents are entitled to the same benefits as the subscriber.
- No limit to number of calls for essential medical care during any period of time.

- Diagnosis of disease, injury or condition.
- Medical care for illness by your participating physician.
- Care—Nurses.
- Surgical operations (any cutting procedure).
- Services of anaesthetist.
- Conducts (X-ray), and x-ray and post-natal care.
- Up to his workday care after visits.
- Treatment of fractures and dislocations including unlimited diagnostic x-ray services in association therewith.
- Unlimited diagnostic x-ray.
- Unlimited sleep away therapy.
- Cytological and bacteriological examinations.
- Endocrinology and endocrinology.
- Radiation—i.e. testing for eye glasses.
- Treatment of burns and scalds.

ADDITIONAL BENEFITS

Where known both are not payable subscribers should (at no cost to them) for the personal-eligible services of a participating specialist physician fee:

- Major and minor surgery.
- Administration of general anesthesia.
- Diagnostic procedures.
- X-ray and radiation therapy.
- Hospital visits for an extended bed patient.
- Cytological and bacteriological examinations.
- Advanced obstetrics.
- One initial covered office visit.

EXCEPTIONS

- Illness or accident provided for by the Workmen's Compensation Board or other Government agency including illness or condition resulting from work in the general service of the Corporation or any of its subsidiaries or the Hospital Services Commission Act.
- Tuberculosis, mental illness, alcoholism, epilepsy, drug addiction, when patient is confined to special institution for treatment or ward in his home.
- Any service or examination for insurance, school, camp, association, visit, underwritten (including safety glasses and group life insurance) or similar purposes.

WAITING PERIODS

- Condominium—Service for any condition due to pregnancy including prenatal and postnatal care, except the surgical treatment of miscarriage and ectopic pregnancy, shall not be available until both husband and wife shall be residing for 30 days in full consecutive agreement monthly prior to service.
- Eye test required (except for 13 full consecutive agreement months prior to service, but subsequent tests are only available after a 30-month interval).

OTHER IMPORTANT FEATURES

- Protection for pregnant children (i.e. immediate provision of obstetrics is provided by P.S.I. within 15 days after birth).
- Weekly applied, during which is included for benefits between "group openings" by notification to P.S.I. within 30 days after notification.
- Weekly applied to the benefits of the plan if you are resident in an approved community. If you are a permanent resident—no non-resident cover—you will pay less.
- If you have family you may continue your coverage for yourself and dependents by notifying P.S.I. of your change of address immediately.

The black market and bureaucracy are two major problems facing the Cuban government, Canadian Press reporter Jack Best tells in this story of some success in fighting bureaucracy and failure to stamp out the black market.

developed there were no parts with which to fix the buses. The transportation problem has since been met by the establishment of spare parts factories in Cuba.

MARKET FOR DOLLARS

Another sign of what may be growing status in Cuba is the "public order" police, now a part of the Havana scene. They are not the same as the ordinary city police force in Cuba: traffic control and day-to-day maintenance of law and order. The former police capabilities seemed to be lumped together in a vague way under the armed forces and the G-2.

spread transfer type of money manipulation. Almost everyone can use a friend or relative in the United States. Visitors to Cuba frequently are approached by friends or relatives who want to pay for something in dollars. The person to whose dollar he agrees to deposit in the account of the relative or friend "on the other side."

The peddler of such a proposal will argue that the exchange is mutually beneficial. The person who has the dollars as many pesos to spend in Cuba as he otherwise would; the Cuban is able to make use of the cash, even if he couldn't otherwise use because there is little to buy.

Stringent laws against counterfeiting and the threatened use of the death penalty—have failed to wipe out the counterfeit market in the U.S.

Officially, the government keeps the peso pegged at the market rate, but in the free market, however, a dollar will buy 10 pesos. The government keeps the exchange rate in the two positions.

Even old pesos rendered worthless by the new government's monetary administration by a money printing spree, the old pesos are still said to be negotiable on the black market at 30 pesos to the dollar.

It is amazing that if and when the peso is thrown away, its success will make the dollar the old revolutionary money.

As a whole from the U.S.

This practice by requiring valid documents to declare all their dollars to the U.S. government will change them for pesos only at the market rate. The government will buy all the dollars at the market rate. All exchanges are entered into the government's books. The man must surrender on leaving the country all the dollars he has in his day as the peso-dollar market continues out of living for a few days.

Many informed observers believe that the government will change the widespread black market rate of 10 pesos to the dollar to 30 pesos to the dollar. This will give farmers an incentive to produce more for their own use and to export. It will also help to relieve the food shortage.

With distribution and prices strictly controlled, the explanation is that the government will be able to control the market for the dollar and pesos.

A system of rationing was instituted in 1961 to ensure that everyone got his fair share of available food at reasonable prices. To the extent that it still is possible for better-off Cubans to get preferred treatment through the black market, the ration system would appear to have failed to achieve its objective.

Still, thanks to the revolutionary ordinary working-class Cubans are doing things and enjoying privileges they would never have dreamed of before. You see them frolicking at beaches and swimming pools once the exclusive preserve of the very wealthy. You see them swaggering through magnificent hotels which, though grown almost shabby, nevertheless retain much of their former opulence. And they quite evidently relish such unbecomingly treading

At Varadero, a once-fashionable resort town 100 miles east of Havana, the International Hotel, which catered to tourists at $16 a room and up, now accommodates Cubans at $7.

(This is expensive by Havana standards; it is possible to get a good hotel room in the capital for as little as $2 a day.)

Flimsy summer homes have been taken over and turned into boarding houses for vacationists with large families. Rates are $3.50 to $5 a day a person, meals included.

Apartments can be rented for $35 to $55 a month, depending on the number of rooms.

For a long time after such facilities were taken over by the revolution, Cubans seemed to be about making use of them. But now, however, they are well patronized officials say.

Qualified sources say there is no doubt that purchasing power has been redistributed; many people have money to spend that before. They are not as

Rare Ailment Caused By Style

Hockey Injury May End Career

By PHIL DRECHMAN

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd, Canada's international track star, revealed Tuesday night there is a chance his bothersome knee ailment might not clear up, ending his brilliant career at the age of 25.

The ailment, incidentally, stems from Kidd's famous arm-carrying style that has won him a crowd's favour wherever he runs. "There is a slim chance that it will continue," said Kidd in an interview. "In that case I will seriously consider giving up." Kidd, 25, is a member of the Toronto 100-mile team. He is a member of the Toronto 100-mile team. He is a member of the Toronto 100-mile team.

Kidd announced Monday that he would be out of competition for at least a month. His injury aggravated a ligament injury the ankle he sustained in the 100-mile race. "I know only one other runner who has had the problem," Kidd said.

Most distance runners have their trouble with the tendon at the back of the ankle. Kidd's ailment is caused by the anterior cruciate ligament. "When I'm running, my knee locks but doesn't hit the ground," he said. "Most runners come down, but I don't. I'm before they spring for good."

Kidd says he runs on the left, like a sprinter, but only during the short drive but not the whole race. This tends to put the ligament from his ankle loose, he said. "Since his injury would be aggravated by the pulling and tearing of hitting the ground, it has cleared in part."

Two years ago, a pain in the knee was diagnosed after a month of therapy, and last summer an infection seemed to clear it up but it had bothered him for two months. Kidd now feels, however, the ailment may not have cleared up completely.

With his running potential and the fact that he has been in the 100-mile race at the 1968 Olympics, Kidd has decided it is time to try to clear up the ailment. He has been in the 100-mile race at the 1968 Olympics, Kidd has decided it is time to try to clear up the ailment.

McCovey's Homer Beats Dodgers

By MIKE RATNEY

Associated Press—San Francisco (CP)—The San Francisco Giants won Tuesday night's game from the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-3, as Tom Drysdale of Los Angeles pitched a complete game.

McCovey did his usual Tuesday night, tagging Drysdale for a seven-run homer that gave the Giants a 5-0 victory over Los Angeles behind Juan Marshall's strong pitching and dropped the Dodgers out of the National League lead.

McCovey now has a tagged Drysdale for eight home runs, one triple and a cover of singles since he joined the Giants in 1967.

McCovey's home run provided more than enough margin for Marshall, who posted his first shutout of the season and brought his record to 9-3 with a seven-inning lead.

Drysdale, 31, pitched for the first time since his injury. He was 1-0 in his last start, a 1-0 win over the Dodgers. He was 1-0 in his last start, a 1-0 win over the Dodgers.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GUY H. CARTER, Sports Editor

The Pollock-Bell spawned Eastern Professional Hockey League makes a graceful throw for bridge with three of its premiere provinces.

It will run quietly alongside such former looms as the Quebec Pro League, the Eastern Ontario Senior "B" and the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" League.

The yawning emptiness of vacant seats finally took its toll in Kingston and Hull-Ottawa despite the belly boo of the various news outlets which were apparently whistling in the dark.

National Hockey League men will seek the greener pastures of United States fields where, reports state, the lettuce is more plentiful and consumer appetites much sharper than those north of the border.

Kingston has tasted the sweets and sour of amateur "B" and "A" and the recent professional of the new hockey city, it appears the Limestone are loath to part with the better brand and, according to reports, will seek to crash the charmed circles of junior "A".

However in the wire reports of the recent meeting of the OHA Junior "A" council no mention of a franchise in Kingston was made. Toronto Marlies, Toronto Maroons, Kitchener and Ottawa were the clubs named in the application.

The Kitchener application was given a cool reception and it's a seller to a drought it will be given the hearth. In the same OHA has plans for the City of the Birchmen in the 1968-69 edition of its "A" circuit.

And there hangs another tale.

The Senior "A" pot is bubbling. Windsor and Chatham are entry in the International Hockey League and were accepted. The Toronto Marlies, Kitchener and Ottawa were the clubs named in the application.

The whole thing seems to be a pretty warm. A report yesterday from Chatham said the Maroons may quit hockey altogether because of inability to get Sunday dates at home. Another year has the OHA will attempt to block the entry of the Maroons. Still another states the United States Amateur Hockey Association has suspended the NHL because of unpaid assessments.

Insiders say this doesn't mean much to the NHL owners, but Windsor and Chatham may be thanked twice because, in effect, they could be branded as "outlaws" should they hook up with the NHL.

What the National Hockey League wants is a strong sixteen team in the Midwest. The Detroit Red Wings are talking business with Kansas City. All that has been quoted as saying, Toledo and Windsor are other possibilities for a Wayne-Ford club.

Sam Fox, president of the Windsor Arena "find up" to the teeth with the lack of strength in the OHA senior circuit in recent seasons. Said the Bulldogs right now are sitting on the sidelines. "We don't particularly want to leave the OHA but we'll do so in order to enter a strong league. We'd have to give up our AHA Cup champion and the loss of revenue that it may be worth it to give local fans the money's worth in hockey entertainment."

The withdrawal of Windsor and Chatham from the OHA would ring the death knell of its 1968-69 senior "A" loop.

So where do we go from here? The hockey writer is crumpling in a soupier style. "A Windsor writer puts it, 'It's interesting, if not comical.'"

Indian Uprising Taking Toll

Five Scalps In Row

By THE CANADIAN Associated Press Staff Writer

Cleveland today has more changed their town. They were singing the blues not long ago but now they are making the blues music in the American League.

They made it five victories in one Tuesday night game, but they were not the only ones. The Baltimore Orioles, who were 10-0, won 10-0, and the Cleveland Indians, who were 10-0, won 10-0.

The Indians, now last in the standings and six games behind just 10 days ago, now have won eight of their last 10, and climbed to seventh, five games out of pace.

Meanwhile, the Orioles have won 10 of 12 and taken the ninth inning leading in the first three to third. They're a game behind Chicago White Sox, who were defeated 8-1 by Minnesota Twins and eight percent 2-0-1 behind New York Yankees, who were idle.

Ready for "Thunderbird" Palmer All Set To Go

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — A thoroughly relaxed, but determined Arnold Palmer is ready to re-establish his position as the No. 1 man in professional golf.

"I feel great," the 41-year-old Rye, N.Y., said as he faced up to his first competition in more than a month. "Nothing really was the matter with my game. It was just mentally and physically tired."

"I am eager to play again and I think that is a good sign. This was the first real vacation I have had in three years."

In the $25,000 tournament, a four-day, 72-hole pro-am, Palmer will be teamed with the United States Open at Brookline, Mass. The tough, wooded course of a Pennsylvania pro should learn whether he has finally stopped the back of a sagging slump.

The 13-man field lists all of his big-name rivals for world golf honors, including Byron Nelson, Lee Trevino, and Gary Player.

Palmer, who has been out of the game for more than a year, is expected to win the $25,000 prize.

Nicklaus, the polio survivor who won the U.S. Open title last year in his first season as a pro and who repeated victory over Arnold this year in the Masters and the Tournament of Champions.

Palmer, now 33 and burdened with far-flung business enterprises, won't go home until more than $300,000 a year, must score a victory over young Nicklaus or concede his place as top man of the tournament.

"I'm playing decent, I have no ill or trouble," Palmer said. "I still have to wait and see if the pulla drop."

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching-Dick Radatz, Boston Red Sox, pitched excellent ball, allowing only three hits, over final 5-23 inning in 7-0, 15-inning triumph over Detroit Tigers.

LEAFS GET SHUTOUT

Toronto (CP)—Barry Sherborn has been optioned to Toronto Maple Leafs by Washington Senators. It was announced Tuesday that Sherborn has played for the fifth team Sherborn has played for this season.

Syracuse Shades Crackers

A THE CANADIAN PRESS

In a battle between the die-hard leaders in the international league Tuesday night, Syracuse Chiefs, the team that made the win, edged Atlanta Crackers 5-2.

The Chiefs have a slim 10-9 game lead over Buffalo Bisons in the Northern Division while Atlanta, making a runaway in the south, enjoy a 16-game lead over the second-place Indianapolis Indians.

Tenorio Maple Leafs, in the Northern Division, had to call off their home game against Jacksonville Suns when chilly weather set in at Maple Leaf Stadium.

In other action Tuesday, Buffalo dumped Columbus Jets 5-0, Richmond Virginians took an 11-4 win over Indianapolis, and Rochester Red Wings swept a doubleheader from Arkansas Travelers 6-0 and 7-2.

HOMER WINS

Gates Brown's 11th homer of the season in the seventh inning gave Syracuse its win over Atlanta.

"Selfish Attitude"

Nicklaus Suggestion Draws Pros' Blast

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus' suggestion for a curtailment of the pro golf tour drew a heated blast Tuesday from Doug Ford, former PGA and Masters champion. Other players too joined in the dissenting tone.

"Sure, Nicklaus is in favor of a shorter tournament schedule, and I made that point," Ford said. "That's because he has a selfish attitude."

"But what about all the poor, struggling guys trying to make the grade? Jack's not thinking about them. He's thinking only about himself. It's a very selfish attitude, I think."

Nicklaus, 35-year-old Masters and U.S. Open champion, said in Brookline, Mass., Monday that the PGA circuit was "getting out of hand" and that the schedule should be cut to 30 tournaments a year. At present, there are more than 40.

Nicklaus said the abbreviated tournament card would give players a chance to play exhibitions and unofficial money competitions.

ONLY WANTS BIG MONEY

"Nicklaus only wants to play in the big money events," Ford said. "If a tournament doesn't

N. E. Handgun Club Has Show At Safety Fair

The Belleville Northern Electric Handgun Club, safety division, has been invited to an open invitation to the public to attend its display at the "Safe-t-Fair" the first three days of next week.

The Safety Fair will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 27, 28 and 29, on the lot between the Royal Bank and the old YMCA building.

The displays will stress safety in the handling and use of firearms. There will be shotgun displays, handgun displays, rifle displays, O.R.A. displays, a "hunter safety training" display and a silver-timer trailer which will be used as a mobile hunting camp.

The handgun, or revolver, section is the senior division of the local club. It is approximately seven years old and has 50 members at the present time. Weekly shoots are

Als, Saskys Make Deal

MONTREAL (CP) — Full-back Larry Hickman and guard Don Brooks have been traded by Montreal Alouettes to Saskatchewan Roughriders for full-back Ferdie Burket, guard Darrell Aachbacher and defensive half-back Bob Miller. It was announced today.

The announcement said the swap between the Canadian Football League clubs is unconditional. That means the deal stands even should one or more of the players involved refuse to report to the club assigned.

Burket is the key figure in the trade for Montreal. The 28-year-old fullback is considered a superior punter and fine inside runner, two departments where the Als have been inefficient in the last few seasons.

Condemns Use Of Stimulants

PRAGUE (AP)—Use of stimulants by athletes was formally condemned Tuesday by the International Federation of Sports Medicine. But federation leaders agreed that's about as far as they can go.

A resolution passed by the federation's executive committee spoke against "the use of medical substances from a medical point of view."

The committee met here during the first European Congress for Sports Medicine. Professor Giuseppe La Cava of Rome University, secretary-general of the federation, said unanimous approval was obtained after the Soviet representative withdrew his proposal to allow the resumption of doping merely "excessive use."

Basically, however, it's a moral rather than a medical problem," La Cava said. "I think doping will never be given up."

Picton News

Eddie Shack Guest Speaker At Wellington

PICTON — Eddie Shack of the world champion Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team will be guest speaker when Wellington College is champion of the Ontario hockey team at a banquet Friday night, June 14. The event is being held at 6:45 p.m. in the high hall, Mrs. J. G. Carter's invitation is being extended to Bobby Hull to also attend.

Tickets are available from council members C. Platt, J. G. Carter, Bob Byrne, Bill Green or Wilf Barrow. All fans are welcome.

Mountains of Ore Pellets Now Being Shipped

PICTON — The towering mountains of iron ore pellets at the Marmonite Mining Co. docks, just east of Picton, are being reduced by huge rollers into the steel mills at Hamilton (Hudbay), N.Y.

At 4:30 Monday night, the C.E.F. flag, the harload and by 11:30 moving out with 13,500 cars.

As soon as the left, the daughter Murray Bay, which has been anchored in the bay worked in and loading began at noon. She took on 27,000 tons. It was her last cargo being sold to the line.

The iron ore pellets are brought to the shipping point at Picton from Marmonite where the ore is mined and three fan-cers are operating full time.

The record-size stockpile here was 100 feet long, 45 feet high and 100 feet wide at the base. It contained about 200,000 tons. The pellets were gravelly through hoppers on the top of the hills which carried into the holds of the ferries about 100 feet below to the sea level. The huge stockpile has been a source of interest to passing motorists for

Conservative Women Hold Spring Tea

PICTON — Approximately 100 guests turned out for a delightful tea at the beautiful, spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hunter, Carrying Place.

The hostess very kindly served their home to Progressive Conservative women from the area under the auspices of the Picton branch.

The tea table featured two silver tea services with the centerpiece being pink carnations and roses, glowing pink and blue lilies finished the delightful setting. Lily of the valley and lilies were evident to the other rooms.

Among the guests were Mrs. Whitely, Mrs. George Thain, Mrs. A. Beckwith, Mrs. W. Stiller, Mrs. E. O'Connell, and Mrs. George Pitt.

Drag Debate by Repetitious Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — "Filibuster" shouted the angry Liberal backbencher, and thus another day of inconclusive debate ended in the Commons Wednesday.

The intervention by James R. Tucker (L—Trinity—Opposition) meant that the opposition will be accused of holding up government legislation by drawn-out, repetitious speeches. Today the house resumes debate on a resolution preceding him to set up a department of industrial relations.

Tonight at 8 p.m. EDT, Filibuster will read his first budget bill. The Commons has agreed to its necessary motion, adjournment until 10 p.m. if necessary to set up a department of industrial relations.

In Wednesday's debate, two Progressive Conservative MPs, Gordon C. Chubb (Cambridge) and Jack Horner (Aldershot) said the proposed industrial department was unnecessary duplication of existing departments.

WORKS ON BUDGET — Finance Minister Walter Gordon put last-minute touches to his budget speech which will be presented to the House of Commons tonight. Mr. Gordon has maintained the traditional pre-budget secrecy about his plans but may believe they offer taxpayers no incentive for saving.

Betancourt Orders Arrest Of Venezuela's 40,000 Reds

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Romulo Betancourt ordered the arrest of Venezuela's estimated 40,000 Communist and pro-Castro elements Wednesday night following his escape from another assassination attempt. There were at least three other assassination attempts in the last few weeks.

Betancourt said Wednesday that he had ordered the arrest of 40,000 Communist and pro-Castro elements. He said the government is determined to make an announcement on this subject in a few days, without waiting for the report of its proposed military commission on insurrection.

Non-Michigan from three times to a wrench by accused assassin, Mr. Gordon and Mr. Chubb. The Commons has agreed to its necessary motion, adjournment until 10 p.m. if necessary to set up a department of industrial relations.

Five Missing Without Trace Since April 20

Trade Strikers Cripple Building In Kingston

Kingston (CP) — Striking electricians and bricklayers are crippling the building industry in Kingston, Jamaica, by refusing to work on the estimated $25,000,000 project.

Members of Local 11, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW), walked off the job of the new Central Public Works (CPW) project, which is being built by the United Association of Plumbers and its local union.

Police have said they believe the four boys, who had disappeared without a trace, were the victims of a homicidal case.

Identification of the boy, who had been missing since April 20, was made by police on Wednesday night. The boy was found in a ditch near his home.

DECLINES DETAILS
Insp. Matie declined to say if the boy's body was made by the police. He said the boy was found in a ditch near his home.

Magistrate Puts 11 p.m. Curfew On Youth

Magistrate T. W. Yills today ordered an 11 p.m. curfew against an 18-year-old Belleville youth for improper behavior while serving probation.

Ronald Lorne Reid also was sharply rebuked by the magistrate for having been warned that sentences was in the offing if he appeared again in court.

The youth was put on two years' probation by the magistrate April 29 for breaking and entering a city service station.

On May 1, the magistrate said Reid was being driven out of Belleville at $100 a day.

Probation officer Don MacKinnon said Reid had been ordered regularly to his office since his arrest after 11 p.m. when he was "yanked."

The magistrate told Reid he could not be away from home after 11 p.m. unless accompanied by his parents.

Yills said that the magistrate's decision was made on the basis of what you're looking for that what you'll get he warned him.

PSI Opens City Office To Sell Health Plan to All Residents of Two Counties

Physician Services Incorporated came to Belleville yesterday, to open their health plan to all residents of Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

The organization, a non-profit service sponsored by the Ontario Medical Association, was closed to individuals in the Quinte area until now.

Employees of participating firms could join a "group," within the firm and receive coverage, but everyone else was "left out" of the plan.

Dr. Reid wants to keep the plan simple and to run the plan in a group of people.

The organization hopes to sign up about 60 per cent of the residents of both counties. Single persons may be covered alone, couples may be covered, or whole families (except married children or children more than 18 years old, can be included in the same agreement).

MINI DOCTORS PARTICIPATE

People who are covered get all their medical, surgical and obstetrical services provided free of charge, anywhere in the world. About 80 per cent of all doctors in Ontario participate in the plan.

The PSI plan will insure these doctors to send their bills direct to the PSI office. Non-participating doctors will present their bills to the patient and the patient must send them on to the PSI office.

Outside Ontario, doctors participating in other medical centres plan may also bill direct to PSI, or the patient may be asked to pay the bill, and send the bill to PSI for reimbursement.

The cost of drug, hospitalization, nursing, ambulance services, dental, and optical services are not covered by the plan, but are covered by the Group Family Plan.

GROUP FAMILY INADEQUATE

The decision to open a PSI plan in Belleville was made because the two counties was taken over by the province, and the "group plan" was inadequate.

The PSI plan was made to provide a better health plan for the residents of the two counties.

Say Macmillan Has Staved Off Cabinet Split

LONDON (CP-AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan met members of his cabinet today and from all outward signs he had staved off any immediate open split over the Profumo case scandal.

But the atmosphere remained tense.

As the ministers met for the second straight day, no ministers had had any sleep. And the prime minister himself had been up all night. He had had an intention of releasing the reins he held on the matter for six years.

Rumors spread Wednesday night that four ministers would quit over the moral aspects of the Profumo case.

One of those named as likely to quit, Hoagland Minister Sir Keith Joseph, said that he had resigned in mind last night.

Asked what would happen to the government, he replied: "It will go on as usual."

Home Secretary Henry Brooke

has removed doubts he would leave the government. But there were still questions marks about Health Minister Harold Wilson's position.

He said that he had resigned in mind last night.

Mission to Help Isolate Yemeni Civil War

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Soviet Union stood aside Tuesday and permitted the United Nations Security Council to authorize dispatch of a UN observation mission to help isolate the Yemeni civil war.

The Russians, having accomplished their objectives of placing the mission under the authority of the council, abstained on a compromise resolution requesting Secretary-General U Thant to proceed with the sending of the mission. The other council members voted in favor of the resolution.

The UN later announced that U Thant had ordered a Swedish-led mission to leave for the area at once from Jerusalem with a small aircraft party.

The compromise resolution merely noted that Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Republic had confirmed their agreement to disengage from the Yemeni conflict and had also agreed to meet some of the UN mission for the first two weeks.

U.A.R. troops have been backing the republican revolution that seized power in Yemen last September, while the Saudis have been supporting forces of the deposed imam.

The mission's task will be to patrol a buffer zone in the rough border along the Yemeni border, to assure that the Saudis keep their pledge to stop along the tribal forces of the deposed imam, Mohammed al-Badr.

Opposition MP Asks Question On Security

OTTAWA (CP)—Is that secret spy detectors in your closet as unenviable or aunt with oddball or domestic political notions? This is the way an opposition MP has been trying to get some indication of how far full by assassination or guerrilla by the government in this country.

G. L. Fairweather, lawyer MP for Royal, New Brunswick, has asked this question periodically before Parliament over the past several years.

During the last session, he was asked by the government to provide a security risk and turned out of the North.

Mr. Fairweather received public apologies from the Prime Minister and the government.

Minister of Justice, J. J. Macpherson, said the government was not aware of any such matter.

The matter seemed to die, except that in the outline of the circumstances of Mr. Fairweather's arrest, it became evident that he was branded a security risk in the belief his actions were a Communist.

ASKS DEGREE

So Mr. Fairweather entered the following question on the Commons order paper:

"Does the department of national defence consider the ideological beliefs of relatives when recruiting or promoting persons in the armed forces and, if so, what degree of relationship is considered, e.g. relationship by blood or by marriage?"

In the words, can a person of excellent character be denied promotion or the right to serve in the forces because a relative has beliefs that are different from most or dangerous?

So far Mr. Fairweather's question, requiring a written answer from the government, has gone unanswered.

CASUALTY

NEW YORK (AP)—Canadian Red Cross volunteers died on a night during the first act of the musical Little 38. The curtain was dropped, and the show interrupted for eight minutes in a calamitous fall over. Dr. Leo Hadravsky said the cause of the fall was not a fall but the collapse of the set and had been caused by exhaustion.

and was bigger than the body found. Parents of Guy Lucken, 15, of Renfrew, Que., and Pierre Marcia, 13, of Quebec, were to view the body today.

The Kenogami boy came here for his weekly musical lesson on April 20, took a walk before his bus was to return, and was not seen.

Pierre Marcia was last seen on April 20, took a walk before his bus was to return, and was not seen. Police believe he did not leave.

The body was discovered in the Pointe-Rouge region of Montreal about 20 miles west of the city. It was found in a wooded area and identified in the region.

Mr. Marcia said the man wore a dark jacket and was carrying a bag. He was carrying a bag of books and a bag of clothes.

Police and relatives of the boy carried out practically a house-to-house search of Quebec City for the boy. The Police of Abraham were searched, old buildings searched, reservoirs drained.

Last week, police urged parents to warn their children to avoid strangers. City Chief Roger Laroche said files of 1,000 sexual delinquents were being reviewed.

NBP Head Says Doctors Trying To Up Income

TORONTO (CP)—Donald C. Macdonald, Ontario New Democratic Party leader, accused provincial doctors of trying to raise their income by a proposed government medical care insurance program because it would straddle substantial increases in their incomes.

He told a nominating convention in York Mills today that doctors in Ontario will clear an extra $100,000 a year on the average if the estimated costs of the Progressive Conservative government plan can be taken seriously.

Mr. Macdonald said Health Minister Matthew R. Dymond had estimated the total cost of the plan at $100,000,000 a year. He said this would bring the average doctor's net income to $50,000 or $60,000.

He accused Dr. Dymond of deliberately exaggerating the cost of medical care insurance to curb public enthusiasm for it.

Looters Roam Guianá City; Jagan's Guards Wound Six

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—Looting mobs roamed Guianá today, and six persons were wounded as Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan's bodyguards fired into a menacing crowd.

Two other persons were shot during clashes with police in a continuing wave of violence resulting from an eight-week-long general strike against a government labor bill. Jagan's opponents claim the bill will make him a Castro-type dictator.

The bill would give the government the right to determine which unions employers should recognize.

The 40-year-old prime minister says the strike is intended to topple him from power in a civil strife South American colony divided by perennial strife between East Indians and Negroes.

TRAP CABINET

Hundreds of persons squatted around the building Wednesday, trapping Jagan and his cabinet inside.

Trucksloads of riot police converged on the building at noon and escorted several ministers away, but Jagan remained.

When the prime minister finally tried to leave, demonstrators stopped his car. Bodyguards opened fire as the auto burst through the hostile crowd. There was no word whether anyone was killed.

Police have arrested more than 100 persons since the strike began squalling last week.

An opposition leader accused Jagan's ruling Peoples Progressive Party of standing arms to set up a socialist government. He said the colony will continue to be a police state.

Dangerous

debates. In essence it is whether the Communist parties, created in the mid-1930s, can loosen their shackles without changing their character completely and checking the old revolutionary ardor.

Outcast China, ostracized by the West, its hungry millions cut off from anything resembling an affluent society, needs change. Its leaders portray Russia as a traitor to the faith and seek to topple Premier Khrushchev.

Revolution on the defensive sees the danger of going too far. But Khrushchev is still loud and shoulders above any man on the Russian side and he sticks to a pragmatic approach.

Tabernacle U.C.W. View Film Strip

Tabernacle United Church Women met in the church parson, recently, Mrs. Jack Allen, president, conducted the service. Unit No. 2 had charge of the devotional. Mrs. Irene Irwin illustrated the topic, "Our Church is our Country." Mrs. Miss Jean Smith gave a presentation of the film strip.

The program was in charge of the Christian Service Unit and recording committee. Mrs. Irene Douglass gave the devotion to the great need of trained workers of almost every type in Canada and overseas.

GUEST SPEAKER
Mrs. H. G. McFarlane introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Keith Gray, from Toronto, the Belleville Presbyterian secretary for the Christian Service Unit.

Mrs. Gray stated her remarks on facts from the books of Proverbs and Kings and pointed out the importance of a mother maintaining a Christian home where her children are the most precious possession.

Following Mrs. Gray's address, Mrs. John Baker, program convener, showed the film strip, "A Matter of Choice."

This illustrated the student life at Covenant College.

"United Church Women should always be on the watch for the potential young women in the community who is interested in full time service of the Church."

Unit No. 8, secreted refreshments. Unit No. 2 had a lot of home cooking and "Traveling Basket" articles.

Argyll IODE Plans Show, Dessert Bridge

The regular monthly meeting of the Argyll Chapter of the I.O.D.E., was held at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Sprague, Concession Lake.

This was in the form of a potluck supper and a large number of members were present. A sumptuous repast was enjoyed by all and afterwards groups of members wandered around the spacious grounds.

The meeting was called to order by the regent, Mrs. F. Smith.

After short business concluding the meeting, the regent presented the "Dessert Bridge and Hot Show" to be held in the fall.

Arrangements were made for the reception and tea to be held in the Officers' Mess in June, following the Citizenship exam.

Mrs. Burt reported a large number of articles had been shipped to the regent.

TRUITY

"Look at it this way, folks. By using any allowance you increase my purchasing power, thereby helping to stimulate the economy, and in a bonus, you receive two benefits."

Ann Landers

Our Books Find Resting Places on Strange Shelves

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Something happened today that has made me thoroughly ashamed. Today was the day I decided to give the library a top-to-bottom cleaning and polishing. This meant taking all the books off the shelves. I was nervous about books I had "borrowed." One of these books was personally autographed by the author and I proposed faithfully to return it within the week. That was last summer.

I then got to thinking of all the books I had loaned to friends who had promised to return them—and never did. Millions of people read your column, Ann, and I'll bet thousands who are reading these words have some borrowed books on their shelves. Will you print this letter and proclaim today "Return Borrowed Book Day?" Thank you.—DRE TROT.

DEAR DRE TROT—Be it known that, JUNE 13, 1935 is proclaimed to be "Return Borrowed Book Day" in the United States, Canada and all foreign countries in which this column appears.

And thank you for reminding me. I'd better return a couple of books myself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Our 11-year-old son has refused to do one thing in school all year long.

I've talked to his teacher, the principal, and other mothers. I've consulted a psychologist, our minister, our family physician, the very doctor and the sex doctor. They all say he is healthy, normal, and intelligent—but not to worry, that he will study when he is ready. The question is when will he be ready?

I might add that he is rather large for his age, quite handsome, and the girls like him. He hates competitive games and soap and water. I've praised, threatened, bribed and pleaded. Nothing works. What do I do next?—STYVEDY NUT HORN, ILL.

DEAR STYVEDY—Why don't you try leaving him alone? This boy sounds like a kid whose mother is pushing him too hard. He may "be ready" when you take the whip off his back.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I married a girl when she was 18. I thought she was mature because she had already finished two years of college, but I have learned that maturity and intelligence are not the same thing.

We have had 18 months of what I will freely admit has been less than a perfect marriage. We seem to be arguing continuously about unimportant things. I have long suspected that my wife picks fights so she can have an excuse to get mad at the kid she is the guest room.

Yesterday I received a letter in the mail. It was from my mother-in-law. This letter listed all the things my wife is unhappy about. Most of the complaints had to do with our sex life. I was shocked. The letter ended with, "I don't expect a reply, of course. This letter is just to help you from things out of focus."

What is a mature reaction to a situation such as that?—FRED.

DEAR FRED—If communication between you and your wife is so poor that she must complain to her mother, something is drastically wrong.

You both need professional counselling. All married couples have problems, and solving them isn't healthy and constructive. When a couple can't talk, they should seek outside help.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Make Your Marriage—It's Love or Death," containing with your request 25 cents in coins and a long self-addressed envelope.

Strawberry Social Planned By U.C.W.

SHANOWVILLE—The Shanowville United Church Women held their June meeting on Tuesday night at the ball. Some of the ladies came in the morning in order to finish the two quilts. The first quilt was finished the previous week. At 8 p.m. Mrs. Alice Crockett, president, attended a cordial welcome to all and opened the meeting.

Mrs. D. Hinchey was in charge of the devotional, the theme being "Love Prejudice Expelled."

The Scripture reading was from John 1:14, taken from Ruth 1:14. Mrs. D. Hinchey gave the meditation. Aligned from the planning of her witness the nation of Israel has been "the dominion of the Eastern world." Her testimony was a service up and down which married the outstanding armies of Assyria, Babylon, Egypt, Persia, Macedonia and Rome. Little wonder that her people murdered the father of all "foreigners." "All strangers are enemies," became his national policy, even so, his narrow political actions.

These narrow policies became religious requirements in the writings of Ezra and Nehemiah. Ezra prohibited all mixed marriages, and even demanded that non-Jewish wives and their children should be put away. Against a policy so harsh, some unknown author wrote the lovely Book of Ruth. It is the story of a romance, which alleges that the ancestry of Israel's national hero may be traced back to—of all things—a mixed marriage.

"Molishah (dame)," a daughter of a particularly hated alien race, became the accepted and beloved wife of a highly respected Jew, and is proved to be the great-grandmother of King David.

BUSINESS PORTION

make final plans for the event. Mrs. C. Wood, Mrs. M. Little, Mrs. D. Hinchey and Mrs. C. Straton were appointed to look after the program for the evening.

The ladies are to cater at the ballroom at the Fair Hotel, July 8.

A double session was made to the Board of Stewards to be applied to the Finance Board. Mrs. Vivian read the correspondence. An invitation was received from the Shanowville Anglican Guild to attend their "Bazaar Tea" at Mrs. The Whitla's in June.

Mrs. Hinchey thanked her group for their assistance with the program and the lunch. After the meeting closed refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed. The next meeting will be held on September 5 at 2 p.m.

U.C.W. Meetings

WOOLLEN—Unit 5 of the Woolen U.C.W. held its June meeting at the home of Mrs. Hugh Fox. The leader Mrs. J. Putnam, presided, opening with a poem, "Church," and welcoming everyone. The secretary, treasurer Mrs. B. Fox, told of the work of the unit and reported encouraging results from the fund and bazaar held on May 20th.

Worship theme, "Workers with God," was led by Mrs. Putnam. Mrs. A. Guntz and Mrs. E. Guntz.

An interesting discussion was led by Mrs. V. Fox. The "Church" taken from "The Word and the Way."

After the meeting closed Mrs. Fox outlined the sewing list for the bazaar. Mrs. B. Fox stated the hostess during lunch.

Coroner

His wife, Jeanne, 25, an industrial designer with the F&G Corporation, 1001
Five students—Francis Gaud, 19; Raymond Villeneuve, 19, known as "Villeneuv"; Marc Lachapelle, 20; Alan Brodeur, 19, known as "Brodeur"; and Jean Lachapelle, 20.
Serge Gaud, 20, a unemployed reporter formerly with the Montreal Gazette and the Canadian Press.
Pierre Schneider, 19, a CBC office boy for Montreal Le Devoir.
Eugene Pilon, 20, a professional with the Queen Elizabeth Hotel.
Bernard Giroux, 19, a photographer.
Two checks—Gilles Frumau, 18, and Yves Labonte, 18, NAMED BY CORONER
The officers held criminal responsibility, all of them named by coroner Trahan in his address to the jury, are:
Alan Brodeur, Jean Lachapelle, Alain Gaud, Jean Gaud, Claude Savard and Francis Giroux.
Brunelle, Lachapelle and Gaud were arrested Wednesday.
Brunelle in the courthouse.
The inquest was held in place. All three had been arrested earlier and released after questioning.
Chelver, Savard and Francis Giroux, not related to Jacques Giroux, were still being sought.
The material witnesses, Schodens, Hudson, Jacques Giroux, Villeneuve and Gaud, were cited for contempt by coroner Trahan during the three-day hearings after the inquest to answer questions and was sentenced to one month in jail.
Two lawyers, Raymond Brodeur and Guy Guerin, were cited for contempt when they attempted to address the jury, last witness to appear on Wednesday.
Earlier in the day Mr. Justice Jean Schodens of Quebec Superior Court rejected a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to stop the material witnesses from a writ prohibition to stop the inquest.

CAUSES DELAY
The inquest was delayed while argument was heard on the petition for a writ of habeas corpus.
The lawyers had left the courtroom Tuesday afternoon after the coroner said they could neither ask questions nor raise new points of law during the remainder of the inquest.
Mr. Justice Schodens said this ruling after a day and a half of testimony within the discretionary powers of the coroner.
He also rejected major points made in the petition concerning witness Schodens.
The petition alleged that the former forced Schodens to testify although he was unwillingly, objectively, having slept all night before, and that Schodens was unable to see his lawyer without the presence of two police officers.
The judge said the transcript of testimony does not appear to support the claim that Schodens was unable to testify.
The judge said, Crown lawyers had made it clear in their arguments to him that the coroner had instructed police to allow lawyers to see their clients alone between noon last Wednesday and 5 p.m. last Saturday—a period he considered reasonable.
WELD SINCE JUNE 1
Some of the material witnesses have been in police custody since June 1 in Quebec because they are in the case of a violent death until an inquest has been held.
Schodens testified Monday that he was arrested by the Gendarm when he was 196 but was not treated as badly by the Gendarm as he was by the Montreal police during his detention.
He said he was arrested by him and Jacques Giroux planned the bomb at the army recruiting centre that killed O'Neill. He said they had intended to put it at the Sir John A. MacDonald monument in Dominion Square but the square was too

Unwed Mother of Two

DEAR DORIS—I live a common law for five years and in that time had two children. The man I lived with drank quite heavily and we are now living apart.
But my sister is trying to adopt my children. This is not something I want to do, but I feel it is the only thing that is right for the children. However, every time I go over the older one, who is 1½ years, hangs onto my skirt constantly and cries if I don't take her. I now feel that my sister is starting to resent my coming there because my child will not let her take her.
If I go through with this, will it scar me for life, or is it really possible to forget and start a new life without regrets? I miss the children terribly at times. Please give me some ideas or advice. —TORMENTED.

SPECTATORS APPEAL
Feelings ran high at Wednesday's sitting when lawyers Doucet and Guerin were expelled from the courtroom. Half a dozen spectators were deputed for applauding them.

The two lawyers were expelled at the request of Jean-Benoit of Quebec City, special representative of the attorney-general's department, who was questioning Blais at the time.

After leaving Mr. Doucet said he had never heard of one member of the bar asking that another be expelled from a court.

Mr. Blais said "it's beyond doubt now" and he asked that police escort the two lawyers out.

"We are not in Quebec City," Mr. Doucet said. "We are in Montreal."

Brodeur testified that Gaud, Doucet and Francis Giroux were friends with whom he had discussed the F&G Del-Idem. Maurice Valoucoeur said into the evidence a statement he said was signed by Villeneuve that named Brodeur, Savard and Lachapelle as members of the F&G.

Schodens testified that the goal of the F&G was to take violent action "to give us ideas of an independent Quebec."

But he needs have bothered. The guard loved every minute of it and their applause was drowned only by the heavy cannon firing.
The guard, billeted at Earl's Court where the tournament is being held, was inspected Tuesday by George Drew, Canadian high commissioner in London and a former colonel.
Today they will form the guard of honor when the Queen and the visiting president of the United States will officially open the Commonwealth exhibition at the Commonwealth Institute.
The Queen also will attend a matinee performance of the tournament, which runs until June 26, and "Canada night" with Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone and widow of the former Canadian governor-general, as guest of honor—will be held June 27.
The tournament is held annually for the benefit of various sports charities.
The guard, aside from two performances a day and a half session each morning, will have time for lots of sightseeing around London. Already they have visited a number of points of interest, including Windsor Castle.

Municipal Representatives Of Conservation Authority Take Tour of Watershed

Municipal representatives from the 17-member Metro Toronto Conservation Authority were completely restored and since the property has been one of the major attractions of the Authority.

Also during the morning buses stopped at the original Hungerford township reforestation plot commenced 25 years ago by the township and since taken over by the Authority.

PLAQUE UNVEILED
Here a plaque in recognition of Hungerford's initiation of municipal forests in the township was unveiled by former county warden Harry Coulter.

Comments on the Authority's reforestation program were heard from T. C. Graham of Tweed, chairman of the reforestation committee.

Earlier Dr. Barnes complimented the Metro Authority on its reforestation program, stating that Authority forests in all Ontario under department of Lands and Forests.

DINNER IN TWEED
Dinner for just over 120 persons was served at the Old Fellows' Hall in Tweed, where Dr. Ross, chairman of the Metro-Toronto Conservation Area, spoke on the value of conservation.

At the O'Hara Mill and at other conservation areas visited, highlights of the various activities were outlined by Bruce Smith, chairman of the Authority's Conservation Area Committee.

OPERATE 'MULEY' SAW
Visitors to the century old O'Hara's Mill were afforded some of the atmosphere of the middle 19th century when water from the mill pond was turned on to operate the upright 'muley' saw.

VIEW FARM POND
At the Col. Boone Vanderwater Area at Thomaburg the visitors viewed the new farm pond completed last autumn, inspected the various picnic areas and even had a drink out of the never-failing spring which conservation area chairman Bruce Smith said would be worth at least a million dollars to Metro-Toronto.

WILL CREATE VILLAGE
A Pioneer Village is now being created and will be completed by 1967. Nothing in the village will be less than 100 years old.

PRaises BOB ECHO PARK
Lands and Forests Minister Kelso Roberts had high praise for the recreational attractions of this area, stating that the Bob Echo Park on Lake Kasabaw was "one of the grandest parks in this province and was still in the making."

Need for Conservation Of Natural Resources Gets Little Criticism Says Speaker

The need for conservation of natural resources is one appreciated by people of all ages and is even understood by children of junior school age. This was the view which Dr. Ross, chairman of the Metro-Toronto Conservation Area, described how the Conservation Authority program has caught on in Ontario since it was introduced less than 20 years ago.

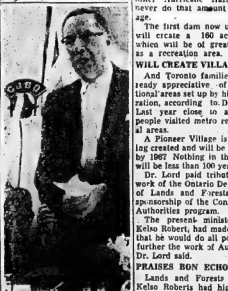

Dr. Lord was the guest speaker at yesterday's luncheon given to municipal representatives taking in the all-day watershed tour sponsored by the Metro River Conservation Authority.

Also attending the luncheon at the Tweed Old Fellows Hall were Hon. A. Kelso Roberts, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, who stopped off in Tweed during a tour of Lands and Forests stations in Central Ontario.

LITTLE CRITICISM
Dr. Lord said that the Conservation Authority program was one which received little criticism from any walk of life. However, 81 persons and caused 28 million dollars in one night, the Authority now has a 38 million dollar flood control program underway which is scheduled for completion in about 10 years.

Cardinal Montini Still Favorite As Next Pope

VATICAN CITY (Reuters).—Giuseppe Battista Cardinal Montini, Roman Catholic archbishop of Milan and a key figure in Italian policy under Pope Pius XII, remains the favorite among possible candidates for the next Pope.

His stock rose higher Tuesday when a usually reliable Vatican source reported Pietro Cardinal Cirielli, a leading member of the Vatican administration, favored Montini. Cirielli, 77, is said to have a reputation as a "Pope maker."

Cardinal Montini, 68, has been archbishop of Milan since late 1959. Before that he was pro-secretary of state to Pope Pius XII.

Another widely-favored candidate is Giacomo Cardinal Lercaro, archbishop of Bologna. Communist political stronghold.

He is an enthusiast for liturgical reforms and was active at the Second Vatican Council in Rome.

Experts are unanimous that a deadlock over Montini and Lercaro could easily bring into prominence at least six other candidates.

SUGAR OUTPUT DROPS.—A Cuban what they regard as too little incentive is sugar farmer stands in a sugar cane field in Las Villas. The reluctance of some peasants to work for

As Production Lags Experts Ponder: "Could Economics Beard Castro?"

By JACK BEST

HAVANA (CP).—The battle of production now is the decisive battle," the Armed Forces Minister Raul Castro at the big workers' rally in Havana's Plaza de la Revolution May 11, a few days later his older brother, Premier Fidel Castro, on a triumphal tour of the Soviet Union, led a crowd of Russians at Volgograd.

"How can the economy of socialism and communism be defeated successfully? By creating, producing, defeating the imperialists in the economic field."

Industries Minister Che Guevara, in an address on Cuban education on the eve of May 1963. "People capable of being exploited in the armed defense of their country at times show slackness in their individual and social work."

Such statements exemplify the preoccupation of Cuban leaders with a problem rapidly becoming perhaps the most crucial of the revolution has been faced—that of production and economic advance.

The fact they find it necessary to place so much emphasis on this problem is, in the opinion of qualified observers, revealing. That, economically, growth has been lagging seriously may be the most serious problem the revolution has actually turned into today.

SMALL SUGAR CROP

This is certainly part of sugar—still the country's No. 1 economic barometer and export commodity despite strenuous efforts to diversify its agriculture.

Two years ago Cuba has varied almost 1,000,000 tons of sugar. Estimates are that this year's crop will be no more than 4,000,000 tons, perhaps not much more than 3,000,000.

And the fact is that, to some extent, the revolution has become corrupted by its own slogan, said an independent observer, "It's enough to go out into Plaza de la Revolution on May 11 or 12 and about 'Viva Fidel!' They don't seem to appreciate that winning a revolution takes hard work."

Not many many dedicated people in positions of responsibility are working long hours with little pay for the success of the revolution.

One problem they are content with is the Cuban mental life. Irresponsible, vices, one, filled with the joy of living. They don't seem to take any pleasure in the idea of pushing themselves with hard work now in return for abstract promises of a better tomorrow.

THEY MAY BE TIRED OF WAITING FOR TOMORROW. A foreign two years now they've been hearing that the end of the food shortage is not far off. Until now, at any rate, the food situation has only seemed to get worse.

"The incentive is lacking," said a diplomatic informant, "a lot of citizens like Cuba's you need a strong incentive to get to work hard."

Revolutionary leaders are aware that with the right combination of exhortation and adequate reward, incentives they can bring forth a surge of creative energy. A new set of slogans has been invented to help the process. "Emulating and surpassing." "I'm emulating; how about you?" "We are all emulating."

"Emulation" is probably the most widely publicized word in Cuba today. It denotes the Cuban version of the Stakhanovite campaign used in Stalinist Russia to get workers to produce more than their quota.

Che Guevara has been the leader of the fight for more and higher quality production. It seems only natural since it was Guevara who masterminded the famous nationalization program of 1960. If nationalization is to produce, his reputation suffers by implication.

WANTS SMALLER ARMY

It is said that in the inner circles of the revolution, Guevara has long been pushing for a small army.

That emphasis on military might adds more on recruiting and preparing workers for productive work.

Cuba is reported to have a standing army of 300,000 to 400,000 and a militia of more than 200,000, of whom a portion at any given time away from the country.

Of the remainder, many take a turn guarding primary buildings at night—hardly conducive to high productivity during the day.

A practice Guevara frequently attacks is "revisionism," the tendency of supervisors and workers alike to hold grudges, long-suffered dissensions instead of coming to grips with a problem.

Officials talk a great deal about industrialization of Cuba but a constant independent source says there is little evidence that much is taking place. The economy is still agrarian-based.

The drop in sugar production means Cuba again will be unable to fulfill its contract with the Soviet Union which calls for delivery of 1,000,000 tons a year.

First year's beginning in 1961, the contract calls for 1,000,000 tons.

The contract price is four cents a pound, considered generous when the agreement was signed in 1960, but far below world prices today.

Former U.S. Ambassador to Cuba, William Boardman, says the increased world price by paying six cents a pound on this year's deliveries. It is also alleged the Soviet Union will grant export less than the contract call for.

Last year Cuba exported 8,130,000 tons of sugar, a considerable portion of which was sold to the Soviet Union.

Communist countries took 3,130,000 tons, including 1,112,000 to the Soviet Union. Arab nations took 55,000 tons. Japan took 41,000 tons. NATO countries 22,200 tons and other Western nations 122,000 tons.

A variety of reasons have been advanced for the sugar crop failure. Critics say it is due to improper care of cane fields and improper harvesting methods used by "volunteers" sent from cities to take the place of peasants refusing to cut cane for lack of proper incentive.

Government officials say the chief blame on drought. They insist production will pick up next year, with help of American aid.

Before that he was pro-secretary of state to Pope Pius XII.

There is also the problem of sugar factories being hampered by lack of American spare parts.

IMPORTED FROM CANADA

Despite intensive attempts to build up its cattle industry through imports on Canadian breeder stock, Cuba probably will slaughter only 600,000 cattle this year. This is up from last year's 385,000 but still well below the 500,000 head slaughtered in 1960, or 10 years before the revolution.

An ambitious poultry-raising program, also based on imports from Canada, is said to have failed because Cuban officials, while good at raising chickens, refused to allocate funds for proper feed. The result was many chicks died.

Cuba is a reported 4,000,000 chickens on the island, however, and there is talk the government is ready to start building again with more imports from Canada, determined this time to avoid past mistakes.

Hope for production this year is 700,000,000 pounds compared with a reported 400,000,000 last year. In 1960, the year before the revolution, output, according to Cuban authorities, was 350,000,000 pounds though the U.S. agriculture department says it was 570,000,000.

COFFEE RATIONING

Coffee production last year was estimated at 125,000,000 pounds, nearly double the reported figure for 1958-59 and a much higher figure than the 110,000,000 said to have been produced in 1958-59. However, with consumption rising, earlier this year the government took the politically unpopular step of rationing coffee to the ration limit—three ounces per person a week.

To help retailers the food shortage a cash program is under way to boost fish production. Five trawlers have been bought from Japan and seven from the Soviet Union.

Nearly 300 fishing boats ranging in length from 47 feet to 322 feet are being ordered at Cuban shipyards. Fishing schools have been opened and the Russians are building a fishing port in Havana.

Two hundred young Cubans are in the Soviet Union studying production techniques for use at the fishing port.

Cuban waters are said to be among the richest in the world, teeming with at least 100 different classes of fish, and government officials say these resources have never been properly exploited.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Evening network programs this season cost nearly $800,000,000, mounting production and time.

At season's end, it is fair to ask what kind of television year has it been? The answer, dictated by the recent Emmy awards can be made in one word: Unexciting.

Television's most memorable moments during the last season, as far as this viewer is concerned, came in the documentary and news areas.

The Tunnel, which picked up the Program of the Year Emmy, was a thoroughly gripping program, full of real suspense even if we did know at the outset that many people were to escape to freedom in the West through the escape passage dug under the Berlin wall.

But the Kremlin broadcast too late to qualify for this season's honors list, in my candidate for television's finest hour of the year.

LACKING

It was a sorry year for original drama. The carefully produced Hall of Fame special lacked zing.

The variety shows, with a couple of exceptions, had a tendency to look and sound alike, particularly because they all seemed to be using the same list of guest stars.

Now comes the summer period, when television goes to sleep. In September, with the viewers refreshed, there will be some 35 new programs slipped into the network schedules.

Recommended tonight: McHale's Navy, ABC, 8:30-10 EDT.

Composer Roy Harris at 65 Not Ready to Slow Down

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—At 65, composer Roy Harris shows no sign of slowing down his double career.

He continues his teaching of a new generation of composers and his own creation of a body of work that has enriched the musical literature of America.

Harris was born in Lorain County, Ohio, 65 years ago last Feb. 12.

His family moved to Covington, Calif., when he was six. He first displayed his brilliance as a composer at the University of California at Los Angeles, where he returned three years ago to conduct graduate seminars and other classes for young musicians.

He conducted the west coast premier of his Fifth Symphony at the current Los Angeles International Music Festival. UCLA. Between rehearsals he talked about the plight of the serious artist and about his new generation.

ASKS FOR WORKS

"Many wonderful things have passed the affable, broad-faced composer," the Philadelphia Orchestra commissioner, Mr. Ninth Symphony, who has already finished. And the friends of Albert Schweitzer, who commended a large work for choral and orchestra to celebrate Dr. Schweitzer's 80th birthday.

Although considered one of the country's successful composers, Harris admitted he cannot earn a living from composition alone.

"Not with five children," said Harris, whose offspring range from 13 to seven years. "Ten happy I could have earned enough if I had written popular music or movie scores. But I never wanted to do the one I was offered and I was never offered the one I wanted."

"So I have to teach. I enjoy it; teaching is both a privilege and a responsibility."

Trenton Girl Wins Trip To Caribbean

former Belleville girl, now living in Trenton, has won herself a trip to the Caribbean in the recently-completed "The Girl Who Wins a Trip to the Caribbean" contest.

Shirley Fox, now over 70, finished at the Belleville-Holmwood contest by beating her own qualifying average of 198 by 64 plus per game.

More than 15,000 bowlers took part in the annual festival with $28 from the Quince district competing at the local level.

Next in line among the district bowlers was Dick Young, of Belleville, who topped his qualifying average of 208 by 15 plus per game, including a 400 game.

Bowlers from all areas Canada took part in the play with 40 winners named in all. The district divisions include the following: popular five pins, the first in which Shirley Cusack won her free trip, candlepin, ten pin, and dachshund.

BIRDIE HOPFUL

BALTIMORE (AP)—Manager Birdie Hobbs of the Cleveland Indians says positive thinking is the only way to beat the New York Yankees and strengthen the American League. "We have some fine clubs in the league who play the job down," Hobbs said Wednesday before departing for Detroit. "And there's no reason we can't say we can win."

City Hotel Tops A. to Z.

City Hotel came from behind to whip A. to Z. Services 10-1 in a Commercial football league game played at Park Dale last night.

Dave Fenevy pitched a strong game for the winners and slammed a home run with two men on base.

Jim Vankon was the leading pitcher.

No score sheet was turned in by the A. to Z. team.

"Greasy Kid Stuff" More Suitable

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Medical Association recorded its opposition Wednesday to the linking of advertising of athletic activity and the use of alcohol.

Dr. G. E. DeW. Wilson of Kingston, chairman of the CMA committee on physical education and recreation, said the doctors consider cigarette and alcohol advertisements that feature well-known athletes or athletic activity in minor leagues that those activities go well together.

The CMA also urged that among children of elementary school age sports competition be kept within the community and out-of-town travel for tournaments kept to a minimum. The committee felt much high-powered juvenile league sports put too much emotional and physical strain on boys.

Dr. Wilson said that although some doctors feel "treatment" of athletic injuries by injections as the athletes can continue play is all right in some cases, the committee believes such injections never should be used.

Jones Motors Lose 12-8 To Foxboro

Foxboro scored first and often on a sloppy field to outlast last Belleville Jones Motors 12-8 in a South Hastings Baseball League fixture played at the Foxborough last night.

The winners scored three in the first, one in the fourth and five in the seventh and final frame but the rally came too late and too little.

Goat "Bugs" Campbell took ad five-hit ball on the Foxboro mound, blazing third strikes past 13 of the young Belleville batters.

Four walks and four errors made his job a bit difficult, especially in the last frame.

Frank Farrell allowed all 11 Foxboro solistes before giving way to Bobby Boyce on the "Jones" hilltop in the seventh.

Farrell fanned four and walked seven while Boyce fanned one and added two walks. Belleville erred five times.

Boyle collected three of the "Jones" hits, including a double while Bobby Moore hit a low blast that bounced over an outfielder's head for a three-run homer in the seventh inning.

Don Gardner added a single.

All Foxboro hits were one-baggers, three of them going to Glen Reynolds and two each to Bobby Wasmann, Bill Charlton, Al Dwyer and Rolly Belanger.

OHA Signs Agreement

To Curb Raids on NOHA

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association and the Northern Ontario Hockey Association have signed an agreement designed to curb the OHA's raids on northern junior players. It was announced Wednesday.

Subject to review after a season of operation, the agreement, announced by OHA business manager Bill Hixley, limits the number of transfers from any northern team to two players. Junior A teams in the OHA will not be limited in the number of northern players they may sign, the agreement says, but Junior B teams will be able to register no more than two, and no transfers will be permitted to Junior C OHA teams.

Junior A teams will not be allowed to sign players and then reassign them to a lower affiliate in the southern league. If a player is not kept with the OHA Junior A team, he must be released back to his northern team.

The NOHA formed the Junior A series during the 1962-63 season and asked for separate status in order to protect their team from southern raiders. The two leagues worked out the agreement after the request was turned down by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association at its annual meeting in Brandon, Man., last month.

One-Armed Golfers Gets Hole-In-One

HARMONY, N.J. (AP)—A one-armed golfer shot a hole-in-one on the par-three 185-yard 11th hole at Harborside Hollow golf club Tuesday.

"I was so surprised I sat right down," said Thomas Roselli, 42, of Branchville. Roselli lost his right arm in a building accident five years ago. He was right-handed.

"I began golfing three years ago and I had to learn all over again," he said. He still uses right-handed golf clubs.

Down in the Valley

Natural Gas Deposit Possibilities
Spark St. Lawrence Explorations

By GERRY MOORE

QUEBEC (CP)—The St. Lawrence Valley has burst open natural gas spectacularly, from time immemorial.

Timers who have seen signs of flaming gas near or out of control basins to grid a cavernous hole into the fertile earth for obvious reasons.

The pockets of gas are so shallow home owners tap them with a hand. The gas is used to heat everything from motels to emigrants.

Because the valley is a popular region, developed and growing industrially, the shallow pockets have been sources of flame for drilling there.

Giant like Imperial Oil has drilled the valley and found it does, their reports said in a fact, to find the source pool.

If there is one, the St. Lawrence Oil Ltd. has made the most determined search of effort to find out and is getting the most encouraging results in the valley's 10-year history of drilling.

DRILLED DEEPER

The shallow pockets have been found out to be commercially worth while, though at one time a St. Lawrence find and finally in the lungs of Trois-Rivières.

This spring, Lashboro decided to go down deep.

The company holds or shares drilling rights on 220,000 acres in the southwest of Trois-Rivières.

It has a dozen producing wells in the Pointe-Claire region on the north side of the river, though they flow at equivalent pressure, Lashboro still doesn't know the extent of the shallow reserves.

Its latest drilling program took it to the south side, diagonally across the river from Trois-Rivières, for a series of deep tests.

Nothing happened until late midnight April 24, when Label No. 5 came in in typically wild valley fashion, blowing, musty gas, 70 feet in the air.

The eruption from about 3,000 feet, believed to be the Potsdam formation, damaged the drill stem and cutback Lashboro directors, a group of Quebec City business and professional men.

DEBELLING COSTS LESS

Government authorities say the deep strike is encouraging.

Lashboro required the stem and drilled to 4,000 feet and expects to go to 4,500 before reaching granite. President Henri Dubouché says a series of wells will be sunk during the summer to determine the size of the others with Canadian Industrial Gas holds 25 per cent.

They have the biggest drilling rig ever in the valley on the job, supervised by J. C. Sorelle and Associates Ltd., a firm of Calgary drilling engineers.

Maybe the leading St. Lawrence Valley has finally met its match.

Excessive Tax-Deductible Expense Account Living To Be Carefully Scrutinized

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP)—The tax-collectors apparently haven't been as zealous as they should have been in those tax deductions for business expenses for living and did not living prospective customers.

It is that the revenue department "not another poor Thursday night to crack down on excessive tax-deductible expense account living."

In his June 30, 1963, budget speech, the former Conservative finance minister, Donald Fleming, said:

"The government has no intention of allowing so-called expense account living to continue. It is an increasingly serious problem which will be subject to more intensive scrutiny."

Liberal Finance Minister Gordon said in his June 13, 1963, budget speech:

"I am sure that honorable members will agree that any excess of expense account living is unfair to those who do not indulge in such practices. They should be stopped."

Mr. Fleming said: "The government has become increasingly vigilant concerned over the extent of abuse by some taxpayers of the provisions for the deduction of amounts expended for the purpose of gaining income from a business."

Mr. Gordon: "We are particularly concerned about the way in which certain taxpayers never to be able to eat, drink and entertain on a lavish scale on the basis of what is called a business expense but which is really indulging in large part at least in the public revenue."

Mr. Fleming then pointed out that the government might introduce more stringent legislation to restrict further tax deductions allowed for expenses for living but for customers with liquor, since they are "comparable."

Mr. Gordon went a step further.

"I am sure that businessmen—this also applies to doctors, lawyers, travelling salesmen—must be allowed to deduct the price of a meal as a business expense, but more than 50 per cent of the cost as today as a capital cost at least."

Famous Admiral Dies Suddenly In London Taxi

LONDON (AP)—Admiral of the Fleet Viscount Cunningham, 60, hero of the battle to keep the allied lines open in the Mediterranean during the difficult early stages of the Second World War, died in a London taxi Wednesday.

Admiral Cunningham, a sumo-sized man, was 60 years old and had served more than 40 years in sea service. He was first sea lord and chief of naval staff in the Royal Navy, and he had been a member of the cabinet since 1945.

He was called to the scene of the accident by a taxi driver who had seen him in the street. He was taken to St. George's Hospital, where he died.

Profumo Case Investigator and Minister Leaves Cabinet Meeting

WALKING OUT OF London's Admiralty House after the second British cabinet meeting in two days are Lord Dillmore, right, the Lord Chancellor, and Sir Keith Joseph, Minister of Housing.

Lord Dillmore presented his report on his inquiry into the security aspects of the Profumo case. Sir Joseph, who had been rumored likely to resign, disavowed any such intention.

The charge was made by Michael H. E. Edmonds, prominent London solicitor, a letter to Prime Minister Macmillan.

Edmonds said he had earlier reported this accusation to Lord Dillmore but now had become concerned that nothing was being done.

Says Russian Asked Call Girl To Get Secrets

OTTAWA (AP)—A British lawyer charged today that a Russian spy, known as "The Professor," had asked a call girl to get secrets from the government.

The lawyer, who was also being accused, gave himself up to the police Wednesday night accompanied by his lawyer.

A namesake walked into police headquarters accompanied by his lawyer earlier Thursday to clear himself of suspicion.

He was released in the afternoon after being questioned at length by police who termed the incident "a case of mistaken identity."

Police are still looking for the other man named by the call girl, Joan Christie, assistant to the professor.

Meanwhile, Montreal police have been keeping a close watch on the house of Corporal Marcel Thériault in suburban Montreal.

A high-ranking Montreal police officer who asked that his name not be mentioned admitted receiving a similar call.

Meanwhile, the detaining of the witnesses and procedure at the court's disposal—under which defense lawyers speak only at the court's discretion—was a source of heated controversy and much criticism of the Crown's Act.

In Ottawa, Lord Chancellor, Justice Minister, told the Commons there was no contradiction between the Crown's Act of Quebec and the Canadian Bill of Rights.

He said the Bill of Rights applies only to federal laws; there was no contradiction with the Crown's Act and no occasion to refer the provincial act to the Supreme Court.

Project Mercury Now Disbanded By Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has closed its Mercury manned-craft program to concentrate on Project Gemini, the next step toward manned moon landing.

NASA Administrator James Webb announced Wednesday that, with the "best brains" of Project Mercury made fully available for the more advanced program, this Gemini launching schedule is planned.

1. Next December or January, a sub-orbital mission using a "sub-orbital" or dummy model of the two-man craft.

2. Three months later, a partial system test or possibly a full orbital flight test, all of the complete Gemini vehicle and all Titan II launching booster.

3. Late in the summer or in early fall of next year, a full unmanned orbital flight — the previous tests go well — the first orbital mission with a two-man crew.

NAVY LEAVES CRAFT
In later Gemini flights, lasting up to two weeks, crew members will leave their craft to move about individually with the safeguard of a tethering line in space.

They also will practice rendezvous with other spacecraft previously placed in orbit by means of Atlas boosters.

These techniques must be developed before three men in Apollo spacecraft, perhaps before the end of this decade, can safely orbit the moon and send two of the crew on to the moon.

Shortly after the full-scale ahead design on Gemini was announced, NASA disclosed the resignation of D. Brainerd Holmes as head of the Apollo program.

STRAIGHT DOWN THE MIDDLE

That's the way to stay out of the rough... and out of trouble... on the golf course and in day to day living as well. You've taught your son both lessons, not just on the tee, but throughout his life. This full time job is called Fatherhood and it carries with it a heavy load of responsibility. But there are rewards, too. One of them is the sense of satisfaction you feel today. This is Father's Day in the truest sense because your son knows his father is a man he can respect. He is proud to follow the example of a man who has always practiced Moderation in all things, including the use of whisky. It is the sincere wish of The House of Seagram that every father may understand and every son may appreciate the meaning of Father's Day.

Air Marshal

Ray Slemmon
Soon to Retire

OTTAWA (CP) - RCAF Air Marshal Ray Slemmon, occupant of one of the hottest of the hot seats in the cold war by the nearly six years, is expected to retire this summer as deputy chief of the North American Air Defence Command at the RCAF.

His likely successor will be Air Marshal Alvin V. Marshall, chief of the RCAF's Air Defence Command.

Slemmon, 53, a telecommunications expert who has been deputy chief of the Canada's command since 1957 to detect, give warnings of and fight off Soviet air assault on this continent.

Siemon, the only serving member of the RCAF who has met a minister when the air force was formed in 1924, has on occasion been in the back of the Canadian government, Liberal and Conservative, for speaking his mind publicly.

Successful Living

BY DORIS CLARK
(A Canadian Social Worker Deals with Human Problems)
Fought Fire With Fire

DEAR DORIS - For a number of years my wife has accused me of idleness and she named the two women in front of my four sons, two of which are 17 and 18 years old.

So I fought fire with fire and accused her of the same. Then I made up my mind to swallow my pride and I am telling you the truth, this was a very hard task to perform. I took an oath in front of all of my sons that, ever since I was married, I had no relations with any other women. When I asked her to do the same she refused to do so. So she leaves me no alternative but to tell her that I was ready to repeat this oath in front of any lawyer on a stack of Bibles.

When she goes into temper tantrums she screams at me that she will poison me or shoot me. Should I leave her to her own troubles and walk out on her? - LOOKING FOR PEACE.

DEAR LOOKING - It seems you silenced the accusations but indicated her. Why is she so desperately frustrated?

Is there no room left for kindness, loving gestures, some fun between you? She has been childish, but does that mean you're through? Take a look at whether you're been taking her for granted. Your boy, your wife, yourself, could do with some positive love in your lives.

To HAPPY ENDING - Glad to hear of progress. If you should write again, would you mind making your letter considerably shorter? I am interested in you, but my time is terribly limited. I answer 200 letters a week, besides my regular articles.

(If it's etiquette that's puzzling you, ask Doris. And remember that stamped envelope!)

ANSWERS to "Are You Really Happy?"

1. NO: Crowds are exhilarating. If anything, to the well adjusted.

2. NO: An affirmative answer shows departure from normal; may indicate fears or anxieties.

3. NO: This may be wise, but unvarnished pessimism disallows the hope and expectation essential to happiness.

4. NO: Unvarnished optimism is abnormal, and will lead to more than a normal share of disappointments.

5. NO: If you feel this way, you may be over-sensitive to trivialities or have larger values for the sake of giving smaller ones; and neither attitude is conducive to happiness.

6. NO: A person truly enjoying life is usually anxious to "act, act in the living present."

7. NO: (If you are 16 years old or younger, give yourself credit even if you answer "Yes.") Such daydreams in a mature person may indicate inadequate adjustment to reality, or reversed inhibition; it's impossible to achieve satisfaction with self, etc.

8. NO: If you admit that other elements play up in success or failure, you are yourself somewhat selfish, self-reproach, frustration.

9. YES: Strong enthusiasms and interests, though occasionally interfering with business or social life, make for a wholesome, healthy attitude with adequate escape and relief from tension.

10. NO: An affirmative answer hints at less mild social or biological maladjustment, self-consciousness.

11. NO: Whether or not this is true, if you think it is then you show poor adjustment to half the people in the world—a condition not conducive to happiness.

12. NO: Envy, jealousy, destroy happiness. Your attitude should be that no one can give you too much—just that the rest are paid too little.

13. NO: A "yes" here might show a mild form of what is popularly called a "persecution complex."

14. NO: For the reason mentioned in 11.

15. NO: A reasonable conclusion is generally enough to justify action. Exhaustively weighing questions is an impractical task; attempting it shows lack of proportion, is a symptom of worry and poor confidence.

16. NO: If you consider yourself sensitive in this regard, it is probably because you are often hurt.

17. (a) YES, (b) YES, (c) YES: Whether or not these statements are correct, a large number of people think they are (in the U.S.). If you depart frequently from the mores and beliefs of your times—though you may be correct and consequent in doing so—you run the risk of unhappiness.

If you answered at least one of the three right, credit yourself with one point for the entire question.

18. Faith and its corollary, hope, are essential to happiness. NO to all three means would indicate lack of capacity for faith. YES to conflicting questions show confusion and lack of any real faith.

If you answered YES to only one query, give yourself two points for the entire question.

If you answered YES to (a) and (d), give yourself two points for the entire question.

If you answered YES to either (b) and (c) or (c) and (d), give yourself two points for the entire question.

Other answers get no credit.

19. YES: For the reason mentioned in 18.

20. If you answered FALSE to (a), TRUE to (b) and FALSE to (c), credit yourself with two points.

If you answered TRUE to (a), TRUE to (b) and FALSE to (c), credit yourself with one point.

Other answers get no credit.

Castro, Khrushchev Old Friends Again After 1962 Crisis Over Missiles

By JACK REIST

HAVANA (CP)—The presence of Soviet troops in Cuba has taken on a significance all of its own in the eyes of the Cuban people.

The fact that their continued presence is to some extent symbolic adds to its importance in the opinion of qualified observers. They say the Russian:

1. Represents living, day-to-day evidence of world communism's penetration of the Western Hemisphere, through the instrument of the Cuban revolution.

2. Bear eloquent testimony that the events of last October have not shaken the fundamental friendship of Cuba and the Soviet Union.

In the aftermath of the October missile crisis, Premier Fidel Castro was widely represented as being angry over Premier Khrushchev's abrupt decision to withdraw Soviet missiles from the island without consulting the Cuban government.

If the two leaders did have a falling out, their differences have since been composed, diplomatic informants say. A de-contraction of this was demonstrated in reception given by Premier Castro to the Soviet plenipotentiary, led by Khrushchev, on the Cuban leader's recent triumphal tour.

OLÉ-LINE REBENT AGENCIES considering his friendship with the Soviet Union, however, Castro has been making every effort to assert the essentially home-grown character of the Cuban revolution.

Old-line Cuban Communists were conspicuously absent from the entourage that accompanied him to Moscow. Western diplomats have interpreted this as a calculated reminder to the Russians that he and his supporters are determined to follow their own path to Marxism-Leninism, free from the dictates of doctrinaire communism.

Instead, Fidel took along young revolutionaries known for their loyalty to him personally or to his close associates in the Cuban leadership.

A wave of speculation swept Havana earlier this year that the U.S. and Cuba might be moving toward some kind of modus vivendi, with Moscow doing what it could to facilitate the process.

Having looked down the nuclear barrel once, so the story went, both sides were tacitly agreed that the present volatile situation should not be allowed to continue.

U.S. HOLDS PRUNTS "I've been wondering for two or three months whether there's a new arrangement between Kennedy and Khrushchev," remarked a diplomat last month.

On Russia's part, an accommodation would have the attraction of liquidating the area of further clashes in an area where the U.S. holds the true cards.

For Castro, it would hold the prospect of a resumption of economic relations with the U.S., something the Cubans are believed to want acutely.

So went the speculation. In view of Castro's reception in Russia and the bold reaffirmation of Soviet pledges to help defend Cuba against attack, the diplomats now aren't so sure.

Presumably, the U.S. would insist on withdrawal of Soviet troops as part of any arrangement.

to make the heat out of the Caribbean situation.

But this may be precisely what Castro cannot afford to agree to under present circumstances, observers say.

TROOPS ARE CRUCIAL

For in a very real way, the troops have become a symbol of Russia's involvement with and commitments to Cuba. If they were all withdrawn, the psychological effect among the Cuban people could be such as to produce a sudden revival of counter-revolutionary activity that might quickly get out of hand.

Yet, as much as they are, formalization of the situation in the Caribbean may be impossible.

Ask a Cuban official when the Russians are going to leave and he will tell you: "When they have completed their mission."

This mission: "To train Cuban troops in the use of Soviet equipment."

West diplomats are inclined to go along with the official U.S. estimate of about 17,000 Russian troops here late last year, of whom some probably have since departed.

Parts of a 3,000 to 5,000-man Russian train, previously reported to have pulled out, may still be in the island, some responsible informants say.

RUSSIANS ALSOOF The Russians are reliably reported to be confined to their bases even at odd hours, to avoid possible incidents with the Cuban public. For the sake of morale, therefore, frequent rotations are necessary. Thus the problem of trying to keep track of actual numbers is compounded—apart from the tight security screen maintained.

MORE It is possible to view the Russian soldiers as a stabilizing factor in the tense Caribbean situation. Foreign diplomats of late express anxiety about what might happen if Cuban crews were in control of the sophisticated anti-aircraft rockets the Russians are said to have introduced into the island.

At present, a tacit understanding exists between the two sides that the Russian-controlled launchers will not open fire on high-flying U.S. reconnaissance aircraft, that keep Cuba under constant surveillance.

Castro's renewed assertion of the nationalist complexion of the Cuban revolution is easily deflected in Havana. Signs of his leadership are everywhere. They depict Castro, in full battle regalia, heroically surviving a mountain slide from a crag in the Sierra Maestra, where he made his headquarters in the days when the revolution was struggling to achieve power.

CASTRO ENTRENCHED

Further nationalist flavor is conveyed by the numerous statues and busts of Jose Marti, Cuban national hero and leader in the war of independence, which have made their appearance in the last year or so.

Diplomatic informants say Castro appears more firmly in the saddle than ever. Any threat to his leadership was removed when he sent old-line Communist Anibal Escalante packing more than a year ago.

Escalante, accused of usurping control over the monolithic United Party of the Socialist Revolution now being constructed, was forced into exile in Eastern Europe.

His replacement signaled an end to a period when the old-line Communist-party veterans with links to early Stalinism.

There have even been sug-

Hothouse Can Be Valuable Garden Asset

In spring a young man's fancy may not only turn to thoughts of love but also to raising flowers and shrubs to make the home more attractive.

And when the planting is done and it's time to wait for blooms to appear, an excellent easy-build project is a hothouse to help with gardening next year, as well as allowing gardening activities to continue through the winter.

Such a unit can be built at a low cost in a weekend or a few days, ranging from a five-by-eight foot to a ten-by-twelve foot.

Although cost varies in different areas, building material for an eight-by-eight-foot hothouse will be approximately $125, allowing $20 for lumber and plastic coating and $75 for a small heater.

Inasmuch as many homes in outlying areas use kerosene or petroleum gas for home heat, it is highly advisable, an LP-gas heater can be piped into the present LP-gas system where needed.

Several models of automatic LP-gas space heaters are suitable for the hothouse, all thermostatically controlled to maintain temperatures within two degrees of the desired setting.

During early morning sunlight favors most east rooms. Therefore, the hothouse should retain the warmth during the remaining thirty hours of the day.

Yellow is a good background color and when used with varying degrees of light, coral and red with perhaps green or grey accents to complement the scheme.

Safety Hints for Home Gardeners

Whether you are a first-time gardener or an old hand at the game, it's never too early — or too late — to learn basic rules of garden safety.

Insecticides, power mowers and other tools are intended to lessen work. But if these are not handled properly, they can be harmful. So protect your family and pets by following these tips from Anna Whitfield, first-aid expert for Dial Research Laboratories.

Though most insecticides may be harmless, consider all of them dangerous until you have read the labels and discover otherwise. Since children and pets cannot get into supply flowers and plants.

A power mower can throw stones faster than a slingshot. Before mowing, clear the area of rocks, nails and other debris. Keep people, especially small children, away.

children, out of the way. Don't use electric-powered mowers when the grass is wet, unless you will be shocked.

Unwary children will taste anything. But it's best flowers. Many common vegetables — including tall bulbs, sweet peas, peas, broad beans, rhubarb, and elephant ears — are poisonous.

When possible, wear protective gloves to avoid scratches, contact with poison or noxious vapors. But if you do get a scratch or then prick your hand, wash immediately with plenty of water to reduce the possibility of infection.

Stepping on the upturned heel of a rake or the edge of a wheel is one of the most common garden-type accidents. These tools should be turned down when laid aside every morning, and stored away.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS DESTROY WEEDS

Notice is hereby given to all persons in possession of land in accordance with the Weed Control Act, 1960 Sec. 3, 13, and 19 that unless noxious weeds growing on their lands within the City of Belleville are destroyed by date of June 30, 1961 and throughout the season, the City may enter upon the said lands and have all weeds destroyed, charging the cost against the land in taxes, as set out in the Act. The co-operation of all citizens is earnestly solicited.

Bright Notes For the Home

Be sure to consider the exposure of a room when planning color schemes for it. Making rooms seem warmer or cooler, look smaller or larger. If you keep an eye on the color, textures, patterns and furnishings according to successful color schemes and more desirable rooms can be achieved through the house.

Since north rooms receive little direct sun, the light entering these rooms is cool. Therefore warm colors should be used in the furnishings. Red, the warmest of all colors, can be used very effectively but judiciously in north rooms.

Fabric with lots of texture should be used for upholstered furniture, draperies and floor coverings. Deep-toned mahogany furniture will also do a great deal to increase the warmth of rooms having a north exposure.

STILL PLENTY OF TIME

Here we are in June and some of us are really not getting started. And it is not difficult with all the modern materials available. Every seed house is well stocked and plants are readily packaged, which will handle any box or garden pot. Those that eat holes in the foliage, those that suck the juices of roots, remember that in this case it is a combination of chemicals and insecticides that are the best defense is to attack, don't wait until the bugs are in the container before starting the offensive.

Never water anything in the evening and you will save yourself a lot of trouble — one of the gardeners warned the writer recently. And this warning applies to all types of geraniums, lawns, flowers and vegetables and especially roses. The only time to use the hose or watering can is in the morning or early afternoon, so that all surplus water on foliage night and thus there is no encouragement for fungus diseases to develop. And there are some other general rules too.

The first of these is to remember when we water that it is best to soak well, so that moisture will really penetrate the soil several inches, and then leave alone for several days or a week. This encourages deep root development. In grass or other plants this protects against drought and sun damage. If possible it is better to let the water run directly on the soil, through some special soaking equipment for this purpose, rather than spraying over the foliage. Cold water is always shock to plants and humans. To avoid this, water roses and flower gardens, etc. are placed vertically here and there in dry weather these are frequently filled with water which soaks directly into the soil.

Some require a lot of water. Some don't. Colors of flowers are important as we do not want them chafing.

KEEPING GARDENS HEALTHY

Better insurance against bugs and diseases is a thriving and healthy garden. Keep all weeds eliminated as they often provide home and food for pests. Flowers and vegetables should be cultivated regularly and thin out where necessary to promote vigorous growth. Sometimes, however, in spite of our best efforts the garden is attacked. On the first sign of a wilted or eaten leaf, or of cut worms, tomato worms, aphids or slugs or other enemies one should have no time in setting out the duster, sprayer or bait.

Enjoy Garden Living Plan Your Landscaping

Landscaping your house and yard with definite ideas in mind. Plant with a purpose: trees for shade, screens, or accents of color and form, shrubs and evergreens to enhance the architectural lines of the house.

Gardens and shrub borders should be planned and not scattered bits of lawn. The work of two or three, can be wheeled in the bedroom at night, to the living room in the daytime and is still available to do extra duty in the nursery, den, kitchen, playroom or dining area. It stores away easily.

An important new approach to small air conditioning has also been made this year with introduction of a climate model which is ideal for homes as well as apartments.

These things the writer will meet the modern demand for greater capacity (8,000 to 14,000 BTU's), lower noise levels and longer life. They offer the individual temperature control feature for each living room and are easily integrated with any type of heating system for those who desire the heating-cooling combination.

Keep planting under long

Don't spend all your time and money along the front of the house. Carry your plant to the sides and rear. These plants should also fit into your overall design.

Budget your planting by putting in shade and flowering trees first, followed by other slower growing material. These move than any other part of your planting, will make your house look as though it belonged. Start out with at least ten to 15 - feet shade trees, for even these will give you little enough shade. Purchase flowering trees in smaller sizes, if desired, but for immediate effect they should be six to eight feet tall.

Nurseries will recommend and demonstrate plants to fit the geometric outlines you have selected. Take care with your design and come out with very attractive landscaping for your home.

From then, and from catalogues and books, learn all you can about the plants which appeal to you. Ultimate size, life, disease, and growth habits are of the utmost importance.

Every house needs one of these exterior paints... THEY PROTECT AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HOME FOR YEARS!

SUPER ONE-COAT WHITE (Exterior Gloss House Paint) —full gloss, oil-base. Whether you need a one-coat, self-cleaning white...a non-chalking white...or a Fast-Dry Thin white...ask for it in SUPER ONE-COAT WHITE!

A-100 LATEX (for wood and masonry surfaces)—dries in 30 minutes. Defies bugs and dirt—by allowing them no time to settle. Amazingly blister-resistant too—that's A-100 LATEX Exterior House Paint.

Each of these products fulfills a particular need: Repainting some homes needs only "one coat of white"—this is where Super One-Coat White shines. It cuts painting costs and painting time in half! On the other hand, when a building needs a blister-resistant, fast-drying, easy-to-apply finish, A-100 LATEX is the paint to use. It's the greatest advance in house-paint in 50 years! Ask your dealer which is best for your house.

Beautiful, enduring House Paint Colours . . . White's the perennial favourite, but colours can add to the beauty of your home. You can obtain a complete range of attractive, ready-mixed house-paint colours in full-gloss oil-base and in A-100 Latex.

158,509 Books Circulated in Five Months

Book circulation at the Carleton Place library and the first school branches for the last five months of the year has totalled 158,509 books, an increase of well over 2,000 from the same period of the previous year.

Creation for the month was 31,328 books, of which 12,815 were adult and 18,513 juvenile. A total of 158 pamphlets and magazines were borrowed.

Circulation of adult books from the main library during May was 15,676, as compared with 15,600 for April of last year. Circulation of juvenile books from the main library was 8,814 books.

During the month there were 151 new adult members from the city and 18 from the county. Nineteen boys and girls joined the library in the same period.

Summer Course For Teachers Will Be Held

The Ontario College of Education will be sponsoring a summer school course to prepare teachers for the year 1962-63, this summer, commencing July 18, through to August 16th.

Students attending will be required to take at least three subjects, unless otherwise indicated. Examinations will be held at the conclusion of the course and the results will be used in determining the schools.

Students who will be eligible for the course will be those who have failed in more than two subjects in the previous year, and who will be recommended by the principal.

The course is given during the summer to give students an opportunity to pass subjects in which they have failed during the regular school year.

Dr. M. Phillips, Member for Grey North, Dies

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Dr. Mackenzie Phillips, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Grey North since 1946, died in hospital Friday as his stormy political career was nearing its end.

The former minister of health and provincial secretary had announced he would not be re-elected in 1960 and in the next provincial election, a period sometimes this year.

Ill in bed, Dr. Phillips had been in hospital three times in the last two years for treatment of a heart condition. He was last admitted May 28 after suffering several heart attacks.

Dr. Mackenzie Phillips was a cabinet minister in the government of former premier Leslie Frost and was struck by a heart attack in 1958.

Phillips' remains for me to say except that I regret Dr. Phillips' resignation and the circumstances which prompted it. Premier Frost said at a press conference.

Dr. Phillips was appointed minister in 1958 and was transferred to the provincial health portfolio in 1959. He had been minister of health since 1954.

A family group, clear-headed Phillips often was seen with his colleagues. In 1959, he publicly expressed his desire to retire from politics, raising such a furor that he was forced to retract his statement.

which "we now want to see" in the talks that he asked," Mr. Leach said.

"I am sure that Ontario and Quebec will be able to help us to do our part the way we have, part after part."

Mr. Leach said the visit was a historic moment and a good omen for the future.

He said the provinces needed, the first thing to do to meet one another and be united.

The visit was arranged by the Ontario legislature and was in co-operation with the Quebec government.

A return visit by the Quebec government was to be made in the fall of 1963.

LIVING COSTS LEVEL OFF — Canada's cost-of-living index held steady at 132.3 May 1, unchanged from the previous month. A drop in cost of food, clothing, and alcohol offset higher costs for transportation and other services.

Grocery traces rise of the index, based on 1949 prices equaling 100, from January, 1961. (CP Newsprint)

U.S. Says Budget Discriminatory Against Investors, Exporters

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. Treasury Department today said the new Canadian budget contains certain elements of discrimination against U.S. investors and exporters but the department has given no hint of any immediate reprisals.

A spokesman, speaking on the "discriminatory aspects," said Friday they would be limited to the budget's ramifications before further comment is made.

Both Canadian and American officials said it is certain the Canada-U.S. tax treaty, in effect since 1949, will be renegotiated.

A Canadian source said that the new budget would be expected to be in effect by the end of the month.

He said this increase would lead to effect some Canadian income to a rate higher than 10 per cent.

Gordon's first budget caused a lot of confusion here as a result of the government's failure to reveal its implications for the U.S.

The treasury department nevertheless considered that the new budget was a step in the right direction, and would reduce a whopping budget deficit, it is discriminatory and will affect U.S. exports and investments.

There also was concern that the new budget would be a step in the right direction, and would reduce a whopping budget deficit, it is discriminatory and will affect U.S. exports and investments.

RARE, MEDIAN, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CAVER, Sports Editor

"Red" Berens and I sat in the plush dining salon of the Hotel Drevon in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia that early March night in 1955.

The questions of the moment was what to order. Ruskly Salami; Kabanoski; and Flanischer Art; Prutsky reze; Oslavsky; Coubisky; Hovdsky; Schokker; Strunk; Pans; a cote de veau a la bordelaise.

Those were the international sports. The short orders included chateaubriat with french fries, hotchotch (stuffed cabbage); toasts; a la Rosalia; brains-a-la-vie (Ox-head) was extra) with butter; or a cute tail medallion with cheese hot bit.

"Red", a waiter, with a love for Winnipeg golfers, looked at the fish section... and his eyes nearly popped out of his sockets. There was a variety of continental and from Canada plentiful dishes but none in carp, potatoes and salad was "Dessert Fish". Gary, Petia failed with surprise.

It rained high above a tasty "grilled brown pickled with tartar sauce and browned potatoes". We discovered a fish delicacy that is spawned, reared, grown and caught in the famous river that separates, at this point, Austria from Czechoslovakia.

I had already passed my first test as a combined hunter-caster and royster and royster. I had Tompkins' favorite kabanoski and forgetting to remove the bayonet or blow out the fire, so a social status carp surfaced in the blue Danube. The fish was either black or colorblind when he wrote his famous waltz, the water color (a dirty brown) wouldn't do any harm.

It arrived in all the Czech chef. There was about twelve inches long, with head and tail attached. It had a small Soviet eye that seemed to stare at me. The slender golden brown body, it didn't even blink when a cold spatula fork plunged into its insides. But it was as tough as a trout and the redhead and I left without that cold fishy pair of eyes and the tail.

I was told the Danube carp do not reach the comparatively small dimensions of the Danube carp. Over 100 years they reach four pounds and more.

As a food they are esteemed in this part of the world but usually those of some are despised to New York and Chicago where they are highly esteemed. As we fed, the late City Editor told me that at one time he had bagged nearly a ton of the wrasse before for "Red" week.

Generally they are regarded as a dam nuisance and rarely eaten. Yet a veteran commercial fisherman from "Red" country told me years ago that carp is a good table fish. "People take it for granted they are not and don't bother with them," he said.

He said it is simple enough. "Just skin the carp and carefully remove the dark streak along each side. Cook the fish for three or four hours in salt water, then you can cook it as you would any other fish."

"Try it," he said. "You may think it is bland, or may not. Better yet, invite a friend for a fish dinner, not telling him it is carp - and ask his opinion of it. You may get a surprise."

O'Pheer told me the forebears of the O'Pheers and the O'Pheers were carp fishermen along the reaches of Gloucestershire.

They sold their surplus in the former potato-growing of the old soil who used them for fertilizer for their good patches.

"One year" said O'Pheer, "the carp-fish spoke were ready to be harvested when I first moved over the patch. Those carp were better pretty tough. O'Pheers and O'Pheers told me their old great-grand-father first year due to the first harvest of fish-and-chips."

Ferraris Favorites In LeMans

LEMAN, France (AP)—United States drivers are back to the race again this time and will try to capture the LeMans 24-hour drive, one of Europe's most prestigious automobile races starting today.

There are 14 Americans among the 80 drivers registered, and they are driving European-built cars. But when the checkered flag falls Sunday it will be considered a mild upset if an American has any share of the top prize.

Favored are the Ferraris, 11 of them. Three favorite Ferraris are certainly the ones that are driven by Luigi Secchi, driver and Luigi Bandini of Italy, the Parkers of England, and Umberto Maglioli of Italy, and John Surtees of England. They have been seen since his first race as a Jockey Sept. 30, 1960.

It was his sixth year of the season, in addition to his 61-wicket record, and was his string of consecutive aces in innings to 33.

Chicago White Sox retained a one-game lead atop the American League standings with a 3-2 victory over Kansas City Athletics; New York Yankees won from behind for a 4-2 edge over the Boston Red Sox.

Twins took over third place on a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles Angels and Washington Senators topped Cleveland Indians in the opener of a "Southeast" doubleheader.

Radatz, who hasn't allowed a earned run in 15 appearances since May 11, needed only three pitches to work out of a jam when he relieved Earl Wilson with the bases loaded and none out in the eighth. John Pappas grounded into a double play on Rader's first offering, and Jim Gendie fouled out on the third.

The 30-year old strong boy, who in his second season in the majors, struck out five batters, increasing his total to 67 in 31 innings as he earned net average slash to 0.88.

Dick Stuart cracked his fourth home run in as many days and 14th of the season, a 300-foot drive, in the second inning, and Roman Mejia had his first homer in the seventh.

Charlie Maxwell hit his 10th home run in as many days and 14th of the season, a 300-foot drive, in the second inning, and Roman Mejia had his first homer in the seventh.

"Tigers" Don Mossi, blazed with the team's charge Friday and installed him as favorite, and, after getting off slowly he went to the lead and remained on Top. Banks, who won in 1:11.8, Windinck returned $2.30.

Gary Cowan Leads Ontario Open

WOODBINE, Ont. (CP)—Gary Cowan, Kitchener's golf to amateur golfer, was the only man of a field of 180 to break 70 Friday in the opening round of the 41st Ontario Open.

It was amateur day on the Open, with only one professional—elderly Moe Norman of Toronto—among five golfers who bettered par.

Cowan, Canadian's amateur champ in 1961 and recent winner of the world amateur championship at Tokyo, carried a two-under-58.

Norman and amateurs Bill Bell and Ray Phelps of Toronto and Bob Williams, 69-year-old veteran from Lewiston, N.Y., were tied going into the final 36 holes today with first-round 70s on the 91st course.

Twice runner-up in the tournament, Cowan played in the most faithful round with four birdies on the first nine holes and a steady nine pars on the back nine.

Bowerman, who as assistant at the initiation course, carried a 38 going out and chopped off two strokes for a 38 on the back nine. His 70 put him among 80 golfers who are playing the final 36 holes today.

Kitchener's Gary Cowan paced the pack yesterday with a 68, the only man breaking 70. Cowan is the Canadian amateur champion. Pro Moe Norman and amateurs Bill Bell and Ray Phelps and Bob Williams were tied with 70's.

A "Mott and Jeff" Italian duo proved topflight stunts at Memorial Arena last night. Dido de Paula, a Neapolitan giant and his average size partner Lorenzo Parente gave "Sweet Daddy" Siki and his manager-coach-dickie "The Magnificent Duke" a neat lesson in the art of flip and flop.

They made African slides of the duke's pair at times testing very skillfully ably they were forced to accede the pair to the strutting pair. Action-wise it was one of the best, lightest legwork seen here for some time.

Profoundly Scandalous Shock - Macmillan's 3 Miles Apart; Labor Leader Charges Forward Charges To Reds Useful To Reds Accuses P.M. of Gamble On Britain's Security U.S. Admiral Defends Polaris Fleet Concept

WASHINGTON (AP) - Vice Admiral Claude V. Ricketts said today the Russians "would be incapable of preventing retaliation" from a fleet of Polaris missile-firing ships operating under the North Atlantic alliance.

Ricketts, vice-chief of United States naval operations and expert on the proposed multinational NATO nuclear force, said this statement in the linerettes.

Earlier this month he flew to London to explain to British naval and government officials the U.S. Navy's thinking on the proposed force of merchant-type vessels, manned by United States crews from some of the 15 NATO nations.

Ricketts has been pictured as skeptical about the concept. In fact, except for the West Germans, no NATO nation has demonstrated any readiness to contribute cash and men to such a nuclear force.

CAN LEAD ATTACK

Challenging the doubters, Ricketts contended a nuclear Polaris force would have a high degree of survivability, meaning ability to elude any Soviet attack.

He claims it would be impossible for the Russians to pinpoint the location of the Polaris ships in the millions of square miles of ocean in which such vessels would roam.

This was the basis of Ricketts' contention that the fleet would be unable to prevent this force of about 25 ships from launching 200 or so missiles at Soviet targets if it were attacked.

"We of the U.S. Navy have made a very thorough study of all of the military factors of this force," he said.

"We have come to a very definite conclusion that it is the only force that would be able to survive and retaliate."

He is convinced that our country cannot afford to neglect this force.

BUDGET DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT WILL BE WELLED BY 'GHOST WRITERS' Will Be Issue

OTTAWA (AP) - The Commons this week embarks on the budget debate. It promises to be more lively than usual because of the three "ghost writers" who helped with Finance Minister Gordon's budget.

The debate is scheduled to start Wednesday and continue until the following Wednesday, June 26. In the six days, the opposition again has a chance to express its dissatisfaction with the minority Liberal government.

Today and Tuesday are expected to be devoted to a study of several government legislative proposals.

Mr. Gordon presented his first budget Thursday night. Next morning the House broke when Douglas Fisher (NDP) - not Arthur Gordon's Minister of Finance - introduced a motion about reports that three Toronto businessmen helped write the budget.

Mr. Gordon was hesitant about discussing the matter until later in the day took the House to a special statement to the Commons.

British Guiana Braces For New Complications in Crisis

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) - The government of Premier Cheddi Jagan, who has been in office since 1961, is bracing themselves for the weekend for what promised to be a round of fresh complications in this British colony's economic-political crisis.

The speaker of the National Assembly, Rahman Gajraj, said at a meeting of the assembly last Wednesday that the position party has given itself is to continue to work for non-confidence in Jagan's government.

The speaker's "Opposition" Jagan and three of Jagan's cabinet members, including the speaker, last Wednesday, said they had been forced to resign.

The law officer's department has hinted the government will challenge the legality of the speaker's calling a session of the assembly.

QUEBEC'S STAY DEPRIVED OF NOT UNREASONABLE

ROBARTS
Ontario Premier Speaks at Dinner

QUEBEC (CP) - Ontario's Premier John Robarts said yesterday night he doesn't find the tax demands being made by Quebec on the federal government "too unreasonable."

At the same time he told an audience of political leaders and newspaper men that the two provinces that the time may have come to re-examine the application of "confederation" in the light of current events.

Mr. Robarts was speaking at a dinner offered by the Quebec government to members of the Ontario Legislature Press Gallery and other guests.

His audience included Quebec Premier Jean Lesage and a number of cabinet ministers from both provinces.

Mr. Robarts said that the Quebec government's demand for a 10 per cent increase in the federal government's share of the province's income tax was "a little more than I would like to see."

He said that the federal government must be "a most drastic re-evaluation of the federal government's share of the province's income tax."

Charge Negroes Broke Faith In Maryland

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) - There were indications today that Negro leaders here would request a federal mediator to help settle racial problems that have broken down the modified martial law in this eastern state community of 11,500.

Negotiations were halted abruptly Sunday by the mayor and city council, meeting with the Democratic county commissioners and the county delegation to the Maryland Legislature.

In a telegram to Governor J. Millard Tawes, the group said that in the view of the broad faith and the threats of the Negro leaders (The Washington Post) that they would be invited to meet with the mayor and city council on Friday, further negotiations were impossible. They are of the opinion that the situation should be continued on Saturday.

Tawes ordered National Guard troops into Cambridge Friday after integrated demonstrations there had ended in riotous behavior.

A 10 p.m. curfew was placed on civilians and all streets were closed, while or were being closed Saturday until further notice.

Who Will Reap The Votes?

Prime Minister Macmillan is now believed to have staved off an immediate split in the British Cabinet over the Profumo affair.

That does not mean, however, that it may have a profound effect upon the results of the next British election.

During the past few days, a striking change has occurred in the manner in which the political and perhaps also the general public, regarding War Minister Profumo's association with Christine Keeler.

After the immediate shock of Profumo's confession that he had lied to the House of Commons, the public sufficient to destroy confidence in his integrity—the trend was to concentrate concern on possible security risks, because Profumo and a Russian had been intimate with the same girl.

The London Times was one of the first to strike a new note.

"Everybody has been too busy assuring the public that the affair is not one of morals that it is time to assert that it is," roared the Spectator.

For some suddenly we have news reports speculating that several ministers may resign because of their disgust over the moral, rather than the security risk, implications of Profumo's confession.

Whether the English voting public will share this repugnance is questionable. There has been a wide variety of opinion as to whether morals are the issue.

Present-day Britain is far removed from the Victorian era. If any sizeable proportion of voters desire the conservative virtues of the Victorian era, they would expect the trend to be heavier in the country ridings, which are precisely those in which the Conservatives are strong.

Thus it might be expected that the party as much damage as one might expect. But this is reckoning without the "third force" in British politics, the Independent Labour Party.

Of the moral issue, the Independent Labour Party, the Liberals might win enough seats to hold the balance of power, unless Labour sweeps the urban centres.

World War Two "Old Hat"

Gary Laurens, a columnist in the Toronto Star, had an article the other day on a young man's collection of relics of the Second Great War.

He commented on how out-moded some many of the machines which, only twenty years ago, were the best and most efficient devices man could design.

If they seem out-dated to one who lived through that period, how much more antique they must appear to those children who were born into a world of intercontinental rockets and hydrogen bombs.

Twenty years ago the longest ranged weapons known to man were still the Big Bertha of the First World War. The German Air Force used to brag about its ability to drop a bomb in a pickle-barrel—it then being necessary to march the pickles. Radar was a miracle in those days.

It could detect a German plane crossing the English Channel. The German U-boat had a new and terrifying weapon, the moon-bomb, which could be fired from the moon, which could be fired from the moon, which could be fired from the moon.

Thirty thousand feet was a long way up. If the weapons of World War Two seem so removed from today's world, must not the armaments of a few years hence be beyond the imagining of the new generation?

Perhaps not. Surveys indicate that modern children are often terrified by the thought of nuclear war. Adults may tend to scoff. But the children may be the realists, the ones who instinctively grasp the true facts of today's world.

And while all this appears to be a rebellion against the methods employed by the pros, there aren't likely to see any cries of opposition from the NHL. Farm clubs are expensive and if college hockey improves and grows it could mean a new, relatively low-cost source of player-educated players.

Feud in Deseronto School Affairs Takes Controversial Turn, New Developments

DESERONTO (Staff) — The running feud seething through town school affairs in the past three months here, is taking more controversial turns.

These are among the current developments in an already complicated dispute:

(1) A Belleville lawyer has been retained by the Deseronto School Board to bring a referendum concerning possible shutdown of the town's only high school;

(2) number of public school students returned to their desks today after their parents kept them from school Monday as a gesture of protest.

The most pertinent event as far as the controversy that threatens to split this town wide open is the high school plebiscite set for June 24.

This asks voters if they are in favor of discontinuing the Deseronto high school and, if so, if they favor adding the town to the Napanage high school district.

The School Board, split 4-3 against the shutdown, Saturday night took direct issue with the terms of the referendum and dropped the matter in the hands of Belleville barrister K. G. M. Ross for legal action.

SAYS QUESTION PREJUDICED

The Board holds the referendum is prejudicial in that it does not offer sufficient alternative to the shutdown of its high school.

Mr. Ross put it this way today: "The Board of Education would I represent is in no way opposed to a true and fair expression of public opinion. But it is opposed to the present question to be submitted to the electorate. As it is presently worded it in no way covers or considers the proper alternatives available to the people of Deseronto."

He added: "The School Board would be delighted to have a proper expression of the views of the electorate providing these fair and reasonable alternatives—part from any legal niceties."

The alternative lacking on the referendum—the board said—is the possibility of sending students to Belleville.

The board said it has taken a positive step in this direction. Thursday night's meeting also saw approval of a motion to "purchase election of the Deseronto High School District from the Bay of Quinte District High School Board."

That meeting assembled fresh from solving another complication—a legal dispute over the right of trustee Maurice Deane to sit on the board. A county court judge dismissed the action.

KIPP CHILDREN HOME

One detail not resolved however, was the 4-3 split on the high school question. The board still divided in the early fast-track Saturday night—only this time the three supporting the shutdown abstained.

Monday however, dropped yet another bomb of controversy into the brew.

Some parents in the town—some estimate gave as a third—kept their children from public school. About 90 of 375 pupils missed classes in the morning and close to 150 were at home in the afternoon.

Some of the parents admitted the act was a token gesture of protest over the decision Saturday night by the board to send high school students to Belleville. All denied, however, any resemblance to an organized boycott.

This morning they were reported all back in school—more and the vital question more came back to Mr. Ross and what legal action he will take over the referendum.

However, the dispute still continues, and mention was being made among citizens today of possible intervention from higher places.

One man being questioned on the referendum, said: "What's going to happen is the Department of Education is going to have to step in and sort this thing out."

The high school situation and its complications could set a precedent in education circles.

Ladies' Night Observed by Rotary Club

The main dining room of the Hill and Country Club was filled to near capacity Monday night with Rotarians, their wives and guests, to observe the Rotary Club's Ladies' Night.

Guest speakers for the occasion were Mr. Ashish Sen from Calcutta, India. Mr. Sen spoke of a God of fear, and of heaven goes back to the beginning of civilization—the establishment of a God of fear, and of heaven goes back to the beginning of civilization.

He said that the materialists of his religion believe there is more for than sorrow in the world, therefore people should enjoy the world. He spoke of the Buddhists coming into existence with their feeling that non-violence was the most important part in man, but they had to return to the world to prove it, and most Buddhists have now rejoined the Hindus in India.

The speaker then turned to the lighter side of his visits to Canada and told of his first game of hockey when he could skate. He said although he had been through the same he succeeded in knocking out the referee.

When comparing Canada with India, Mr. Sen said "everything in Canada is pursued with vigor. Here it is rush, rush, rush, while in India we specialise in waiting time. Here you suffer from heart and ulcer trouble while in India, in the peace and quiet we suffer from malnutrition. Respect goes to the best of said, and one desires to look old to gain this respect."

Official Plan Can Be Viewed Before Meeting

Belleville residents interested in the details of the proposed city plan which is to have its final public discussion Thursday night are invited to call at the city hall planning department office where they can read the text and have the plan explained by city planning engineer Charles Mott.

The final public meeting on the official plan held by city council approval is being held in the council chambers starting at 7:30 Thursday evening.

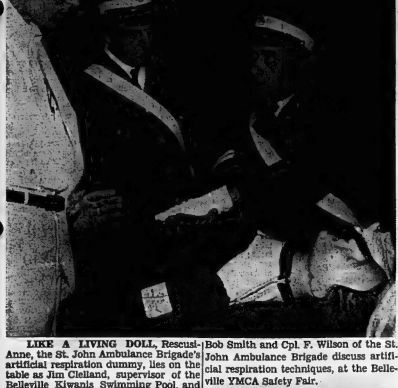

A text of the official plan can also be read at the City Public Library.

This Is National Strawberry Week

by Mary Moore

Exactly one year ago this week I gave you recipes for strawberry and pineapple jam, frozen strawberry jam, and offered you my sugarcane strawberry jam recipe for diabetic patients.

The frozen strawberry jam turned out to be so popular we have received many requests for extra copies.

So I am yielding to pressure and repeating it this year. It is so easy most of you can make it with one hand tied.

for 3 minutes. Pour into clean dry 8-oz jars to within 1/4" from top (to allow for possible expansion when frozen). Cover with lids at once. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours. Store in freezer. If this jam is to be used within 2 or 3 weeks

By DORIS CLARK
(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)
Sex Battle Amongst Teenagers

DEAR DORIS — I am in love with this guy and we plan to get married in two or three years. Our problem is that I've given in to him about four times. Each time things like that come, we pray to God to forgive us and to make things all right for us.

Many girls around our town have had to get married. I don't want to be one of those. We both agree that we will have to start getting things straightened up.

The only thing I can think of is for us to break up. We don't want to break up, so

DORIS CLAKE

DEAR WORRIED — Yours are the guilt feelings which some writers — and psychiatrists — suggest may lead to serious emotional upset. But the solution some offer, of free love for teenagers, is not mine.

The best bulwark against emotional and physical turmoil is to understand what is happening. It is no sin to be attracted to the opposite sex; we would be less than normal

But do we really because we find money attractive? Do we vent our anger when we feel like it? Aren't these the primary impulses we learn to curb? If we are to be part of a civilized, socialized, Christian, sound disciplines which protect us add others become part of us as we use them.

So we grant our humanity. We find the other sex attractive and enjoy their company. We work off our healthy animal spirits in active sports and physical exertion of many kinds. We learn to curb appetites which would threaten well-being. We pray daily for the strength. And we save our most precious expression of affection and passion for that enduring love which all hope to find in marriage.

DEAR DORIS — I sometimes wonder if there is any love in my home. My father and brother quarrel like dogs. When my boy friend (18) asks me to go out somewhere for a walk in the night or day, my parents won't allow it. But my brother (17) is allowed to go anywhere he wants. My boy friend and I have wanted to leave home when we get older if this doesn't stop. Is a girl 15 allowed to go out on dates once in a while?

After having trouble between my boy friend and my parents, I don't let them know I borrow money to smoke like the other kids or they would make me stop. When can a girl leave home? When she turns 17? — NO SIGNATURE.

DEAR NO — Is it the squeaking wheel that gets the grease? Apparently your brother fights for what he wants, and gets it. Ask to have your boy friend in so that your dad can get to know him. Put up a good case for freedom and the beginnings of independence.

You can leave home when you are 16, but in some locations you can be brought back unless you can show that you are managing by yourself.

"I'VE ALWAYS LIKED THAT DRESS!"
If your wardrobe is small, there is a good chance that you will wear this smart, smartly made with no intentional malice. The speaker means well, as her stricken look says on her trailing what she has said. The best reply is a quiet "thank you." There is no need to defend yourself or your dress in the face of such tactless sincerity. The speaker really does find your dress very becoming to you, but she regrets the use of that emphatic word, "always."
I sold such a dress a great success. It rates extended good care to keep it in first class condition. If its fashion duplicated in pattern and color, or as closely as possible, it is likely to be one of those dresses with a timeless air of good fabric and uncomplicated design. There is some magic in it, but it is not that simple. It is the style, the cut of the collar, the hang of the skirt, the set of the sleeves? Or was it just the overall appearance and combination of style and color? Whatever it was — research for it.
Once you have found the answer, either take it to a dressmaker and have a pattern made from it, or start searching your fashion stores for its replacement.
Most of us own too few dresses, which we know are unequalled successes. Many of us don't even own one outstanding costume. There is always an area of uncertainty in fashion.

SOMETHING SPECIAL
Such dresses are usually at least two years old and some times even as old as five years. Their beginnings may be lost in the mists of your memory, but try to remember what it was about this special dress that made you decide to buy it. Was it the color? If so, then that is easy to duplicate. Was it the style — the cut of the collar, the hang of the skirt, the set of the sleeves? Or was it just the overall appearance and combination of style and color? Whatever it was — research for it.

Ann Landers

Wife of Boss Is All Feet, No Female Fred Astaire

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I must be a freak. There is no other explanation for a person who has spent hundreds of dollars on dancing lessons and still can't dance.

My husband's business makes it necessary for us to go places where there is dancing. After 20 years of marriage we have worked out something that looks like life but it adds up to nothing more than walking to music and avoiding stepping on each other.

I am sick when I try to dance with anyone else and this is my problem. How do I refuse without looking like a noob? I am seen "dancing" with my husband so I can't say I don't dance. It is pure agony when I have to dance with a client who wants to be "nice" to the boss' wife. Please tell me what to do. — GUT OF STEF.

DEAR OUT — If it is pure agony to dance with anyone other than your husband don't do it. When asked to dance just say, "Thank you but I'd rather sit this one out and chat with you. Do you mind?" It's an available escape which may even be interpreted as a compliment.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 14 years old and my last year of school was the worst yet. I am a fairly good student but the problem is my hearing. I am not deaf but I have a 35% hearing loss.

The doctor says I don't need a hearing aid but he thinks it would help if I sat up front in class. I have asked my teachers for permission to sit up front but they resist it. They tell me they speak loudly enough to be heard anywhere in the room. When I asked one teacher at the beginning of the school year to repeat herself she said I wasn't paying attention or I would have heard her the first time. I never asked again after that.

I am having trouble with some of my friends, too. They all know about my hearing problem but I still get dig lips. I don't chew my cabbage twice and stuff like that.

Please tell me what to do. If next year is like this last one I think I'll quit school. — MARCELLA (not my real name).

DEAR MARCELLA — It's extremely difficult for me to believe teachers are so unympathetic. Either you've failed to explain adequately that you have a hearing problem, or you are using the handicap as an excuse to goof off.

Before school starts in the fall ask your doctor for a written note addressed to your teachers.

As for your friends, there will always be inconsiderate people in this world. Quitting school to avoid being hurt would be a mistake — and it would solve nothing. You've got to learn to roll with the punches, Honey.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Our 20-year-old son was lucky and landed a good job close to home after he graduated from high school two years ago.

I am happy to have him home but it is strictly his idea — not mine. I do his laundry, fix him a hearty breakfast every morning and he rarely misses supper with the family. Once in a while he buys something for the table. Life has never been more than $1.10.

I've hinted that I could surely use a few dollars a week because there are four younger children and we are struggling to make ends meet. I once mentioned $2 a week would seem like a million, but he ignored the remark.

Should I come right out and hint? Or would this be too greedy of a mother? My husband says it's up to me but I have mixed emotions. Please advise. — MISSOURI MOM.

DEAR MOM — Since Missouri is in the "Show Me" state I suggest you show you about 25% of his pay cheque. This is the Ann Landers formula for unworried kids who live at home and enjoy all the comforts of their childhood. So, stop blinding mom. Tell him.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problem. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Gordon

at 8:30 a.m. Friday, the morning after the budget, had been sent from Toronto by Mr. Gordon's brother, Charles, to the courtesy firm of Clarkson, Gordon and Company.

Two hours later, a question by a Social Credit MP gave Mr. Gordon the opportunity to read an explanation into the Commons second reading of the bill from the firm's senior partner, J. M. Wilson.

THE TELEGRAM said the firm got a lot of budget questions after its release by the Bank of Canada. Mr. Gordon's explanation was that the firm had been busy last Thursday, budget day, and prepared a statement in time to catch a west-bound mail-carrying plane after midnight that night.

The extended argument over whether to hold the emergency debate, coupled with lengthy opening proceedings, made for a strange day in the Commons.

The opening question period didn't conclude until the evening sitting after the 3 1/2 hour afternoon session. The House also opened debate on the proposed $100,000,000 Atlantic provinces development fund, a debate that continues today.

The three budget helpers brought in by Mr. Gordon — the position members have dubbed them "ghost writers" — are investment dealers M. P. O'Connor and David Stanley, a chartered accountant G. R. Condon, and a post-graduate student at Harvard.

The two investment dealers, on leave with salary from their companies, are getting a $25 daily allowance from the finance department. Mr. Conaway is receiving the allowance plus a $50 daily fee.

Calling out Mr. Defoe's request for an emergency debate, Speaker Macdonald accepted the appointment of State Secretary Pickersill that the affair could be discussed in the budget debate starting Wednesday.

Mr. Pickersill offered to have the budget debate start right away — a proposal rejected by the Conservatives and New Democrats.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Windsor North Centre) said Mr. Pickersill was trying to lead the Commons "down the garden path." The minister's plan would bury the "ghost writers" question in the budget debate.

Mr. Knowles said: "The Commons should get an answer to the question: 'Whose budget is this?'"

The day's developments brought answers to some questions, and raised other questions to which answers weren't immediately given.

• KILLS SIX AND SELFS PROSPECT, Pa. (AP)—State police said a 46-year-old woman killed her two young sons and herself, and killed herself.

(NDP—New Brunswick) said at the conference that he was "impressed with the evidence which has been presented concerning the increasing lung cancer death rate in Canada and the serious health problem that is posed by this disease."

She feels the conference will result in a more moderate approach to the problem than in Britain, where the government has taken a hard line against smoking with posters advertising the cancer and smoking link.

The campaign would probably take the form of an educational program aimed especially at the young, with film clips. There probably would be more attention to existing legislation banning sale of tobacco products to

There is scientific evidence that cigarette smoking is a contributory cause of lung cancer and that it may also be associated with chronic bronchitis and coronary heart disease."

She called for special efforts to educate the public about acquiring the habit and for federal, provincial, health agency, professional and industry cooperation in a program to reduce or eliminate the health hazard. Her statement was immediately followed by introduction of a bill by non-smoker Barry (NDP—New Brunswick) aimed at protecting the consumer from deceptive or misleading claims as to the safety of tobacco.

Mr. Mather, who founded non-smokers club in Vancouver after he gave up smoking 15 years ago, has offered Miss March the club's pin which shows a bird with a smoking halo and the inscription "never touch."

However, he says she turned it down in case he will power last up to the park.

BRANDAN BEHAN (AP)—Irish playwright Brendan Behan was admitted to New York University medical centre Monday afternoon from a liver disorder. Doctors would not disclose the extent of his ailment or seriousness until completion of tests.

First Phase Starts Soon On Huge Peace River Dam

By STEPHEN SCOTT

VANCOUVER (CP)—It will cost about $5,000,000.

The man twiddling the pencil at the desk didn't have an eye as he mentioned the sum.

Beside him in his modern office were plans and specifications for a project that will cost, all told, $73,558,648.

Conversation with Graham Dawson, president of Dawson Construction Co. of Vancouver, has to be in terms of hundreds of thousands or millions when it involves the Portage Mountain dam, part of British Columbia's, Peace River hydro-electric power project.

Mr. Dawson is in a consultation with Price Kiewit Sons Co. of Canada Ltd., Vancouver, and Al Johnson Construction Co., Windsor, Ont., which has been awarded the contract to build the dam for the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority.

In an interview he described some of the preliminary planning that is going into construction of the 600-foot-high, 1½-mile-long earth-filled dam 130 miles north of Prince George.

The $28,000,000—“we hope it will be less”—will be for a concrete bell system and processing plant. Bells will pick up gravel, rock and silt from two hills of glacial material four miles from the site.

They will dump the material on to a single belt that will carry it to the processing plant.

The sorted and cleaned material will be carried down to the dam site by two bolts. Then 100-ton-capacity trucks—trailers will transport it to the river bed.

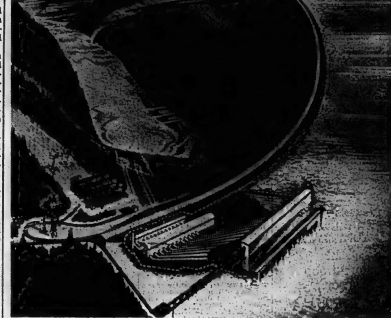

Before work on the main dam begins, however, there will be planning meetings, arrangements for building and equipping a camp at the site for workers, designing the material processing building and establishing of an office here to handle personnel and finances.

Ben Williams, a Kiewit employee who has been associated with many larger projects including the St. Lawrence Seaway, will be project manager.

The first work to be done this summer will be construction of access roads and diversion dams.

By fall the first small dams, above and below the site, will be built and the river will be flowing through three huge tunnels now being completed. Then work will start on either increasing the size of the upstream dam or building a third one. Eventually a dam 135 feet high and containing 900,000 cubic yards of material will stand upstream.

When the river is diverted work will start on moving about 1,000,000 cubic yards of material from the river bottom to get down to bedrock on which the dam must be built. After that the rock will be grouted—holes drilled up to 300 feet and concrete, poured in to strengthen the rock.

Not until then will the first material for the main structure be dumped into the river bottom—impervious silt or clay in the middle and rock and gravel on the outside.

At its peak Mr. Dawson estimates the dam construction will employ about 700 men. It is expected to take about five years.

DAM THE PEACE—Work will start this summer on preliminary phases of construction of the 600-foot-high, 1½-mile-long Portage Mountain Dam, part of the multi-million dollar Peace River hydro-electric project in northern British Columbia. The dam will cost $73,558,648 and will take five years to complete. Map locates dam on Peace River. (CP Newsmag)

'PARTISANSHIP' CLAIMED IN NAMING BOARD Pickersill Tangles With Opposition OTAWA (CP) - State Secretary Pickersill and Conservative opposition members tangled in the Commons today over the new liberal government's move for reviving the makeup of the Atlantic Development Board.

The government plans to add six members to the first board, established by the last Parliament under Conservative government.

"A gimmick to get rid of the present members," said Robert Corns, Conservative MP for York-Union.

"The lowest type of partisan politics that you could possibly imagine," said a Liberal MP, who said that the board was established by the last Parliament under Conservative government.

Claims News Items in 'Good Government' Ward Is Aired Morals Charges Called Frameup to Silence Him

LONDON (Reuters) - A 26-year-old newspaper man told the British government and speaks in February that Dr. Shephard Ward, a key figure in the Profumo scandal, was a Communist and wanted nuclear information, a source was told today.

Lawrence Terrence Bell's defence lawyer made the statement at the opening of the newspaper man's trial on four charges of indecent offences in London's Guildford.

Lawyer Michael Turk said that the British government had framed Ward as a Communist and wanted nuclear information, a source was told today.

WELSH GAS STATION OWNER TIED, OBBED Wife of Cornwall Man Threatened

CORNWALL, ONT. (CP) - Three armed and hooded men robbed a wealthy gas station owner, and a diamond ring and other jewelry threatened to rape his wife here today.

Leslie Enard, owner of three gas stations in this area, said he was watching television when three men burst into the room and demanded money.

When he denied he had any, they took his diamond ring and other jewelry and threatened to rape his wife here today.

Both Cosmonauts 'Feeling Fine' - Press Reports Ships Landed About Fifty Miles Apart

MOSCOW (Reuters) - Russian men and women in space landed their ships safely in the "pre-set" area today after re-circulating flights.

"The official Russian news agency said the cosmonauts, Lt.-Col. Valery Ryukov and Valentina Tereshkova, had both "feeling fine."

Ryukov had been in orbit in his Vostok V capsule since last Friday and Valentina Tereshkova had been in orbit in her Vostok VI capsule since Sunday in Vostok VI. Valentina made 48 orbits of the earth and Tereshkova made 47 orbits.

Queen's Prof Killed in Car Accident

ST. THOMAS, ONT. (CP) - Dr. Paul H. Hapgood, a senior professor of pharmacology at Queen's University in Kingston was killed Tuesday in an accident about five miles east of this town 30 miles south of London.

Further details of the accident were not available immediately.

He had been attending a meeting of the Canadian Federation of Biological Societies at the University of Western Ontario.

Parliament At A Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 1983

Opposition cries of "redness" and "shame" greeted Finance Minister Mulroney's announcement of a new tax on the sale of real estate.

Prime Minister Pearson undertook to obtain a legal opinion on the justice department on Mr. Gordon's action in taking the Toronto hall members.

Senator Cullen announced that he would be resigning from the Senate.

Knowledge of Wills and Estates

DEAR DORIS—Please write something about husbands and their wills. I have just come to the end of my knowledge of their husbands' estates that they had carried trouble working things out and getting what was theirs after their husbands died.—WIDOW.

DEAR WIDOW—How right you are. It may seem indelicate to discuss the possibility of death with a loved one, but believe me, it is a sign of love for a man to keep the will informed about his affairs.

Things she should know are: what insurance he carries; what the will is; whether of home and contents; any debts or investments; what bank accounts he has; and whether any funeral arrangements have been made.

Death is a rude shock to most, without having the added worry of how to keep the home going while affairs are being unscrambled.

To NERVOUS IN FLEIGHT—The stewardess is there to make and keep you comfortable. Sometimes she is not sure whether her passengers want her to talk to them or not. Ask her to sit down beside you when she is free—if you want a special adventure in forgetfulness to remember from your trip above the clouds.

DEAR DORIS—My niece, who is just a young girl, is living in a suite by herself now. She is in love with a boy, he is in love with her. Should she ask him to "her up?" Should I ask my niece to come to my niece, so the son-in-law boy friend to come to see her?—AUNT FRIM.

DEAR AUNT—Far better to talk to your niece than to risk waggling tongues and competing situations, no matter how well-meaning your young people intend to be.

Confidential to LAURA H. H. EDNA D. and ANONYMOUS—Thanks very much for your copies of the poem entitled "The World is Mine." I have passed this along to Mary C. (the physician in hospital who has lost her right hand and left thumb). For the interest of other readers, the first verse reads:

Today upon a bus I saw a girl with golden hair;
She seemed so gay, I envied her, and wished that I was half so fair.
I watched her as she rode to leave, and saw her hobble down the aisle.
She had one leg and wore a crutch, but as she passed—a smile.
Oh God forgive me when I witness,
I have two legs, the world is mine.

(Doris will welcome your letters or comments on topics of human interest. Write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish a private reply.)

Women's Activities
PLAINFIELD U.C.W.

The members of the U.C.W. met at the home of Mrs. Harold Smith on Thursday evening.

Mrs. V. Elliot opened the meeting by reading a poem, "That Man is Rich." The devotional part of the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Arnold Dine.

After a prayer the theme talk was given, "Our Church in Our Community."

Nineteen members responded to the roll call by repeating a Bible verse.

"Charity." Some discussion followed on the School Day Leaders at Whitley and the conference at Ivy Lake.

Mrs. Clareson Hall read parts of a report from the council of the Weekly Day of Prayer.

Mrs. Allen Gibson read and commented on a chapter from the study book, "Hong Kong."

Under the following headings—condition of housing, water supply, rehabilitation, food for the destitute, jobs for refugees, and schooling needs.

The church of Christ in China carries on an extensive welfare service, caring for orphans, sick, beggars and for the sick.

It also has a vocational training program. There is a great need for trained social workers.

In closing, Mrs. Gibson read a poem, "O Zion Hasten."

Mrs. Elliot thanked the hosts for opening her home for the meeting.

Friends Honor
Resident at Farewell Party

WILLINGTON—The home of Mrs. Martha Smith, East Main Street, was the scene of a little surprise farewell party last Wednesday afternoon for Mrs. Ella Burt, who with her family are soon leaving Wellington to reside in London.

About 15 friends and neighbors were present and all enjoyed a social time.

A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Annie Short, Mrs. Rosemary Brown and Mrs. Doris Burt.

After lunch Mrs. Burt presented Mrs. Burt with a lovely farewell gift on behalf of all present.

Mrs. Burt thanked her friends most sincerely and said she regretted leaving Wellington, but hoped her friends would all come and see her in her new home in London.

Weddings

WALMISTEY - GRABHAM

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized in St. John's United Church at 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, June 15, 1935, when George Margaret Grabham became the bride of Thomas Roy and Walmsley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Grabham, Clifton, Ontario, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Walmsley of Clifton. The Rev. James H. York performed the ceremony in a lovely setting of white flowers and pink carnations.

As the bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage, the organ, Mrs. Bruce Knowles played the pre-nuptial hymn, Purcell's "The Rose Tree." The bride, who wore a white dress with a long train, was escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, the organ, Mrs. Bruce Knowles played the pre-nuptial hymn, Purcell's "The Rose Tree." The bride, who wore a white dress with a long train, was escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, the organ, Mrs. Bruce Knowles played the pre-nuptial hymn, Purcell's "The Rose Tree."

The three attendants were all in white dresses. The bridesmaids were Misses Mary Fitch, Harrison, Ontario, was maid of honor, Miss Smith of Clifton and Miss Elizabeth Walmsley, Pictou, bridesmaids. Their short length dresses were of sea turquoise color with white lace. She carried white chrysanthemums and pink Sweethearts.

The reception was held in the church parlors. The bridegroom chose a two-piece coat with blue and white stripes. The bride wore a white dress with a long train. The bridesmaids wore white dresses with blue sashes. The maid of honor wore a white dress with a blue sash. The bridesmaids carried white bouquets.

For a trip to Northern Ontario, the bride donned a blue sash and a white dress. The bridesmaids wore white dresses with blue sashes. The maid of honor wore a white dress with a blue sash. The bridesmaids carried white bouquets.

Guests were present from Clifton, Mary, Kingston, Ontario, and other places. The bridegroom chose a two-piece coat with blue and white stripes. The bride wore a white dress with a long train. The bridesmaids wore white dresses with blue sashes. The maid of honor wore a white dress with a blue sash. The bridesmaids carried white bouquets.

"OPP" SHOP PROFITS.—Mrs. Fred Opportunity Shop. Also in picture are Beely, president of Belleville General Hospital, Women's Auxiliary, acco. W. W. Shand, Opportunity Shop treasurer, for $2,500, representing six men. The money, raised by 70 volunteer months' profit from operation of workers, will be used for hospital work.

By expressed appreciation to both for their untiring and co-operation. She presented them with a new bowl and candlestick, along with best wishes for their new work and home. The Women's Hospital Auxiliary is proud to have seven past presidents still actively engaged in auxiliary work. This meeting five of these ladies were honored with the presentation of past presidents' pins which were not available when they left office as president. These honored were: Miss Iry Dickson, Mrs. J. E. Bushan, Mrs. J. H. Forrester, Mrs. J. Lennox Smith and Mrs. William Fitch. More recent past presidents are Mrs. B. C. Bailey and Mrs. M. F. Jones. The president noted that the experience and enthusiasm of these ladies are invaluable assets to the auxiliary.

FOR OVER-HEED TABLES.—Mayor A. M. Hald, acting for Hospital Board Chairman J. M. Vancouver, accepted $2,000 cheque from Women's Hospital Auxiliary president Mrs. Fred Beely. The $2,000 gift, made possible by anonymous donors, will be used for 30 over-heat tables for 30 hospital beds purchased last year by the Auxiliary.

Women's Hospital Aux. Hears Reports of Past Activities

At the regular June meeting, members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary received a gratifying picture of the accomplishments of their organization for the first half of the year. The outstanding feature of the afternoon was the presentation of the board and the municipality for the assistance given by the auxiliary over the years. He explained to the members the joint ownership of the hospital by the city and the county, and announced that the arrangement had recently been legalized by a private bill in the legislature.

The cheque was accepted by Mayor A. McLean Hald, who represented the chairman of the board, Mr. J. N. Yarrow. Mr. Hald, in return, presented a cheque for $2,000 to the auxiliary. He explained to the members the joint ownership of the hospital by the city and the county, and announced that the arrangement had recently been legalized by a private bill in the legislature.

OPPORTUNITY SHOP.—A second notable presentation was made by Mrs. Beely, president of the Opportunity Shop, who handed over a cheque for $2,500, representing the profits of the shop from January to June. The president thanked Mrs. Beely and all her staff for their willing enthusiasm which has resulted in so many benefits for patients and nursing students.

Report for the Coffee Shop was given by Mrs. Lennox. In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Hald, the shop operated under difficult conditions during the winter, and had to close in April because of lack of funds. The committee anticipates being able to hand over a surplus of $400 in the near future. The Coffee Shop committee

Danish Housewife Fighting For 60,000 Divorced Women

COPENHAGEN (Reuters).—With the help of her bedside telephone, a Danish housewife is fighting a battle for the 60,000 divorced women who are described as "underprivileged masses of welfare." She is 50-year-old Mrs. May Andersen, the mother of two daughters. She is a member of the association of Divorced Women, started last January. Mrs. Andersen divorced her husband after being married 30 years. She has since been "sympathy and help" service which keeps her bedside telephone ringing.

Lonely, bitter, confused or desperate divorced women may at any time telephone and talk over their problems with Mrs. Andersen, knowing that the advice they receive comes from one who has "been through the mill herself."

Mrs. Andersen said one caller who seemed ill or drunk over the telephone had in fact taken two full bottles of sleeping pills. She would not let the active member of the association.

NEED INCREASING.—"There seems to be a great need for this kind of assistance we give," Mrs. Andersen says. "The need will probably increase, for there are about 6,000 divorces a year in Denmark." "We are not men-haters, however," she added.

COFFEE PARTY.—The June meeting commenced with a dessert and coffee party at which the members were entertained by the executive. The social committee, Mrs. J. E. Bushan, Mrs. J. H. Forrester, Mrs. J. Lennox Smith and Mrs. William Fitch, were responsible for arranging this delightful event.

A display of gay and appealing puppets was arranged by Mrs. Lennox Smith. Members were urged to have on hand over 200 puppets to supply the needs of the needle department for the summer months. Twenty-five puppets have already been donated to the new group at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling.

WILL REVERSE YER.—MONTREAL (CP).—College St. Denis, a Roman Catholic classical college affiliated with the University of Montreal, announced plans Thursday to reverse its academic year into four terms of 11 weeks each, with two weeks vacation between each term.

Punch Happy Pugilist Promises to Reform

DEAR ANN LANDERS—In the last three days I have received five copies of one of your columns—the one about the woman who had a habit of punching people on the arm or elbow when in the office to emphasize a point. One clipping was mailed from another city.

There is no question but that I'm guilty of the habit. What puzzles me, however, is how a person can have such a habit and not know it. I recall reading your column and I laughed. It never occurred to me that I could be the woman.

From now on I'm going to make a real effort to keep my hands to myself. I am deeply grateful to my friends who went to the trouble of mailing me the clippings. I only wish someone had told me years ago. It makes me sad to think I have been abusing my friends for years knowing how long. Thank you for everything, Ann—REFORMED PUGILIST.

DEAR REFORMED—Your letter supports my contention that the habit is indeed as spontaneous one. Some readers wrote to say I was off base for that no person could sock and punch and not know he was doing it. I'm happy you wrote.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—You are a fine human relations teacher but a born attorney. You told "Gwendolyn"—the woman whose husband filed a bankruptcy petition—that she felt guilty about "kicking all these people" (many were personal friends) she should instead go back to work and pay them. You further recommended that she write or phone and advise them of her good intentions. You said she probably "felt better immediately."

The advice is beautiful from a human relations point of view, but hardly what a wife would be disastrous. The woman would have her husband right back in lock to all his creditors. The only safe way for a person to repay a debt which has been cancelled under a bankruptcy filing is to make no promises whatever, but to quietly save the amount owed one creditor, pay it full, and then go on to the next creditor—and the next—and so on.

Please give the word to the lady at once, and stop practicing law without a license, Deil.—JUDGE O. P. D.

DEAR JUDGE—Twenty years for me with a rolled up writ of replevin. Dimes of attorneys and a few judge writs to inform me that I had stopped over into their territory. I promise not to try to practice law in the future if you lawyers will promise not to try to write an advice column.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—My husband has a 22-year-old daughter by a former partner. Ellen was raised by her mother and she's always been a problem. She has been in trouble with teachers and teachers. Finally she was expelled from school and had to graduate through the mail.

My husband saw very little of Ellen until three months ago. Suddenly they have taken quite an interest in each other. The reason—she is being married this fall and wants a nice, beautiful, expensive wedding.

My husband has less than $100 in the bank, yet he wants to give her a wedding which will cost about $1,000. He says he'll borrow the balance. I don't mind borrowing in case of necessity but this is a luxury and I am against it. What is your advice?—PUGNOC-TOLD.

DEAR PUGNOC—Your husband is probably feeling pretty about suggesting Ellen all these years and this is his way of making it up to her. Let him do as he wishes about his daughter's wedding. It may be a "luxury" to you—but to him it is a necessity.

Confidential to MADE MY OWN BED—Stop moaning. Sister. Sometimes a hard bed is better for the spine than a soft one. Adjust to it. Others have to, and you can, too.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," containing what you require 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lemon Freezer Dessert

by Mary Moore

When my sister-in-law Wynne started today's little offering she said "Merry, your readers will think you for this. I know I would if my family was still at home".

The reason for this comment is that this Lemon Freezer Dessert can be made in advance — two or three days in advance — and, I think, tastes better when it is 48 hours old. It may be varied in several ways, as follows:

WEDNESDAY Dinner Menu

Julied On Tomatoes; Mustard Relish; Chilled Potato Salad; Cold Asparagus on Lettuce with Lemon Mayonnaise; Strawberry Shortcake; Cold
tea.

LEMON FREEZER DESSERT (Makes 16 servings)

1 cup evaporated milk eggs, separated
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 cup lemon juice
1 cup lemon juice
12 drops food coloring
1 cup fine chocolate wafers crumbs.

Prepared milk into freezer tray and dress until crystals begin to form around edges of tray. Meanwhile, beat eggs slightly, in top of double boiler, stir in 1/2 cup of sugar, lemon rind and juice.
Cook over simmering water, stirring constantly until smooth by thickness. Remove from heat, stir in coconut. Cool.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, gradually beat in remaining 1/2 cup sugar until stiff. Fold meringue into cooled lemon mixture. Whip stiffened evaporated milk until peaks form. Be patient at this stage. Fold in lemon mixture.
Turn into two refrigerator trays, each of which has been lined in the bottom with 1/4 cup of chocolate wafers crumbs; sprinkle top of each evenly with remaining crumbs. Freeze until firm. They really are comet lard.

Wednesday, 11 time: Substitute lime juice and rind for lemon juice and rind and use green food coloring instead of yellow. (2) Orange: Substitute orange juice and rind for lemon juice and rind and add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and if desired use orange food coloring instead of yellow. (3) Grapefruit: Substitute grapefruit juice and rind for lemon juice and rind but add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. (4) Substitute ginger or coconut cookies for graham wafer crumbs for the chocolate cookie crumbs.
Decorative tips: To facilitate last night getting into wedges,
I placed the lemon juice and sugar over the top from side to side. Then I sprinkled on cocoa powder. I marked the paper so that as possible.
When I served it I cut along these lines and lifted out pie-sized trays leaving bare sugar lines of the pale lemon whip

Eastminster U.C.W. Hold Barbecue

The westminster cooperated with clear skies and warm weather for the 3rd annual clubhouse barbecue held Monday evening on Eastminster church lawn.

Approximately 700 church members and friends from other churches in the city and surrounding district sat down to delicious barbecue chicken, assorted salads and trimmings.
Boys and girls of the U.C.W. were strutting in their red and white aprons and cummerbunds, they did an efficient job of ushering, serving soft drinks to the children and waiting on the needs of the diners.

Mr. B. Diamond and AGTS numbers were most helpful with the pick-ups and deliveries.

Much credit is due to the hostesses, Mrs. J. Williams and Mrs. C. Mayne, unit leaders, and their groups for a nicely planned event.

OPPOSER REWARD

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver lawyer said he will recover against any reward being paid three B.C. men in connection with the recovery at last of the bodies of three men in a theft from Loomis Armored Car Service. Thomas Griffiths said the three, most operator Don Hall of Hope, driver Lloyd
Green and lawyer J. A. Margach, have applied for a reward for help in recovering the money from three suitcases in Hall's possession.

All-Weather Wonder

By ALICE ALDEN
The raincoat that is geared to either fair weather or foul has become a major fashion item. And the fabric—collegiate synthetic laminated to lightweight foam—is right for practically allseason wear.

This manly-looking beauty, prepared to do duty in all but bad weather, is of silk, cut on full lines. It comes in an off-white shade with bold black coin dots as well as in all-black.
Pockets are slashed into the sides.

Women's P.C. Assoc. Enjoys Pot-Luck Meal

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Progressive Conservative Club was held Monday evening in the Kiwanis Centre.

A good crowd partook of a potluck supper, and was much enjoyed by all.

During the business period the secretary read the minutes of the last meeting which was followed by the treasurer's report.

The card party which was held in March was reported a big success. The Eastern District No. 2 of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association was invited to meet in Belleville in the fall at their conference. Mrs. Yorko has been appointed co-conference for the lunch.

Next meeting is to be held Sept. 16th with a potluck supper and a speaker.

Lonely Loveliness But . . .

TOWN WITH FUTURE — Port William, a The assured economic future of the town is its tourist centre in the Scottish Highlands, is to get contrast with the pessimistic outlook for many of a £20,000,000 pulp and paper plant that will open other Highland communities. (CP Photo) employ 1,500 workers when it opens in 1965.

Tourist Room-and-Board Is Scarce Tho' Highland Hospitality Still Tops

By ROD CURRIE

PORT WILLIAM, Scotland (CP)—Have the Highlands had it?

A lot of people, it seems, think they have.

They deplore of turning the place of slow but constant opposition, the flow of Scots to the central Edinburgh — Glasgow industrial belt, to England and beyond.

And they hold little hope, for the immediate future, of attracting substantial new industry into the lonely loveliness where seem to flow immediately on any attempt to tame them.

There are, however, pockets of optimism and nowhere in the Highlands is this more evident than in this picturesque town of 2,800 along the edge of Loch Lomond, against the back of Ben Nevis, the greatest mountain in Britain.

For Port William, already a tourist centre, is on the brink of a £20,000,000 industrial adventure—a pulp and paper plant that will employ about 1,500 when it opens in 1965; double that number while the next 20 years.

The new vigor in this neck of the Highland woods is typified in the town's growth, or mayor, Rev. Canon G. K. B. Henderson, the bustling, chain-smoking pastor of the main — street church.

MEANS FOREST BOOM

The mill, producing fine quality paper for text books, stationery and the like, will spread its benefits far beyond the plant site, Canon Henderson says.

The plan, in time, will attract nearly 5,000 people to the area. And this influx itself will provide more jobs for builders, people in the service industries and businessmen in the town.

It also will be a boon to the Highlands' forest industry, the men who cut, trim and truck the trees in the pulp mill. The town itself plans to build about 200 houses for the expected increase in population.

But, moving away from this oasis of optimism, one is again confronted by the physical and topographical characteristics that, magnificent and photogenic though they may be, give credence to the voice of doom.

The fact is that the Highlands, with a population of less than 200,000, are too far from the main centres of trade and sources of material to have a narrow and blating, often are hit during the winter months. And soon the railway reclamation scheme will put an end to a number of unspectable stations.

The government has improved terms of its tax scheme to attract new industry into the Highlands but local authorities lack the money to build the necessary hotel for the future of the Highlands but in their unchallenged beauty, fishing streams and other tourist attractions.

At present, however, except for such towns as Port William, top-heavy with big hotels and dozens of shops selling to the tourists, there is little or no accommodation for visitors.

Dotted throughout the countryside are signs offering "bed and breakfast" homes where guests are treated like family, possibly of a nip of Scotland's most famous product before retiring, and served a refreshingly substantial breakfast for a most moderate cost.

But delightful as these places are, they are hardly adequate for the Highlands hope to see in the tourist business in a big way.

SAY HELPS WANTS

Some people in Ireland still hold the belief that the juice of the dandelion, or Irish daisy, will remove warts.

Walthbridge

concerned, we propose to go ahead with that spa," he said lastly.

Mr. Kierans was accompanied by the governing board of Montreal Stock Exchange, which is presently distributed by the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges and right and left. "The governing board and the Canadian stock exchange," he said, "are both in the same boat. Thursday night will cause a sharp rise in the value of Canadian stocks and tend to cause a sharp drop in the value of Canadian stocks."

"The Canadian investor will be hit hardest by the proposed legislation."

STOCK MARKET MEASURES

His attack was on two key business measures. One aimed at halting foreign take-overs of Canadian firms, levies a 30-per-cent tax on anyone selling more than $50,000 a day of stock in a Canadian company listed on stock exchange.

The other step alters the rate withholding taxes on dividends paid to foreign investors in order to encourage a multi-national investment in Canada by Canadians in foreign-controlled firms in this country.

Mr. Kierans said a self-styled "small liberal" who is the vice-president of a large Canadian firm is an approaching Quebec financial breeder.

He said the "unbelievable" rate of the measures above the government limit concerned with revenue but wants to avoid the sale of Central Canada to foreign citizens.

Thus it appeared to involve property and civil rights — a violation of the federal constitution and "beyond the competence of the federal government" was a perfect example of how a "tax gimmick" could reduce provincial autonomy.

Mr. Kierans said that the "capital levy" which exempted 20 per cent of the assets of the firm when sold, it would encourage Canadian to invest in Canada and securities where markets were free and non-discriminatory.

"Exchange controls are a violation of the spirit of the GATT," he said.

Mr. Kierans said that the "tax gimmick" was a "tax gimmick" which would encourage Canadian to invest in Canada and securities where markets were free and non-discriminatory.

Daily Paper Is Best Media For Information, Advertising Report of Two Surveys

TORONTO (CP) — Advertisers and ad agency executives were told Monday that the most common mistake in sample study was the daily newspaper is best source for information and advertising.

Reports on two studies on the habits, attitudes and motives of Canadian using newspapers, radio and television were announced by the Canadian Newspaper Publishers Association, which sponsored two detailed surveys last year.

One was made by Canadian Fact Limited, the other by the Institute for Motivational Research Incorporated of Orono-St. John, N.Y., both in consultation with the Canadian Advertising Research Foundation.

Irving Gilman, vice-president of IIRF, said it is a CNAF lunch of 1963 and agency executives that his company's study of the role of the media in the home indicated that the four do not compete directly. All play complementary roles, he said.

Majority Pick Papers

Choosing among newspapers, radio, TV and magazines, 50 per cent of those questioned said newspapers are best for information and in helping the individual assess the significance of events.

And, he said, people depend on newspapers and magazines for news and for greater extent than on television and radio for detailed information.

A booklet based on the IIRF survey said that in terms of "information" in advertising, 56 per cent said television, 31 per cent said newspapers and 13 per cent said radio.

It said 83 per cent stated newspapers are the best source of information when good value is sought. Seventy per cent said newspapers come to advertise "product" just when I'm most interested in buying.

Seventy-one per cent of the people questioned found advertising on television the most irritating, 13 per cent said radio and the rest divided equally between newspapers and magazines.

The trio, called "ghost writers" by the opposition, are David Stanley and Martin O'Connell, who continued on the payroll of the Toronto investment firm, and a CIBC accountant and post-graduate student at Ryerson University.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the government of "contemptuous disregard" for parliament.

Mr. Gordon said: "I have no intention of misleading the House, nor do I think I did. I did. I apologize, but I do not think I did."

Mr. Knowles noted the minister had said the three were appointed by treasury board, a committee of cabinet.

NO ORDER PASSED

The NDP member said the treasury board was prohibited from making appointments by a section of the Financial Administration Act, and no cabinet order had been passed to validate the treasury board's action.

Mr. Gordon said the "special committee" was created under another section of the act covering the treasury board approval of contracts of more than $1,000.

The section of the act cited as "Mr. Knowles' does not apply to these cases" and cabinet approval was not required, Mr. Gordon said.

Gordon said, former Conservative defence minister, referred to last Friday's Commons record and quoted Mr. Gordon as saying the three had been appointed by cabinet order.

"It that is not misleading the House... I do not know what misleading the House is," Mr. Churchill said.

Prime Minister Pearson promised to obtain an opinion from the Justice department on the legality of the appointments.

Mr. McInnes called for a Commons committee investigation of the affair because of the "extraordinary and dubious" action of Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Gordon said this would be considered, but added the House opposition leader for the way he put his question.

WHAT MAKES A PREMIUM TIRE SO GREAT?

Every Dominion Royal Master—carefully segregated from general production—is built from start to finish by a selected Tire Builder.

While all Dominion Royal tires are made by the most advanced techniques, each Dominion Royal Master is, in addition, the proud achievement of a man who carefully structures each individual tire with your safety in mind.

Every Dominion Royal Master has to measure up to exacting specifications. Each item that goes into its manufacture is subject to chemical analysis, dimensional checks, and tests of physical properties. Tests that measure in the thousandths, depth gauges controlled by atomic beam-ray theories, other special devices perfected by Dominion Rubber—all continually work to assure the quality and dimensional accuracy of every part of this tire.

Some air pressure—but look at the difference! "Low Profile" Dominion Royal Master is wider, lower, pre-molded closer to its rolling shape. This means less crimping of rubber and fabric in the sidewall, the area where destructive heat builds up. You get a cooler running, longer wearing, safer tire! safer for you and your family.

Stops skidding, starts better. Lower, wider shape of "Low Profile" Dominion Royal Master means more tread to grip the road... positive response to braking, under steering. Exclusive "Traction Tor" tread design releases mud from every dimension, gives extra protection on slippery pavement. The safest tire we've ever built—by far.

Safety, performance, styling. Only the Accout Styling. The narrow band of white, set off in a finely flared sidewall design, gives you a dynamic action look. "Low Profile" Dominion Royal Masters are the only tires that have kept pace with the modern need for safety, performance and styling, truly the world's finest premium tire.

FOR THE FIRST TIME EVER—FROM TODAY UNTIL 9 P.M. JUNE 29TH

A RARE OPPORTUNITY FOR YOU TO OWN FIVE OF THE WORLD'S FINEST PREMIUM TIRES DOMINION ROYAL MASTERS FOR THE PRICE OF FOUR

Maybe you are about to take delivery of a new car. Perhaps you've got 10,000 good miles left in your present tires. Or you just need new tires—now. Whatever the circumstances, here's an opportunity never before offered for you to know and appreciate the extra safety, extra mileage-by-far, extra-ordinary good looks of Dominion Royal Masters.

But don't think in terms of one tire, please. Or two. Think of a set of five. It takes five tires to get the full measure of satisfaction from four, even four premium tires. And five lets us inspect and rotate them for you every 5,000 miles—at no cost to you. Let's do it. Let's help you get at least 20% more mileage from each tire—that could be 40,000, 50,000 even 60,000 miles of trouble-free driving.

To help you step up to Dominion Royal Masters, we offer you five of these beauties for the price of four—if you order them before 9 p.m., June 29. If yours is a new car, the cost of switching will be about $120. If your tires are worn, they are worth up to $10 each on trading. Come. See for yourself how little it costs, how much you'll save by going for five to get the most out of four.

Act now. This offer expires 9 p.m., June 29, 1963.

Passamaquoddy Coma

Hopes Pinned on Pearson to Revive Bay of Fundy Tidal Power Project

By DAVE BUTLER

Salt John Telegraph-Journal

DEER ISLAND, N.B. (CP)—

The Passamaquoddy power project, a half-billion dollar scheme to harness the tides of the Bay of Fundy, may be destined for rejuvenation after drifting 34 years on currents of indifference.

Squashed twice as "unfeasible" from a Canadian standpoint, revival of the joint U.S.-Canadian agreement was first made possible by Prime Minister Pearson who, as external affairs minister in the former government of Louis St. Laurent, was considered one of its supporters.

The project, in a coma since 1949, got an injection of life May 3 when U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart told a press conference a "major announcement" regarding the undertaking would be made July 1.

Mr. Stewart's statement, which described the deal as a "fine project," represents the first positive comment by the U.S. since it received the final report of the International Joint Commission in 1950.

So far there has been no official Canadian reaction to the statement. Canada's co-operation is essential because Passamaquoddy Bay forms part of the boundary between Maine and New Brunswick.

BILLION POWERPOWER

The system of sea gates and generating dams would cost the U.S. and Canada jointly more than $500,000,000. It would employ about 5,000. It would produce more than 1,000,000 horsepower, or 3,000,000 kilowatt hours a year.

U.S. officials implied that technological advances would result in cost exceeding these figures. He declined to elaborate on what the July 1 announcement would contain. However, there are some who feel it may reveal a U.S. readiness to begin construction.

The idea that Fundy tides could be harnessed for hydroelectric power was hatched in the early 1830s by Dexter B.

Cooper, brilliant American engineer, from the window of his summer home on Campbell Island at the mouth of the Passamaquoddy Bay. He had the strong currents formed for the project for rejuvenation after drifting 34 years on currents of indifference.

the investment might not provide adequate returns for Canada. The 1957 Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic future also took a "pessimistic" view.

However, the tide began to turn in favor of "Qooddy" when a logistical survey was begun in December, 1958, by a team in U.S. and Canada's scientific departments to determine whether the project would be detrimental to the fishing industry. In 1959 the scientists reported it would be negligible.

Canada's Payments Deficit, While Still Huge, Dips Again

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's

monthly this year compared with a small deficit a year earlier. Deficit on non-merchandise transactions fell to $200,000,000 from $250,000,000. This takes in travel spending, interest and dividends, and such matters as freight and shipping costs.

Almost all the improvement came on the travel account. The deficit fell to $87,000,000 from $100,000,000 a year ago. Tourists in Canada increased their spending by $4,000,000 to $20,000,000, while Canadians abroad cut their outlays by $13,000,000.

In contrast, net payments of dividends rose to $124,000,000 from $112,000,000. Interest payments went up to $69,000,000 from $67,000,000.

By itself, Canada's overall payments deficit with the United States is now $1,100,000,000, down from $1,200,000,000 a year ago.

United States is now $1,100,000,000, down from $1,200,000,000 a year ago.

to enter Canada on a large scale. But there was a major change in the form it took. Net inflow for investment in foreign-controlled enterprises in Canada fell sharply to $65,000,000 from $100,000,000 in the last quarter of 1961 and $110,000,000 in the first quarter of 1962. This reflects the absence of last year's big takeovers of Canadian companies.

Quebec Most Exciting Part Of Canada Says Editor

MONTREAL (CP) — George V. Ferguson, editor-in-chief of the Montreal Star, said Wednesday that "Quebec is, at this hour, the most exciting part of Canada."

During the Friday-June 20th morning lecture at the annual meeting of the Canadian Press Association, Mr. Ferguson said it is an exaggeration to say that no province in Canada has ever undertaken so much and where the province has been so regarded as Quebec in the last three years.

Test of his speech was related to the press in advance of delivery.

Mr. Ferguson described the history of Quebec's colonial days and recalled that the change from a quiet, conservative agricultural province to an industrial giant began with the Second World War.

"The revolutionary transformation was slow to adapt itself to change," he said.

The late premier Maurice Duplessis, who died in 1959, was remembered as a man who was making them in the province in the field of politics and he wanted a fairer deal, it today.

Mr. Ferguson said: "As for the English-speaking provinces, what can be attempted is to include the study and speaking of French as part of the normal curriculum in schools, and to explain to our children why this is important. No matter how minor its immediate consequences, it is a step towards making all Canadian citizens of the French race, any step which in even a small way, helps to break down the stubborn isolation in which we live is a part of any constructive process which is intended to strengthen our citizenship."

WINN ACQUAINT. GRAZ, Austria (Reuters)—A local court Wednesday acquitted a French courier, a 30-year-old man, charged with smuggling 100 pounds of heroin between 1941 and 1943 at Vina in Russia. He was 30 years of age when he was making them in the province in the field of politics and he wanted a fairer deal, it today.

Man's Driving Permit Stopped For Two Years

Magistrate Phillip Baker suspended a man's driving license for two years for drunk driving in Belleville.

Edward Lionel John, Waterville, N.Y., pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and was fined $100 and his license suspended for two years.

Mr. John, 31, is a resident of Belleville and was arrested by a police officer at his home on Saturday night.

There is a reciprocal agreement with New York State, and Mr. John will be applicable in New York.

However, he dated a seven-day sentence from the time of John's arrest Saturday night.

He also suggested police withdraw a charge of driving without a license, since he was not a resident of Ontario.

He was also a member of John's car when he ticked the rear of a car trailer.

Former Pupils Pay Tribute to Miss E. Groat

Approximately 120 former pupils of Miss E. Groat, who died last week, gathered at Belleville College to pay tribute to a former teacher.

Miss Groat, who was 84 years of age, died on Wednesday night after a long illness.

She was a member of the Board of St. John's, and was a member of the Board of St. John's.

Former students from as far back as 1928 attended the funeral. Mrs. Kenneth Kerr acted as master of ceremonies.

Miss Groat was presented with a handsome home glass centerpiece by her former students.

She was a real class tradition. "Some of the girls hadn't seen each other since 1928 and they were introductions all around."

Next week, the Club Groat is an official retirement party for Miss Groat and for Mr. Morley H. Agnew, both of whom are retiring at the time of the present school term.

Foreign Investment Here Welcome Declares - Martin

MIAMI, Fla. (CP) — Foreign investment is as welcome as ever in Canada, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said today.

In an address to the 46th annual convention of the American investment, the Canadian minister said his government believes that a mixture of domestic and foreign investment will be the best way to ensure that the benefits of economic growth are shared by all concerned.

"We want to provide for effective and harmonious participation for foreign investment in Canada," he said.

"But as our industrial strength develops, I am sure you will understand why we are trying to ensure that the benefits of the ownership and control accrue to a proportionately increasing share to Canadians."

Referring to Canada's balance of payments deficit, Mr. Martin declared:

"You as businessmen will understand that we must not let this deficit go to balance our books. We cannot continue to go into red ink year after year at the rate of close to $1 billion, of which about half was attributable to interest and dividend payments on foreign investments of foreign capital in Canada."

Canadian objectives must include economic growth, stimulation of industrial activity, and a lower unemployment.

Mr. Martin, speaking in what he called "the gateway to the Caribbean and Latin America," said Canada recognizes the constructive and far-reaching "partnership" the U.S. is making toward peace and progress in the Western Hemisphere.

Other resolutions published at the meeting of Prime Minister Pearson and President Kennedy, and two governments have entered a new era in their relationship.

The statements were included in the list of the powers of the press before delivery.

with pensions under the new plan, the Ontario said.

All expenditures under the new plan will be paid out of contributions by employers, new players and self-employed employees.

MORE

Other resolutions published at the notice paper were for amendments to the National Reading Act sponsored by Revenue Minister Gordon and the Technical and Vocational Training Act, sponsored by Labor Minister Pearson.

The amounting to $100,000 will be provided from government funds for equipment, carrying out urban renewal programs authorized by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, and all guarantees will be given to bank, trust and insurance companies for loans made to owners of houses in urban renewal programs.

Killins

and later, Gladys Quinn, 40, of Perry Sound, Ont. Crown pathologist Dr. F. L. Lewis said laboratory analysis showed that Killins' body had been in the water for 12 to 14 hours, and that the water was not too deep, during or after the shooting.

KILLINS BURIED

He said the police would have acted as a stimulant because of the lack of evidence, as described by doctors at the time as "not of sound mind."

He said he was sitting with Mrs. Killins, with whom he had been married for three children when Killins burst in wedding dress to each hand.

He said Killins, who lived by himself in a small house, had shouted "get the both of you" and opened fire with both pistols, killing his wife and wounding her brother.

Mr. Campbell, 20, said he was with Mrs. Killins at the time she was shot, but he was not close, but Killins pulled shells through the walls, killed her brother, and then he was shot.

Mr. Campbell said he was given the deaths of Patricia and John Killins.

Killins was an ordained minister of the United Church from 1941 to 1944 in Claverville, Man.

Ann Landers

Meaning of "Next" Causes Friction in Man's Family

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My wife and I have had a continuous argument for 23 years. We decided to sit down and we asked someone to settle it once and for all. We have no idea what trouble we have been having since then.

"When my wife tells me on Thursday that she is going to her mother's house tomorrow," I say, "on Thursday you will tell me that Saturday." I get the idea she means the Saturday of the next week — the day after tomorrow. This is one of those crazy things that probably goes on every day. Will you be good enough to get my letter and your reply in the paper? It would help a lot. — J. A. DANCE OVER, DANCE.

DEAR DANCE — According to Webster's Third International Dictionary "next" means "nearest. Nothing intervenes." So, if on Thursday you will tell me you are going to visit her mother "next Saturday" it clearly means the day after tomorrow because that's the nearest Saturday — immediately following, with nothing intervening.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — We are having the same family fight for the third summer in a row. Our son is now 11 years old and he is three weeks, 11 (the father) have said that Delbert does not want to go to camp and his mother says there is no reason why we should insist on it.

I wouldn't mind if the boy did something constructive during the summer — but he just wants to do it day after day. He is not willing to sleep late in the morning and then use his mother to take him swimming or to a movie in the afternoon.

My wife says the youngster should be allowed to make his own decisions. He might make him feel rejected. She says he could be emotionally damaged for life. Your advice is wanted. — THE SINGLETON.

DEAR SINGLETON — Your wife is raising a vegetable instead of a son and you must share it with him. Tell the boy — if you permit her to get away with it.

Pre-teen children should be allowed to make such decisions. They are equipped with their own judgment; not the maturity to make the choice.

Camp would give the boy what he needs most — discipline, responsibility and healthy competition with other boys. This year don't let Delbert — tell him he is going to camp. And then, his mother, the surprise everyone is including himself — and have the best time of his young life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I've been dating this man for three years. I've tried four or five times to break up with him but he won't let me.

Whenever I tell him I don't want to see him any more, he begins to weep. He says if I drop him he will sell his car, quit his job, and become a bum. He talks about joining the foreign service or getting on a freighter — or maybe just killing himself. I don't think that's got to be but I could never be sure.

Yesterday my boss asked me to work late and finish some reports so he could take home on time. He began to cry on the phone and it took me 20 minutes to get him off.

I went to get out of his personality but he won't let me. Can you help — CHAINED.

DEAR CHAINED — Translated into honest English your problem reads something like this: "I've liked to tell this guy about his car and I don't want to tell him about his car but he won't let me. He's a bum, but he's better than nothing."

With this fellow needs is professional help. And what you need is the courage to face some lovely evening with you can replace the cry-baby with some one more stable.

Confidential to OUT OF STEP — Nonsense. This is nothing of a philosopher's stone. He does not keep pace with his fellow travelers it is because he has a different manner.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, read for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Baited," available at your nearest 20 cents in coin and a long self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send your letter in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

and said his administration was dealing with these problems as well as with finding new jobs.

"Unemployment is a national problem but we in the province are willing to see what we can do," he said.

"We have to find out what the problems are and then we will have to take responsibility for what we can do and we do not intend to pass the buck."

He said his government was working on a five-year program to create 300,000 new jobs in Ontario.

As part of this, a conference is to be held in Toronto in September, sponsored by the departments of labor, education and economics and development to study the problems of unemployment.

He said he found out that the problems are not that we will have to take responsibility for what we can do and we do not intend to pass the buck."

Earlier with repeated protests that he was only making a statement, Premier Robert Spence spent 20 minutes with Mr. Macmillan yesterday.

"We had a very pleasant meeting and I accomplished my purpose — to come here and establish relationships with Mr. Macmillan on a formal basis as well as on a personal basis."

He said he was the leader of the government of Ontario and the premier of the province of Ontario.

Macmillan said he was the leader of the government of Canada. Mr. Spence said he was the leader of the government of Ontario.

Her parachute was not red and white and she wore "blue training suit," reported.

Mr. Bernard Lovell, director of the Manchester University radio observatory and astronomer of the Royal Society, said the dual shot apparently missed its goal.

"Although the flights have been terminated successfully, it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the original plan has not been fulfilled," said Lovell.

"Little further progress can be made in the technical aspects of rendezvous (orbital) flights."

Inquiry, but challenged Mr. Diefenbaker to produce to the Commons "any evidence on which to base the suspicions he has indicated."

"I do not believe in guilt by innuendo or insinuation," Mr. Pearson said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had asked for information — not made insinuations, and that Mr. Pearson was "trying to hide behind a smoke screen."

BEFORE MARKET CLOSES
Mr. Gordon's announcement of the withdrawal of the 50-per-cent "takeover" tax was made as soon as the Commons began its proceedings shortly after 2:30 p.m. EDT. Stock markets in Toronto and Montreal closed about 2:30 p.m.

He said the measure was being withdrawn pending resolution of "certain administrative difficulties" in applying the tax, which had become effective last Friday.

One of the difficulties, he said, involved new financing under way for business operations which couldn't be allowed to lapse or be deferred until detailed regulations were worked out. It might take "a little time" to work out a solution.

Mr. Gordon concluded with his announcement a sharp rebuke to the angry-wounded letter of support to him Tuesday by Sen. Kilgus, president of the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges, who severely criticized the measure.

The finance minister said the letter was "intemperate and irresponsible in tone and in content." He suggested that other financial people—just not Mr. Kilgus—be invited to draft a resolution "consistent with the government's statement of objectives of takeovers of Canadian concerns by non-residents."

THE LEAD LAYING
Gen. Howard Graham, president of the Toronto Stock Exchange, was in a Commons gallery as the minister made his announcement.

The 50-per-cent tax was to have been levied against sales to foreign investors of more than $500,000 worth of a day of stocks in Canadian corporations listed on Canadian stock exchanges, and also against the right sales of assets of such companies to foreigners.

Mr. Norwin, in opening the study Commons budget debate, presented a non-confidence motion which, besides raising the issue of budget sequence, charged that the budget's measures affecting foreign investment will fail to achieve their objective and will bring deterioration of Canada's international relations.

The motion said the budget proposals "will undermine and curtail the expansion of the economy" and described the sales tax levy on building materials and manufacturing machinery as "a retrograde and inequitable attack."

Mr. Norwin called the withdrawal of the takeover tax an "amazing, historic development."

There was a Liberal party cry of "cheers" when the measure was announced. The Conservatives must have been made in the stock market reversal following the minister's announcement.

PROCEDURE TIPPED
"One does not have to have a sense of humor to be a politician," he replied. He said he was not the stock market was "boiling," and added: "The inference is fairly obvious."

Mr. Norwin said billions of millions of dollars of planned investments in Canadian industry were called off following the budget.

Now, the day in working out a new tax proposal would bring "confusion" were compounded.

"We don't know what devil is going to emerge," he said. If the suspension of development continued, it would cause unemployment and personal distress on a national scale, creating "which will make those who are unemployed and distressed."

of the immediate past seem very small indeed."

Mr. Norwin said there was no evidence of wrongdoing resulting from Mr. Gordon's sale of the three Toronto businesses to help prepare the budget process while two of them continued to be sold in investment firms.

But the minister's action showed "a lack of judgment that goes to the very root of our government institutions."

He suggested it could only be explained by the fact that Mr. Gordon was relatively new to parliamentary and government traditions.

(Mr. Gordon, MP for Toronto-Hamilton, was first elected last year and became a minister in June.)

Mr. Norwin said the affair would add to the public's notion that "the big boys" on the inside, are able to make the rules and the little fellows, the ones on the outside, are being exploited by these in the inside."

OTHER BRITISH LEADERS and first time in Commons, Mr. Norwin said he was "very happy to be here for the first time."

LEAST MAJOR ACTIONS
Among the major actions of the budget period were:

1. Notice that Canada will send its maritime offshore fishing zone to 12 miles from three next May.

2. Announcement that Canada will negotiate with the United States to obtain nuclear waste.

3. Proposal to the provinces on terms of reference for a royal commission study of bilingualism.

4. Approval of an amendment to the north Pacific fisheries convention giving Japan the right to fish in the east China Sea and the north Pacific.

5. Agreement to NATO participation in a bilateral nuclear force within NATO.

KEFUSE U.S. BID
6. Bidding along with the U.S. proposal for cross-border tariff cuts without safeguards for Canadian trade.

Legislative action was limited in the Commons to set up $400,000 municipal development fund and supply the Atlantic Development Board with a $100,000 capital fund, create a new department of industry and commerce council and a new council of Canada, and provide for a second agriculture minister to look after eastern farmers.

Sir Andrew Little is due to resign the Commons next day. It is the resolution to establish the Canada Debt Corporation in which Canadians will be asked to bring their savings for the provision of Canadian-owned resource development.

All these items are in the early stages of the parliamentary process.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARK
(A Canadian Social Worker, Helps with Human Problems)

Has Never Been Pretty

DEAR DORIS — I have never been anything to look at (even a little homely) and in order to get anywhere with people I have had to depend entirely upon my personality. I have an older sister and she learned how to handle myself when in my older crowd. This may seem odd to you, but I would much prefer to be with boys my own age (18), but they are always just friends. They come to me with problems over their girl friends.

To often the older boys get too serious and are at the age when they want to start thinking about settling down. This is where I have to be a sweet but hasty retreat. I still have years of learning before I start thinking about settling down.

I am wondering if the reason could be perhaps that men or older boys seem to appreciate a person for what they are, and boys too often look more for physical attraction or beauty.

Could you please give me any tips or reasons why I can't get a boy interested in me? Or should I just remain as I am — keeping one step ahead of the older fellows? This constant worry about how serious they might be getting is very tiring and upsetting to me. I would just love to talk back and relax with a boy and know he's not going to get so serious he'll even consider marriage. — ONLY LONELY FOR THE YOUNG.

DEAR ONLY LONELY — The girl with personality is the one who wears well, and it's my guess that the boys who seek out interesting girls now will be courting you later.

Try to come into your own. Meanwhile, light-heartedness can be learned through organizing your own parties and having some of the joys of social life. You can also get athletic pursuit, or joining a dramatic group. By learning to play.

DEAR DORIS — My friend and I are both nurses. She has been married in September and I want to give her a shower in July while her friends are in town. Does this mean her announcement should appear in the paper before the shower? — NURSE

DEAR NURSE — No. Her close friends — the people who would come — will know about her plans, and that's all that matters. The regular newspaper announcement should appear three weeks to a month before the Big Event.

Confidential to BEARING UP — The best sentence in your letter was the one in which you said you had some peace of mind. When we must live with our difficulties it is possible to see them through. With sufficient inspiration we can even be the means of helping others with troubles to live on a loftier plane than thought.

(Is it etiquette in a special situation that worries you? Ask Doris about it.)

2nd SIDNEY — The Bay of Quinte Institute held its June meeting at the museum, at Belleville.

Mr. Byrne showed slides of the past history of this neighborhood. The old covered bridge at Trenton and Frankford, the side of the painting of Trentine long ago that was hung in the old Court-Kitchen of the way of teaching in the past, which was most interesting.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes thanked Mr. Byrne.

Mr. Byrne and Mrs. Jack Sargent took members on a tour of the museum. The paintings of Canada's past history by the Rev. Scollery of Concession, were lovely.

The tour the Institute meeting was short.

At the close of the business session the members were asked if they would care to enter the Canadian Industries display at the Belleville Fair this year, such as darning. The W.I. is to get the extension course on hats.

Mrs. Jeffery thanked Mrs. Jack Sargent and Mr. Byrne.

Mrs. Holmes was the convener for the evening.

She is the curator for the Twentieth-century at this neighborhood.

There were four visitors who joined for the time. Mrs. R. Young and her mother, Mrs. Kilgour of Scotland.

Mrs. Kilgour is in Trenton visiting her daughter and she has been an Institute member for 19 years in Scotland, so she wanted to come to some Institute meeting in Canada while here to see how things are done. She will be the speaker at the July meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid, Mrs. W. Hart and Mrs. Murphy also attended the tour.

W.I. Holds Meeting for Grandmothers

ELBORADO — The Eldorado and Bancroft Women's Institute held their meeting for grandmothers on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Beryl Carman with 14 present. Mrs. Blackburn opened the meeting in the usual manner and the business portion followed.

It was decided that the W.I. would take a bus trip to Coburn. Reports were given on the district annual by Mrs. Beryl Carman. A prayer song entitled "A quitter never wins and a winner never quits" was given.

Mrs. Frank Palmer had charge of the program which opened with a tap dancing number by Owen Gibson and Diana Burley. A reading was given by Mrs. Chambers "What Grandmother Used". A contest was conducted for the grand mother with several prizes awarded.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Palmer for the fine program.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was served and a social time spent.

SPRINGBROOK U.C.W.

SPRINGBROOK — Springbrook United Church Women's meeting June 9 in the church hall an attendance of 25 members and 11 visitors, with the president Mrs. R. Wellman opening the meeting with a poem.

The worship service was under the leadership of Mrs. Bag. McGibbon on Christian education. Mrs. D. Fleming gave a picture which appeared in the church calendar. Meditation was taken by Mrs. McGibbon. The offering was received and dedicated by Mrs. H. Piles.

With June being visitors month from the sick and convalescing members from Ryntown and Stanwood U.C.W. were present. The "Christian Education" was given in dialogue form by Mrs. H. Piles which proved most interesting. After the reading of the minutes by Mrs. R. Bailey reports from the sick and convalescing members and the flower committee were given. A family night is planned for June 28th.

Mrs. Weaver, secretary, secretary from Belleville gave a talk on some of the Christian education books. A Bible concert was conducted by Mrs. McGibbon and a reading was given by Mrs. Brunson of the Ladies' Wood U.C.W.

Lunch was served by the ladies in the church hall.

Net meeting will be held in the evening of July 4 with the business being Mrs. A. Reid and Mrs. P. Batesman.

MAIL CASE

Question: When invitations to a party are sent out weeks in advance, is it permissible to send reminders just in case the people might forget the date? Others I've spoken with about this question seem to think a reminder might irritate the hostess (thank her guests for no social responsibility and really forget engagements). — Mrs. H. P. St. Petersburg, Fla.

Answer: Reminders cards are often sent out when invitations are sent well in advance of the party. This is an accepted custom and certainly should not provoke any ill-feelings.

Question: Neighbors are announcing the engagement of their daughter at a dinner party by noon. My husband and I, as well as our daughter, have been invited. Is it proper to bring a gift? Must our daughter bring a separate present, or would one from the family be sufficient? — Mrs. R. H. Philadelphia, Pa.

Answer: Gifts are not customary at the time an engagement is announced — at least as far as guests at an engagement party is concerned. The groom's parents usually give the bride a present and exchange gifts. Close relatives sometimes give the couple something meaningful and sentimental. But otherwise, guests don't bring gifts and are not expected to.

Question: My husband and I are adopting a child and would like to send an engraved announcement to our relatives and many friends. Would this be correct? May an announcement be sent to our local newspaper as well if it's correct to send announcements, should they be sent before or after the baby arrives? — Mrs. H. P. St. Petersburg, Fla.

Answer: An adoption is not announced in the newspaper, but engraved announcements may be sent to friends, preferably on a plain white card and would read as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Walker-Rich have the happiness to announce the adoption of Bruce Douglas, born March 21, 1932. Announcements may be sent as soon as the adoption is assured, or as soon as the baby is brought home.

Cardinal Montini, Leading Candidate for Pope, Typifies Progressive Group in Church

By TOM OCHILTREE
VATICAN CITY (AP)—Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini, widely acknowledged as a leading candidate for pope, typifies the progressive group in the Roman Catholic hierarchy. He pictures his church as the protector of the poor and the guardian of social justice. And he longs for the reunion of Christendom "in one shepherd with only one pastor," a vision he shared with Pope John XXIII.

If Cardinal Montini ascends the throne of St. Peter, it seems certain that the ecclesiastical council called by Pope John will continue its work with new vigor and inspiration. The council's future rests in the hands of the next supreme pontiff.

At first glance, the Italian-born cardinal seems to have everything in his favor for winning election from the College of Cardinals.

Many expect Cardinal Montini to poll the largest vote on the first ballot but to fall short of the required two-thirds majority. If that happens, his strength could slowly slip away to another man.

Cardinal Montini believes in conquering Communism rather than fighting them. In a pastoral letter in 1960, when this cold war colder than it now is, he wrote:

"Let the uneducated and unhappy ones who gather behind Marxists know that somebody still loves them strongly, immensely, divinely. Let them know that those who carry on in this world the mission of the crucified God think of them, follow them, love them, await them in His Name."

DANGERS OF WEALTH

In a speech in Turin three years ago, the cardinal spoke of "the moral and social dangers of selfish wealth." He said:

"The social doctrine of the church has never denied the function of private enterprise . . . provided this does not damage human dignity and the legitimate aspirations of those who take part in the productive process. . . . All, the poorer classes, the great crowd of workers, should recognize that is hidden in their souls."

He suggested there was great social wisdom in giving workers "a more equitable participation" in profits and even some responsibility in management.

Deserted Scottish Glen Still Broods On Centuries-Old Massacre of Clan

By ROD CURRIE

GLENGOE, Scotland (CP)—The Scots are prone to tell tales.

Admire a tree, a hill, an old house, and the nearest Scot pops up with a historic tidbit. It's almost as good as with it. But at all the tales of ancient battles, of the glen, of the massacre and murder most foul, probably none is more vividly alive than the true story of the massacre of Glencoe.

Volunteers have written on the slaughter of the MacDonalds by James Campbell in the early dawn of a February morning in the many details round the conflict—including the spelling of MacDonald and Glencoe—and the shade of guilt among government, military and others involved still is debated.

Certainly the MacDonalds of Glencoe were popular with neighboring clans and records show numerous charges of cattle-stealing and violence—"poor and manifest oppression, man and beast," they were called.

Later accounts, however, say the MacDonalds were not the barbarians their foes made them out to be and suggest that the same "source" would yield an equally unfavorable record of most of their enemies.

Whatever the merits of the various arguments, it generally is conceded that the MacDonalds did in fact plunder the lands of Glengoy, reducing the laird, Robert Campbell, to seeking a livelihood in the army.

At the time the MacDonalds and their followers were returning from battle in which they had fought for King James. Subsequently William III offered pardon to all who had been in arms provided they sent an oath of allegiance before Jan. 1, 1692.

The chief of the MacDonalds, Macdon of Glencoe, delayed until the final day and then a series of misadventures prevented him being sworn in.

But by then the wheels of war were already in motion. Sir John Dalrymple, William's most energetic Scottish minister "rejoiced" at the turn of events and wrote "it is a great work of charity to be exact in rooting out that damnable sect, the worst in all the Highlands."

KILPATRICK CHIEF
Another letter, in the style and spelling of the time and still exhibited in the National Library of Scotland, gave Campbell his instructions:

"You are hereby ordered to fall upon the Rebels, the MacDonalds of Glencoe, and put all the women under arrest, you are to have a special care that the old for and their sons do not to account escape your hands."

The Campbells arrived as friends, were billeted in houses 1122 Pinnacle St. WO 5377 throughout the glen and enjoyed the hospitality for two weeks before attacking it 9 a.m. on Feb. 23.

The chief was killed but his two sons escaped and the attack was not the success Dalrymple had hoped for, probably because many of the Campbells had little taste for the task at hand.

There are countless stories of seeking to convey last minute warnings, of the young soldier, while hearing of his host, addressing a stone: "O my stone of the glen, though great is thy right to be here, if thou knewest what would happen to thee, thou wouldst not have been here."

HOUSE BURNED
Statistics are vague, but it is recorded that of an adult male population of 150, about 38 were killed. However the houses were burned, the stock driven off, and "at least as many more of the worst" died of exposure and starvation.

It was not until three years later that William finally bowed to demands for an inquiry which found there was nothing in the king's instructions to justify the massacre and that Dalrymple had exceeded his orders.

The main bodies of blame was apportioned to various officers but the king, his own position equivalent, did nothing. Dalrymple retired on pension, one of the accused officers ended up a peer.

Today the Glen of Weeping, under the management of the National Trust of Scotland, is uninhabited. But its awesome, brooding magnificence makes it a favorite haunt of mountaineers and campers.

The wild mountains beauty so attracts today, however, did not commend itself to the polite taste of the 18th century when, possibly, impressions were more colored by the recent tragic events.

The dread of the place continued for years. Charles Dalrymple, Visiting here in 1841, wrote: "There are scores of glens high up which form such beautiful scenes, which you might imagine yourself wandering in the very height of the mountains. The very recollection of them makes me shudder."

ROXBACE SUNK

VICTORIA (CP)—Eleven railway boxcars were lost in 40 valleys of water near Discovery Island Tuesday when the 280-foot barge on which they were being towed capsized. Officials of the Island said the tug and barge hit some object concealed below the surface.

MASSACRE SCENE—Cattle grass at Glen-bells took place in 1692. The true story of the in the Scottish Highlands where the famous massacre of Glencoe is probably kept more massacr of the MacDonalds by the Camp, vividly alive than any other story.—(CP Photo)

Mets Discover Another Way To Lose

Miss Up Triple Play

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

How does a team that has not yet hit its 11th victory, against tried everything in a new way to try to miss up a triple play?

New York Mets uncovered that new quick in the losing again, the National League's St. Louis Cardinals.

The Mets were leading 3-2 in the eighth inning when the Cardinals hit a home run to tie the game. The Mets then hit a home run to take the lead, but the Cardinals hit another home run to tie the game again. ## Six Builders, 13 Players Bring Total To 22

19 Admitted To Football Hall Of Fame

- The Sports Calendar -

By PAUL KIMMEL

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Football Hall of Fame in a unanimous induction, admitted 19 new members.

The 19 new members are: Earl Grey, former Governor-General of Canada and donor of the Grey Cup; three original members to bring the membership to 22.

The Canadian Football Hall of Fame and Museum, established by the Canadian Football Association, will open July 25 at Scott Park in Hamilton.

One of the 19 new members, the late Earl Grey, former Governor-General of Canada and donor of the Grey Cup, was inducted posthumously.

Of the six new builders, only one, Al Hickey of Regina, is still alive. These honored posthumously were: Greg, John, and Eddie (Dynamite) James, Winnipeg; Norman Perry, Regina; and Earl Russell, Montreal.

Representing Canada were: Harry Jackson, Kingston; Fred Hanson, Winnipeg; John Jacob, Winnipeg; Frank (Pop) Leadley, Kingston; Dr. George Lawson, Toronto; Dave Sprague, Ottawa and Ted Reave, Toronto.

As usual, there were dissenters in the background and one of the most often-mentioned opponents was Joe Kral, the former Hamilton Wildcats' Toronto.

The Canadian Football Hall of Fame and Museum, established by the Canadian Football Association, will open July 25 at Scott Park in Hamilton.

One of the 19 new members, the late Earl Grey, former Governor-General of Canada and donor of the Grey Cup, was inducted posthumously.

Of the six new builders, only one, Al Hickey of Regina, is still alive. These honored posthumously were: Greg, John, and Eddie (Dynamite) James, Winnipeg; Norman Perry, Regina; and Earl Russell, Montreal.

Representing Canada were: Harry Jackson, Kingston; Fred Hanson, Winnipeg; John Jacob, Winnipeg; Frank (Pop) Leadley, Kingston; Dr. George Lawson, Toronto; Dave Sprague, Ottawa and Ted Reave, Toronto.

As usual, there were dissenters in the background and one of the most often-mentioned opponents was Joe Kral, the former Hamilton Wildcats' Toronto.

Win Over Trudeau, Bobcats

Joyces, RCAF Share Lead For Peace

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Joyce Reid Estate and RCAF Flyers pulled into a three-way tie with Trudeau Motors for top honors in the Belleville and District Softball League with key victories last night.

Joyce Reid Estate won from its own game for the Flyers with a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth as RCAF pulled the Bobcats off before a large crowd in Tyrone.

Another solid turnout for the CNR Park walled off Pat Macle's pitch Joyce's to a 7-2 decision over Trudeau.

JOYCES 7 - TRUDEAUS 5

Joyces got Maracle's three-run homer in the first inning and that was all he needed. They added another into the sixth over Trudeau's solid over the top in the fifth, and got another in the ninth.

Maracle gave up six hits over the night, falling only one out of Trudeau's clustered four to none to beat their two runs. He fired third strikes past it and walked one batter. His mates were him ardent support.

Rolly Campbell suffered his second loss of the week for Trudeau, giving up seven hits in all. He struck out four and walked a pair while five errors added to his troubles.

Faulkner's single home Joyce first two runs after an error and Weaver's base hit added to the lead.

Trudeau's single home another single.

Joyce first two runs after an error and Weaver's base hit added to the lead.

Trudeau's single home another single.

Joyces, held hitless from the first sixth, got started on an error followed by David's hit. A walk, Maracle's single and another bobble made it 6-2. Howard scored on David's ground out in the eighth.

Jim Horwood again paired the Real Riders with a pair of errors, while Don Davis' lead, Bert Faulkner, Pete Weston, Ralph Place and Pat Macle singled.

Rick Locke collected three putouts, adding two to Keller, John McKibbin and Yvon Blanchard had the others. RCAF now owns a 5-2 record, while Joyce are 5-4 and Trudeau 5-5, each with ten points. Bobcats have two wins and six losses.

Trudeau - Locke 4, Zakos 11, Brooks 17, Duggan 18, Campbell 19, Keller 20, McKibbin 21, McGee 22, Blanchard 23.

Joyces - Kingston 18, Caw 19, Weston 20, Faulkner 21, Horwood 22, Mulrhead 23, Davis 24, Place 25, Macle 26.

Umpires - Les Barton (1) and "Shifty" Fisher. Time 1:05.

RCAP 8 - ROBCATS 7

Robcats led their game in Tyrone from the first inning and were in from 7-3 going into the bottom of the ninth when the Flyers came up with another of their rallies.

Mitte started it with a single and Don Cole doubled his home. Wannamaker walked but pinch-hitter Kennedy hit a long fly for the first, and as it turned out the only, out of the inning. Bourgeois' long blast to right field was dropped, allowing one run to score for 7-3 game. Howie Cole blasted a line shot into the overcast field for the game-winning home.

Cole took over from Mike Ratschinski after four frames and gave up two hits over the remainder. He fanned one and walked three. Ratschinski allowed six hits, walking none and passing three.

Bob Hunter led, replacing Bob Green in the third. He gave up eight of the Flyers' ten hits, walking six and walking one. Green fanned two but five walks hurried his departure.

The Cats got three in the first on a walk, singles by McGinnis and Cousins and Clapp's pop double. Calman and Robbittie singled in the fourth when they made it 6-2, aided by a walk and error. The error allowed Gaudin's hit for the losers' final run in the sixth.

A walk, misplayed fielder's choice, single and a single by Don Green over the top of the first. A hit batted home and singles by Taylor and Drake. The error allowed Gaudin's hit for the losers' final run in the sixth.

Howie Cole's game-winning homer and a single pushed the winners while Don Taylor had three infield singles. Billy Mitta singled twice, Don Cole and Bob Martin had doubles. Roger Drake's single.

Earl Clapp doubled and scored and Green tripled for Bobcats. Cliff McGinnis,

U.S. Bodies May Parley For Peace

Landscapers Beaten 13-8 By Corbins

CHICAGO (AP)—The executive director of the U.S. Track and Field Federation proposed Wednesday a July peace parley with the Amateur Athletic Union in the final for amateur athletic control.

The federation chief, C. D. Mitchell, Warner, sent a telegram to AAU president Louis Fisher suggesting a Chicago meeting July 2 or 3 to answer to Fisher's request last week for a meeting "to effect a cooperative effort" in the draw-out.

However, this latest move appeared to be just more ring-around-the-rose because Fisher on June 16 had directed his peace telegram to the president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, Robert R. Dean of special services at the University of Iowa.

Last Thursday, Ray sent a detailed letter to Fisher, stating the AAU was a member of the U.S. Federation of Amateur Athletics, and that the AAU would be glad to talk with those federations.

Fisher's view to Ray specified was to meet only with the AAU representatives.

The latest development in the three-year feud for power between the AAU and the Federation of Amateur Athletics (F.A.A.) is including high school and junior college level, center of the eye of the important national AAU track meet in St. Louis this weekend.

Only after a stern directive from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, appointed by President Kennedy to resolve the AUSA/AAU feud, did the NCAA retreat from a planned college boycott of the AAU meet which will determine the U.S. squad for next month's duel with Russia in Moscow.

MATS, MANTEL OUT?

NEW YORK (AP)—Imagines in all-star game without Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle? It was conceivable Wednesday, a week before the players' selection of the squads for the All-Star game, that the Yankees' Mays, may not have a single representative in the starting lineup. Mantle is on the disabled list with a broken foot. Mays may possibly be selected all though he currently is being outlived by others.

"Ugly Bear Liston Scared Of Me"-Clay

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—There was excitement in Cassius Clay's voice and his eyes glowed like burning coals. He was almost as if he believed what he said.

"That big, ugly bear, Sonny Liston. He's scared of me. He's losing sleep thinking about me and what I'm going to do to him."

In a few days, Clay said, he started to picture the six-foot, 220-pound Liston "night" heavyweights boxing champion—cringing in a corner, his eyes heavy from lack of sleep, and wondering when killer Clay was coming for him.

The reporter stepped out of his daydream when he heard Clay said.

"I'm scared of me," said Cassius quickly. "I want to be the youngest heavyweight champion. I want to break Patterson's record."

Clay was told that his deadline time was Dec. 12. "I'm gonna break the record," he said.

"This time he sounded as if he believed it."

Public School Teachers Enjoy Turkey Dinner

CAMPBELLFORD — The teachers of the two Campbellford public schools, Bridge and Skyeview, enjoyed a turkey dinner at Skyeview Hotel in Hawkesbury on Wednesday evening.

Principal William Rothwell of Bridge St. School was master of ceremonies for the informal program following the dinner. Mr. Rothwell expressed his appreciation and that of Principal A. Whitfield for the fine work and support of all the teachers, which had made the work of the principals easier.

Following a disjunct, tribute was paid to a teacher, Mrs. Bruce Grills and her husband, who were celebrating as well their wedding anniversary.

TRIBUTE PAID

Mr. Rothwell expressed regret that Vice-principal D. Miller was having to become principal of a school in the Niagara Region and paid glowing tribute to Mr. Miller's ability and cooperation in the past four years he has been on the staff of Campbellford public school.

Mr. Miller was presented with a gift by the members of the staff.

Last year Principal Rothwell spent several weeks in Germany with the Canadian troops stationed there, with the recreation program designed for the overseas troops and to come in the fall of this year, leaving immediately after the close of the school term.

The good relations of the principals and the staffs of both schools was very evident in the friendly atmosphere enjoyed by all who were present.

Governor Guest Of Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD — Cowden Whitfield of Orillia, Governor of District 703 of Rotary International, was guest of the Campbellford Club on Monday night.

He complimented the Campbellford Rotary Club on their work in the community, making special note of the work of the Crippled Children's Committee and the Rotary Youth Centre which provides a meeting place for the Boy Scouts and a school for the retarded children of the area.

He commended them for their interest in education, in sending high school students to the United Nations seminar and to the Adventure in Citizenship in Orillia. He mentioned the local club's participation in the foster parent plan and in the Rotary Foundation Fund.

Mr. Whitfield told the group that the newly elected president of Rotary International is the first non-white to hold this office. He is from India and his first for 1964-65 is to convince Rotary members throughout the world to think and act as they should do. Rotary now embraces 11,500 clubs of 535,000 members in 159 countries of the world.

In conclusion the District Governor gave an interesting resume of the work being done in District 703 and throughout the world.

Doctor Tells Rotarians of Trip to England

CAMPBELLFORD — Dr. W. Burgess spoke to the Campbellford Rotary Club on Monday night after returning from a trip to England, where he attended an international medical conference.

He had been away from his native land for five years and told of the changes that had taken place in that time.

He described his trip by chartered plane from New York. Three hundred and fifty doctors from all over the country attended the convention which dealt mainly with forensic medicine, crime detection and pathology and the discussions were heard simultaneously in five languages.

Dr. Burgess said one big change he noted was the increase of in-labouring. The Englishman seems to have taken on the American way of doing things, and everything is available on instalment. Traffic in London is so heavy that in the past few years automobiles may be banned in the central part of the city. He said that in regard to television, the programs are almost embarrassingly frank in their content. He deplored the change as modern glass and steel buildings are replacing the quaint historic architecture of the city.

Dr. Burgess was introduced by Paul O'Sullivan and thanked by president Roy MacLachlan.

Cheese Box Factory Badly Gutted by Fire

CAMPBELLFORD — Fire last night gutted and badly damaged a two-story building on Sakakoo Ave. in Campbell-ford, owned and operated by Grant Anderson and used for the manufacture of cheese boxes.

Both the Campbellford and Seymour fire trucks were at the scene quickly but fire had gained too much headway. The adjoining cheese factory and dairy were saved by the prompt action of the Campbellford fire department.

Water damage was heavy. The loss of the factory at this particular season of the year means a great deal as cheese production is at the highest level.

Strikers Tussle With Contractor

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Strikers tussled with a paint contractor Thursday as 100 men in four trades picketed the Du Pont of Canada Limited plant here.

Alex MacDonald, 65, who has diabetes and a heart condition, said a cup of hot coffee was thrown in his face.

He said he went to the plant where he has a contract for maintenance painting and was told by pickets to turn back. As he was turning his car away the coffee was thrown in his face, he said.

It was the first mass picket since sheet metal workers, plumbers, bricklayers and electricians gradually laid down their tools 10 days ago.

There were no other injuries in Thursday's flareup which was quelled by provincial police.

Du Pont employees passed through the milling strikers without incident but several carloads of construction workers were turned back.

Blast Hurls Garage Owner From Building, With Fire Loss Estimated at $25,000

GLEN MILLER (Special)—feet through the doors of the building.

Hurled from the eye of an explosion that wrecked his repair garage here mechanic Boyd (Buck) Ferguson today is nursing only minor bruises from his marginal escape.

The explosion sparked a fire that caused property loss in premises, equipment and automobiles estimated up to $25,000.

Mr. Ferguson was welding a car bumper at the time. The explosion, its rumble heard a half-mile away, hurled him up buildings. The battle lasted two hours. Cause of the fire was not officially known. Mr. Ferguson believed it could either have been caused by a gas leak from the car he was repairing or pressure in an acetylene line.

He personally estimated his loss between $20,000 and $25,000. "It was only partly insured," he said.

MAY EXPAND EAST

TORONTO (CP)—Manitoba's food industry promises to expand eastward, says George H. Fassel, industrial commissioner for Metropolitan Winnipeg. Mr. Fassel said in an interview last planned to vegetables and other food crops is being expanded rapidly and numerous food-processing plants are being established in the province.

A PILE OF RUBBLE today marks the spot in Glen Miller where Boyd Ferguson's garage stood yesterday. Mr. Ferguson had been welding the bumper of a car, (arrow), when the explosion occurred, hurling him ten feet through the doors of the building.

 The heat? Where else can you get it so hot to cook, so hot to garden, so hot to golf, so hot to anything else but golf, he said.
 He went on. "For the woman, too, it's too hot to cook, clean or shop."
 "Somewhere along that long yardage you will hear discussions on the relative quality of various air conditioning contemplated for a section of the other life they lead," he said.
 "After a ninety-degree day, a 70-80 degree night should be a relief - but the heat only becomes hot when it is too dark to play golf."
 "Any sport" said the YVC, "to the participant, is the best sport - but golf, well, of course it is a game of skill. Luck severely enters into it. All one wants is fitness, a good eye, a good nose and a natural golfing for game. That's why I like it."
 It is no doubt very difficult for a participant in other sports to understand why rain is not deterrent to golf, said the YVC. "Why should it be when we have those giant colored confections of umbrellas and many types of rain resistant apparel?"
 "The only hazard of rain, really," he went on, "is the danger of being hit by a firing club. The grips get slippery."

Reds' Lefty O'Toole Wins No. Thirteen

Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati Reds' Jim O'Toole will tell you he's quite a pitcher, and then go right out and show you with his good left arm. He absolutely clobbered Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night, 11-1, and his performance was the key to victory for the Reds. The 26-year-old Irishman also lowered his career run average to 2.01, a pretty good talking point.

The Braves had only three hits altogether off Don Schwall, who left with a pulled back muscle in the sixth, Tom Skatt and Freddie.

Kapusksing Officials Quit Club

KAPUSKING (CP) - Coach Fred Butler and the entire staff of Kapuskasing Kapas, a senior club in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, have resigned.

The fourth place Reds gained only one more win on the three National League leaders, St. Louis Cardinals, San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers, who were all idle.

Chicago Cubs, just one percentage point back of the Reds, kept pace with a 5-0 beating of Houston Astros.

Only one member of the group would give any reason for the resignations, saying merely that the risk is too hard to deal with. President Fred Butler said the club last week to take over as president of the NOHA senior series and the rest of the executive committee at a special meeting.

The group took over the club three seasons ago, wiping out a $3,000 debt and leaving the team with $2,500 in the bank.

WINCOP ARBOC (AP) - Twilight Alley, owned by Lady Hanson and ridden by Lester Pigott, won the Alton Gold Cup Thursday over French chasers Mist IV and Tala.

O'Toole's victory was his seventh straight. He was backed by 10-1 odds, including three by capter Johnny Edwards, who drove in the winning run.

The left-hander was forced to leave the game in the ninth because of blisters on his pitching hand and Jim Owens finished.

The Phils got only five hits off O'Toole, but pulled his shut-out bid in the fifth on two singles and Ruben Amaro's sacrifice fly.

WINS THIRD SHUTOUT Chicago ace Larry Jackson, making his 19th start, going the distance for the seventh time, gave up only four singles to the Cubs as he pitched his eighth victory and third shutout.

Bill Williams came in to replace Jackson in the sixth of a Lake Michigan game to open the Cubs' offense. Williams now has 14 hits in his last 28 trips. Ex-Cub Dick Drott was the victim.

Lamarque, who had won only two games previously despite a 2.06 earned run average, hit his second major league homer for the winning margin against the Pirates. He hit his only home run in his last game.

Haverdick was the victim, as all the runs in the game scored on homers. Eddie Mathews hit his ninth for the Braves and Ron Brand hit his first major league home run for the Pirates.

Country Club Golf Chatter

"People who do not play golf and participate in other sports have a stock answer for questions asking them 'why not?' said the young veterans golfer the other day.
 "The afraid I do not play golf. I've never been able to see the point of it" is their favorite reply, he added.
 He leaned over and tapped a friend on the knee. "What these people should do," he said, "is familiarize themselves with the response of Staphia Potter to such questions."
 "Staphia Potter? Not it, is of course, a game of pure skill. Luck scarcely enters into it. All one wants is fitness, a good eye, a good nose, and a natural aptitude for games. That's why I like it."
 It is no doubt very difficult for a participant in other sports to understand why rain is not deterrent to golf, said the YVC. "Why should it be when we have those giant colored confections of umbrellas and many types of rain resistant apparel?"

Gilchrist Haled On Assault

BUFFALO (AP) — Fullback Cookie Gilchrist, the American Football League's most valuable player last season, was ordered Friday to face a grand jury on a second-degree assault charge.

The charge alleges that a 254-pound Gilchrist floored a policeman with a punch after being arrested here May 14 on charges of driving without a license and automobile registration and driving through a stop sign.

He is free on $500 bail. Gilchrist, 28, is scheduled to go on trial in city court Tuesday on charges of driving without a license and automobile registration and driving through a stop sign.

He was on charges of resisting a policeman, creating a disturbance and using profanity. A decision is pending on those counts.

An additional charge of creating a disturbance was dismissed.

Judge Michael E. Zimmer of city court issued the ruling that Gilchrist face the Erie County grand jury, which will decide whether he must stand trial on the charge.

Gilchrist joined Buffalo Bills in 1962 after a brilliant but turbulent eighteen-year career in Canadian football.

Labour Party 2 U.S. Air Force When Recalled Papers Assert Strong Denial Made Royal Family Involved

LONDON (AP)—Sealed Xerox investigation of the Proving-works turned today to suspected U.S. connections. George Wigg, Labor Party expert on defence and security, charged that three Americans who have been working out of London were behind an international blackmail syndicate providing cash gifts for top men in the three American states. He said the three Americans fled London after exposure of some ramifications of former war minister John Profumo's alleged affair with the ex-Prime Minister's mistress, Christine Keeler, did not mean the Americans.

Wigg, who first called attention to the House of Commons to the alleged Profumo case, said that another major government scandal involving security might be exposed within six months.

British newspapers reported that U.S. Air Force officers have been recalled from Britain in Washington for questioning.

Alman Charles Lee Wright of Washington, D.C., and George Hopkins of Belleville, N.J., were named.

Both were stationed at Air Force Materiel Command, West of London, and both had known Christine.

The two Americans were shipped out of Britain Friday after being questioned at Blue Point, where they were interviewed in the Pentagon, papers reported.

Christine has said she once posed as a prostitute in France with a high-ranking U.S. naval officer. Her friend, Mrs. Doreen Blythe, a French woman, was also named.

Khruschev Warns New War Would Kill Hundreds of Millions

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khruschev warned today that a new war would kill hundreds of millions of people and devastate "much of what man has civilised."

"It will be a rocket war, a war of annihilation," he said. "The United States has been playing second fiddle to the Communist world."

Plugging the Soviet Union's Today's Chronicle

The worst thing about living in this day and age is the price to put anything except where it belongs.

THE WEATHER
Synopses—A massive high pressure area covering much of the eastern half of the continent is almost stationary, bringing persistent sunny and warm weather over most of Ontario.

Four-Hits Bosox, Up Lead *****

Jim Bouton Yankees New Mound Star

Associated Press Sports Writer

From ace pitcher to starter-thrower in six weeks—this is the success story of Jim Bouton.

The hefty youngster wrote an extraordinary chapter in the history of the New York Yankees' 1968 season when he pitched a four-hitter that helped the Bombers edge a hit further in front in the American League.

It was Friday, Nov. 10 for Bouton, a routine relief thrower who pressed into the starting line-up six weeks ago. He's called "Bosox" because he's balding.

For Bouton, it was the third consecutive victory after an opening game loss in the set at Boston and it pushed the once hurling Red Sox to second place in the East.

But the Yankees' season is a four-game stand at Chicago started tonight against the Cubs. Bouton's first game was a loss to the Cubs.

Elsewhere in America's League, Alvin Dark led his St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-1 victory over Minnesota's Twins. Detroit Tigers broke setting up another Miller. The Red Sox without a hit after replacing Steve Barber with his team's first pitcher in the seventh.

St. Louis won its 11th straight game, but lost to the Yankees.

Wins 880 In A Breeze

Crothers Equals US Track Mark

ST. LOUIS (CP)—Bill Crothers of Toronto, the sports pharmacist who enjoys running Americans into the ground illegally, did just that Saturday night, equalling the 880-yard championship at the fifth annual U.S. Amateur Athletic Union track and field meet in a breeze.

But the 22-year-old University of Toronto graduate won't enjoy the full fruits of his victory since the first two finalists in each of the events were up to Moscow to compete against the Russians in this summer.

Crothers wasn't eligible because he is a Canadian. Crothers, running for the East York Track Club, challenged the visiting American club in the best time of the year in the 880 with a clocking of one minute, 46.8 seconds, eclipsing the AAU record of one minute, 48.2 seconds.

The first dead heat was last year by Jerry Brierley and equalling the U.S. record set by Tom Courteney in 1967. Peter Snell of New Zealand holds the world record of 1:45.1.

The Canadian outdistanced Jim Duggan of the Southern California Striders, who was second in 1:47.3. Third was George Green of Oregon State in 1:47.5.

Overall, it was a record-smashing show and assured the U.S. of a strong team for the Soviet meet next month.

ST. LOUIS (CP)—Bill Crothers of Toronto, the sports pharmacist who enjoys running Americans into the ground illegally, did just that Saturday night, equalling the 880-yard championship at the fifth annual U.S. Amateur Athletic Union track and field meet in a breeze.

But the 22-year-old University of Toronto graduate won't enjoy the full fruits of his victory since the first two finalists in each of the events were up to Moscow to compete against the Russians in this summer.

Crothers wasn't eligible because he is a Canadian. Crothers, running for the East York Track Club, challenged the visiting American club in the best time of the year in the 880 with a clocking of one minute, 46.8 seconds, eclipsing the AAU record of one minute, 48.2 seconds.

The first dead heat was last year by Jerry Brierley and equalling the U.S. record set by Tom Courteney in 1967. Peter Snell of New Zealand holds the world record of 1:45.1.

Borow Beats Palmer Cupit In 'Open' Three-Way Playoff

BY DON WISSE

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—South Africa's Gary Player won with a 75-72, and Walter Spivey, who had a 76-72, both made a charge at the title and fell short to 290.

Alan Sorenson saw his 73rd attempt to win an Open go by in a three-way playoff. He had a final round of 74-68.

Borow, although 10 years older than any of the big three, has won 20 years older than Nicklaus has been the first player of the Professional Golfers' Association to win the Open.

Spivey, a 36-year-old, had a 74-68 final round of 74-68, and a second Open title Sunday. He was the first to win an Open in 1957, and a second Open in 1962.

Astrological Forecasts

By STONEY OMARE

For June 24th

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Take action today in making home life happier. Means no initiative in making suggestions, offering encouragement. Don't wait for others to decide. Take the lead!

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Be ready today for challenges. Get facts in order. Key is eye. Don't expect all to be perfect. Accept offer and create your own policy. Don't permit opportunity to slip by.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Have faith in your ideas. Put them in work. Invest in them. The more responsibility you accept, the better. Day to "show your stuff." Do as you'd like to happen, rather!

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Forge ahead with plans. Shake off recent fears. Opposite is superficial. Concentrated effort wins friends, opportunities. Give and receive love. Don't "go it alone."

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 23): Slip of course embarrassing. Speak clearly. Make sure others understand. Your work enemy!

At Least 116 Persons Killed In Landslide

CP from Seoul—Belated reports from Seoul said that 116 persons were killed and 100 injured in a landslide which struck the southern coast of Korea Monday and today.

Another 22 died in three smaller slides Monday in the provinces of Jeonju and Cholla, police said.

Rescue workers at the village made new progress only half hour's effort. Officials said it might take another day to determine the total fatalities.

Uterine Cancer Detection Program Has Saved Lives Of Many N.S. Women

(HALIFAX) (CP)—A simple inexpensive test has been credited with saving the lives of nearly 100 Nova Scotia women who suffered cancer of the womb.

The Medical Society of Nova Scotia, under the direction of Dr. J. G. Roblin, launched a uterine cancer detection program less than 13 years ago and through this 25,000 women have had a "pap smear" or "uterine cancer test."

Through the number of women tested since the program began, the program has saved 100 lives and 15,000 test years. The percentage of doctors in the province using cytology in routine female check-ups increased from 45 per cent to 70 per cent.

The test is a simple one and can be conducted during a routine physical examination. It is made free by the department of health in Nova Scotia and the doctor charges only for examination.

In 1961, of the 25 women in Nova Scotia found to have cancer of the womb, 19 were cured and four were dead. None of the cases were fatal.

"These cases are virtually 100 per cent curable and represent lives saved in most cases,"

Dr. Roblin says. "The test is a simple one and can be conducted during a routine physical examination. It is made free by the department of health in Nova Scotia and the doctor charges only for examination."

Reliable information from all over North America indicates cancer of the womb had increased in frequency from one in every 300 women to one in every 200 women.

Dr. Roblin suspects there are 400 women in Nova Scotia with undiagnosed cervical cancer, either curable or incurable.

"There is good reason to believe that early detection can save some years. During this interval a woman will probably be perfectly well and there may be no indication even in the ordinary examination by her doctor that cancer is developing."

Leading medical experts, he said, think that treatment in this interval costs practically 10 per cent of cases.

Any women over 20 should be examined and given the test and should be repeated every year or two. But abnormal discharges in the vagina should be promptly investigated. Dr. Roblin said that 57 of the 100 women found to have cancer of the womb had died.

"These cases are virtually 100 per cent curable and represent lives saved in most cases,"

HISTORICAL RESEARCH

The topic for this meeting was historical research under the co-sponsorship of Mrs. George Bell. She was assisted by Mrs. Jay Sprague, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Sprague. The meeting was held on Wednesday afternoon for the June meeting of the Belleville Women's Institute with 22 in attendance.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. A. Wallbridge. The roll call was being read and giving its history. One member brought a table which was published in 1928 which had 125 members and had been handed down for several generations. It also had 16 books in it that are not published in the present day Bible.

A number of business decisions were made. Mrs. Clark Robin gave a splendid report of the County convention which was held at South Bay with the Greenbush table ladies sitting as hostesses. Mrs. Ed Hall gave an inspiring talk on the subject of the Bible.

Recent demonstrations in London have been aimed at teaching hotel, hospital and school eaters, store buyers and, of course, the ordinary household, the many ways of serving a meal in a dignified and pleasant manner.

Young British housewives today tend to regard rice rather as a vegetable than as a dessert. Forgetting are the days when rice was looked upon as the staple food of nursery and boarding school.

Now young housewives start with the continental rice course, the Atlantic to succulent portions of savoury dishes including rice, tomatoes, mushrooms, curry, potato, meat and eggs.

They have discovered, too, that the flavor can be varied by cooking rice in champagne or beef stock for savories, or in orange or other fruit juice for desserts.

Their breakfast tables feature putted rice, sugared rice and flaked rice as often as the traditional corn and wheat cereals.

Evens the traditional wedding rice, thrown at the bride as a symbol of fertility, has taken on a new look. It appears now as days, glycerol and packed in airtight bags tied with white ribbons.

you can't be better than best!

CLASSIC 770

Rambler wins 1963

"Car of the Year Award"

How? We got to be best? By working at it 4 years. We didn't win the 1963 Motor Trend magazine "Car of the Year" award one night. Years ago we decided on a policy of providing "maximum usefulness to the user." And we've stayed with it.

That policy has pioneered dozens of major improvements in the automotive industry. That's why the industry's most coveted "Car of the Year" award was given this year to the entire line of Rambler cars, "for outstanding design achievement and engineering leadership."

Unibody construction gives greater strength—Better door fit

If you're buying a car this spring and have some other car in mind, you simply can't afford to overlook Rambler. It will just take you a few minutes to call on a Rambler dealer and get the facts.

For example, how is the car you are presently considering built? By the old bolted body and frame method or single unit construction with the body and frame welded into one solid piece? If it is single unit, you have made a choice in the right direction. But, did you realize that Rambler pioneered this single unit method of construction 23 years ago? Since then, the industry has taken up the idea and is using it in one form or another—and for a very good reason, it produces stronger longer-wearing body.

But now with exclusive Unibody construction, Rambler again goes one better. The entire sides of the Classic Six and Ambassador V8 are stamped out of one single sheet of steel. This method gives a better door fit, better body support and better weather sealing.

Deep-dip process is the world's most complete rustproofing. When you talked to other dealers did you inquire about rustproofing? Did anyone claim that their car had the best rustproofing in the world? No? Well, we do. It's called Deep-Dip.

Developed right here in Canada specifically for Canadian conditions, Deep-Dip is an exclusive Rambler process. The entire car body is submerged into six huge tanks one after the other. Each of these tanks contain thousands of gallons of cleansing and scouring solutions that thoroughly prepare the surface of the steel. Then the car is dipped right up to the roof in a tank of primer paint. Sounds better than the usual spray job? You're damn right it is. As a matter of fact, in the process we spill more than the others use! The Rambler body also contains 75% more rust resisting galvanized steel than before.

Ceramic-armoured muffler is guaranteed for as long as you own the car.

Did you look into service-free features? Are you getting a muffler that's guaranteed for as long as you own the car? You do on a Rambler. It's Ceramic-Armoured and fights off rust and corrosion. Remember that name: Ceramic-Armoured, only Rambler has it.

Battery and coolant are guaranteed for 2 years or 24,000 miles.

About your battery and coolant anybody mention them? Why not? They cost you money to maintain. That's why Rambler gives you a battery that's unconditionally guaranteed for two full years or 24,000 miles. If it fails anytime before the guarantee period you get a brand new battery at absolutely no cost to you. The coolant is an all-season radiator fill. You never need to add water or antifreeze. And it prevents rust and corrosion in your cooling system. It's got a two-year 24,000 mile guarantee, too.

What about warranties? What story did you get there? Well, we want to be blunt. In no case is any other automotive warranty better than Rambler's in the area of items that could be costly to you.

Comfortable reclining seats highlight Rambler interiors

How about comfort and safety? Are you getting reclining seats and head-rests? You do on a Rambler. They're chair-height and adjustable. Rambler's interiors have head-room, leg-room and hip-room measurements to equal or better any other car in their class.

Double-safety brakes give added protection

Are you getting Double-Safety Brakes? They're the ones with the two separate hydraulic lines. One to the front wheels, one to the rear. If one set of brakes fail, the other continues to operate. Rambler's got them—very few others have.

Are you getting an alternator? It's a standard feature on every Rambler. It keeps your battery charging even when the engine is idling. Your electrical system can never drain your battery dead.

X-Ray booklets separate fact from fiction

We've compared engineering so now we're on to styling. This is something you'll have to see for yourself. But we'd like to quote what Motor Trend said: "Learn, clean lines that are apparent from almost any angle."

What we have told you so far is only the basis for comparison. For more detailed information on all makes and models go to your Rambler dealer and get your free copies of his exclusive X-Ray booklets. One of them compares the Rambler American, the lowest priced Canadian-built car, with all other compacts. The other booklet compares the Classic and the Ambassador with all the cars in their class.

Illustrations compare the features of competitive cars

These booklets will help you to compare all the cars you may be considering. With them you'll be able to separate fact from fiction as you shop around. In them you'll find charts and comparison tables presented in a simple and easy-to-read form. The information you get covers exterior dimensions, interior comfort and convenience features, engine sizes and specifications and every other detail you'll want to know.

Charts give full details of specifications

At the end of each booklet there's a list of prices for all competitive makes and models. These are the manufacturers recommended list prices. Now you can see exactly what you get for the price you pay. And remember, these valuable booklets are free from your Rambler Dealer.

By the way, while you're at your dealer's take a test drive in a Rambler. That's the best comparison and the one that only you can make to prove to yourself that Rambler is your best Automotive buy.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

Coach Dick Foster of the Kenmore, waited for years for it—and it finally came. In his younger days he was never so fast but had to gallop sideways to keep from flying.

He hasn't had much opportunity to run since doing the work habits of the Kenmore simply because he has not been on opening times with baseballs joined his way by opposing pitchers.

Opposition firemen usually have a high of relief when they see Dick come to bat. Somebody like the whole on him and directed the dark secret that his lifetime batting average was .000111. That was not a dirty trick—it was not true. His average was .000111.

His big moment came on Sunday at Oshawa. The coach grabbed the trophy although, which was not the case. "Closest" this time. The pitcher relaxed and the enemy outbatted him into his crop-theaters' hands.

But they hadn't reached with the Foster determination. He didn't know that he was getting tired of that long line of "C" which stretch across the scoreboard against his name.

The pitcher stretched, wound up and fired a fast ball down the middle, which was not the case. The coach was surprised at his meeting ball. Straight as an arrow it flew over the fence. The pitcher relaxed and the enemy outbatted him into his crop-theaters' hands.

Recovering from the shock the scorekeeper scrawled under Foster's name a line shot. "It was just that," he said. "Everybody recovered, Dick was flying home like a first base."

"The field looks strange from here," he said to his first base. "It's about." "It's the first time you've seen it from here, actually."

Seriously, the Kenmore are riding high on the crest of a nine-win-out-of-ten. They meet Oshawa here Wednesday night in an all-Ontario game and they'll be gunning for their tenth victory.

"The boys are playing a fine brand of baseball," the coach said. "I am particularly pleased with the pitching staff. Steve Hurd has a fine game as a pitcher. He has won twenty-two innings without starting a walk. You can't improve much on that."

Larry Soden, who will likely get the starting slot tomorrow night, Bill Litchford and Doug Vaughn are turning in top mound efforts, while the rest of the club is co-operating at the plate.

Three more diamond team and their coaches will be the guests of the Kenmore at the Oshawa 11th on July 2nd. A touch of harmony will be added to the Hatlings and Prince Edward Regiment band, the game, which as mentioned, goes under way at eight o'clock.

WILL NAME ALL STARS

District Softball Commissioner Cliff Belch said today that a team of district league all-stars will provide the opposition for King Fielder and his Court here on July 2nd. The personnel of the All-stars will be selected this week and published on Friday. Team officials have been asked to point to select the players. This consists of the commissioner and four others who have been chosen by association with the league games—and teams all seasons.

THEY MISSED MIKE

The name of Michael J. Rodden, our old friend's buddy from Kingston, was missing from the old tradition to the Football Hall of Fame.

It was plainly a regrettable omission on the part of the selectors for the name of El Miphae ranks high in the list of those who have made valuable contributions to Canadian football. There are few more worthy of the honor and it is to be hoped that "Mike", who was well-matched, will be given the niche in the "Hall" they so richly deserve.

Sugar Ray Loses No. 13

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, the fiercest midweight and welterweight in the world, still good enough to beat most midweight, according to a poll taken by the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. Robinson said he scored a unanimous decision over him Friday night.

But Robinson seemed uncertain he'd be taking any more fighters, midweighters or welterweights. Robinson said he was sure what his future plans are. I can't make up my mind now.

Robinson, 1961, had at midweight champ Dick Tiger, lasted in suffered his 13th defeat. He has lost 13 of his 28 fights.

Giardello, 160, won in 1959 by a close margin. He was the right to challenge the champ. "I knew I was in with a good fighter when those body punches didn't slow him up," Giardello said. "He's Chicago White Sox hit the bullseye when they pulled off a six-run victory with a multi-player surge that included Pete West, a young third baseman from Montreal who's been right on target since he kicked the 72 Codd ball.

West, 23, hit a home run with his hands spread apart in the Codd manner but now is taking a closer look at the game.

He hit a home run in the Yankees' Monday night that moved White Sox to a 2-1 lead in the game of Yankees.

Finishing his bid for rookie-of-the-year honors, the 22-year-old left-handed swinger got White Sox running, the 22-year-old four-time leaguer, then slugged in a four-run fourth inning up rising that put it out of Yankees' reach.

Ward came to White Sox with big wins. Dave Nicholson and Dick Williams in the deal with Baltimore Orioles that sent Lefty Aparicio and Al Smith to Orioles. He now has a 203 batting average to go with nine homers and 42 runs batted in.

He credits his new found power to the fact he has his hands together against the SPREAD pitcher.

In college, "I spread them about an inch for better control," he said, and the Yankees' "I kept spreading them apart even further until I guess I had about a foot between them."

And now he's closed the gap, he's widened his range.

While White Sox were winning, Boston Red Sox closed to within four games of the top by beating Cleveland Indians 15-11. Minnesota Twins whipped Baltimore 4-0. Los Angeles Angels edged Washington Senators 3-2. St. Louis Cardinals edged Detroit Tigers 6-3.

White Sox were led by Roger Maris and Yankovic and White Sox closed at 1-1 going down.

Down Flyers In 17-11 Battle

Trudeau Wins Sluggfest

By GARY ALLEN
Staff Reporter

It just doesn't pay to be in first place in the National Hockey League.

Last week, Trudeau's headed the pack and he had a lot of whippings from Joyce Real Estate.

Meanwhile RCAF Flyers moved to the head of the pack. Last night it was their turn to lead the pack.

Trudeau scored the Flyers by the unbelievable score of 17-11 in a slugfest that was CNRA Fair.

The club made 26 hits to go with the 28 runs and eight errors.

Trudeau appeared to have the game wrapped up early, scoring five in the first five in the fourth and knocking out 11-2 lead going into the sixth.

Then somebody scored the hat and sent seven runs home for the Flyers to make it 13-9. They were up 13-9.

'Shultz' Davis Hankers For Own Television Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The idea of a successful comedian has all new jokes and the lively sound of laughter.

Talks for instance, the case of Ann R. Davis, who was called to fame and fame for several seasons back with the role of Schullery, Bob Cummings' secretary in a comedy series called a photographer with a sowing eye.

For one year, Ann in the show came off better in the series had run its special interest in developing a new writer called her talents.

One property in which she was particularly interested was based on an indelible cartoon character named Hank.

For one year, Ann avoided other commitments and worked on the Hank project. This was announced that the property had been acquired by a new name show.

Cancer Claims Baseball Official

G. M. Trautman Dies at 73

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - George M. Trautman, who never made it as a professional player but became a leading administrative figure, is dead of cancer.

The 73-year-old President-head of the minor league league since 1947, had suffered from pneumonia with a heart condition but doctors listed cancer as the cause of his death Monday at his home here.

He began his administrative career in baseball in 1923 when he became president of the Columbus, Ohio, Redbirds, of the American Association and major studio and that Shibley (Little Moe) star in the U.S. They came up with a new series called Hank. Hank was a comedian and network. ## Fine Old Partnership Being Renewed in a New Guise

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A fine old partnership is being renewed in a new guise—Bette Davis and Paul Henreid.

You remember the two great stars of the 1930s. Of course you do. How Paul Henreid lighted those days and those Bette Davis in the unshakably sentimental New Yorker (1932). It was the greatest thing that happened to the film industry in the 1930s.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARE

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Study your own ambitions. Are you being true to yourself? Answer to that question of paramount importance. Day to face facts. Take time to analyze.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Find out where you stand. Push your luck, if necessary. You are riding favorable cycle. Be gracious in dealing with members of opposite sex. Fine for creative endeavors.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): You have to make things happen today. Means you must apply pressure. Go all out. Check details. Find out where your strengths lie. Be ready with facts, figures. Leave nothing to chance.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Good lunar aspect today highlights utilization of ideas. Speak creative spirit. Read, ask questions, apply knowledge. Exhibit intellectual curiosity. Have fun with your work.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): You can still accurately earn money over a concerned. Watch facts. Don't try to do too much. Get enough rest tonight. Be sensible. Don't throw caution to the winds.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You are "riding high". You can put across personality and get whatever you need. Speak up! Push ahead. But don't expect perfection. Speak clearly, even where laws exist.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Key today is being able to keep a secret. Don't disclose all you know. Best to hold something in reserve. Get needed rest, privacy. Don't be pushed into making hasty decision.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): Excellent for parties, business and social affairs. The surprises. And you may be surprised! Wonderful time for gatherings with friends. You are appreciated by "special" persons.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Harmonious in key today. Means try to understand what you have been diagnosed with. Light of truth shines. Be perceptive. Valuable lesson to be learned... if you are willing! Wonderful time for gatherings with friends. You are appreciated by "special" persons.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Overcome tendency to be discouraged. Favorable Moon aspect today spotlight journey, future opportunities. Now is time to be confident. Impulse as associates, family members.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Pursue professional activities. No time to relax efforts. What you have wanted is "coming your way". Know this and be ready! Bright days have been trying. But profits are out.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Be cautious in dealing with legal problems. You can gain most by listening. Show respect for opinions of those close to you. Better for finishing projects than starting new ones.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): If today is your birthday, you are hard worker. You have

51 PC of Mexico's People Live in One-Room Dwellings, 24 PC Never Eat Meat

Canadian Press reporter Jack West finds Mexico a land where primitive farming operations exist side by side with modern industrial plants. In this story he describes efforts to deal with problems reflected in these statistics.

By JACK WEST

MEXICO CITY (CP)—Mexico is a land where progress comes gradually, a classic example of a country that has to run just to stand still.

It is a giant with one foot firmly planted in the second half of the 20th century, the other anchored somewhere in the distant past.

Mexico's leaders are making strenuous efforts to remove the anachronism.

"They have made impressive gains," says a veteran diplomat, adding that "much remains to be done."

Some of the problems:

1. Fifty-one per cent of Mexico's population live in one-room dwellings; 60 per cent have no running water in their homes; 24 per cent never eat meat, fish or eggs or drink milk.

2. Though the per capita income in 1960 was $279, it is far less than that in rural areas. Many peasants get paid as little as 40 cents a day—when they can find work.

can find work. Some work no more than 30 days a year.

"To give purchasing power to the great peasant mass—the problem of Mexico is as simple and as complicated as that," says Finance Minister Antonio Ortiz Mena.

3. Illiteracy is nearly 40 per cent (some say more), and 1,400,000 children are unable to attend school because of lack of facilities and teachers.

FARMING IN PAST

The economic imbalance is nowhere more strikingly revealed than in and around the capital, a gleaming metropolis, set on a fertile 7,000-foot-high plateau and forming the heart of a federal district of nearly 5,000,000.

"Within a few miles of the skyscrapers, lavish hotels and dizzy traffic whirl of downtown Mexico City, peasants work the land using the same methods as their forefathers."

Twenty per cent of the country's factories and 30 per cent of its invested capital are located in Mexico City, which also employs 30 per cent of the labor force.

The capital is eight times bigger than either of Mexico's next largest cities, Guadalajara and Monterrey. With the steady flow of population away from the land, it has grown manifold since

HEART OF CITY—Christopher Columbus Circle is the busy heart of Mexico City. Twenty per cent of Mexico's factories and 30 per cent of invested capital are located in the city of 3,000,000 which also employs 30 per cent of the Mexican labor force.

1900 and has tripled in just 20 years.

Though generally prosperous, it is nagged by unemployment. And many who work are non-productive. Twenty thousand make a living of sorts by peddling tickets for the state lottery.

The Mexican dollar keeps the city's economy rolling but it also undermines the capital's distinctive way of life. The tourist industry has become the country's largest single earner of foreign exchange, bringing in $700,000,000 in 1961.

GUARDIANS ATONITY

In the field of economic development, Mexico tries hard to preserve its autonomy while accepting the need for outside capital. It welcomes foreign investment—even offshore investment—but insists that outside money associate "on a minority basis" with Mexican capital and not seek "privileges or preference."

Though a supporter of the Alliance for Progress, Mexico is inclined to view it simply as a continuation and extension of its own program of social and economic development dating from the revolution of 1910.

"Our sources of credit are still open," says Mario Nasson Betelza, vice-president of the Bank of Mexico, referring to the loans the country was tapping long before the U.S.-inspired alliance was proclaimed in 1961.

"We have a good credit standing in the world," he says. Mexico has been receiving no direct aid from the United States, though its established credit sources include the Inter-American Development Bank and the Export-Import Bank of Washington. It says it has been getting long-term, low-interest loans from such countries as Italy and France.

SEEK INVESTORS

"Under the Alliance for Progress," said the banker, "we are stimulating the need for private investment."

To encourage investors and provide a sound basis for new capital projects, the government is plowing large sums into improving such services as transportation, communications and hydro development.

The principal industries, in addition to tourism and agriculture, are oil and mining and a wide range of manufactures including steel and petrochemicals.

Despite industrialization and rapid growth, however, nearly half the people remain on the land and substantially more than half the active population depends on farming for a livelihood.

Underlying the agrarian problem is a chronic shortage of water. Of Mexico's 701,000 square miles, 40 per cent are officially classified as arid or very arid.

A program is under way to move several thousand peasants from the dry central and north regions to the tropical south to open new farm villages on rich, virgin soil.

BACKWARD FARMING—Within a few miles of modern methods as their forefathers, many peasants are paid as little as 40 cents a day—when they can find work.

The project is part of Mexico's continuing agrarian reform program which grew out of the 1910 revolution.

BUILD NEW CITIES

Entire new cities have been carved out of the wilderness of the sparsely populated Yucatan Peninsula and hundreds of landless peasants given tracts of land there.

Mexico's population increases about 3.5 per cent a year and within six years is expected to reach 45,500,000 compared with 30,000,000 today.

Two years ago, largely due to shockwaves sent out by the Cuban revolution, the Mexican economic growth rate which had been running at five to six per cent annually, dipped to 3.5 per cent. This meant that in real terms, taking into account population growth, the economy barely moved.

Last year the economy showed signs of resuming its earlier healthy pace, chalking up a 4.5-per-cent advance. The investment pace remains somewhat hesitant, however, and authorities are concerned.

Business' basic hesitancy on uncertainty over government economic policies. The disturbance by a profit-sharing plan due to take effect next January, requiring companies to allocate workers a percentage of their earnings. Some foreign concerns are also unhappy about a requirement that the majority of parts used in manufacturing a product be Mexican-made.

ELECTION IN 1964

Next year is election year in Mexico and a new president and chamber of deputies will be chosen.

The outgoing president is Adolfo Lopez Mateos, 53, a small, kindly looking lawyer who has ruled since 1958. Under Mexico's constitution he is allowed but one six-year term and may not succeed himself.

40 PER CENT ILLITERACY—Mexican population never eat meat, fish or eggs or drink milk and 1,400,000 children are unable to attend school because of lack of facilities and teachers.

"Considering the economic problems he has had to face, with a growing middle class demanding more observance of the strictness of the constitution, he has done a good job."

PHI, which has been in office since 1928, will be forced to loosen its grip and allow opposition parties more elbow room.

At the same time they are inclined to make allowances for the some observers believe that the opposition, conceding that such tactics may have been necessary to bring tranquility to Mexico after almost uninterrupted turbulence—including a war of independence, two revolutions, a revolution and other upheavals—dating back to 1810.

Tomorrow: The granddaddy of land reform programs.

Movie Industry Next Target of Integrationists

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movie industry, television, the unions and TV advertisers will be among the next targets of U.S. integration demonstrators as an integrationist leader said Tuesday.

Plans that don't "honestly" portray Negroes and "ill-white" selective buying and boycotting "against offending products," he added at a news conference.

"Once the crack begins, after a reasonable period of negotiation, and their discriminatory practices and the studios themselves present an honest picture on Negro, there will be no more demonstrations throughout the country," he said.

He said he would lead a campaign against those who "discriminate against those who work practices," said Hill.

Mayor Whitton Denies Story

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charles Whitton says he does not know the name of the man who he is reported to have stated that he would sooner live in the U.S.S.R. than in the United States if his life depended upon the choice.

Mayor Whitton, back in Ottawa after attending the annual meeting of Ontario mayors and reeves at Pembroke, said in a statement that he remembered the name of the man who made the statement.

The only time she remembered the name was when she saw the name of the man in the newspaper.

Whitton said he was not impressed with Princess Freya's statement that they decided to leave the U.S.S.R.

She visited Russia this spring.

Tyendinaga Mill Rate Set

51.7 Farm, 58.3 Commercial

The 1923 general mill rate on farm and residential property in Tyendinaga township has been passed one-fourth of a mill from 50.3 mills. The increase on commercial property shows an increase of 1.9 mills over the rate of 56.4 mills.

The mill rate was passed at a special meeting last Thursday.

The rate for farm and residential property is 51.7 mills, and for commercial property 58.3 mills. The increase on commercial property shows an increase of 1.9 mills over the rate of 56.4 mills.

In addition to the general rate are the various element school rates for which the township is down 2.5 mills. The separate school rate remains for approximately 1.37 mills.

The rate of discount for pre-paid taxes and the due date for payment of taxes is 10th of the month.

Township auditor C. D. Cameron went over the 1922 audit and passed the same to the trustees for the year ending March 31, 1923.

The deficit of the township for 1922 was $30,734.96.

Wife Preservers

Mr., Mrs. Clifford Wilson Of Foxboro Wed 50 Yrs.

Memories of a first automobile ride were recalled yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wilson of Foxboro, as they celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage back in 1913.

Following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents on the 5th concession of 346, the couple was driven in Belvidere by car, where they took the train for a honeymoon in Buffalo, New York.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were "at home" to approximately 200 community friends and relatives at the Foxboro United Church Sunday evening of Foxboro, N.S., school hall.

Well over 100 cards and congratulatory messages were received, including a scroll from the provincial secretary which was delivered in person by Claude P. Boudreau, M.L.A. for Hastings East.

NATIVES OF DISTRICT
Mrs. Wilson, in falling health for the past two years, is the former Maude Bird, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bird of Foxboro. Her twin sister, now Mrs. Frank Cox, College.

Ann Landers

Roving Romeo Wants His Fourth Spouse Back

DEAR ANN LANDERS — This will sound terrible but I'm really a very nice guy. I want my fourth wife back. I've had one marriage since Peg and now I know for sure that number four is the girl for me.

I am 42, mature, and have been married so often to know the score. I am not stuck with any alimony rips because all my ex-wives remarried. All my kids have been adopted by their stepfathers so I have never been looked for child support either.

The problem is that Peg's husband is a big shot and he might give me some trouble. He and Peg never had kids of their own but I hear the kids are very handsome — like me. I'm sure Peg still loves me and that I could be a good father to the boys. I realize now I should have stuck with them. Do you think I have a chance? — BEN A ROUND.

DEAR BEN A — Chance for what? A fat tip? Your sudden attack of paterfamilias me right here, Pal. Your timing is cockeyed and I have only one recommendation: Get yourself good and lost and leave this family alone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 36, have been married for five years and have two darling youngsters. My problem is not serious but I want to handle it with care because it involves my youngest sister.

Sharon is 17 and graduated from high school a couple of weeks ago. She is a very pretty girl and an unabashed flirt. She has been batting her eyes at my husband since she was 15. I always considered her behaviour more adolescent than damaging. My husband ignored her aggressiveness until recently when he said, "Your little sister is boy-crazy and I hope she outgrows it soon."

Last night Sharon brought her graduation pictures over. She had a large one framed for my husband's office — those were her instructions. On it she wrote, "To Dad, with all my love forever and ever."

My husband does not want to take the picture to his office but he is afraid of hurting her feelings. What is your advice? — L. L. S.

DEAR L. L. S. — The inscription disqualifies the picture from display anywhere. Keep it in the drawer. And if your sister inquires about it, just should tell her why it's not in his office.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, and for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

U.C.W. Meeting

WHERE: A U.C.W.

WHITES DISTRICT — Mr. and Mrs. George William opened their home on Wednesday evening for the June meeting of Whites U.C.W., with a good attendance of members and visitors.

The subject of the devotional service was "The Negative" by Mrs. Eric Jones, read charge of devotions. Mrs. W. Jones, assisted by the conveners, Mrs. Earl Meyers and Mrs. Eric Jones.

Mr. George William sang "I Depend Upon My God". The Rev. Dr. Evans showed pictures of Trinidad taken while they were stationed there in 1945 with Mrs. Swann. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered them.

Attorney-General Urges Congress to Approve Civil Rights Program of President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy appealed today for the United States to endorse the civil rights program of President John F. Kennedy, urging Congress to approve President Kennedy's civil rights program.

"The courts have played an important role," he said, "but the administration has taken active and far-reaching action by the exercise of executive power."

"Now it is clearly up to Congress to bring its strength to bear."

Thus Kennedy challenged the Congress to recognize by passing the civil rights bill "that this country can no longer abide the moral outrage of racial discrimination."

The testimony of the president's brother before a House Select Committee on the Judiciary committee kicked off the administration's battle to pass the civil rights bill through the Senate and Congress.

Kennedy's strongest testimony to the nation, which promises to be the most controversial of the nation in any place of public accommodation — even privately owned ones.

Slow Schedule For Nuclear Missile Fleet

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AP) — President Kennedy and Chancellor Adenauer have agreed that they timetable for formation of a NATO nuclear missile fleet will have to be slowed down because of political crises in Italy and Britain.

U.S. officials said Kennedy and Adenauer are opposed to a strictly German-American force. They do not want a Bonn-Washington aid any more than they want a Bonn-Paris aid, informants said.

The timetable for the nuclear fleet has called for the drafting conference of interested governments probably in September, with the treaty to be submitted to the U.S. Senate in January.

It was clear by the time Kennedy came to Germany last weekend that the first part of this schedule could not be kept. But U.S. officials still hope they can meet the January Senate deadline.

SCUFFLE WITH POLICE

TOKYO (AP) — About 1,200 university students in Kyoto yesterday staged a demonstration against a U.S. nuclear submarine. In a few minutes, reinforcements of U.S. troops and police arrived in Kyoto against traffic for the demonstration. They clashed with 500 officers.

COMMUNITY HEALTH PLAN

P.S.I. representative, Doug Brown, watches Mrs. A. Cavers, 92 years of age, said she had been waiting for years to obtain a plan that would pay for all doctors' services.

"The effects of discrimination in public establishments are not limited to the embarrassment and frustration suffered by the individuals who are its immediate victims," Kennedy said, "but the economy suffers, for the nation's business is impaired."

Such facilities — restaurants, hotels, places of amusement, places, stores and hotels and others — are public in a real sense.

"They are not at all like a private home or a private club, for example, in which the owner invites only the guests he selects, but in which the owner provides accommodation care to the public."

Kennedy promoted the administration plan to speed school desegregation. Passage of a bill desegregating the federal government was for an end to racial discrimination in schools, he said, "would smooth the path, now, which the nation was set, by the U.S. Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision."

Kennedy, urging adoption of the nation's laws and laws aimed at speeding an end to discrimination in voting, said the right to vote is the principle in the process of self-government. It is the foundation of the most fundamental right of all.

Govt. Approves New Shortcut Polio Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has approved a new shortcut polio vaccine designed to give infants against all three types of polio.

A license for the three-in-one vaccine — combining strains of the Sabin oral polio vaccine — was granted to Lederle Laboratories, a spokesman for U.S. Surgeon-General office said Tuesday.

In a statement, Lederle said that in addition to reducing the complexity of administering oral polio vaccine, the new product gives "active immunity against all three types of polio."

After the first few years of complete protection after the second feeding, eight weeks later.

The first mass tests of the vaccine were conducted in 1960 in the Miami area where it was administered — usually in three-year-old — to 444,000 persons.

Health officials said that paralytic polio cases dropped to zero afterward and Lederle said in a statement that the vaccine is "safe, effective and easy to use."

It calls Trivalent Orimune, all three are available in the same dose has been geared up to meet demands expressed in the fall.

PRIME MINISTER, a boyhood friend of the pope, was smaller than he was in 10, and he wasn't as strong. I never could figure out why he was so sickly, but he was. He always bent the top of his head until 50 years later. He learned why. He was Archbishop of Milan then, and he told me the secret: "Look at heaven when you climb, and fear nothing."

The Monini family had lived around the north Italian city of Brescia since the 15th century and had always been close to the church. Members included Donna Poppi, 16th century abbess of a cloister, one early bishop of Brescia, and at least five priests between 1600 and 1900.

Pope Paul was born Sept. 22, 1897, in a two-story home on a tree-shaded park at Concesio, a town in the Brescia region, only 35 miles southeast of Brescia, the birthplace of Pope John XXIII.

Concesio and Sotte Ilmo were some alike-named in the rich foothill valleys under 3,000-foot mountains in the vineyards and orchard lands. The people were simply, farm-laborers and are devout.

The Pope's mother was Christiana, a lawyer who for 25 years ran the Brescia Catholic newspaper, Il Cittadino. Three times he was elected to Parliament during the monarchy. In 1924, two years after Benito Mussolini led Italy into fascism, he quit politics.

Pope Paul was christened with a worldly name, as the most Italian children, he was Giovanni Battista Montini. His mother, Giustina Montini, once called him lovingly "Zingolo della Famiglia" — the family's housekeeper, as Marianni is, still alive. She remembers him a little differently.

"He broke down, indeed, don't tell me you and Mum are still up to THAT sort of thing!"

He still was frail, but his health was steeper. He plunged into studies of philosophy, literature and canon law.

In 1922, before his advanced studies were completed, Vatican sent him on his first diplomatic mission. He went Warsaw as secretary to the apostolic nuncio.

He was only 25, but the church's lunching, three times the road that was to teach him first view of war, giving him the first view of war.

Communist land, take his brilliant Italian, however, as a diplomat, and start him on his papal throne.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Teresa Montini, 92, was elected Tuesday, the new president of the International Council of Women at its 75th anniversary conference here. Mrs. Schiller, 90, was an officer with the United Nations in New York for the council.

Says African Congress Will Step up Activity

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — A report that the banned African National Congress (ANC) could be expected to step up its activities against South Africa was given in a written statement to parliament Tuesday.

The report was reported by Mr. Justice Snyman, who gave the findings of an inquiry into last year's Passi riots in which two young whites were shot to death and at least five Negroes shot dead.

The report said the terrorist Poqo organization was responsible for the riots, which were "counter-attacks" to action to smash Poqo in a part by police and municipal authorities.

"Perhaps the most dangerous attack on South Africa will ultimately come from the Communist-ANC," the report said. It added:

"The ANC may be expected to step up its activities against South Africa. It is already seeking to take advantage of the breakup of Poqo to strengthen its position as the main protagonist of a white, native and colored struggle, and particularly in South Africa."

His early education was in the Jesuit-run Atrici Institute in Brescia. But Pope Paul was sickly boy, so thin and frail his parents feared to keep him in high school. He completed these studies under private tutelage.

STUDIES PRIVATELY

He entered the Brescia Diocesan Seminary in 1916. Then, as in high school, he had to study privately. He studied privately under institute teachers and was a member of a priest.

Although he had been in actual attendance at the seminary for only six months in 1920, the young man passed his examinations in 1920.

He was ordained in the Brescia Cathedral May 29, 1921. That same year the bishop of Brescia, Cardinal Gregorini, a school for young priests of special promise.

He still was frail, but his health was steeper. He plunged into studies of philosophy, literature and canon law.

In 1922, before his advanced studies were completed, Vatican sent him on his first diplomatic mission. He went Warsaw as secretary to the apostolic nuncio.

He was only 25, but the church's lunching, three times the road that was to teach him first view of war, giving him the first view of war.

WINDS OF CHANGE BLOWING ACROSS IRON CURTAIN AS WELL AS IN REST OF WORLD - JFK

BERLIN (AP) — President Kennedy, in his key Berlin address, said today the "iron curtain" must be torn down. The cause of human rights, liberty may well be obtainable in a "free Europe" only if it is based on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

"The winds of change are blowing across the Iron Curtain as well as in the rest of the world," the president said. "The cause of human rights, liberty may well be obtainable in a 'free Europe' only if it is based on both sides of the Iron Curtain."

"History itself runs against the idea of a 'free Europe' only if it is based on both sides of the Iron Curtain," he said in his speech prepared for delivery at the audition of Berlin's free university.

"Like the division of Germany, the division of Europe is against the idea of history," he said. "The new Europe, the West — dynamic, diverse and democratic — must exert its ever-increasing attraction on the people of the East."

"And when the possibilities of reconciliation appear, we are not hostile to any people or system, provided they respect their own destiny without interfering with the choice of others."

MAINTAIN FORCE

The president said that before liberty is achieved "justice requires us to do whatever we can to maintain peace in the world. We must maintain the force of our arms."

"What does liberty require?" Kennedy asked. "The answer is clear: A United Berlin in a free, united Europe, united by self-determination — and living in peace. This right of free choice is no special privilege claimed by Germans alone. It is a natural right of all peoples. It is a natural requirement of human freedom. So while it is a goal we shall never abandon."

"Reconciliation, I believe, will someday be the result of our determination — and living in peace. This right of free choice is no special privilege claimed by Germans alone. It is a natural right of all peoples. It is a natural requirement of human freedom. So while it is a goal we shall never abandon."

OFFICERS BEING GRILLED IN Petersen Case

OTTAWA (AP) — Armed forces intelligence officers are being grilled in the Petersen case.

High officials of the defence department are asking intelligence officers why Eric Clifford Petersen, 31, of Victoria was discharged from the RCMP Nov. 21, just because an RCMP security report said Mr. Petersen's father-in-law was a Communist party member in the 1930s.

In the Commons Tuesday, David Orlow, New Democrat MP for Winnipeg North, asked Defence Minister Heffer why the political beliefs of a relative determine whether a serviceman is judged a security risk.

"A review has been completed," Mr. Heffer said. "The receipt of a letter from Victoria lawyer Lloyd McInnes on Mr. Petersen's behalf, Mr. Petersen, who served 19 months in the navy, has said he wants his name cleared."

A naval spokesman said Mr. Petersen, a petty officer, second class, was in the navy and had done well in the navy and was an honorable discharge.

In security cases, the actual reason for discharge does not appear on the discharge papers. Every armed forces recruit is checked for security. Mr. Petersen passed this check when he joined the navy in 1951 and another in 1956 when he applied for re-examination after he was married.

They demand for equality and the government are determined to respond. The pace of declassification has quickened in Africa. The people of the so-called nations have intensified their pursuit of social and economic justice."

HOW WENT WATER

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Hong Kong will be entirely without water by the end of September at the present rate of consumption, Public Works Director Michael Wright said today.

BIG GOOP — There is concrete evidence alone. Orin said "I was watching another truck loaded with seven yards of concrete die a back but it was too late." The truck was lifted out by a Tuckson, a 60-ton crane with six-way cables.

SKINNY LITTLE SCHOOLBOY WHO CLIMBED TREES FASTER THAN ANY NOW POPE PAUL

THE EARL OF St. Andrews, tenth in succession to the British throne, was taken by his father, The Duke of Kent, the first cousin of the Queen. The Earl was born June 26, 1935.

AP correspondent James M. Long wrote the Vatican during the crisis of the Pope Paul VI and his son, the new pope of the Roman Catholic Church for more than a decade. Beginning a series of three biographical articles on Pope Paul, Long wrote the book and his early career as a priest.

BY JAMES M. LONG

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The skinny little schoolboy who climbed trees faster than any now Pope Paul VI was born June 26, 1935, in the Italian town of Concesio, near Brescia. It was more than 60 years ago that Giovanni Battista Montini moved his family to a house in Concesio.

His brother, the late Lodovico Montini, 66, who served three terms as a Christian Democrat member of the Chamber of Deputies and was elected last April 28 to the Italian Senate, died in 1958.

Just a Pope Paul VI reached the Vatican Church in his home town with his eyes on heaven and no fear in his heart.

Do You Qualify for Membership In Old Timers' League?

By MAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Some people like to look back. But we like to look back. You can qualify for membership in the Old Timers' League if you can remember when—

No working man ever thought a stiff with only one pat of pants.

Farmers never had to think up things for their children to do. A boy could keep himself amused all afternoon knocking his cane off the backyard fence with a slingshot.

A child that dared to sass his daddy or mother usually couldn't sit comfortably—even on a pillow—for the next three days.

Women went through the whole day wearing the same face they wore up with in the morning. They don't have to paint on a new one every time they stepped out the front door.

A wife's standing in the community was measured by the quality of her apple pie.

People were born—and died—in their own homes. You only went to hospital when you had to have your appendix taken out.

If a child didn't do well in school, it was usually blamed on his kidneys.

A juvenile delinquent was a boy under 18 who sneaked into the local barbershop to read The Police Gazette.

ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Wednesday, June 26, 1962 19

Everything was cooked in a substance with which young sports also slicked down their hair.

Clara Bow was known as the 12 girl of the movies. Only boys and hooches cooked their meals out of doors.

The minister was thought to be shirking his duty if his Sunday sermon lasted less than a full hour.

The height of sophisticated reserve was to remark of something, "that's the cat's mow."

A husband, before helping his wife dry the dishes, first washed down the kitchen window blinds—so the neighbors wouldn't think he was peeked.

No young girl careful of her reputation would be seen sitting in the rumble seat of an auto with a young man. Only the harker's son got an allowance. Every other kid in town started earning his own spending money at the age of 12.

Few ladies ever took a drink in public. Most of the innocently thought a cocktail was something that grows on the rear of a rooster. Yes, those were the days. Remember?

PEACE IN FIELDS — A program of land reform dating from 1918 has helped peace among Mexican farmers. But not in all cases it is matched by the adoption of progressive methods and many farmers still plow the land with oxen. Only small portions of peasants given land hold documentary evidence of title and as a result, a large number are reluctant to improve their land or engage in more than subsistence farming.

After Revolution Came Land Reform; Mexico's Program Showed the World

By JACK BEST

MEXICO CITY (CP) — "In recent years we have been able to observe complete peace in our fields. There are today no tendencies toward revolution." The words are those of Roberto Barrios, head of Mexico's department of colonization and agrarian affairs. He boasts what Mexican authorities consider the grandest of all modern-day land reform programs.

Outside Barrios' spacious and comfortably appointed office, in the hallways and stairways of the land reform headquarters, grinning peasants are shuffled around or sat solemnly, waiting to see some official about rights to a parcel of land. Many carry pitiful sacks containing their personal belongings.

"The agrarian program is eminently Mexican, with no relation to any other movement," Barrios continued. "It is older than any program that any other country may have."

Then, for emphasis, he repeated: "It brings peace to our fields."

Proclaimed in the agrarian law of 1915, five years after the outbreak of the revolution, Mexico's land reform has distributed more than 100,000,000 acres to some 3,000,000 landless peasants.

ECHOES OF REVOLT

But, the government presses on with the program. It recognizes that rural living conditions remain a potentially explosive problem. Awareness of this is reflected in Barrios' repeated references to agrarian "peace."

Land reform also has a more positive aspect, however. To Mexican authorities it represents reassuring evidence that the 1910 revolution is a living reality and a vital force in national development.

For historical and emotional reasons, any dispute over land tenure generates greater heat than any other kind of quarrel in Mexico.

The great battle of his history have been fought for possession of the land, both mineral and agricultural.

The revolution itself, which led to nearly two decades of anarchy and bloodshed, was basically an agrarian revolt, though it started as a movement to break the power of dictator Porfirio Diaz.

PEASANTS' RESTLESS The fact that many peasants still live close to the edge of starvation tends to keep alive the possibility of rural unrest. This danger has not as yet as yet been allayed by the agrarian program.

Small Communist party is active mainly in the universities and some teaching unions.

Leftist former president Lázaro Cardenas warned of the danger two years ago when he said that if further agrarian reforms are not carried out, "a new revolution will be the sure remedy." He also said there was national unrest among farmhands, many of whom are virtually unemployed.

Mexico's principal crops are maize, beans, cotton, wheat, coffee, sugar cane and citrus. Two principal export crops are cotton and coffee. Between them they brought in $200,000,000 in foreign exchange in 1960. And production continues to increase generally.

Though the country has been increasingly urbanized in recent decades, more than half the economically active population still gets its livelihood from farming.

Some factors aggravating the land problem:

1. Only a small proportion of the peasants given land hold documentary evidence of title. This causes insecurity and makes many peasants reluctant to improve their land or engage in more than subsistence farming.

2. In general, private land, settled up to a certain limit to choose what portion of their estates they will retain, have kept the more valuable land. Only one-quarter of all the land distributed between 1915 and 1940 was cropland and of this nearly 60 per cent was officially classified as "dry."

3. Some of the largest holdings are said to be those of politicians and their friends.

4. Though the back of the land estates was broken by Cardenas, president from 1924 to 1940, there now is the problem of excessive fragmentation of land.

According to the 1950 census, 94 per cent of those peasants who had been given land held less than 20 acres.

MOVE COMMUNITIES Basically there are three types of distribution:

1. Land is expropriated for the benefit of an ejido—community of peasants. Each ejido is given a plot to cultivate. However, it remains the property of the state.

2. Where no land is available for expropriation in the immediate neighborhood of an existing community, the whole group may be moved to another area and given land.

3. Lands not under cultivation may be declared a public domain and then become eligible for special treatment in documentary active population. This type of arrangement peasants are being moved in.

large numbers from the arid central plateau to the virgin tropical lowlands of southeast Mexico.

Under Cardenas a number of collective farms were also established but these were broken up by his successor. A weakness of this system was the temperamental of the Mexican revolution. An individualist, the peasant likes to have his own plot of land and doesn't take kindly to compulsory co-operation with his neighbors.

Tomorrow: Peasants of Cuban lineage are eating.

Pinchhitter Dan Dravitz could not have picked a better time to hit his sixth homer of the season for Rochester Red Wings Tuesday night.

Kravitz blasted a round-trip per, with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning to score Joe Altobelli and salvage a 6-3 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs in the first game of the season.

Syracuse Chiefs homed in the northern division lead by blasting Richmond Virginians 9-0. Buffalo Bisons ended a five-game Arkansas winning streak by routing the Travelers 5-3. Indianapolis Indians topped Columbus at Jacksonville were rained out.

Right hander Cliff Adams scattered seven hits for Syracuse in his third game. He recorded six shutouts and four losses. Though he took the distance for Virginia and won his second defeat in six starts, Purnell Giddens was good for Chiefs.

Arkansas' Jim Frazier led in the first inning when Bobby Makmum tripled and scored on an infield out. The Bisons bounced back and led 3-0 in the sixth after Purnell Giddens homered over the outfield wall. Danny Cater homed

...ered for Travelers.
...Bellefleur, 22

picked up his sixth victory from Rochester, while Bobby Tiefenauer, pitching his first game for Toronto since being obtained from Atlanta, took the loss and is 3-2 for the season.

USE MUCH SUGAR

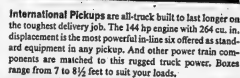

The United States, where the average citizen consumes about 100 pounds of sugar annually, is expected to use 10,000,000 tons in 1983.

there's an International truck to do it at less cost!

The wheel drive Scout will take your deliveries almost anywhere in any weather! Use it with the standard five-foot pickup box or convert it in minutes to a steel-body station wagon. The versatile Scout with a 4-cylinder, 93.4 hp engine is ideal for delivery to rural homes, construction sites and other off-highway destinations.

International Pickups are all-truck built to last longer on the toughest delivery job. The 144 hp engine with 264 cu. in. displacement is the most powerful in-line six offered as standard equipment in any pickup. And other power train components are matched to this rugged truck power. Boxes range from 7 to 8½ feet to suit your loads.

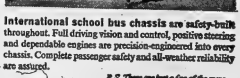

The Metro has functional design to put every cubic inch to work! Because these are walk-through vans, the driver can readily use either door and reach the load area without leaving the van. The gas-saving 4-cylinder Metro-90 has a capacity of 224 cubic feet. The 6-cylinder Metro-120 in two body sizes has capacity up to 334 cubic feet.

The International Loadstars are the most maneuverable conventional trucks on the road with the shortest turning radius in their class. They're ideal for any type of delivery and any body style. Relaxing flat-angled steering wheel and posture perfect seat keeps drivers efficient all day through. GVW ratings range from 19,500 to 39,000 lbs.

The new CO Loadstar with tilting cab has the easy-handling maneuverability you need for busy city streets. The short bumper-to-back-of-cab dimension and sharp turning radius tailor it to a wide range of bodies including tractors, vans, tankers, flat beds and bottler's bodies. GVW ratings range from 17,000 to 27,000 lbs.

International school bus chassis are safety-built throughout. Full driving vision and control, positive steering and dependable engines are precision-engineered into every chassis. Complete passenger safety and all-weather reliability are assured.

P.S. There are just a few of the more than 50 basic International trucks from which you can choose the model that's exactly right for your job.

'He Who Grins And Walks Away'

HALEFAX (CP) — A boxer shocked the fans and his handlers here Tuesday night when he walked from the ring just as he started to land punches against his opponent Ray Stanford, a 135-pounder from Halifax fighting British Cylex 135, of Truro, N.S., in a preliminary bout.

Cylex had the best laughs, and applauding in the first round. He was laughing and shouting and his grin was a constant punch after punch on Stanford's chin.

In the second round of the scheduled four-rounder, Stanford hit Cylex with several solid rights and Cylex stopped his dancing and grinning. Cylex backed up a few paces from Stanford and the two looked at each other for about 30 seconds.

Suddenly Stanford waved his left hand in a gesture of disgust and walked to his corner. His handlers asked what was wrong but Stanford's reply could not be heard by reporters. He was bleeding slightly from the nose and holding his head as if he was walked from the ring to the dressing room.

The ring announcer named Cylex the winner at 1:40 of the second round.

At the end of the card Stanford could not be found for comment. As Cylex walked away from the ring, the grin had returned.

New Movies to Feature Nuclear Perils Theme

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ready air force planes, of course, to be scared? Three major motion pictures are now in the theatres within a year. They are: Fall-Side, Seven Days in May and Dr. Strangelove. Or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb.

All are based on novels. All are getting stellar casting and realistic timing.

Fall-Side, and Dr. Strangelove are Columbia releases, although they have seemingly identical themes. Frenzy efforts to head off a nuclear war.

The reason appears to be "he got" Fall-Side from the best-seller by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, was planned as an independent film by a new company headed by Fred Young, a suit by Peter George, who headed the Fall-Side plot copied his novel Red Alert, on which Strangelove was based.

Fall-Side became a Columbia release, and it is expected that the suit will be dropped. The film was shot recently in New York with Sidney Lumet directing. Seven Days in May, Dan O'Hervey, Walter Matthau and others.

Officially reported the picture failed to get any cooperation from the air force—not unusual, so how did the company get such props as radar equipment? By copying them out of scientific magazines.

"We weren't allowed to use any (Candidate) in directing."

Keefe Brasselle Show Good Replacement for Gary Moore

By CYNTHIA LOWMY

NEW YORK (AP) — The Keefe Brasselle Show, which had its debut Tuesday night as Gary Moore's summer replacement, on CBS, is pleasant, useful and well-intentioned, varied and well-timed.

The show boasted guests Zee Zee Gabor, playing the comedy femme fatale role she has done so skilfully. Fred Corley Gwynne, making his first radio appearance, who can—and does—suffer or clown in neat with equal facility.

Brasselle is a good looking fellow who can sing a little and dance a little, but is a little awkward in the comedy department. He has surrounded himself with a "family" including comedienne Ann B. Davis. Keefe Brasselle, who just had a comic, and a shapely blonde dancer named Noelle Adams, who didn't dance much but studied around the stage a lot in tight.

A half hour earlier, CBS dropped Picasso this into Jack Benny's usual time. Picasso, this if all another game show, originally inspired in its pay-off setup by "Pictionary," the gimmick however, involves having a contestant pick from the audience draw a picture from the description by it is celebrity.

Host Jerry Van Dyke and celebrity guests Orson Welles and John Ford, who drew hard and fully to generate some interest and excitement.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

For June 27th:

Don't be afraid to act on hunch.
Your perception works overtime.

Leo (July 23 to August 21):
Monetary affairs spotlighted.
Financial success continuing to be sign of influence. Be humble with others . . . with yourself.
Entertain by sharing ideas . . .
not going overboard financially.

Gemini (August 23 to Sept. 21):
Stand firm on beliefs. Don't back down. Cycle remains high. Speak, write, put across point of view. Make family and friends feel they are taking them into your confidence.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22):
Now you are on "winning side."
Act accordingly. Your judgment is sound. Don't let socialists, to spotlight self-expectations.
Speak up on your own behalf.
Overcome false modesty.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21):
Make wishes to turn to reality.
Do as you're being diplomatic.
You can gain trust of those in authority, including family members. Be sure to be honest.
Declare. Display even disposition.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec.

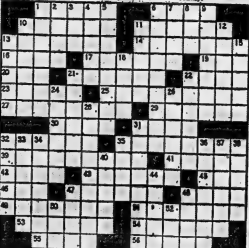

are you know what you really desire. Otherwise, you might receive what amounts to an extra burden. Key is time, patience. Be wary of "sweet talk" of the practical and artistic you are natural teacher.

Hospital Confinement Only Temporary Setback for Girl

By PATRICIA KURAK

TORONTO (CP) The hospital confinement of the 16-year-old girl who was dancing at the school's graduation ceremony, last night, was a setback for her, but it was only a temporary one.

Seventeen-year-old Veronica Tennant, whose academic average was over 80 and who was offered a contract and will join the National Ballet Company in September, was in hospital recovering from a muscular back injury.

Hospital confinement is only a temporary setback for the dark-eyed, petite girl who can dance like a professional. She is the best to dance. Doctors have assured her she will be dancing again before September.

"I always realized I wanted to dance but I realize it more than ever lying here," she said during an interview in hospital.

Veronica has learned the life to which she is completely dedicated to "a happy life, even though you are doing what you want."

She began her ballet training in England when she was four and had decided to make dancing her career by the time she was 12.

LEARN'S PATIENCE Since her family moved to Canada eight years ago, she has studied with the National Ballet teachers and for the last three years has been a full-time student at the national school.

Her eyes glown when she talks of the adjustments she will have to make working with the company's corps de ballet. Most challenging will be to still be a completely new experience for the petite dancer. She has to learn the double ballet technique (the 10 double-two and weight 10 pounds). As part of her training, she joined the corps of the National Company for performance of Swan Lake, Giselle and Les Sylphides—the classics which she loves—during the Toronto engagement.

She also filled in as a candy can dancer in the Nutcracker Suite and as a gipsy in Les Sylphides on two occasions when company dancers became ill.

Her dream is some day to dance the role of the peasant girl Giselle.

Although dancing comes first, Veronica loves classical music and at present is eager to "read like mad—classical, contemporary, everything."

"You can't be a good dancer unless you have a great knowledge of many things."

She also loves languages—she has studied French, Spanish and Latin—and wants to learn to speak French fluently.

But her formal education has ended. "I will not do anything that will interfere with my dancing."

First Tea Shop in Britain Set up in Piccadilly in 1894 Still at Same Old Stand

LONDON (CP) — Three men sitting in Newcastle 75 years ago helped mark social change in post-war Britain.

Capitalizing on the Englishman's love of a "late cup of tea," they set the foundations for a catering organization that grew into a multi-million-pound concern, and changed the eating habits of a nation.

The tea shops they set up in Edwardian Britain — the first was opened in London's Piccadilly in 1894 — are mainly still doing business at the same old stands, but the familiar cream-and-sult frills are discarded now by bigger establishments designed for modern mass consumption.

The three founders, Barnett Salmon and his sons, Bernard and Gordon, started at the Newcastle Jubilee Exhibition of 1887, later recruited a man named Joe Lyons and began building the mammoth enterprise that probably is the biggest catering organization in the world, with a string of associated subsidiaries dealing in hamburgers, vending machines, gasoline and underground car parks.

WATERSIDES QUICK
Even before the Second World War, Joe Lyons and Company Limited was something of a household word. The term "salop" to denote a waitress came by way into the dictionary through the fast-moving serving girls in the famed Corner House, only one of which still stands on a corner today. Since the Second World War, one master stroke involved the humble hamburger, popularized by the success in North America of the succulent combination of bun, meat and cheese. Lyons sent an executive abroad to study how to sell hamburgers in quantity. The result was that a deli-cious almost unknown in Britain 15 years ago now sells in its savory millions. Lyons retails $2.00 a week through its own outlets and draws profit from $0.50 others sold at some 250 licensed through a subsidiary called "Frasers Trade."

These "winny bars," as they are mostly called, also specialize in milk shakes called "milkshakes" and in a dessert called "buns pretty."

STARKS BATHS ON

Two weeks after most restaurants ended in 1894, Lyons opened London's first steak house in the side Oxford Street at Corner House. For a fortnight customers, starved of hudson steak and cutlets for 15 years, were served. Then the habit caught on and similar restaurants were opened in other cities.

When their business was established, steak houses based on the Lyons formula sprouted everywhere. Fifteen more were opened by the company itself in and around London and within the next three years 30 Lyons steak houses were scheduled to open in the British commonwealth around the capital.

Pre-war British restaurants were conservative. The palacettes variety had a symphony orchestra playing old favorites in a corner and a slightly more emphasizing "meat and two veg."

All that is changing fast. A Chicago interior decorator, Sam Hewitt, helped revamp the corner houses into specialty restaurants, one contrasting on bacon and eggs, another on salmon, a third on roast beef and jacket potatoes, all in the same building. Kitchens were moved within sight of the patrons. Prices rose but remained reasonable compared with prevailing luxury standards, and the clientele cross-section of society.

DIRECTORS OUBSCURE
An unusual aspect is that despite the company's immensity and its profound influence on Britain's post-war social history, Lyons directors remain little known. The board of directors, mainly descendants of the old men and Gluckstein who sold Lyons' restaurants, seldom see their names in the paper—not because they think publicity is vulgar or ungentlemanly, as some businessmen do, but because reticence seems to be a family characteristic.

"Just a Second"

"It's our new digital computer"

The present head, Barnett Salmon, rules an empire that serves some 200,000 meals a day, makes 120,000 chocolate cakes a week, runs 100 restaurants as well as the mass variety, and is one of Britain's two biggest fast cream companies.

Lyons has two companies in Toronto, tea parlors in Croydon, and Nyassaland, varied interests in Rhodesia, Ireland, Kenya and Cyprus. Through a subsidiary, it operates the largest gasoline station in Britain, selling 1,000,000 gallons a year, and owns the biggest underground car park in Europe, under Hyde Park. It has its own laundry, own printing house, own computer to produce cartons and boxes and own computer machines which it sells to many other big concerns.

GREW INTO GIANT

"What is amazing to me," said a Lyons spokesman, "is that this restaurant business was built up and simultaneously we developed all sorts of ancillary companies and services to supply it and say other companies that need these services or equipment."

"It is a giant in eating and necessary will construct its own water main to make sure a party goes smoothly. It sells everything from champagne and strawberries to tea and sandwiches at Golden Plover Shop and tennis time at Wimbledon. It employs 75,000 people, many of whom go through its own training school."

Not bad for an enterprise built on a "nice cup of tea" even though the directors won't talk about it themselves.

Scotch Product Of Pure Water, Foul Weather

By ROD KUTNER
EDINBURGH (CP)—There is no mechanical reason why proper Scotch whisky cannot be produced outside Scotland—but it can't, say the Scots.

The Japanese try, the Indians try, the Spanish and may other nations try, with varying degrees of success. But while there is no deep, indelibly-guarded secret surrounding the process, the Scots claim that only water from Scotland's pure water and foul weather.

The water goes into the distillery as pure as when it came bubbling down the mountainside, no chemicals added. The cool, damp climate conditions are ideal for the maturing process and keep evaporation to a minimum. Under law all Scotch must be aged at least three years but, in fact, no Scotch worthy of the name is aged less than six. And Scotch distilleries say whisky should not be aged beyond 15 years because it then starts to take on the flavor of the wooden cask.

CAREY GUY COLOR
Most make previously were used for sherry and the whisky, clear as water when it leaves the distillery, picks up its color during storage.

No two whiskies are exactly alike, because of the different blending and the character of the local water, air and climate, the millman's technique and the types of cask used.
Blending is the art of combining various full-bodied Highland malts with the lighter Lowland malt and grain products to achieve a distinctive product consistent in color, flavor and bouquet from year to year. A combination of 25 or more varieties, the blends are a matter of taste and tradition. Sometimes tasteful caramel is used to add color.

BARLEY MUST ALTER
The barley gets some of the credit. There is no such thing as a vintage year in barley," says a Scotch distiller. "The better the quality the more whisky we get per bushel but it has no influence on the quality of flavor."

Whisky's slow rise to fame began in 1725 when the government imposed a stipendous-bushel tax on the malt used in brewing ale. As a result, riots the tax was set in half but ale consumption still declined, eventually making way for whisky.

Scotch was practically unknown outside the Highlands, however, until about 1750 and it was not until almost 1800 that the French vineyards, that it took over pride of place from brandy in upper and middle class circles in England.

In 1962 the export of Scotch amounted to 27,489,000 gallons valued at $76,088,372—almost four times that of the same total before the Second World War.

Distillers claim the home market, although expanding, is inhibited by the high excise duty—now $2.10 on a bottle retailing for $2.15 is $4.25.

WORK BASE
Primary industries—agriculture, forestry, fishing, trapping and electric power—employ 5 per cent of all working Canadians.

Red Spacecraft Exploded After Launching

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of several Soviet spacecraft which the Russians have said nothing of a year ago exploded into 24 orbiting pieces shortly after launching last fall, the U.S. space agency reports.

In any event, it probably was the biggest bang up in space since the U.S. Transit 4-B satellite vehicle shattered into 160 pieces orbiting parts after a launching June 30, 1961.

The debris was reported to be spraying of orbital debris occurred last Oct. 24. There was no indication in the U.S. report whether the spacecraft could have been named.

The breaking up of the Soviet satellite was brought to light, along with detailed information on other unannounced Russian shots, in a satellite situation report published annually by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.

The pieces of the unsuccessful Soviet shot began dropping like rain on the earth's atmosphere on Oct. 29, five days after launching, NASA said. The last section left orbit Feb. 22.

No Intimacy Between Airmen And Party Girl

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense department investigators questioning three U.S. airmen have found no far cry a causal relationship between them and British party girl Christine Keeler, informed sources said today.

"There's been no evidence of any intimacy—it looks as though their paths just crossed," one informant said in discussing the progress of the investigation which the airmen were brought back from England for questioning last Friday.

The sources said there was no indication so far of any intimacy between the three air force men and Capt. Eugene Ivanov, former Soviet naval attaché in London who shared Miss Keeler's affections with former British war minister John Profumo.

Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester, the Pentagon's chief spokesman, Monday confirmed the return of the airmen for questioning after British newspapers.

Saying "security is our basic concern," Sylvester told reporters that so far the investigation indicated no U.S. military personnel have been involved in the Profumo-Keeler case.

Adenauer Says Germany Started War

BONN, Germany (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said Monday that although he does not like mentioning the fact, Germany started the Second World War.

Adenauer was replying to President Kennedy's praise of the chancellor in a toast at the dinner the president gave for Adenauer.

"I don't particularly like to make such acknowledgments," the chancellor said, "but let's face it—historically honesty requires that we say the war which destroyed Germany was provoked by Germany, and that at the United States has shown the great wisdom to help the defeated enemy, which was really a deed which is only very rarely found in history."

Assassination Attempt Brings Long Jail Terms

PARIS (Reuters)—The French Military Court of Justice today sentenced one man to life imprisonment and another to 30 years, both with hard labor, for their part in an attempt to assassinate President de Gaulle last August.

The men were Serge Bernier, 39, sentenced to life, and Grégoire Laroche, 35, jailed for 30 years.

Bernier, a Secret Army Organization commando, was sentenced to death in his absence last March when the court tried 13 other men—four in their absence—for staging a machine-gun attack on the Gaulle in the Paris suburb of Petit-Clamart last Aug. 22.

Sart, a Hungarian and former Foreign Legion member, was arrested while the March trial was in progress.

West Germany Has Begun To Pay Price for Prosperity, Economic Miracle Is Over

By DON RENNIGT

BONN (CP)—The great economic miracle in West Germany is over. Now she has begun to pay the price for her own prosperity.

The average German has extra money and wants to spend it. His demands have risen so quickly that production lags far behind. One reason is a shortage of raw materials tied with a shorter work week seems simply that less work is being done.

Rising prices have resulted. Consumer prices went up three per cent in 1962 and the trend continues. In housing the price of a new house has been driven up to about twice the equivalent in Canada.

Hence the "great economic debate" in Germany. In a country so sensitive about the internal values of its money—and rightly so, considering German monetary history—it has become almost a coffee-shop discussion to discuss what characteristic designate Ludwig Erhard reputeability described as "ideal conditions for growth."

IMPORTANT CUSTOMER
Canadian industry has a big stake in the outcome.

West Germany now ranks fourth as a market for Canadian exports, behind the United States, Britain and Japan. Canadian sales here in 1962 reached $177,700,000—at least twice the amount of exports to any other continental country. Canadian trade experts are optimistic about the future. It is through healthy demand that the German economy is so thoroughly flexible and Canadian possibilities here are limited only by the ability to compete in price, quality and service.

They confidently predict that the level of Canadian sales to West Germany will reach $200,000,000 a year.

Prospects in Germany itself are shining. Last year German imports rose 12 per cent. Film labels goods went up 20 per cent and now have reached a volume where they account for more than one-third of all German imports. Rising prices of German manufactures have made it even easier for Canadian exports in on the soaring demand.

In other markets, too, Canada has improved her position vis-à-vis Germany.

Wage increases in Germany, which Erhard says have far outstripped productivity—are being reflected in costs and thus export prices. In fact German industry now feels it has lost all the advantage of the 1961 Deutsche mark revaluation, which acted to lower the price of imported materials.

CANADIAN STEEL GAINS
Loss of German competitive power in world markets already has been felt in some sectors, notably steel and capital equipment. While there are no concrete examples of Canadians taking over from traditional German suppliers, trade authorities say they would be surprised if Canadian industry notably steel—is not gaining new contracts.

The big question now: What will German do about her own position?

In cases where demand so far exceeds supply, the traditional counter action would be to mop up the extra demand by raising taxes and imposing so-called "tight money" in the hope of curbing spending.

But Erhard has ruled out both steps. He has said tax increases would hamper economic growth.

As for central bank action, it is to let the current liquidity contraction continue. The official view is that a credit squeeze would still be ineffectual, which is dipping anyway, and street fund inflows of foreign capital that would offset the monetary restrictions.

URGES WAGE RESTRAINT
Instead, the economic minister has called for reductions in federal and provincial government spending—especially public investments that affect the already hand-crafted building industry. He wants such investments cut or spread out.

Somewhat unsuccessfully, in view of the recent metal workers' strike for higher wages, he also has called for restraint in wage demands. Also being sought is a compromise between farmers' demands for higher prices and the need for price stability.

On that supply side, Germany intends to go on importing foreign laborers—including Greeks and Turks, despite complaints from other German market countries. Meanwhile, Germany has run into balance of payments difficulties. Last year brought the first deficit since the "miracle" began and another is foreseen in 1963.

If this continues for a long run, Germany could find itself in trouble. But years of surplus built a huge cushion of reserves—$20,000,000,000 Deutsche marks (about $7,610,000,000)—that is big enough to withstand several more deficits yet.

Many of Illnesses of White Collar Workers Imaginary

By HAL DOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Compared with the sweatshops of the past, the modern business office today would seem a healthy place to earn a dollar.

But for some reason most office workers resemble battlefield aid station. They are full of the walking wounded and incipient stretcher cases.

Naturally, many of the illnesses of the white collar worker are imaginary. He invents them to help pass the time. If you have ever laboring in a supposedly well-run, here are a few twisted chair hypo-chondriacs you may find familiar.

Fridayside—This guy drowns his pay on Thursday so he can have a longer weekend to spend his money.

Mondayitis—Very popular with suburbanites this time of year. Also called The Green Thumb Disease. Victims complain of dizziness and back-ache. Cures: Two much Saturday and Sunday gardening.

Fridayside-Mondayitis—This fellow is mad at the corporation, and phones in sick two days a week so he can look for a better job on company time.

Chronic retractor—Every time the junior executive is handed a problem too big for him to solve, he opens a medical dictionary, picks a disease at random, then seeks the sanctuary of the sickbed. As soon as someone else solves or shrugs the problem, he makes a miraculous recovery.

Concession elongata—This character practically always has a headache on the back of his head. He gets most of his sleep on the job, and is constantly tumbling off the back of his shoddy chair while doing.

Fluorene Nightingale syndrome—The boss's secretary is a mother hen who checks constantly over the illnesses of others. Eight hours of daily sympathy finally cause her to collapse herself with a bad case of fallen arches and brouillards.

Casualties complex—He has a phobia that everyone else in the place is trying to push their germs off on him.
Old Grouchy Klansman—Whenever the boss falls ill, the nature of his malady is regarded as top secret. But whatever it is, it is the only known cure is a week of golfing in Florida.

Australian Visit May Give Nelson Castonguay Key To Redistribution Puzzle

CANBERRA (CP) — Nelson Castonguay, Canada's chief electoral officer, will return home shortly with what might prove to be the solution to one of his country's trickiest parliamentary problems: the redistribution of parliamentary seats.

Here to study Australia's electoral methods, he said in an interview he felt the Australian system of giving the task of re-drawing electoral divisions to independent commissions could be successfully adopted to meet Canadian conditions.

In Canada, redistribution is handled by parliamentary committees.

He also expressed admiration for Australian electoral procedures, particularly the system of keeping a permanent list of all voters.

BALANCE BAD
Castonguay, who is to return to Canada at the month-end, said the numbers of voters in Canadian electoral divisions are increasingly out of balance and there are no fixed and simple rules to guide those carrying out redistribution.

Castonguay came to Australia at the request of the Canadian government to study redistribution methods here.

In Australia, a redistribution of electoral divisions for the federal Parliament is carried out after each census taken at nine-year intervals.

Six independent commissions are appointed by the government to carry out redistribution in the federal electorate of the 42 Australian states.

Each electorate's size is fixed by a quota and no electorate may vary in numbers of voters by more than 20 per cent up or down from this quota.

In drawing boundaries, the guiding considerations are geography and community of interest.

He said the Australian proposals must be accepted by the Parliament. He explained that the two countries are much alike, large land-masses, sparsely settled except for certain areas. In addition, they had almost identical political systems and a close kinship followed the traditions of British parliamentary rule.

Although his main mission has been to study Australia's redistribution methods, he said Canada's lack of permanent voters lists is a serious defect.

clerks that should be recruited together with the overhaul of Canada's redistributive machinery.

HOFFA POSTS BOND

Bulls Used in Afternoon Fights Soon Butchered After Being Dragged From Ring

By DOUG MARSHALL

MALAGA, Spain (CP)—Sheep often stick in the throat after the first bullfight.

Most of any kind is expected to Spain and the bulls are butchered as soon as they are dragged from the ring. The Sun day evening report in a good restaurant is probably the best that died so fatality in the afternoon.

A novice spectator can't help worrying about the bull. He knows this, despite all appearances, that six bulls are going to die. Some will die quickly and cleanly; others, in a provincial town like this, slowly and messily at the hands of an inexperienced youth.

"Gurry" the bearded aficionado yells to the spectators as they moved up through the crowded stands tiers, their faces lit with the excitement by generations of bullfights.

"Just a Second"

ON TIME

"Multitude are the only thing in Spain that start dead on time. Everything else usually starts with the knowledge of the first bull behind him. He was able to watch only half of the bull once he attended.

A brass band thunders into the far gallery, the far gallery and the tension are all at once as expected.

"There are a great lot of blood," warns the aficionado from behind the barrier.

Suddenly the three matadors appear, one, then march toward the local president's box followed by their elaborate retinue. They are erect, proud, splendidly uniformed. They salute and retire behind the barrier, it is that fear in the young man's eyes.

LIKE BALL GAME

The band reaches a crescendo of jubilation, about more cameras whirled in unison; attendants in livery can be seen and drinks up into the stands and keep the change. It might, for a moment, be a Sunday double-hunk in any Canadian ball park.

"It's going to be a great fight, most great fight," says the aficionado wisely, adding the usual qualification: "If the bulls are good."

"Trumpet sound and the first bull, a lightweight of 700 pounds or so, is sent into the ring. He looks far from good as he merrily milled, pawed the sand and bled in the sunlight.

His eye catches a fluttering cape and he makes a tentative charge, reaching full speed about 10 yards from the barrier. The game has begun.

"The meaning of a bullfight," the nobility of death," explain some aficionados, "is a matter of wit and skill with brains and must," say others.

MUST FOLLOW RULES

For the matador, waving a miniature mallet that brings him repeatedly within an inch of death, it is a duel fought with style and by a "rule." Each step, each thrust, each lunge is part of a formalized

It takes time for the spectator to understand the pattern, and appreciate it. At first he finds nothing particularly noble about

Children's Tracing Service In W. Germany Still Seeking Families Split 2 Decades

By HANNO NEUBOURG

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—"We search for..."

Three times a week the German radio network carries a bulletin starting with these words of tragedy.

The German Red Cross' Children Tracing Service is still seeking to reunite thousands of families separated by the Second World War.

Every month the tracing service helps arrange reunions of families split for almost two decades.

"All improbabilities of human life are possible to us," says Hans Superinkni, 60, head of the tracing service.

"For the children, their parents are often strangers. The young ones have no desire to be with the old people. Such situations require a lot of understanding. Often delicate decisions must be made."

Most of the separate families were expelled from East Germany territories seized by Poland and the Soviet Union.

Since 1945, the tracing service has helped 124,000 children find their parents or other relatives again.

"The task is getting more and more difficult now — so much time has elapsed. But we still have about 150,000 requests every month."

INDEX IS KEY

Backbone of the tracing service is a bulky index. It still lists 7,500 "parentless" children who live with foster parents or have already set up a family of their own. Says Superinkni:

"In many cases, the true identities are not known so we list as many particulars as possible: Where and when the child was born, what it wore, any birthmarks and so on. The color of the eyes and of their hair are less important because they may change."

"But all these particulars are not proofs. The last decision generally is in the hands of doc-

Hokler, whose wife and five children had been missing since 1945. Proof that he was the real father came within weeks.

Much easier, Superinkni recalls, was the case of Lidia, a girl in Poland who asked the Hamburg office to find her father. Her mother, Lidia wrote, presumably perished in the gas chambers of Auschwitz where she herself as a four-year-old had been a prisoner. The child escaped, with the number 702 tattooed on the left lower arm.

"We prepared to ask the Soviet Red Cross for help when a miracle happened," Superinkni said.

We received a request from Moscow to assist for the daughter of Mrs. Anna Bochva. Both mother and daughter had been in Auschwitz. Guess what Mrs. Bochva's given number was? 707. Thus, it could write to Lidia that her family was in the Soviet Union.

STABBING UNUSUAL

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—One blind man was stabbed by an onlooker who lay in wait for him and slashed out when he heard his footsteps, police reported Sunday.

Police said Louis Paul, 37, and Arthur Hines, 46, had argued over cigarette money while drinking in a tavern Saturday night. Hines left, police said, and waited for Paul to block away.

Yellowknife Offers 9 Holes Of Golf at Midnight, Best of Fishing in Northern Lakes

YELLOWKNIFE, N. W. T. (CP)—For the summer tourist, nothing different. Yellowknife offers nine holes of golf at midnight. There is also excellent fishing.

And the Chamber of Commerce is trying to revive an old custom by having a bar stay open 24 hours a day.

This modern community is the heart of the northern barrens is best known for its gold mining but now it is starting to tap another kind of wealth, tourism.

This resource was almost completely overlooked until a few tourists began trickling into town two years ago. When the number of holidaymakers picked up sharply last year the town recognized the tourist potential.

In 1962 about 500 letters of inquiry were handled by the Chamber of Commerce. This year it answered more than 1,000 between mid-February and the end of April.

Mayor Ted Horton says the community plans to supplement word-of-mouth advertising with a brochure next summer.

Many tourists make the trip by car. It takes about 24 hours to cover the 1,000 miles of gravel highway through desolate unpopulated country connecting Edmonton with Yellowknife.

tion with Yellowknife. Others make the trip in three hours for $50 to $60 on one of the regular daily flights.

Apart from the glamour associated with the rugged north country, what draws the tourists?

It's great country for fishing. Big ones are pulled from a small lake less than 30 miles from Yellowknife that can be reached by car. Farther out and accessible only by plane are at least five fishing lodges catering to well-to-do sportmen. The rugged beauty of rock and stained pine in brilliant sunshine is another attraction for some.

And there's the unusual experience of playing golf at any hour on Yellowknife's nine-hole course during the perennial summer daylight. The course, with sand greens, may not compare with the lush layouts in the south but it has one unique feature—solid greens that occasionally swoop down and steal the ball.

The Old Stope, Yellowknife's first bar, used to operate 24 hours a day when the town was young and inhabited by single miners. Now it operates on the conventional Yellowknife hours—10 a.m. to 1 a.m. But the C. of C. is pressing the management to provide round-the-clock service during the summer tourist season.

Quebec Embarks on Program Bringing World Closer To Montreal for 1967 Fair

By GERRY MENKEL
QUEBEC (CP) — To prepare for the World's Fair in 1967, Quebec province has embarked on a program aimed at bringing the world closer to Montreal.

It will be expensive but canny, recognizing that the success of the fair depends mainly on how many tourists in the eastern United States and Canada will be willing to drive to Montreal.

More than $300,000,000 will be spent within the next four years to build roads capable of handling the motoring millions quickly, safely and pleasantly.

The program will drive from Montreal, Sherbrooke in Quebec's Eastern Townships and the Appalachian province will be 30 minutes away and Quebec City slightly more than two hours.

One will be the old three-lane highway. One will be the Quebec's bilingual signs, replaced by international symbols. Another will be the province will transform a 30-mile toll-free highway between La Prairie, near Montreal, and the New York State border into a divided four-lane expressway.

BUILD TOLL ROAD
Construction of a 30-mile four-lane toll-free highway between La Prairie, near Montreal, and the New York State border into a divided four-lane expressway.

Another toll highway, the Laurentian autoroute now running 32 miles from Montreal north to St. Jerome, is being extended 15 miles to St. Adèle.

March of this year's $300,000,000 provincial highway budget is going into work on the Trans-Canada Highway near Montreal.

At the east end of Montreal Island, a tunnel is to be built to a smaller island. A bridge then will carry traffic from there to the south shore where a six-lane highway will eventually carry it to St. John, 50 miles to the northeast.

By 1967 the Trans-Canada route should boast at least four lanes from the Ontario border through Quebec City to Montmagny, a total distance of about 250 miles.

Montreal's handred arteries themselves will require about $75,000,000 worth of surgery. It now takes as long as an hour to get off the island to a highway.

One the 33-mile Metropolitan Boulevard is hooked up to the Trans-Canada Highway and other links, all served on the World's Fair site — tentatively St. Helen's Island — are completed, visitors should be able to sip about the city in minutes.

With most of the plans made, and much of the work under way, Roads Minister Bernard Poirier's major concern now is with money. He is hopeful that Federal Works Minister Jean-Paul Deschamps will agree that there should be a greater federal contribution.

"It's a national fair, not a provincial or a municipal one," says Mr. Poirier. "It would be tasting the province too much to expect it to do the whole job alone."

Mother's Dream Led Father To Girl's Body

MISSION, B.C. (CP) — A mother's dream led Tom Mathers to the battered body of his daughter in a gravel pit 13 miles from her home here Monday night.

The body of 13-year-old Alice Mathers, missing since June 8 when she started to walk home from her sister's was found in the pit by her parents and a family friend.

George Arnold, 30, a resident in the area, said it appeared the girl was attacked and bludgeoned to death by a sex devil or a passion pit by night." Mr. Arnold said, "It is a lovers' lane as Mission."

Mr. Mathers, the girl's father, gave up hope of finding Alice alive 10 days ago, but he kept searching for the girl in the dense bushland north of this community, 30 miles east of Vancouver.

He was urged to take up the search again after his wife had a dream that she saw the girl's body lying on a pile of rocks. The search eventually led to a gravel pit 1 1/2 miles east of Desroches on the Langford highway, 13 miles from their home.

A small foreign car was reported to have been seen in the area, and RCMP believe the girl was abducted.

Famous Military Academy Could Easily Be Mistaken For Girls' Finishing School

By ROD CUTLER

SANDHURST, England (CP) — The Sandhurst estate must be the most peaceful place in the world to learn about war.

This location of one of the world's most famous military academies could easily be mistaken for an ultra-feminine girls' finishing school.

Driving along the gravel roads, past the lake with its cascading swans, the ornamental trees, the red brick chapel and the riding stables, there is nothing to shatter this erroneous impression.

Even the giant mirrors, before which marching soldiers in perfect time, the tilt of the chin, the angle of the thumb, could have been designed for outdoor ballet classes.

When the cadets are out of sight in the classrooms only the newest building, a military museum, or the occasional drab-green army jeep might indicate that Sandhurst actually is the training centre for Britain's young army officers.

FAMOUS GRAD
The Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst, has a distinguished alumni, including Sir Winston Churchill, Field Marshal Earl Haig, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery and Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis.

Many old Sandhurst traditions live on in these modern days — sherry before dinner, formal "band night" when cadets dine to the strains of Russian or Strauss — and the Pubbed Bun Club, a discussion group so named because of the "refreshments provided."

Except for the addition of new buildings, including a luxurious indoor swimming pool a few years ago, the lush Berkshire hills of Sandhurst haven't changed much since the Royal Military College, as it was then known, was established in 1799. But in the classrooms of the young officer cadet today is a vastly different chap from the "gentleman cadet" of years past.

In the old days the cadet was a free-living civilian, probably of the school life set, following—voluntarily or otherwise—the military tradition. He misbehaved or failed exams he was "sent packing."

CANADIAN HEAD
Only a handful of exceptional soldiers from the ranks made it to Sandhurst. One of these was Canadian-born Major-General John Moss, 50, who took over

Mexico Hopes Canada Will Join OAS Club

MEXICO CITY (CP)—Mexico

hopes that Canada will join the Organization of American States.

Mexican government officials, while emphasizing that the decision must be Canada's, give the impression of being quite enthusiastic about joining the hemisphere organization.

"It's like someone living in a house and refusing to join the same club as the other tenants," said a spokesman.

Mexico is an influential member of the OAS, which embraces the 20 Latin American republics and the United States, though the present government of Cuba has been excluded from its councils.

By population it is the third largest member of the group—after the United States and Brazil—with 30,000,000 people. By land area it is the fourth largest, after Brazil, the United States and Argentina.

It follows an independent course in foreign policy and has been a bold and active participant in the hemisphere organization against communist-infiltration.

Asked why Mexico would like to see Canada join OAS, the spokesman replied:

"Canada could act as a mediator in disputes between the United States and Latin America."

It is precisely this prospect that makes some Canadian policymakers shudder when they contemplate OAS membership.

They argued that by accepting the role of go-between in the squabbles that frequently arise between the U.S. and its Latin American neighbours, Canada would be asking for endless trouble.

Sooner or later, they suggest, Canada would probably antagonize both sides with consequent damage to its own standing in the hemisphere.

The new Liberal government in Ottawa has not yet announced a policy with regard to Canadian OAS membership, but Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin strongly indicated they felt Canada should join.

PLEADS GUILTY
TORONTO (CP) — Frederick Kowwan, 31, of Toronto pleaded guilty Monday to two charges of counselling in connection with the $20,000 disappearance of his wife, Dorothy, 29, about the age of his wife.

Kowwan was originally charged with attempted murder.

New Zealand Government Again Examining Ways to Limit Parliament's Power

By J. C. CHAMBERS (once again examining ways to limit the power of Parliament) WELLINGTON (CP) — The New Zealand government is the most powerful in the world, with almost no restraints on its fields of action. The situation worries politicians, who feel that the lack of safeguards could lead to grave abuses if power ever fell into unscrupulous hands.

This position arose because New Zealand has only one chamber in the House of Representatives—and no written constitution. Like Britain, New Zealand is governed by a single House of Representatives.

But Britain still has the House of Lords as a review and restraining second chamber. The Upper House in New Zealand's Parliament was abolished 13 years ago. It never played a prominent part in ruling the country as its members were appointed by the government in office. In practice it had become little more than a rubber stamp and a few murmured its passing.

COULD EXTEND LIFE But abolition of the upper chamber has left the way open for a political party to seize dictatorial power without even a revolution.

A New Zealand lawyer recently noted that there was nothing to prevent Parliament from extending its life indefinitely, limiting membership to one political party and introducing "a totalitarian tyranny" as absolute as anything the world has seen "by entirely legal means. No one has suggested that either of the present major parties would do such a step, but there is no doubt that it is still under study."

parents that they will all have power.

The general public remains unconcerned over these worries. But the Constitutional Society, an unofficial body, and a few other organizations have petitioned Parliament, from time to time seeking reform.

The Constitutional Society wants New Zealand to have a written constitution and a new, stronger second chamber, to be known as the Senate.

SHOWS CONCERN So far the government has not done all such appeals, but it has shown concern at the lack of safeguards against a powerful Parliament, more particularly regarding the rights of the individual.

The appointment of an ombudsman—an official to investigate and report on complaints of the public against acts of the government—was one step toward greater protection.

For last year on the model of similar offices in Scandinavian countries, the ombudsman has already investigated many complaints by individuals and has obtained redress in a number of cases.

As part of its electoral platform when voted into power in 1960, the present government also proposed a Bill of Rights to give formal expression to the basic rights of all citizens.

The matter has been investigated at length but has proved a law drafter's nightmare. As a constitutional declaration of citizens' rights the bill might override existing statutes and might conflict with some of them. A way out of the dilemma is still under study.

Duke of Kent Gets Ducking In Boat Race

HONG KONG (AP)—The Duke of Kent got a ducking and a long swim before he could get out of the water when his dragon boat capsized in a race at Tsing, New Territories, yesterday.

The Duke's party was part of the celebration of the traditional Chinese dragon boat festival.

The Duke's team, made up of officers and men of the 4th Gurkha Infantry Brigade, disappeared the boat some from halfway down the 500-yard course.

to the assailant, who may have been in a passing car, and who tried to indicate a racial motive.

The shooting occurred at a town where both white and Negro business is conducted.

Early reports said the five more than 8,000, in 30 miles were returning from a Negro southeast of Jackson, the state's largest city.

Czech's Communist Regime Faces Opposition From Angry Intellectuals

VIEDNA (CP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist regime faces angry opposition from intellectuals. They are critical of what they regard as abuses in the de-Stalinization campaign under present party chief Antonin Novotny.

Spearheading a campaign on writers aimed at liberalization of Communist rule are prominent writers and poets who openly express their sympathies for the victims of the Stalinist era — the men whose deaths they deplore.

The dissidents, most of whom were in the purge trials of the 1930s and released only recently, rose at two congresses of Communist-sponsored writers' unions.

The congresses were called to discuss ways to effect a program of legal investigation of "violations of Socialist legality during the era of the personality cult," the Communist term for terror under Stalin.

The party last December set up a special committee to weed out the guilty and to recommend the fate of their victims who served in the "rehabilitation" in many cases a posthumous acquittal.

DUTIES LIGHTENED

In April the party's central committee fired two notorious Stalinists, Slovak party secretary Karel Bielek, a former minister of national security, and Bruno Kozler, a former minister of the economy committee. Both, however, retained some of their functions.

Bielek was allowed to remain on the central committee, though he had been instrumental in producing "confessions" in the 1953 show trials of the former party chief, Rudolf Slansky, and the former foreign minister, Vladimir Clementis. These two were executed with "hundreds" of others as "traitors and spies."

Three weeks after Slansky's death on the gallows, Novotny took his post as party chief and was publicly praised for his role in "unmasking the criminal."

Nepal Farmers Plant to Chant, Reap in Debt

By ALAN M. KENNEDY

KATHMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Drums throb and singers chant as they march through the streets striving to get the rice seedlings into the ground before the rains come.

But most tenant farmers will be lucky to reap enough to feed their families through the next year.

The average farm in Nepal yields 10 bushels of polished rice an acre. About 75 per cent usually goes to the landlord for rent and debts incurred at high interest rates.

Before planting time rolls around again, the tenant farmer probably will be back in the landlord's debt for food, clothing, medicine and seedlings.

Agricultural experts agree that the yield of Nepal's farms could be doubled or tripled with modern methods, but the landlord is content with the old system, and the tenant has no means to change it.

Nepal's progressive King Mahendra last taken steps that could eventually break the centuries-old feudal system.

STARTS LAND REFORM

The 45-year-old ruler has decreed a new land reform law to be tried out in three sample districts of the mountain monarchy this fall.

Milk Output Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Milk production in Canada in May decreased 1.5 per cent to an estimated 1,000,000 pounds compared with the same month last year, the Bureau of Statistics said today.

This brought milk output in the first five months of the year to 4,800,000 pounds, an increase of 4 per cent from a year earlier.

'Tour de France' Brings Egalite for Three Weeks

By RODNEY ANGEVO

PARIS (AP) — There's one time each year when the French hunker and his chauffeur speak the same language—during the 21-day, 2,500-mile bicycle marathon known as the 'Tour de France.'

For three weeks or more the Tour de France, literally "Tiro Around France," spots front pages and leads most news broadcasts. The champions and their daily struggle are discussed with as much enthusiasm as the national championship drawing rooms as on the "swamy walking platform."

It's the only occasion when motorists don't mind having the roads blocked. Instead of cursing, they jump out to cheer their favorites. On hot days, village girls line up buckets of water to dash—unsolicited—on perspiring riders.

City councils pay to have the tour pass through their towns, or spend the night there. It's good business because the tour draws crowds and people spend money.

The stars are better known than the baseball World Series players in the United States or professional hockey players in Canada.

"All right, Anquetil," a cab driver is likely to shout sarcastically to a wobbling Paris cyclist.

Jacques Anquetil, three-time winner, might again be favorite for this year's 2,500-mile test June 25-July 14. But he has not yet decided whether to make the run. He is known as a roller, that is, a distance man, and also as a hill climber.

Speculation is running high that the best hill climber will win this year. The race committee laid out the course with unusual emphasis on mountainous Pyrenees, the ancient Alps, the French Alps. The French finish lines of the eight mountain legs were situated close to the summits to keep the fast

Hotel Destroyed

PORT KAITUMA, OT (CP) — A 600-room fire destroyed the 75-year-old Park Hotel in the Crystal Beach summer resort, seven miles west of Port, Tuesday.

The hotel's only guest, Howard Stewart, 36, of Toronto, is in hospital here in satisfactory condition with burns to his hands and face. He ran from the hotel in his shorts and sound the alarm.

Causes of the blaze has not been determined.

What Napoleon III Richly Rewarded Spread Controversy Through Canada

By CARL MOLLINS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Higginsville, Me., June 10 (UPI)—It could never have been imagined that the war was being fought almost 300 miles away in Paris by consumers of oleomargarine.

But in the battle between butter and margarine, the war has been fought in the most intimate and shrewdest fronts of commerce of shops.

The French chemist rewarded by Napoleon III for his work and then subjected to the first signs of a gathering opposition, and it was never alive to be content to see his butter substitute partly smothered along with the last two years has little of the restrictions in law and Quebec and approved the sale of yellow margarine in Manitoba, New Scotia and Ontario.

British Columbia and New Brunswick place no restrictions on the color of margarine; Manitoba, Ontario and New Scotia allow yellowing outside the range of butter color, and Alberta, Saskatchewan, Quebec and New Brunswick permit the use of white margarine.

MEET OPPOSITION
Maggie - Maggie got a first taste of trouble to come when he patented his complex process of refining margarine animal fat in 1869. He brought his invention across the Atlantic after widespread acceptance in Europe, took out a U.S. patent in 1873 and ran into opposition from farmers and the new butter factories that had started taking over from the farmhouse industry 17 years earlier.

The United States, in the face of the arguments before the tariff, enacted in 1886 the first of a series of restrictive laws.

Canada gave the pre-margarine campaigner another blow. The price of butter climbed in 1947 to more than 70 cents a pound.

The campaign featured matches by housewives, letters to legislators, debates in Parliament and litigation that reached to the judicial committee of the Privy Council in London. One group of housewives gathered on the front steps of the Ontario legislature to demonstrate the effort and struggle involved in making a color box (and a block of white margarine) to make it yellow.

Finally, Senator William D. Euler of Waterloo, Ont., a former Liberal trade minister, led the fight in Parliament. Three attempts between 1940 and 1949 to repeal the ban on margarine were defeated in the Senate and private members' bill in the Commons never came to a vote.

In Canada, provincial laws governing margarine often appear related to the importance of the local butter industry.

Price Edward Island, which maintains the ban on margarine, produced more butter per capita than any other province—almost 57 pounds per head of population last year. British Columbia and Newfoundland, which impose no restrictions on margarine, are at the other end of the butterproduction scale, turning out less than five pounds per capita. All the while—only provinces except New Brunswick are high on the butterproduction list—Quebec produced almost 30 pounds per capita last year. Quebec, more than 47 pounds per head. New Brunswick produced 11.5 pounds of butter per head last year.

The Manitoba, New Scotia and Ontario regulations restrict the coloring of margarine to a tint of yellow that is almost white or a shade approaching orange—that is, lighter or darker than the usual range of butter yellow.

An instrument invented in 1894 by Englishman J. W. Lovibond to measure the color of oils is used by the provinces to determine the comparative colors of butter and margarine. The Lovibond tintometer is an arrangement of color slides, mirrors and lenses. A color sample is matched with a control slide, or a combination of several such slides, which provides a measurement in decimal units.

The margarine regulations in the three restricted-color provinces place a yellow below 1.5 Lovibond units—almost white—above 10.2. The color of butter, which varies with the type of feed the cows get and requires artificial yellowing in the United States, ranges around 6 on the Lovibond scale.

Canada's cheese measures prohibit 15 minutes of yellowing. An enterprising housewife in Ontario, Manitoba or New Scotia could make her margarine tint yellow by mixing equal quantities of white and dark-yellow margarine.

Ontario is the only province which restricts the color of butter, limiting it to the same range as that of 1.5 to 10.2 Lovibond units.

New Brunswick has a unique refinement of the white-yellow rules for margarine. All four Atlantic provinces let margarine manufacturers supply a color but so the housewife can yellow her margarine, but New Brunswick forbids inclusion of the fat in the margarine package. The proper must supply it separately.

The removal of many restrictions on margarine has pushed up sales as expected and the more colicoids with a decline in butter sales. Within a pound of up-grade butter retails for between 50 and 61 cents, the price of margarine averages about half that—milked milk and vegetable oil brands selling for as little as 30 cents, all-vegetable as 35 cents.

dropped to 17.21 pounds in 1952 from 18.38 pounds in 1947. With a low point of 15.51 pounds in 1951.

PRODUCTION UP
Five years ago, margarine production was about 35 per cent that of butter. Last year, the 15 companies making margarine produced 158,500,000 pounds—half the total of 353,500,000 pounds of creamery butter and 571,500,000 pounds of farm butter. More than 125,400,000 pounds of the margarine were consumed while more than 60,000,000 pounds of butter were added to surplus stocks.

Butter has been getting some government help, too. The price to the shopper was dropped by 15 cents a pound May 1, 1952. The government bought 100,000 pounds of butter at 64 cents and sold it to the dealer for 52 cents in an effort to put the surplus in the month before the government subsidy began.

Spokesmen for the butter and margarine industries say it is too soon to estimate the long-term effects of the subsidy on butter sales or the recent removal of recent restrictions on margarine sales. But indications are that growth of the margarine industry is contributing the recent rate of expansion in butter sales.

KNEE-DEEP SERVED TEA AND BARNYARD OF FARMY HOME

Back on Old Sod,
Chats With Cousins

DUNSTOWN, Ireland (AP) - President Kennedy returned to the home of his Irish forebears today and drank tea in the barnyard with his cousins and their neighbors.

The president's third cousin, John Ann Ryan, said the long tables for tea, cakes and pies to serve "cousin Jack."

Neighbors, some in their Sunday best and some in apron, joined Mrs. Ryan.

The party assembled in the barnyard between Mrs. Ryan's house and the two-roofed cottage the president's great-grandfather owned in the village when he emigrated to Boston 125 years ago.

The cottage now is a storage shed. Kennedy was last visited by Kennedy when he was a congressman in 1911, when he was visiting it as the Kennedy house.

Mr. Kennedy had been denied up to Kennedy. The barnyard had been covered with concrete, and the house had been built from a nearby field, said Mrs. Ryan.

Hundreds of jubilant Irish millied around the lane in front of Mrs. Ryan's home.

IRISH TRIPPORT FORT The president came to the head of Dunstons farm, the tumultuous welcome from thousands of nearby New Englanders from whom Patrick Kennedy, a cousin, had come.

"If he hadn't left, I'd be working at the Althaus Company," said Mrs. Ryan, who is a farmer's daughter, a fruit grower, a fertilizer factory on the other side of the River Barrow.

The present arrival, New Blum by helicopter and drove from a nearby field, said Mrs. Ryan, who is a farmer's daughter, a fruit grower, a fertilizer factory on the other side of the River Barrow.

The farmyard was crowded with guests. Mrs. Ryan was Kennedy and she introduced Kennedy and she introduced Kennedy and she introduced Kennedy.

In the field behind the farm-

Piction Student Can Hardly Wait To Start Trip

Bill Cunningham of Pictou, 19-year-old grade XII student from Prince Edward College, is looking forward to his first trip to the United States. He is scheduled to leave for his first trip to the United States on Monday, June 27, for a two-week trip to New York and Washington.

The trip is being sponsored by the Pictou and New Brunswick chapters of the United Nations. Cunningham will be accompanied by a group of students from all parts of the two provinces on an annual United Nations pilgrimage for each participant.

A delegate from each participating organization, Cunningham is chosen each year to make the trip. The Pictou youth has chosen this year for the Bay of Quinte.

Last year a Quinte Secondary School student, Martin Stojila, made the trip. He is still talking of his trip to New York and Washington.

On the United Nations trip, Bill will join the United Nations band Ontario group which is scheduled to leave for the United States on Monday.

Local Ontario member, Mr. George McDonald, says this is the second year which the Bay of Quinte District Organization has participated in the United Nations pilgrimage. Last year this student, Stojila, was Ontario group at Cobourg.

Near Drowning Of Three Men Is Reported

A near drowning of three men-known to the rescuers took place on the Bay just west of the cemetery on Monday afternoon. Art Jones and William Vintner, who live close to the cemetery, saw the motor boat with three men aboard in the Bay. They saw the boat in the water and shortly after were hurried to see the boat and down in the Bay. Securing a small motor boat, they went to the boat and saw the three men in the water. The cause of the upset was not stated.

Charged With Insurance Fraud Chef Is Committed for Trial

A 58-year-old Belleville man yesterday was ordered to stand trial on an attempted insurance fraud charge arising from a fire in his apartment.

Spencer Kratos, a city restaurant chef, was committed for trial at the end of a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Harold C. Williams.

Two Charged With Thefts, Bail Is Set

pleaded not guilty through his lawyer K. G. M. Ross, has elected trial by judge and jury.

He is charged with attempting to defraud the London-Canada Insurance Company with a loss-claim made after fire broke out in his Victoria Avenue apartment February 5th.

Magistrate T. Y. Willis remanded two Belleville men on $2,000 cash bail or $4,000 property bail, when they appeared before him in county magistrate's court this morning.

Brian Woolley aged 19 and Carl Moore aged 21, were charged with theft of a 1933 Buick.

Magistrate Baxter ordered him on trial after special crown prosecutor John Sampson convinced the jury that the man from the last of three witnesses called — Mr. Spiros' mother-in-law, Mde. Leone Trotter, of Shawinigan, Quebec.

Her appearance, immediately after the trial, was a brief, low lunch adjournment, was brief. Through interpreter Pat Mercer she identified articles taken from her home May 1st with "nest" of a 1963 automobile, the property of Donald Cushing of Stirling. The value of the property was being in possession of a five gallon gas can, the property of Thurlow Township work department, breaking and entering the property of a metal garage, the property of a car, the property of Patti's tent at Oak Lake, and the theft of a battery and generator from the H. J. Ariand Construction Company.

"Were they brought there by Mr. and Mrs. Kristof," asked the magistrate.

"Yes."

At this point Mr. Sampson rested his case and asked for a trial committal.

"I do not propose to submit any argument at this stage," rejoined Mr. Ross.

Mr. Spiros was released on his own bail of $2,000 cash.

last month by the circus company.

Capt. L. Brown, skipper of the ship, said he would attempt to have the Fleurus refloated as soon as possible. Only the funnel and the masts were above the 30-foot water. Loss of the vessel and performers' belongings is estimated at $100,000.

Circus manager Kohn said he didn't think the fire would make the animals difficult to handle.

Three Months After the FLO Announced Arrival in Que. Many Put in Confine

Little more than three months after the FLO announced its arrival in the province, the police are aware of a series of attacks on army buildings, 16 men and women are awaiting preliminary hearings on charges ranging from public male chief to murder. This is the shortest time since the arrival of the FLO.

By REINHOLD DUVENEY
MONTREAL, Que.—A sergeant showing signs of a recent arrival in the 10th Regiment army looked up at the sky as he ran through the night.

He walked around the building and found a Molotov cocktail burning itself out in the snow. Above, a window pane was shattered. A man, screen had prevented the lighted rocks from being thrown through.

A few hours later a gasoline bottle was found burning outside the army of the Victoria Regiment in Canada. There were more found at the army of the 10th Regiment in the city.

It was March 7, the start of a series of acts of sabotage directed principally at federal buildings. Three months later, almost a score of young men in military uniforms were in police cells on a variety of charges that could be considered as acts of terrorism.

Five were charged with non-capital murder in the death of a man named O'Neill. One was charged with the murder of a man named O'Neill. One was charged with the murder of a man named O'Neill.

POUR RELEASED
An act inquest into the death of a man named O'Neill. One was charged with the murder of a man named O'Neill. One was charged with the murder of a man named O'Neill.

Four were released. A preliminary hearing June 21 on charges of public male chief and causing or intending to cause, exploded still another case being sought by police.

LEAD TO THE FLO
Leftist left at the armory in a statement that he had mailed to the press said FLO "bombs" Canada. A group he identified as violence unit to achieve Quebec's secession from Canada.

One mailed mimeographed "Augustation" contained a list of a gangster group called the Revolutionary Tribunal of Quebec. It listed a list of names and death or acts to persons found in criminal circles.

LEAD TO THE FLO
The FLO statements all carried drew drawings of an FLO member and a flag. The flag was divided into two equal sections. The top section was white with a fly, with a red star in the white field.

USE OF FORCE

The violence was condemned in English and French-language newspapers alike.

While attacks were primarily used at local government installations it did not mean only that the FLO was in danger. The presence of the FLO in the province was in danger.

BUILDING NEW CAMPUS
GLASGOW, Scotland (CP)—This city is developing a new $300,000 campus for communications. The National Day of Education, it is stated in the university of the province, will work in the original residential campus put in the Commons Wednesday.

WHAT IT CALLED?
Several ladies attacked the King's and Queen's Hotel on Wednesday afternoon.

A group of ladies prevailed for the Banquetware strawberry party. The ladies were eating and a large number from Melrose attended.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL.
Question: Is it proper to serve a wine like sherry before dinner? Occasionally, a guest doesn't like having a neck of wine or mixed drink. I usually keep chilled tomato juice handy for such an emergency, but never thought of other wine. Since it seems only proper to serve it during or after dinner. Would it be correct to do so? — Mrs. E. C. Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

GOOD CHOICE
Answer: Sherry is a good choice to serve when guests prefer a mild drink before dinner, in preference to a cocktail or a highball. A dry cocktail sherry may be served over ice, or may be served, well-chilled, in a sherry glass. A pale dry sherry may also be used, but should be thoroughly chilled before service.

Question: I dislike cluttering up a dinner table with a lot of extra accessories and, for that reason, usually place a set of salt and pepper shakers at each end. Recently, though, I read in a magazine that it's more appropriate to use individual salt and pepper at each place, so guests don't have to reach or ask to have them passed. Is this the correct rule or just one of the "diva's fancies"? — Mrs. W. D. Trenton, N. J.

Answer: Salt and pepper should be easily available. Placing a small set at each place is more convenient, but if the table seems to be cluttered, fewer may be used. The shakers should be at least one set for every two people to avoid reaching and passing.

Successful Living

By DORIS CLARK

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Drinking Husband Causes Concern
DEAR DORIS—I have a woman friend of whom I am very fond. Her husband, when he is sober, is a very nice person. When he has been drinking he is disgusting. He does not care what he does. She is ready to walk out on him. I do not want to interfere as we like them both, but she has lost all respect for him. Please can you advise me what to do or say, or shall I just forget the whole business and let her go? — A WORRIED FRIEND.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR WORRIED FRIEND—Let her unload to you—and send her to the Alcoholism & Drug Addiction Research Foundation, 24 Harbord St., Toronto 9, for counselling. As her safety valve you can help her retain her poise.

DEAR DORIS—My sister-in-law is getting married and has asked my husband to be best man. She is having a married woman for matron of honor, and I think it doesn't look right for him to be her partner. That leaves me and my daughter to go to the church reception and dance alone. There are other brothers in the family which I think they could take. I told him I didn't like the idea of him going and I wouldn't go by myself; I'd stay home then. My friends say it doesn't look right for me to be by myself and him with another woman. — DISMAYED.

DEAR DISMAYED—Take it as a compliment to both of you that your sister-in-law has chosen your husband to take care of her groom on her big day. Lend him—It's only a lend, after all—with your most gracious manner. And stop discussing him with your friends.
DEAR DORIS—I am a 16-year-old girl and I have been very troubled lately. Although I love my brothers and sisters, I get mad at everything they do or say. Also, I get mad at my parents easily. I cannot figure it out, and for some time I have tried to do something about it, but am not successful. I even set that way at school and have a reasonable amount of friends. To tell the truth, I think I live two lives instead of one. — MISS B.

DEAR MISS B.—Could it be Teenage Turmoil? Friends and frustrations go with the changes you are facing. Physically, you are becoming a woman. Mentally, you are making up new knowledge at a great rate. Emotionally, you are eager for friends, for independence, for self-assertion.
But there are times when you find yourself running for cover. Now are the days when your mother and dad can help you with affection and by just being there to talk things over with.
You will come along. When you lose your temper, apologize. When you write that you have begun to react with a smile instead of a snarl, I'll know you are making progress.

Confidential to TROUBLED—Wives who suffer physical or mental abuse may have recourse to court action. Your regional welfare officer is the one who can guide you as to the best course to take in your particular situation.

Ten Years After Its Debut Rhodesian Federation Is To Be Formally Dismantled

LONDON (CP) Ten years after the sub-heralded debut of the "Rhodesian century year," the controversial federation of Rhodesia, Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland is to be formally dismantled in a conference setting Friday at Victoria.

For the fourth time in a generation the collective fate of the three Central African territories straddling the Zambezi is to be shaped at this spectacular setting on the border of Northern and Southern Rhodesia.

It is a dramatic place of sun, shine and sudden storm, enough to look like some rough to touch and street greases among the wilderness of baked earth stretching either side of the tumbling river.

The perpetual dearth of the falls and their unmoving cloth they inspired the native tale that the smoke that tumbles long before missionary explorer David Livingstone came along in 1850 and named them for the Queen.

Livingstone's association with the falls and his bronze statue, the free-standing, royal Nyasaland expressed their concern for a federal parliament and asked for the "one head" of the 5,000,000 Negro population who would have to be "by consent" of the British.

At the third, in the fall of 1953, Negro delegates from the Rhodesian Federation expressed their concern for a federal parliament and asked for the "one head" of the 5,000,000 Negro population who would have to be "by consent" of the British.

Voodoo Carry Missiles at Comox Base

COMOX, B.C. (CP) — An RCMP spokesman said Tuesday Voodoo jet interceptors stationed here "are carrying quite a few" "supersonic" missiles capable of holding nuclear warheads.

He said the interceptors carry "more than one" missile on every operational mission from Comox, on the central coast of Vancouver Island.

The weapons are the Voodoos delivered in May, 1962. He declined to disclose the number of Voodoos at the base.

The rockets carry a high-speed, non-nuclear warhead but are capable of being converted to nuclear warheads "in a short time."

"The missiles seek out and destroy enemy aircraft by coming toward the heat coming from the tail pipes. The Voodoos can travel at 1,200 miles an hour and fly at an altitude of 50,000 feet."

He nearby Courtney, Major William Moore said he is unhappy Comox has been chosen as a nuclear storage depot, but added:

"At the time of the time that we're involved in nuclear war it's not information I don't want what that part of the country we are, we are all concerned. Nuclear defense is a deterrent against war."

Mr. Moore was a Liberal candidate in the federal constituency of Comox-Alberni.

Kennedy and K Involved In Curiously Similar Battles

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and a friend, Richard Nixon, each ducked a breakfast from the racks of his allies, are involved today in curiously similar battles generated by problems of the world's two biggest nations in a nuclear age.

Both are plagued by suspicion and jealousy in their own camps, aroused by the notion that Washington and Moscow might somehow get together at the expense of their respective allies.

The Kennedy European tour seems like outright competition with France's President, de Gaulle. The tour of West Germany is significant in the effort to bring de Gaulle back to the fold.

De Gaulle has made no secret of his suspicion of President Kennedy. Perhaps Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, who sits much closer to the French-German treaty, is surprised.

Might Kennedy possibly reach an accommodation with Khrushchev over the heads of the European allies? After all, the Americans, British and Russians are having a high-level meeting this month.

President Kennedy has made a search for peace. Khrushchev seems in much the same boat. A few days ago the "People's Daily" newspaper of the Red Chinese Communist Party, a hazy partner in the alliance, played the Khrushchev card through a "cunning and vicious" Kennedy plot to divide the Communist world.

The Red Chinese, who jump in to divide the United States from Europe, may be a result of de Gaulle. It also could have been a lecture to Adenauer. There seems little chance that Khrushchev will be able to do much to mollify his Chinese ally.

President Kennedy, however, may be making progress. His West German reception stand fast to a large degree of faith in the United States.

Wide Popular Enthusiasm For Cuban Revolt in Mexico Disenchantment Replaces

By JACK BEST

MEXICO CITY (CP) — The repercussions of the Cuban revolution are slowly doing away with the Mexican. The widespread popular enthusiasm for the revolution has given way to disenchantment. Government officials, once worried about a potentially enormous effect among poor-stricken Mexican peasants, now feel the Cuban revolt was a blessing in disguise.

It could even help in the long run to avert communist Mexico "by its help example," one official suggests.

"Cuba's standard of living is the highest in Latin America. It used to be the highest."

As long as the Cuban revolution had the earmarks of a democratic movement to put an end to dictatorship, there were hopes for it among many Mexicans.

The two peoples, neighbors across the Gulf of Mexico, have close historic ties. Mexico has its own revolutionary background and her people respond emotionally to national events. They like to view the great Mexican upheaval of 1910 as a model and inspiration for others seeking democracy and social justice.

UPSET BY EXECUTIONS — Disenchantment with Castro's Cuba began with the widely publicized firing squad executions of early 1960. It deepened with the continued failure to produce a new liberal constitution.

And it was further aggravated by the confiscation of private property—"something we don't have in correct or legal," the Mexican official said.

"It took us 20 years to pay for the petroleum industry after we took it over but we paid."

Just a few days ago, Castro demonstrations in Mexico City streets by students, professors and workers.

"But since the October 1960 crisis they have kept quiet. That is not an attractive banner to wave anymore, especially since it was so evident there was no consultation between Khrushchev and Castro on the missile problem."

It was a very evident case where self-determination was taken by the Kremlin. I think it was the rule of this game."

A Western diplomat said the Mexicans were attracted in the beginning of the idea of a Latin American country standing up to the powerful United States. But later they were repelled by evidence that Cuba had traded is self-protection.

"In the long run, it is the only safe policy," a high-ranking official told me quite candidly. "We are thinking mainly of ourselves. The day might come when the country in the doghouse is Mexico."

The attitude is based to some extent on the part as on what might happen in the future.

It was less than 100 years ago, in 1894, that Mexico had a taste of outside intervention. With the support of a French army under Napoleon III, Maximilian, brother of Austrian Emperor Franz Joseph, was made king of Mexico.

The Cuban revolution posed serious problems for the government of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos. It had to be careful how it reacted for fear the pressure of a rebellion might spread to Mexico.

The fact that a former president, Lázaro Cárdenas, openly associated himself with Castro's aims served to heighten official anxiety. Cárdenas has a strong hold on peasant loyalties because, while in office, he redistributed more land to landless peasants than any other Mexican leader.

Lopez Mateos himself appeared to see Castro and this produced jitter in the business community. He once said his government was "at the extreme left within the constitution."

"My government has come out in defense of the government of the sister republic of Cuba," Lopez Mateos declared at the time of the Bay of Pigs invasion fiasco more than two years ago.

Mexico is a member of a Latin countries whose insistence of self-determination and non-intervention has killed all moves for collective hemisphere action against Castro. Other in the group are Brazil, Argentina and Chile.

OWN INTERESTS FIRST — It is not difficult, however, to see that essentially this policy is self-interest.

CUBAN REVOLUTION TARNISHED — Castro, but more recently his government has reflected the general disenchantment in this country with the Cuban leadership.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

Two six-course dinners waiting to be rolled into the city next Wednesday night and in one of them will be Eddie Fajp, known internationally as the king of snail platters.

Fajp, his Majesty of the King and his Court the fabulous French snail assemblage, will display his plating facilities and ability Wednesday night at the Fairgrounds that started and will end a lot of fun gump "at 'n' belly here."

Fajp can probably do more with a snail than can any alive. Built on a 6-1, 165-pound frame, the 35-year-old Fajp has a wide assortment of plating and unbelievable speed that has amazed fans of the Fairgrounds that started and will end a lot of fun gump "at 'n' belly here."

"Probably the most outstanding feature of the King is that he has only four players, a pitcher, catcher, first baseman and shortstop. It's hard to believe that four men could beat some of the top nine-man snailball teams of the country but with Fajp's plating speed it is impossible."

He is ranked as the greatest snailball pitcher in the world. With him showing their worst against a Belleville team, first base: Bruce Elmer, catcher and shortstop: Mike Melillo. The team has won 3,100 games of 1,235. Fajp's average is 1.25. He has won 100 league games. He throws 23 different pitches behind his back, under his leg and hit-and-fielded from around him. His average is expected to be 1.25 by the local betters at the rate of 140 mph per hour.

There will be more than the ball game for the King and his Court stage a pre-game show that is an eye-opener. They can do more tricks than that even a baseball team can do on an arena. They also put on a post-game exhibition that is as humorous, clever and unpredictable as the first performance.

The pre-game performance will get under way at 7:15 while the game proper is slated for 8:15. This should give city snailball fans playing spectators that evening the chance to see the King in action.

The King and his Court is being sponsored by the Belleville Kenmore Baseball Club, only aided by the Belleville District Snailball League. Commissioner Cliff Beshel and snailball boys are going all out to help their baseball counterparts secure a much-needed fund. It is a spirit of brotherly cooperation.

WHS WRIT IS COMING!

Whisper Billy Wilson, the pride and joy of Canadian wrestling fans, will be one of the top four men featured in Friday night's feature tag team match at the Belleville Memorial Arena.

The Whippers, current holder of the British Empire title, will team up with Lorenzo Parente of the British Empire Wrestling promotion imported to this area, and charge at the rough and ready combination of Sweet Daddy Siki and hooded horror, "The Destroyer."

The semifinal will have one of the most promising up-and-comers, Tony Paul, attempting to take a giant step up the success ladder. The smooth working Paul will be tangle with one of the most prominent names in wrestling, Wladimir "Killer" Kowalski.

The United States heavyweight champion, John Paul Henning, will defend his title in the opener. In the challenger's corner will be the Greenwich Village muscle man, Duke Noble.

KINGSTON SUSPENDED

The Kingston Red Boys' entry in the Lakeshore Senior Baseball League has been suspended for the season. The suspension was imposed by league president Jim Cramble after the Kingston club failed to appear at an A-lake to fulfill a playing engagement.

Kington manager Ken Matthews took the suspension gracefully. "I think the suspension is probably right," he could make more or couldn't give any verification that he was able to be able to train on the remaining road games."

"With the players playing in the Kingston Baseball Association for our team, too, it meant as many as four games a week and that makes it pretty tough to be married men to travel and play that much," he said.

"Any debts the club owes to other teams in the league will be fully paid," Matthews added. "This also includes any debts owing in Kingston."

Riders Land 'Juicy Plum'

OTTAWA (CP) — There now are no doubts in the Ottawa Rough Riders' camp that they have landed a juicy plum in out Ted Watkins of the University of the Pacific.

Any doubts Riders might have entertained were dispelled Wednesday by the comments of Watkins' former coach, John Robbo.

Strung by the loss of his top back receiver of last year, Robbo accused the Eastern Football League club of illegality against Watkins. He said Commissioner G. Sydney Hall of the Canadian Football League has promised to investigate his charges.

Robbo claimed that professional clubs can not sign college players until they have finished school.

Watkins Wednesday, saying that he was not returning to university because of academic difficulties.

Not said Robbo in a statement. Watkins was having some trouble with his studies but said he has completed his schooling as a physical education major.

"If they (Ottawa) can sign Watkins by saying they understood he was ineligible, they can sign anyone else," Robbo declared.

CHARGES 'BOY GRAPES' Ottawa president J. Barry O'Brien dismissed Robbo's charges as "boy grapes."

"We are on perfectly legal ground in signing Watkins," O'Brien said.

"Robbo called on and warned that he would give us a blast for signing Watkins."

That's a good indication we have a real good player in Watkins," O'Brien said.

In Winnipeg, Mr. Haller said he would contest a "full blown litigation" into the matter and refuse to certify Watkins' contract if Robbo's charges are true.

He said the CFL has no rule prohibiting the signing of players still eligible at Ontario state universities. But "we Brown on any statements that would make a player give up his education to play football."

Ottawa general manager Red O'Brien said Riders had been "in the market" for Watkins since last year.

Watkins had been "in the market" for Riders since last year, according to his intention.

Coach Frank Clark, who announced the signing, said he expects Watkins to replace injured Canadian and Robby Simpson.

Police Return Funds From 'Bar Bout'

DETROIT (AP) — Wrestler Richard (Dick) the Bruiser Afflu who was ordered to pay $400 for an unauthorized bout in a Detroit bar, got his money back Wednesday.

Afflu was ordered to pay the sum to the Police Field Day Committee after he was arrested on assault and battery charges in connection with a fracas with former Detroit lion Jacko Alex Karras April 23 in a bar.

The fight occurred a few days before a scheduled wrestling match between Karras and The Bruiser.

Judge Joseph A. Gillis agreed to discontinue the charges provided The Bruiser sent the cheque.

However, police returned the cheque Wednesday. Superintendent Eugene A. Neenan, president of the committee, said the group "did it would not accept contributions under the circumstances."

Other high-ranking police officers returned it "blood money" and said Patrician Andrew Meholle, whose wrist was broken in the bout, had signed a complaint and expected to have the case tried on its merits.

Meholle and seven other officers were called to subdue Afflu in the fight with Karras, who is co-owner of the bar and a former professional wrestler.

Judge Gillis indicated he didn't intend to worry about the refusal to accept the money.

"If they don't want the money, I'm not going to do it with it," he said.

City Hotel Wins Over Juveniles

City Hotel scored three runs in the seventh inning to tip Wood-Horlock Juveniles 6-4 in a Commercial Softball game on Wednesday.

Fire errors by the Juveniles kept them from scoring in the eighth and strong twelfth inning chase by Henry Hall. He fanned three and walked one.

Jim Nutcher's home run and a single by Neil Donovan, who singled City Hotel hit, Dave Ferry pitched the win. He pitched five and passing three hits, while walking one and making one error.

City Hotel played errorless first and made the other two errors, and their two hits.

City Hotel 6, Juveniles 4.

Dodgers Sweep Series, Cardinals Win

By Bob Green
Associated Press Sports Writer

Junior Gilliam, a 25-year-old hardman infielder and Rod Perry, a 26-year-old outfielder, both had big nights for the Los Angeles Dodgers as they swept the St. Louis Cardinals in a three-game series.

Gilliam had deflected them with two home runs and a double for two nights in a row. He had also had a home run and a double in the last two of the last three games of the series.

Between them, Gilliam and Perry accounted for the key hits for Los Angeles Dodgers in their sweep of the Cardinals. Gilliam had a home run and a double in the first game, and Perry had a home run and a double in the second game.

The Dodgers won their first game of the series, 4-1, on Monday night. Gilliam hit a home run and a double, and Perry hit a home run and a double.

The Dodgers won their second game, 3-1, on Tuesday night. Gilliam hit a home run and a double, and Perry hit a home run and a double.

The Dodgers won their third game, 4-1, on Wednesday night. Gilliam hit a home run and a double, and Perry hit a home run and a double.

Regains Confidence Roger Maris Hits Stride

CHICAGO (AP) — Roger Maris, no longer the sulking slugger of 1961, when he hit a record 61 home runs, has become a confident hitter who knows what he's doing.

One of his big reasons New York Yankees are in first place in the American League is that Maris has the steady hitting of a slugger, better than any other in the league. He has hit 10 home runs in the last 10 games.

Maris hit his first home run in the last game of the series, a 4-1 win over the Cardinals. He hit a home run and a double.

Fuel Queens Defeat Colborne 11-8

Belleville Smith Fuel Queens defeated Colborne Ladies 11-8 in a Quince Women's Softball game on Wednesday night.

Colborne had a lead in the first inning, but Fuel Queens scored three runs in the second inning to take the lead. Fuel Queens scored three more runs in the third inning to lead 6-0.

Fuel Queens scored three more runs in the fourth inning to lead 9-0. Colborne scored two runs in the fifth inning to lead 9-2.

Fuel Queens scored three more runs in the sixth inning to lead 12-2. Colborne scored one run in the seventh inning to lead 12-3.

Fuel Queens scored three more runs in the eighth inning to lead 15-3. Colborne scored one run in the ninth inning to lead 15-4.

DOMINION ROYAL MASTERS FOR THE PRICE OF FOUR

Why are you about to take delivery of a new car. Perhaps you've got 10,000 good miles left in your present car. Or you just need new tires. Whatever the circumstances, here's an opportunity never before offered to you to know and appreciate the extra safety, extra mileage, extra-ordinary good looks of Dominion Royal Masters.

Don't think in terms of one car, please. Or two. Think of a set of five. It takes five cars to get the same amount of satisfaction from 10,000, even four thousand. And five lets us inspect and relate to you for every 5,000 miles - at 20 cents to you for the first 100 miles. You get 20,000 20% more mileage from four cars - that could be 40,000, 60,000 even 80,000 miles of trouble-free driving.

To help you step up to Dominion Royal Masters, we offer you five of them hereafter for the price of four. You order them before 9:30 a.m. June 28. If you're a new car, the cost of switching your five cars to five new cars, they are worth to be 100 cars on trading. Come see for yourself. How little it costs, how much you get by going for five to get the most out of four.

Act now. This offer expires 9:30 a.m. June 29, 1968.

Gave

more than half." She said another man with whom she had intercourse at the apartment also gave her money.

"The acts of intercourse with these men I have named took place in my bedroom at Winbold Mans."

Christine told the court once when she broke, Ward suggested she go to see a man. She had intercourse with this man and the paid her about $200 ($150).

"I really don't know what I did with the money," Christine said. "I most probably paid back money I owed to people. I owed Dr. Ward money and had him what I owed him. I used to borrow money from Dr. Ward as spending money."

Miss Keeler said she received "some hundreds of pounds" from Dylan.

Ward met Ryan on one occasion at Winbold Mans. She had intercourse with Ryan at that time but Ward was not present, she told the prosecution, Maryn Griffith-Jones.

WANTY CALL GIRL

Asked if Ward ever said anything about the mentality of a girl, she replied: "He said I would not be a prostitute or call girl and I know this myself. He used to say it was the frame of mind I was in. I have never considered myself a girl or prostitute."

She added: "Ward said to have the mentality of a prostitute which I did not have. I was not quite so much as once or twice sleeping with a man, a man whom I knew quite well and whom I liked."

Griffith-Jones asked: "Was Ward sometimes a short of money?"

"Yes," Christine replied. Christine said: "He sometimes complained about having no money and then I would say I will go and see Jim."

She said Jim was Dylan. Asked how much of all the money given to her by the men she had mentioned she had given to Ward, Miss Keeler replied: "More than half."

GET OWN PLAY

Miss Keeler said after a short visit to the United States in July, 1962, she went back to Winbold Mans for a few weeks before getting an apartment of her own.

Asked why she went away, she replied: "I really did not have a life of my own. My life really used to revolve round Stephen from the moment I got up till the moment I went to bed."

"Why was that?" "Well, he had full control of my life. I used to do more or less everything he said."

"Because I admired him?" "Why did you go away from time to time and eventually leave?"

"Because I knew he was bad for me in one way," she said. "Because I thought I could never stand on my feet unless he was there in support me mentally."

Miss Keeler testified in court as the first prosecution witness after she was charged with three charges against Ward, a 30-year-old society secretary accused of running a stable of call girls led by Christine.

Ward was charged with conspiring to procure women for prostitution, running a brothel.

"Just a Second"

CCO (over): "I must hurry, the wife will be home from work pretty soon."

adding in procuring two abortions and living off incomes earnings of Miss Keeler and other women.

MAY FACE JURY

The three-day hearing in Little Maryborough Court will decide whether Ward will stand trial by jury at the criminal court in Old Bailey.

Asked if she had intercourse with Ward, Miss Keeler said: "No, never. . . . We were like brother and sister."

The realign, a central figure in a political scandal that raised Profumo and threatened to bring down the Ministry, has government, testified in low voices, barely heard in the press gallery.

Miss Keeler said she was a thorough as Murray's night club, where she met Ward. The club specializes in sexually-dressed chorus girls.

After their initial meeting Ward telephoned her and then came to her mother's house. Ward took her out and mostly they went to coffee bars and places like that, she said. He also took her to his cottage.

She did not make any suggestion as to her future life at that time. He used to tell her that she should do and what that she should do and took her to the Brynston Mans flat soon after they met.

Asked if she went to live with him at Brynston Mans, Miss Keeler replied: "No, I never lived with him. He used to see me every day."

ONLY MET FRIENDS

Christine said while living with Ward at Orms Court she did not meet his friends but did not have intercourse with any of them.

She went back to Murray's and met Marilyn Rice-Davis, and Marilyn and she went to live.

together. Ward used to bring his friends there, she said.

"He went to live with a 'Persian boy' for about three months. Then in the beginning of June, 1961, she went with Ward to St. Winbold Mans."

Miss Keeler said she and Davies made enough money to pay the rent of the apartment.

Griffith-Jones asked: "Did you receive money from anyone while you were paying the rent?"

"Yes. . . . 'One or two people' . . . 'One' . . . 'Who handed you that money?' . . . 'Well, nobody handed me the money. It was paid through the landlord.'"

She said Ward had been in the house.

Griffith-Jones asked: "Did he tell you who handed the money to the landlord?"

"Yes. . . . 'Who did he say actually handed the money to the landlord?'"

Christine asked: "There was no other motive behind the cheque that was handed to the landlord?"

FOND OF GIRLS

She said while she was living at Winbold Mans she introduced girls to Ward "because he liked girls."

Miss Keeler, who wore her red hair at shoulder length, testified after the prosecution had given the Crown version of Ward's life in London and how he had met Christine and introduced her to men friends.

Griffith-Jones asked: "Did he say anything to you about introducing girls?"

"He used to tell me which girl he liked in a shop and say go and get her," she said.

Christine said after she introduced the girls she used to see him at Winbold Mans when they came in for coffee.

Asked if she had intercourse with anyone while living at Winbold Mans Christine said she had a boy friend . . . "One boy friend at a time."

Christine explained when she used the term "boy friend" she meant she had intercourse with him.

"Did you meet while you were living at Winbold Mans a Russian called Ivanov?" the prosecution asked.

"Yes," she said. "Did you have intercourse with him?"

"On one occasion."

"Did you meet while you were there with Mr. Profumo?"

"Yes."

Miss Keeler said she did not have intercourse with that man.

GOV MONEY, GIRLS

Asked if she received any money from any of the men while she was living there, she said:

"Yes, I did."

"Did you meet a gentleman from India or Pakistan?"

"Yes."

Miss Keeler said she did not have intercourse with that man.

Christine said she did receive money from one who was a friend, and "one or two possible, small ones" from one of the men.

One of the men who gave her presents she gave her money during the hearing and that no will I give that appearance."

Christine said she did receive money from one who was a friend, and "one or two possible, small ones" from one of the men.

One of the men who gave her presents she gave her money during the hearing and that no will I give that appearance."

"It was for my mother," she said.

Asked who the man was, she replied: "It was Mr. Profumo."

Griffith-Jones told the court a "number of names of men and women" would be mentioned during the hearing and that no will I give that appearance."

He explained that normally such names would be referred to only by an initial. "But I don't desire in any way to hush things up and I am not sure during the hearing and that no will I give that appearance."

In newspapers the news of better products and services is as important to today's modern family as that of current events or features concerning home and family, food and fashion, hobbies and health.

For newspapers are the medium by which most people shop. No other medium supplies the variety and detail of advertising by which one may compare prices and benefits and choose the comforts and conveniences that make for a full living standard.

There's much significance in this for householders. For only in the newspaper can people of all age and income groups find the information and inspiration so necessary for good citizenship and for the enjoyment of a better way of life.

And because newspapers gain their friendship and regular readership, newspaper advertisers are provided the most productive medium of communication with customers.

ANSWERS TO "Have You Ethelred Tosted?"

Give yourself two points for each correct answer.

Summertime is here and thousands of Canadian teens are already practicing one of the world's oldest pastimes—hitchhiking. It is as easy as looking well, as a result of a few thousand miles of travel with a trained thumb, you can get where you want to go. You'll get five times as many rides. You follow a few simple rules. Follow one of the rules and you will get by the roadside when darkness falls. First, let's separate the girls from the boys. If you are a girl, you must not be alone. You need a chaperone. You need your parents and local boys. If you are a boy, you must not be alone. You need your parents and local boys. If you are a girl, you must not be alone. You need a chaperone. You need your parents and local boys. If you are a boy, you must not be alone. You need your parents and local boys.

Well, it had to come. An American record company, just produced the offering that solves every problem of the music lover. No fear of this product ever being out of style. You need your thumb, and the thumb will never be distorted. You don't, in fact, even have to play it. The company doesn't produce records only about covers. The idea started as a gag, but suddenly found its way into the marketplace. Maybe a lot of people wanted to tell their friends. It has sold about 300,000 copies. It can't be sold without it. It is a happy time not loaded as long as people are on holiday.

This problem, however, goes further than just, scraping the bottom of the barrel to get the shipbuilders and members of his own Liberal party—to reshape defense policy.

With equipment price increases, he will have to give himself financial room to maneuver in future years.

MAY MEAN CHANGES
This may entail some drastic changes in policies which for the last decade have been accepted more or less as unchangeable.

Some possible changes are: a healthy manpower cut, spread over a number of years and accomplished simply by slowing down recruitment.

On the basis of his statement, Mr. Hildy says he has determined to make over defense policy like no minister since the late Brooke Claxton.

Trimble Has Larks Chirping

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference start three weeks of pre-season training next Tuesday at Joliet, Que., with a few apparent problems and plenty of confidence.

The smiles and enthusiastic banter among players and staff at the Alouettes' club quarters off northward Jarry Park attest to the new image of the team forged by newly-acquired coach and super-cooperate salesman Jim Trimble.

Club owner Ted Workman says advance ticket sales for the Alouettes' three exhibition and seven league games this year were up 10 per cent over the previous year. Many were French-speaking fans buying season tickets for the first time. Trimble, who keeps in his office a book entitled "How to sell and still keep in shape," has handled the sales campaign since arriving last February in an effort to sell the Alouettes.

He said he may have put on a few pounds as an all-around speaker "but it was all in the interest of football."

Trying out in pre-season camp will be 36 imports, 11 of them newcomers, and about 30 others, including eight of 10 selected from the Canadian camp which ends Saturday with the traditional inter-league game.

The training camp ends July 27, when the Alouettes play their first pro exhibition game, against Calgary Stampede of the Western Conference.

Willie Mays Running Far Behind Pace

NEW YORK (AP)—The Willie Mays figures are truly alarming. At the end of June when the All-Star team about to be selected, Willie is running far behind his 1963 year. His current .261 batting average compared with .305 at the same stage last year. He has scored 17 fewer runs at .44, has 20 fewer hits at .70, and has 11 doubles, 12 homers and 23 runs batted in as against 1962 figures of 21, 21 and 35 respectively.

Many problems do not appear to be physical although he has lost five or six pounds and is down to 197.

"There is nothing basically wrong," a friend admits. "It is just trying too hard. Every day, every inning Willie feels strongly that he must justify that big $100,000 salary game. He feels he has to show something every day."

When Mays collapsed last year in Cincinnati and was taken to a hospital for rest, his "MAY" problem was obvious. He bounced back and led San Francisco through the playoffs and into the World Series.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Strongbow, a seven-year-old, charged from out of the pace to defeat Roman Anna and Carroll County in the featured sixth race at Woodbine Thursday.

Owned by J. S. Frowde Stargram, Strongbow shot from fourth place to first in the latter stages of the six-furlong sprint and defeated Roman Anna by 2 1/2 lengths.

In four previous starts Strongbow's record showed one victory, two seconds and a sixth.

Wings Edge Leafs 3-1, Chiefs Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Swirling Rochester leads its latest winning streak tonight against the Richmond Virginians, the outfit that slammed the brakes on the Red Wings' recent 12-game victory run.

Since losing three in a row to the last week, Rochester has won three straight, but the Wings can't make any headway against Rochester. Rochester's Northern Division leader, Rochester slipped Toronto 3-2 Thursday night, recorded the fastest turn of its two-game divisional tie with a 1-0 decision over Richmond.

Indianapolis slipped one half game to Atlanta's Southern Division lead by trimming the Jacksonville Suns 2-5 while Atlanta took the night off. Columbus topped Arkansas 7-4, and Buffalo played the parent New York Mets in an exhibition game.

Cherney's Furniture World GETS THE WINNER

They offer him into a double play with the bases loaded by Earl Robinson. Not Chittum posted his eighth victory in 13 decisions with hollow assistance from Steve Dalowski and Alex Casto.

Indianapolis' Jarrod Jacksonville started Sidney For four runs in the first inning on a double by Len Johnston and singles by Ramon Goode, Gene Stephens and Charlie Smith.

Bob Burke and Gene Alley drove in all seven Columbus runs in the jet victory over Arkansas. Burd walked a three-run homer in the first inning and Alley drilled two homers.

VETERAN RETURNS

WINNIEG (CP)—Jim Ausley, general manager of the Canadian champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers announced Thursday the return of three of the club's important defensive veterans.

They are defensive end Cec Loring, linebacker Dave Burkholder and halfback Dick Thornton.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Single Chip, 14-year-old gelding owned by the E. and C. Stalle of Whistler, Ont., surprised just about everybody at Western Fair Racetrack Thursday night by winning the seventh race to manufacture heavy payoffs all around.

Single Chip, trained by Charles Costello, came on strong in the homestretch to overtake Flora Lee F. paying $27.20 to win.

He combined with Flora Lee for a $324.10 exacta.

Jimmy Patch C., owned by Dr. J. S. Ferguson of Chatham, recorded the fastest turn of the night, pacing the mile in 2:08. His driver, great Jack Hetherbert of London, who earlier in the program won with Rocky Herbert.

Remove Cast From Fontinato

MONTREAL (CP)—Lou Fontinato, Montreal Canadiens defenseman who suffered a head fracture nearly four months ago was slated today. A cast which extended from his waist over the top of his head, has been removed but he will still have to wear a collar section.

The doctors are satisfied, after studying x-rays, that the injury has healed to the point where it won't be necessary to replace the cast.

Fontinato was injured March 10 in a National Hockey League game when he went head-first into the boards. He was in traction for more than a month and underwent a 74-hour operation.

be more than satisfied," said Fontinato. He has been undergoing treatment daily to restore full use of his arms and he plans to continue exercising.

Bloomfield

Whips Stirling

PICOTON — Bloomfield Whips Stirling, who was typical of the way Wails had been moving down opposition all season. Two more than adequate pitching staff. Carl Stacey couldn't get the first inning due to a bad throw by young Ken DeMille pitched eight solid innings, relieving young Steve Hill. And when the big hitters came hitting the latter lights came through. Ron Weiss and Mary Sherry had only a single apiece but Jim Gormeray and Warren Ostrander, the seventh and eighth batters, both had perfect batting. Wails continued to pour runs across in successive frames as they added two to the fifth on singles by Mary Sherry and Jim Gormeray, and two striking machine. Bloomfield scored their final run in the seventh on a triple by Ostrander and a sacrifice fly by Gormeray.

Stirling scored an unearned run in each of the third and fifth innings and Ken McConnel added a bases empty home run in the sixth. Wails committed five errors, four of them in the ninth.

Wails will travel to Stirling next Monday evening for a 20-minute day return engagement.

Wails and his team shape up as one of the key games of the season. Next Wednesday evening Minto will be the victor at the "Picton diamond."

They are the team that has been beaten Wails and they did it by a 4-0 count. As an extra added attraction, any children under twelve, accompanied by an adult, will be admitted to the bleachers free.

Maranatha Christian Reformed Church Superstructure Has Now Been Completed

The superstructure of the Maranatha Christian Reformed Church on Orchard Drive has now been completed with the mounting of the front doors. The delivery of these doors was delayed by a strike at the manufacturing plant. A dedication service was held recently with several delegates and friends present and the choir presented a number of selections by Langford, Hart, Bestoven, Mendelsohn.

The church is a contemporary design from the hand of architectural designer Martin Brook of Redville, Ont. The finished structure is so high that it appears as a landmark, especially from the side of Highway 14. Special mention must be given to the remarkable acoustics of the new church.

The construction work was supervised by a building committee under the chairmanship of W. Vanderkoop. General contractors were Milne, Langlois and Associates of Trenton. A large share of the finishing, including the mounting of the pews and the pointing of side walls, was done by free labor.

To keep the overall costs down, the ladies' societies presented carpets, the cross was made by Jake Berkhuisen, the baptismal font by Jan Berkhuisen, the lamps were designed by J. Couperus and the pulpit by J. W. Bakker.

The basement was constructed in the winter of 1957-58 and has served as the place of worship until now. Remodeling will provide three classrooms and a nursery, the remaining large room will serve for business meetings and social activities.

4 COINTEGRATED STUDIES IN PROTRIAL IN FIVE CASE

Three Refuse To Give Evidence

MONTREAL (CP)—Judge Ruelin Trotter (Fry) continued four coinTEGRATED studies in five cases today in the death of night watchman Wilfrid Vincent O'Neill, killed while an army road-building officer April 28.

The four, Gabriel Hudon, 20, an industrial electrician, Raymond Gauthier, 19, electrician, and Yves Labonte, 19, clerk, are to appear for voir dire statement July 2.

The jury, stated in a stage in Quebec legal procedure in which the defense may submit evidence in rebuttal to establish innocence.

The preliminary hearing of a fifth person charged with non-capital offenses, Joseph J. Tremblay, 23, a graduate of the University of Montreal, was adjourned to July 2.

REFUSE TO TESTIFY

Hudon, Vincent and Gauthier refused to testify at Schotters' preliminary hearing and Judge Ruelin ordered them to be held in cells until the hearing resumes.

The judge said the Crown could not proceed with the trial of Schotters with obstructing witnesses.

Schotters, called to the witness stand by the Crown, refused to testify, claiming that he was not a competent witness.

Favorite Goes Lame at Post Dashing Local Man's Hopes For Irish Sweeps Fortune

DUBLIN (CP, Reuters)

Ragusa won the second running of the rich Irish Sweepstakes Derby today in a sensational race in which the odds-on favorite, Eoghan Derby winner, Rialto, scratched when he went lame at the post.

A 16-1 longshot, Vic Mo, was second and the Eoghan Derby winner, Rialto, scratched when he went lame at the post.

The Irish-owned Taragon was fourth in the field of 16 runners for the 16-mile turf course made soft by heavy rain.

The shocking withdrawal of Rialto, winner of the Derby at Epsom May 28 by six lengths, came just a minute before the start when the colt was found to be lame.

For a 16-year-old horse, Rialto was a magnificent scratcher, the Irish said. He had a heart knock. He had a ticket that could have brought him over $24,000 for draw.

But Harry Padden took over the race and the Irish said he was a magnificent scratcher, the Irish said. He had a heart knock. He had a ticket that could have brought him over $24,000 for draw.

Well, I hadn't got too worked up about it before the horse scratched. He was a magnificent scratcher, the Irish said. He had a heart knock. He had a ticket that could have brought him over $24,000 for draw.

The ticket was purchased in the morning. It was a magnificent scratcher, the Irish said. He had a heart knock. He had a ticket that could have brought him over $24,000 for draw.

Supply Motion For Six Seats. House Will Not Sit on Monday

OTTAWA (CP)—The minority Liberal government may face another vote of confidence in the Commons next week after the members observe an unusual holiday Monday, Dominion Day.

The government has announced its intention to introduce a supply motion Tuesday opening the way for more confidence motions from the opposition. Members will be permitted also to raise any grievance they might have against the government.

Under House rules, the motion will be debated for two days, prior to the introduction of the 1964 spending estimates for the next fiscal year. The opposition has indicated that it will support the motion.

Reluctance of Canadians To Invest Is Explained

OTTAWA (CP)—The general reluctance of Canadians to risk their money in Canada's industrial or resource development has been explained by a study of the many problems encountered by the country's investors.

The study, carried out by the former Conservative government, found that the main reason for the reluctance of Canadians to invest in Canada is the lack of information about the country's resources and the difficulties of doing business in Canada.

Big Question Still Remains

Now that the House of Commons budget debate is over, it ought to be possible to discuss the country's most pressing problems without getting entangled in political and procedural side issues.

What distinguished this year's budget from all past predecessors was the government's efforts to tackle what some Canadians regard as one of the nation's most pressing problems—the high proportion of foreign ownership of our industrial enterprises.

This is not a problem peculiar to Canada. Other nations rich in natural resources, but poor in monetary resources or trained manpower, have faced a similar dilemma.

The first thing which Canadians must decide is whether they want to continue to benefit from a high level of foreign investment. There is no question but that Canada has benefited in the past. More people would agree that continued foreign investment would also bring substantial material benefits in the future, too.

But it is also true that, like most things, these benefits are bought at a price. Some people are bothered by the price Canada must pay as a nation in what they conceive as lack of control over its own economic destiny. Some people are bothered by the price Canada must pay as a nation in what they conceive as lack of control over its own economic destiny.

There is, however, a second installment which we must pay for the use of foreign money and this must be paid in cash. If we are to continue to enjoy the benefits of foreign investment, we must make it profitable. This means that we must pay to persons residing outside our borders a proportion of our national product. There are two ways in which we can make this of this little sacrifice to the average Canadian. A realistic view, though, would be that, insofar as Canadian investors spend their money outside Canada, some people are able to foreign investors who spend their dividends outside the country.

Whether primarily from reasons of pride or pure nationalism, Canadians are becoming an unduly large proportion of the economy. Many of them are not rich enough to do anything about it, other than to nationalize the industries which they own. The only way off from future outside help in the development of their resources.

Canada is rich enough. We could, by tightening our belt over a lengthy period of years, increase the proportion of Canadian ownership of our economy. This little tightening was the course which James E. Coyne wanted us to follow when he was governor of the Bank of Canada.

At the other extreme, Canada could encourage foreign investors, either with or without adequate controls. There are lots of tricks in this game. Brazil, for instance, is in the process of nationalizing the telephone systems built there by Brazilian Tracton, largely with Canadian money, but when it pays for these systems it will require that the payment be re-invested in Brazil. In this way a country can make its money come out of the country.

Essentially, what Hon. Walter Gordon was trying to do with his original budget proposals was to steer a middle course between these two extremes.

By juggling the various rates, he was trying to encourage foreign investment by Canadians a share in their enterprises. By eliminating withholding tax on certain bonds, he was trying to direct some capital to the provinces, which would entitle the foreign investors to a share in growth, to debentures on which only interest would be paid. His "takeover tax" was designed to prevent Canadian money from leaving the nation's economy to outsiders. That it had to be abandoned as impractical does not necessarily mean that the objective of the tax was undesirable.

These measures would hit the pocketbooks of Canadians. But, if we attempt to achieve our objectives some time in the distant future, the price will be paid higher.

What we have to decide is whether, in view of the inevitable price, we want most of Canadian industry to be owned by Canadians, or whether we are content to let the fruits of the wealth resulting from our labor and resources with investors who are foreigners.

It is disgusting to find self-appointed advisers, either in the press or in parliament, prying into the motives of the government, and Americans in the name of anti-communism. U.S. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel.

To Your Good Health

One Should Get Inoculated Before Travelling Abroad

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: An argument has started in our family about the advisability of getting vaccinated before travelling abroad. One of my children, a young man, is going to Europe.

The other side argues that the chances of contracting any of the diseases mentioned would be carried to whatever parts of the world he might visit, and that the chances of contracting any of the diseases mentioned would be carried to whatever parts of the world he might visit.

The precise truth is somewhere between the two arguments. However, "vaccines" is a word which is used in many other contexts, and is not always in the same sense. It is not always in the same sense.

Most likely, however, that may be helpful are (1) his own experience, (2) the advice of his doctor, (3) the advice of his family, and (4) the advice of his friends.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There was a sudden summer thunder last week I went into a strange chain of home-going traffic was building up.

By seven o'clock, nearly 500 cars were jammed in the suburbs were reported by the police as being in line for the normal daily accident rate.

Within ten years, a traffic cop would be a strange chain of home-going traffic was building up. By seven o'clock, nearly 500 cars were jammed in the suburbs were reported by the police as being in line for the normal daily accident rate.

An hour before appearing on the nation's television screens he found a public meeting in industrial Wolverhampton, England, in which he was to play a leading role in handling the Profumo affair, he did not attend "to fall either into panic or obstinacy—or complacency."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

Meet "Siddemitsu" the Selector.

He's the Second of the Shadowed; the Mandrake of the Mirror Maze; and the Mental Hound of the Harrow World. He admits it.

He claims he was born in a feed-barn and settled on a driver's whip. He was preferred to sleep on the pood-ack of a sulky. He refused, merely, to be subjected to a rubber band on a horse's chest, or a whip of firm man, affable sheets and an occasional shot of wild cane.

He grew up with horses—the harness kind. He learned their language—the fact he still remembers a lot of horse talk. He claims he taught television's "Mister Zee" his equine vocabulary.

He heard his name called to "pull horses" on hereditary trait. Says his fiscal history reveals the fact that a forerunner in the British cavalry called the first three horses to reach the Russian gaza at Belvedere in the Light Brigade Derby.

At school, he recalls, the kids called him "horse." In fact his Dobbie-like beauty was so far from the expected in a lot of abnormalists, he seemed blinks for him instead of eyes glasses.

In track and field he was "hopylan." His trainer believed a challenge in his mind would be to character and stop halfway to grass by the winners.

He says he has picked more winners than Lt. Victor and 24-24 Gaber.

He went into a huddle last night with his galaxy of crystal balls and came up with his first selections for the Ontario Driving Club. His column will be called "Siddemitsu" by the selector. He will select the first horse and add his comment. You'll find it elsewhere on the sports page.

He called himself "The One Selector" but this agent doubts whether "Siddemitsu," that will do until he proves himself.

THE HOLIDAY

The home and mobile fishermen were out in force this morning as the crack of dawn saw players led by three boats by eight o'clock. Caught them in the bay.

The power and track squaddies will be out in force at Doncaster's tomorrow night. The three teams should attract a large crowd to Victoria Park and vicinity.

The country club will be a popular rendezvous and apocryph of that, Roger Ling told us that a holiday man named Skinner first a hole-in-one last week.

Named Skinner has three titles on the holiday man with the RCAF and Roberts at the CNA, Park tonight. "The Cals take on Trudens at CNEA and Jervis, the RCAF Flyers at Trudens at 8.15 on Monday night.

Sid Foster's Kemnure trip to Oshawa tomorrow afternoon for a two p.m. game and home to come back with their 11th victory.

Dick Burrows' all day has a new attraction at the Shamoville Park Speedway. It is a three-course, not quite completed but holdovers can use what is ready. There is the pitch and putt and the karting for all ages. Dick says there's a tempt for anyone who scores a hole-in-one on the new three-race set-up.

And with the help of the hounds on high-ways, byways, lake, river and stream, hawks and safety belts, cars, caution and respect for the other fellow, the hounds will be the hounds. The hounds are the hounds. The wrong side of the highway is the accident. The wife you save could be your own.

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (CP)—"Gee, it was great," said Nancy, who won the shot-put mark again today.

The powerful-built 18-year-old girl from Brampton, Ont., had just broken the Canadian open shot put record for women for anyone who makes a half of breaking records, when she was relatively quiet.

Nancy, who runs for Toronto's Don Mills Club, won the shot-put mark again today.

"Sweet Daddy" Bill, the "Dreadful Daddy" beat him to the fall and the Whip moved back late night—and got away with it.

The Dartmouth Strutter had another ball, this time at the expense of all present of Whipper Billy Whitely.

Two weeks ago "Daddy" pulled a sleeper trick on Yonkers. Last night he used a different version to copy the third ball and the main bout.

He was teamed with the popular Lorenzo Farnie, 1950's "Daddy" Whipper.

An Irish fan took a lumpy "kick" at the Dootsey and was taken out of the arena by a link of the law.

The mumbled part won the fall and the Whip moved back late night—and got away with it.

Drift Fishing for Bass

Probably the greatest delight to a good day's bass fishing is anchored boat drift fishing. There are concentration spots of bass in every body of water. This has been found to concentrate and, if a man is lucky and has the good, he can find pretty fair fishing from an anchored boat. But most of the time you are not so lucky as in anchored boat drift fishing. The scope of operations and thereby reduce the size of your catch.

It makes no difference when they are using bait or artificial, a moving boat is bound to bring you within casting range of more fish than a stationary boat. In a large river, usually ponds are big enough to take up their deep-water drifting stations under or near the "line of drift." They have found that the current often brings them food that they would find in no other way. So between feeding and activity, they lie near the bottom, under the main force of the current, and wait for much food as a land fowling can send them.

LOCATING FISH
Finding the line of drift in a pool is not difficult. Simply take your boat to the foot of the riffle at the top of the pool. Then slip your cast or stop your motor and allow the boat to take over.

A drifting boat tends to drift with the current. As you move along, it is better to cast to the side of the boat, rather than to the front. By doing so, you can handle your river or lake more easily than you can if you cast upstream or downstream.

If the river is a big one, you can drift the pool time after time. When returning to the top of the pool, stay on a course parallel to the line of drift. Presently, I prefer to row rather than to use the motor. Because of the low of the windward mouth, you can, at anchor, do some certain amount of disturbance. One, properly made, makes the least noise.

Major League Leaders

In a lake, particularly one where you have not fished, it is well to plan your drifts near the shore. You just must be prepared on the wind for your propulsive power. Before you put your boat's fishing, do a little exploratory work and plot your course for your return trip upwind. Then, when you return to the upwind shore, you will find the fish.

START NEAR SHORE

This done, line up your wind direction and then start your first drift as near as possible to shore. If it is a good plan, particularly if you fish a lake, this lake for several days, to take with you a notebook and a pencil. If you hook a fish, draw the anchor as you wish. Then hook the area where the fish was. Should you catch a fish, you have provided a concentration spot. Now your job is to pinpoint this spot accurately so that you can find it again. That is where your notebook comes in handy.

Before moving your boat, draw rough sketch of the lake. Now, take cross-bearing. Don't make the mistake of drawing an imaginary line between two landmarks on opposite shores. That won't give you the location within fifty yards. Instead, select a prominent landmark—a tree, dock, white rock, what ever you are close to the shore. Then, along with a line between the landmark on shore and another in the distant background. Then draw your line on your sketch. Your note will look something like this: "Dock and blue boat above—red barn on hill."

Now, as closely as possible to right angle, select another shore and the other in the distance. Sight this line carefully and then draw in your cross-bearing on your sketch. If done carefully, this method will mark your concentration spot within a few feet. You will have no trouble finding it again.

On a lake, just as in a river, it is better to cast your bait or lure at right angles to your line of drift, fishing one cast slowly and well down in the deep water.

Once you have reached the downwind shore, make three

Lil Albie Starts With All-Star Giants

By JOE BENJOLIN

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP)—Little Albie Pearson, a third-year leaver in the major leagues because of his average, was named starting center fielder on the American League All-Star team today. The five-foot-five-inch Los Angeles Angels' lead-off batter was hitting .313 and who only recently led his league with a record, joined a field of all-star players who will play the annual All-Star Game to be played in Cleveland, Tuesday, July 2.

Pearson, traded away by Boston and Washington and acquired by Baltimore, was named by the managers by Angels in 1960.

Two players, first baseman Joe Ferguson of New York Yankees and shortstop Willie Mays of Minnesota Twins, were named for the first time.

Other players named for the first time were: pitcher, first baseman Joe Ferguson of New York Yankees and shortstop Willie Mays of Minnesota Twins, were named for the first time.

Argos Look At Howell

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonaut coach Nobby Whitworth said Friday he is definitely interested in a chance to obtain from Howarth who has sold British Columbia Lions he wants to play in the Eastern Football Conference.

Howarth, 30, veteran Chicago White Sox second baseman in the middle of a winning comeback, was named to the starting team for the ninth time, first since 1960.

Mays, the brilliant San Francisco Giants center fielder, was selected for the 10th straight year despite a polio attack in the late 1950s. He is the only player to have played in all 10 All-Star Games.

Other players named for the first time were: pitcher, first baseman Joe Ferguson of New York Yankees and shortstop Willie Mays of Minnesota Twins, were named for the first time.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"I'll be glad when someone else in this neighborhood buys an air-conditioned car!"

Golden Rule is best guide.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 23):

Look beyond immediate indication.

Chances of "reading the air" are great. But you must display confidence and believe in yourself. Day for caution where arguments arise.

Aquarius (Jan. 23 to Feb. 23):

Opposition drive, but on top.

Can you take it as well as give?

That question is answered today. You must display great conviction in cause, belief. Free moral attacks with courage, grace — good news will follow.

Today is your birthday — you best to be extremely careful.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 23):

Spotlight on home, domestic harmony. Don't be satisfied to let general "slide." Come to agreement based on nature consideration. Talk can bring opposing view out in open.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23):

Key is self-expression. Indulge in writing, speaking, getting point across to those in authority. Focus individual comes up with sparkling suggestion. Little test.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23):

Your way becomes clear. Others respond favorably. Cycle high enough for you to accept challenge. Be vital, dynamic, confident.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 23):

What people say and what they mean are two different things. Be sure to take today. Independence, self-reliance. Be a leader, not a follower. Don't be impressed by wild claims, boasts.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 23):

People tend to emphasize "happy" today. They object. Don't get any guilt feelings. You have your own life to live.
